Borough Political Upheaval Caused Over School Affairs

The introducing of a bill at the present session of the Legislature making it mandatory to pay the custodian of school money not less than $200 annually in towns of over 5,000 has brought matters to a boiling point in the borough, caused two members of the Board of Education to resign and started a political fight that may end in the changing of the holders of several of the municipal offices at the next election.

It is the general plan throughout the State to have the tax collector take care of the school funds, but it remained for friends of the North Plainfield tax collector to demand an increase from the $50 now paid. Despite considerable opposition on the part of a number of borough residents, the representatives in the Legislature were approached and copies of the resolution passed by the Board of Education were sent to other Boards in the State.

COMPANY K REUNION.

Company K has appointed a committee to arrange for the celebration on March 21 of the sixteenth anniversary since the formation of the company and the fifth reunion of the veterans of the company. The affair will be held at the armory on West Front street and several well known speakers will make addresses.

The attempt to pass the resolution caused heated arguments in the Board of Education and resulted in the resignations of Judd Stewart and Edward C. Campbell. Both men asked that their resignations be immediately accepted. Mr. Stewart explained that he had learned that there was a movement on foot to defeat him at the coming school election because of his opposition to paying the collector more salary and that he would rather retire than continue the argument. Mr. Campbell gave no reason for his step.

There are others opposed to the measure, however, that have refused to take the matter drop and promise plenty of action during the next few weeks. With the resignations of Mr. Stewart and Mr. Campbell, there will be four vacancies to fill at the annual school election on March 20 and the fight should prove to be an interesting one.

Grace church led the others in the city with a total of $9,500, while St. Stephen's gave $6,500, and Heavenly Rest, $75.00. "Doing Their Bit"

Patriotism begins at home. Life Insurance can testify that about 8,000,000 living Americans are "doing their bit" today to protect their families against such common foes as privation, want and suffering. Not only is this a splendid achievement—it is a significant indication of the innate loyalty and patriotism of the American people.

MRS. CATHERINE HUFF.

The funeral of Mrs. Catherine Huff, wife of Harry Huff, of East Seventh street, was held Monday afternoon from the late home, Rev. E. Vicar Stevenson, rector of Grace Episcopal church, officiating. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery. Mrs. Huff died Friday night after a lingering illness of several years. She was in her forty-sixth year and had lived in this city all her life. Besides her mother and husband, she leaves two brothers, Charles Frey, of Jersey City, and Frederick Frey, of this city.

Judge William Newcorn is in charge of arrangements for a monster mass meeting to be held in this city on March 27, at which time an effort will be made to raise $10,000 for the relief of the Jews made destitute by the European war. It is expected that several prominent Jews from New York will be present and make addresses.

Williams Children Now Fatherless

Once more the sea has taken toll in the Williams family and today Edith Williams, in Jersey City, and John Williams, in this city, find themselves alone surviving out of a family of eight with no one to look to for support or help. Tragedy first laid its hands on the two children of tender years in May, 1915, when the German submarine that sunk the Lusitania robbed them of a mother, two brothers and two sisters. Then, as if not satisfied with what had already been done it took away the last remaining relative when the Laconia, with the father on board, was sunk recently.

It was early in 1915 that Mrs. Williams, living costly with her six children in the West End, received word from her husband, John Williams, to dispose of home and furniture and sail for England to meet him. They were both of English birth but when Mr. Williams secured a position with the Cunard line a year before they had come to this country. When the death toll of those lost when the huge ship sunk was taken it was found that George, aged six; Ethel, aged five; Florence, aged three; David, three months, and Mrs. Williams were among the missing.

Edith, aged thirteen, and John, aged twelve, were brought to this country, while their father continued as chief on Cunard line boats. The last that has been seen of him was as a member of the crew that left on board the Laconia. The boat was sunk off the coast of Ireland.

Little Edith is under the care of the State Board of Guardians, and at present living with Mr. and Mrs. Christopher at 469 Grove street, Jersey City. Her brother, Edward, lives in this city under the care of the Charity Organization. The little ones have been back in this country now since last May and have, under the guidance of Miss Day, of the State board, been sent from home to home in search of a final suitable home. It is thought that the children have a claim, of about $25,000 as a result of the loss of the lives of the other members of the family. The last request made by the father of the authorities of the State Board of Guardians was that in the event of any misfortune crossing his path that they would see that a proper adjustment be made of the money coming to his children.

'Fashion Week' Will be Introduced Here

A meeting of the committee appointed by the Plainfield Business Men's Association on Wednesday night was held yesterday, at which time plans were formulated for the holding of a "Fashion Week" twice a year. The plan has been discussed by a number of merchants for several years and will be put into operation for the first time within a few weeks.

J. J. Varley is chairman of the committee of three that is making arrangements for the initial event. The idea as proposed by the originators is to set aside one week in the early spring and one in the early fall when all of the merchants will make special efforts to display the new styles for the coming season. It will serve to give Plainfield people an idea of what line of goods can be obtained in local stores and at the same time will serve to stimulate trade. No date for this spring's exhibit has yet been set, but announcement will be made within a short time.

Another change the Business Men's Association is contemplating is the revising of the present credit system. At Wednesday night's meeting H. E. Kelsey, a member of the Credit Reporting Association, of Newark, was present and gave a talk on the subject during which he made a number of important suggestions that will probably be adopted. The credit department of the association is now working on the matter and will probably have something definite to report at the next meeting.

Prison Farm Project Is Viewed With Favor

At a meeting of the Union County Board of Freeholders to be held next Thursday the committee appointed to look into the feasibility of a prison farm will report favorably on the project. The idea is not a new one in the county as it has been advocated for some years. Judge William G. Hudnut, Chief of Police Kiely, Miss Mabel E. Phillips and several other local people are in favor of such a move.

The matter is to be approved slowly and with the understanding that it will be a permanent means of handling the county prisoners. From present estimates it is thought that a prison farm of sufficient size to accommodate all prisoners put to work would cost $25,000. The opinion of the public will first be obtained through open meetings before any definite step is taken.

OFFERED N. Y. ENGAGEMENT.

Miss Virginia Glover, a former resident of this city and Fanwood, has nearly completed her engagement in the "Blue Paradise" company, which is now enjoying a long run in Philadelphia, and has been offered a contract to appear in the Winter Garden show.

Base Hospital Here in Event of War

The people of the United States find themselves closer to actual warfare today than at any time since the Spanish-American War and, as if realizing the seriousness of the situation, everyone all over the country is preparing his or herself to be ready at a moment's notice. Plainfield is one of those places taking action and during the past week plans have been laid for the opening of a base hospital at the first opening of hostilities.

There are a number of locations in this city that would be suitable for such a place and matters have been further helped by a number of residents owning some of the finest homes in Plainfield offering them for the reception of the wounded. Their names have not been made public, nor have a number of the other details connected with the arrangement, but those interested in the movement are elated over their progress.

Youth Blames Light for Auto Tragedy

Rolland Depew, the 19-year-old boy of East Orange, whom the State is trying on the charge of manslaughter as the result of the death of Hilda Hodgson, of Fanwood, December 5, 1916, was the principal witness in his own defense in the Court of Quarter Sessions yesterday morning. He told a different story of the accident from that presented by the State. According to him, the mist of the night and the darkness of the road prevented him from seeing the girls until they were just six feet in front of the car. Applying both the emergency and foot brakes, he shot to the left of them. They became confused, according to Depew, and ran along with him, with the result that one Hodgson sister, was knocked down by the right headlight, while Hilda was dragged under the right rear guard, the car passing over her body and killing her.

The speed of the car from his home, East Orange, to the spot of the accident varied from twelve to fifteen miles an hour, Depew said. His headlights did not pierce the mist more than six feet ahead because of the "dimmers," he claimed.

The defense will probably finish presenting their case today and the jury may return the verdict next week.

Spicer's Control of Transit Co

Charles A. Dana, of Franklin place, has purchased outright the interests of the Suburban Transit Co., which for several years has owned the buses plying between this city and South Plainfield. While Mr. Dana is the individual mentioned, the general opinion prevails that the deal was really a venture of the Spicer Manufacturing Co., of South Plainfield, of which Mr. Dana is president. For sometime the concern has seen more and more the necessity of providing adequate transportation for its many men to and from its city and it was only after the Public Service absolutely refused to entertain a proposition to build a trolley extension that the idea of running the bus line was broached.

Although the transit company will be ostensibly for the transportation of the factorys employes, nothing has been said that could be construed to mean that the general public was not to be accommodated. It is understood, however, that a new schedule will be put into effect in the near future calling for the hourly or half hourly operation of buses.

Rehearsals For Elks' Show Bring Results

Another of the rehearsals for "The Land of Myster," to be presented in the Plainfield Theatre by Plainfield Lodge of Elks next month, was held in the clubhouse on Watchung avenue last night. Each rehearsal brings out more who join the cast until now there is nearly enough, although a few places are still unfilled. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Skilling, who are coaching the cast, have not yet decided upon the assignment of the various parts but will have little trouble when the time comes, as there is a host of excellent material.

Rehearsals are to be held from now until the time of the production, and because of the large amount of work to be accomplished in a few weeks all are asked to attend each one. These for adults are each Monday and Thursday nights, while the three hundred children who will have parts meet with Mrs. Skilling two afternoons each week.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Blackwell, of this city, left this morning for Missouri, where Mr. Blackwell hopes to improve his health.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Metcalf, of Plainfield, have returned from sojourning at Atlantic City.

Runyon Pleads In Vain for Local Option

After a stressful experience Wednesday evening, the House of Assembly defeated the Kates home rule bill (Senate 92), by adopting an adverse report on the measure made by the judiciary committee, by a vote of 33 to 17. The fourteen Democrats present voted to sustain the adverse report.

Opponents of the bill, under direction of Majority Leader Oliphant, toward the end of the afternoon session—which rose at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday evening—tried to force Assemblyman Runyon to take the initiative for action on his motion to relieve the committee of further consideration of the bill, but he would not let himself be so utilized.

This was followed at Wednesday night's session with an adverse report of the bill. The report was concurred in after Mr. Runyon and others pleaded for the bill. The parliamentary effect of concurring in an adverse report is to kill the bill, so the Kates bill is now as dead as a doornail.

"Senator Kates," Mr. Runyon said in defending the measure, "said when the bill was considered in the Senate that it provided the best means of carrying out the home rule plank in the Republican state platform. The provisions in the bill relating to excise matters had to be inserted because of the ruling of the Supreme Court that if a general act was to cover that subject it would have to be specifically set forth.

"The excise question has been a bug-bear for years, and it would seem that while we claim we are ready to give the people local option upon everything else, we are afraid to touch the liquor question because we are afraid of the possible political effect. • Time after time, while we prate about our independence, we are afraid to vote upon this subject.

"This is the best bill that has been offered to carry out the plank in our platform promising home rule to the municipalities of the state. We accept the votes of the people for our own election, but we say they are not fit to vote themselves on this subject. By concurring in this adverse report we say that thing, and we are setting ourselves up in a proud position when we say it.

"I appeal to those members who take seriously to heart their oath of office to vote against concurring in this report. We are expecting the people of New Jersey, with its proud history of brave men, to do its duty in the crises that is confronting us at this time. If we expect them to do their duty in that regard, why do we not believe they have the ability to govern themselves for their civic well being?"

"FASHION WEEK" SUCCESSFUL.

Plainfield's first "fashion week" will come to a close tomorrow when all local merchants will make one last special effort to exhibit to their patrons the styles for the coming spring. The idea of "fashion week" has been fostered by the Business Men's Association and is now to become a semi-annual feature in the business district.

Rapid Progress Made on Sewers

John M. Kelley, of Camden, contractor for the largest portion of the storm sewer construction, practically completed his work during the past week. Although hindered by bad weather and labor conditions, Mr. Kelly has completed his work over a month ahead of time and it now only remains for Commissioner Andrew J. Gayett to approve the system and for a few minor improvements to be made before residents in that section may begin connecting.

Since the first of the present year the Kelly concern has extended the storm sewer system along Seventh street from Grant avenue to Division street, on Grant avenue from West Seventh to West Eight street and on West Front street from Washington avenue to Liberty street. That more recently completed is on West Sixth street between Arlington and Park avenues; Watchung avenue from East Fourth to East Sixth street, West Fifth from Arlington avenue to Park avenue, West Front from Grant avenue to Lafayette Place and East Seventh street from Park avenue to Sycamore street.

Lainey, Haslan & Co., the concern engaged on the core pump construction work is now engaged jointly with the C. R. R. of N. J., in tunneling under the railroad tracks at View avenue and South Second street to bring the pipe line onto the north side of the railroad.

Chris Peterson, who has the smallest of the three contracts for the sewer work, is working rapidly He has completed laying pipe on Watchung avenue and East Front street and is now starting on Washington avenue. He has yet to work on East Second street to Watchung avenue and back to Front street before the square is completed.

Barnum & Bailey Here May 11

After a lapse of three years since its last appearance in this city Barnum & Bailey's circus will visit Plainfield this spring for a one day's stay. The advance man of the circus was in town a few days ago and made arrangements for Saturday, May 12, when the "greatest show on earth" will appear. Exhibition grounds have not as yet been secured but it is probable that the Van Ness property on East Front street will again be leased for the occasion.

Barnum & Bailey open the season next Monday, when they start a week's engagement at Madison Square Garden. Many new features have been incorporated into the show this year and it will be larger than ever, with hundreds of clowns, trained animals and other features gathered from all parts of the earth. The "bearded woman," a sword swallower and other side show freaks will again be on hand, and a big street parade has also been announced.

Imagination? Well—She Has Enough to Picture Herself In Detroit Taking Dictation

An advertisement, interesting because of its unique requirements, appeared in the Detroit Free Press recently and was answered by a Plainfield girl. The qualifications outlined were out of the ordinary and the reply of the young woman from this city was just as unique. The advertisement in full follows:

"SECRETARY WANTED: Young woman over twenty-four, under thirty—who has had wide business experience. Must have imagination—be able to handle dictation covering wide range of subjects so well her work will not require re-reading on part of her chief. Must possess large vocabulary, have happy temperament that will keep her interested in work which is largely creative. She must be quiet, refined in manner and appearance—not unpleasing to the eye, yet not so pretty as to make that her dominant characteristic. A real helper who can anticipate the requirements of a busy man. The association will be with one of Detroit's largest automobile manufacturers with the head of one of its principal departments.

This is not an ordinary position, and an ordinary girl will not do. Apply by letter, stating experience, education, etc. Box D. 94, Free Press, Detroit, Mich."

The application of the Plainfield young woman was as follows:

Box D 94,
Free Press,
Detroit, Mich.
Gentlemen:—

Your advertisement under the above caption has been forwarded to me and I hereby submit my qualifications.

At twenty-eight years old, with a most varied business experience, ranging from a poor understudy stenographer at eighty per—law stenographer, taking speeches from a human being of the male gender, from whose lips words flowed like a pent up geyser released, to private secretary of a now United States Senator and now head of an Insurance Department—a knotty proposition when I took it in charge, but now running like greased lightning.

As to imagination, why I think I am happy and you will therefore, admit I have a vivid one.

I can be able to handle dictation covering a wide range of subjects. I have read everything from Laura Jean Libbey to Balzac and experienced everything except murder.

My vocabulary is large, but not pedantic. My temperament, almost a Polyanna with just a dash of paprika to take away the cloying taste. I am so quiet I practically evase myself from this mundane sphere. I have a fair sprinkling of good looks. Kindly note the word "sprinkling"; not "shower."

I can handle any situation, given half the time necessary for anyone else, whereby you will see I have a fair degree of ego. I am not ordinary absolutely not.

I am of western birth, a graduate of the Girls' High School of Philadelphia at sixteen, and am still educating myself as I am not living.

Trusting you will consider my application favorably, I am,

Yours very truly.

Cavalry Heads Confer; Ready for Emergency

Preparations for the prompt mobilization of the National Guard of New Jersey are indicated in a letter sent this week by the War Department to Adjutant General Barber. The communication follows:

"There is enclosed for your information a list of National Guard organizations pertaining to your State which are subject to be called by the President into the service of the United States in case another call be issued.

"The mobilization and muster into the United States service will be under the direction of the department commanders. The latter will designate the point of mobilization of the troops of their respective departments, which will not necessarily be the prescribed mobilization camp sites. They will also make provisions for shelter, recruitment and the formation of recruit training battalions in the eventuality of war.

"The maximum strength at which organizations will be accepted will be the maximum strength authorized by the act of Congress, approved June 3, 1916, for like organizations of the regulars. Members of the State administrative staff designated in the letter from the Militia Bureau of December 13, 1916, will be accepted and utilized for purposes of proper camp administration and for organization, recruitment, supply and administration of reserve recruit training battalions in the eventuality of war.

"Where recognized brigades or divisions exist, and all components of such organizations are accepted, the headquarters and staff officers pertaining to these units, in accordance with the tables of organization, United States Army, will be accepted.

"On receipt of the President's call the division commander will report orders by telegraph to the commander of the Eastern Department."

Major Hobart B. Brown called the officers of the First New Jersey Cavalry to the Roseville Avenue Armory last Friday night for a conference on the preparedness of the organization in the event of a call for service. Officers of Troops A and C, of Newark; Troop B, of Red Bank, and D, of Plainfield, reported as to their enlisted strength and the equipment in their possession. The general report showed that while the squadron was not recruited to the maximum peace strength it was fully equipped for field service and otherwise ready to answer the call. Major Brown announced that he would order an election held to fill the vacancy left by the retirement of Troop B. It is said that the election will result in a contest between First Lieutenant Joseph Swannell and Second Lieutenant Robert A. Kennedy. Major Brown will soon issue orders for rifle and revolver practice. The practice will begin about April 1.

The Governor has taken up the subject of military preparedness, including the proposed taking of a military census and the steps already taken have brought commendation from Major General Leonard Wood.

"Orders for the National Guard of New Jersey are made out and ready to be issued the moment war against Germany is declared," Governor Edge said. "The conference is to discuss plans for the highest efficiency in detailing the National Guard of the several States to such strategical points as are near the State lines. Waste of time and men might be easily possible without co-operation in guarding such places as the du Pont Powder Works and several oil and munition plants which are near the State lines, in the vital area represented by the States in question."

A bill introduced into the Senate will enable New Jersey's governor to expend $100,000 already appropriated for war uses, in whatever way he shall see fit.

Testimonial Dinner for Judge Hetfield

A testimonial dinner to Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., who retired this month as judge of the District Court, was given last night in Ahearn's restaurant on North avenue by the members of the Plainfield Bar Association. About twenty-five of the lawyers of this city and nearby towns were present for the occasion, and William A. Coddington acted as toastmaster and introduced the many who had a few words to say during the evening in praise of Judge Hetfield.

Mr. Hetfield is one of the best known lawyers in the city and has been practicing for many years. He was appointed as judge of the District Court five years ago by Governor Fielder and served on the bench throughout his term with honor and distinction. With the change of politics in the State government, his place was filled by J. Henry Crane, who received the appointment last month from Governor Edge. Judge Hetfield will resume his private practice in Plainfield with the well wishes of his many friends.

Blatz Named as Attorney for County

Francis J. Blatz, of the local law firm of Codington & Blatz, was yesterday afternoon appointed counselling attorney for Union county by the Board of Freeholders. Mr. Blatz succeeds William R. Codington, his law partner, the latter having resigned in accordance with an agreement he made with the Freeholders when he was appointed to the office several years ago. At that time Mr. Codington was in poor health and he agreed to relinquish the duties of the office on April 1.

Francis J. Blatz.

As assistant county attorney during Mr. Codington's term Mr. Blatz has handled a number of important matters and he is well qualified to shoulder the new burden. He will enter upon his duties April 1, although he has been acting in the same capacity for several months past during the absence of Mr. Codington in Florida.

Mr. Blatz is president of the Plainfield Common Council and also served several terms as a councilman. He is exalted ruler of the Plainfield Lodge of Elks and is also prominently identified with the Knights of Columbus. He is popular in local social circles and is also recognized as one of the hardest workers for the Republican party in this county.

Government Confers With Aero Heads

A mammoth fleet of 5,000 aircraft to augment the present aerial forces of the United States is planned by the National Advisory Committee of Aeronautics, it was stated today. The committee, army and navy officers and some thirty manufacturers of aircraft met at Washington to decide upon the quickest possible way to turn out this large air fleet in case of war.

The Standard Aero Corporation, of this city, was one of the manufacturers represented at the meeting. The concern now has both plants on upper North avenue and a force of over two hundred men working night and day to fill a huge order obtained from the Government last fall, over half of which has now been completed. It is understood that as soon as the present contracts are completed the concern will start on others.

Cavalry Horse Killed; Troop Has Election

Members of Troop D, First Squadron New Jersey Cavalry, met in the Putnam avenue armory last night and elected Corporals Roger Mellick and Frederick Goddard to the rank of sergeant and Private Ferdinand Collins was chosen a corporal. Sergeant Goddard was detailed to the brigade headquarters staff soon after the cavalry arrived at Douglas, Ariz., last July, to confer with General Edwin Hine's department until the return to Jersey. He has since been relieved of headquarters duty, however, and is now available for work in the troop.

When the troop's horses were being led back to the stable after the meeting one of the animals was struck by a westbound trolley car at the juncture of Putnam and Kensington avenues and so severely injured that it had to be shot by the police department.

Pertaining to a story of the mishap related by Lieut. J. M. Charles to a Record representative this morning the trolley was traveling at a high rate of speed and was in charge of a "student" motorman. It is alleged that he had an unobstructed view of the column of horses and took a chance" on getting by without hitting the animal, evidentally believing that all had passed over the track. Lieut. Charles and a detail of men later gathered data concerning the accident and actual measurement showed that the trolley was going fast when it struck the horse that the motorman was unable to bring it to a standstill within 163 feet of the fatality. Lieut. Charles spoke in indignant terms of the recklessness apparent and was severe in his denunciation of the Public Service Railway Corporation officials for selecting the night hours for breaking in "green" motormen.

"It was only by mere chance," declared Lieut. Charles, "that one of our men did not happen to be alongside of the horse which was killed. The escape from harm himself was little short of miraculous. The motorman could not help but see the animals as they passed over the track and he had no right to maintain the high rate of speed with danger of a fatality in plain view."

The troop is now making preparations to report for war strength—one hundred men and three commissioned officers. Preferences will be given applicants who have no one dependent upon them for support. All young men of good moral habits and physically fit are invited to become members of the outfit which now numbers about sixty-three. Nearly forty recruits will have to be secured before the unit is brought up to war strength. Further information may be obtained regarding this matter at the Putnam avenue armory.

Big Delegation Visited Newark

Members of Plainfield Lodge, B. P. O. E., three hundred strong, paid a fraternal visit to Newark Lodge, No. 21, Tuesday night, the trip to and from this city being made in a special train. Arriving in Newark the Plainfielders paraded up Broad street to the Robert Treat hotel and circled about the park, returning by the same route to the clubhouse on Green street. The Plainfielders were headed in the march by a band brought from this city and lead by George W. Scott.

Those members of the party possessing entertaining ability made the trip a real jamboree. Each lodge is a lively one and the excursionists had the added pleasure of capturing the coveted Elks' key. This emblem has passed from one lodge to another but this is the first time it has come to Plainfield. The various lodges make a practice of attempting to wrest it from rival lodges and Plainfield first attempted to take it from Dover two years ago. Since then, however, Easton "stole" it from Dover, Philipsburg got it from Easton and Newark got it from there. The trophy is held by the county seat and will be given a place of honor on the walls of the Watchung avenue clubhouse and will remain there until some other lodge is fortunate enough to smuggle it away. Edward P. T. Smith, Oscar Dilts, William McCullough and Thomas Cose were specially responsible for securing it. After "stealing" the key they were compelled to flee in a taxi cab from Newark to Elizabeth to escape pursuing Newark Elks and at Elizabeth they took a train to Cranford, meeting their Plainfield brothers when the special stopped at that place.

The visitors were royally entertained in Newark, refreshments and a program of elaborate amusement being the features at the Green street clubhouse. The committee from Plainfield included John Cose, Richard Harrigan, James Coleman, Marcus Hoyt, Everett Mapiesden and Roy Woodhull. Ellsworth Westcott acted as grand marshal of the parade.

Citizens Called Upon to Finance Big Defense Work

Initial details relative to the formation of Plainfield's Home Defense League, which were made public at the March meeting of the Common Council Monday night, have elicited comment of a generally favorable nature throughout the city and a noticeable tendency toward co-operation has been awakened. The personnel of the first unit is already mapping out its training propaganda under the command of A. W. Ransome, a former member of Troop D, First Squadron New Jersey Cavalry. He is sufficiently acquainted with military ethics to instill the necessary knowledge into the persons of the volunteers and it is expected that it will be only a matter of a short time when the city will have a well trained and ideally equipped outfit ready to respond at short notice.

Announcement has been made of the identity of those who will compose the finance committee of the league and these are: George P. Mellick, chairman, A. M. Harris, Francis J. Blatz, W. T. Kaufman and Henry E. Butler. This group of men will undertake the collection of voluntary contributions which will be used to defray the expenses of the defense work. The Plainfield Trust Company has offered its services as a depository for the fund and citizens are invited to send their contributions to this institution. Donations of any size are welcome.

The unit appeared Wednesday night and was sworn in by Mayor Calkins as special police officers. This was done in the Council Chamber and it was a noteworthy feature of the formality that not a single appointee failed to appear, in view of the fact that the men were not notified until Tuesday, it was evidence of their interest that all fifty men appeared promptly when summoned.

Mayor Calkins addressed them briefly, thanking them for volunteering as a nucleus for the Defense League and for their agreement to give all of their leisure time for drill and training as required by the commission and their agreement to serve actively in an emergency, without compensation, holding themselves ready for immediate call regardless of business or professional engagements.

The Mayor explained that the present intention is to recruit the League up to 200 men. Application blanks will be ready in a day or two and may be had by applying to anyone of the commissioners, Messrs. M. S. Ackerman, H. S. Fullerton, R. F. R. Huntsman and Dr. C. B. Lufburrow, and may also be had from Commander Ransome.

The Mayor then asked Commander Ransome to address the men and he reported that the Board of Education had offered the use of the auditorium in the Evergreen Avenue School for drill purposes. He asked all members of the unit to appear there on Saturday evening of this week. Thereafter there will be a Red Cross evening each week for formation drill at the Evergreen School; and the unit will be subdivided into squads which on other evenings of the week will be drilled in the use of guns and target practice. It is also planned to provide a distinctive uniform for all members of the special reserve.

"Annual" Sea Bath Cost Goes Up; Fares to Seashore Take a Jump

It will cost more to travel to and from the shore next summer." Coincident with the general increase in prices the Central Railroad of New Jersey announces that beginning the first of next month tickets sold from Plainfield to points along the Jersey coast will cost from 5 cents to three cents higher for single fare and from ten to fifteen cents more for round-trip excursions than formerly.

There is to be an even more substantial increase for tickets from New York. Shore resorts, business interests and cottagers are planning to halt the increase. Major Charles R. Snyder, of Atlantic Highlands, has taken the initial step in this direction by registering a complaint with the Public Utilities Commission and also the Interstate Commerce Commission. Other shore municipalities are expected to follow suit.

The railroads claim that the higher cost of labor and materials has prompted them to raise the rates, contending that they can not do business with reasonable profit under the present rates. Recently the companies gave a general increase in wages to all their employes. Among important items which have increased in price steel rail, steel cars and improvement work of all kinds are pointed out as examples of new problems which are confronting the companies.

When questioned as to whether it was probable that the railroad fares in general would be raised local representatives of the companies professed ignorance or ventured the opinion that such a step was improbable. So far, this is the first advance in rates announced by any of the companies operating in this locality.

The change in rates does not apply to monthly and yearly commutation books, which are said to have had a big increase in sale following announcements by the companies that the regular fare rates were to be boosted.

The fare from Red Bank to New York and return will be $1.75 instead of $1.50, and one way from $1 to $1.05. It is explained that the differences in the amount of increase is caused by the method of computing the mileage.

"The full crew law requirements have saddled a heavy financial burden on the railroads, salaries have gone up and material for road improvement costs more," explained C. K. Armstrong, of the Central Railroad: "Under the law the railroads have a right to charge 2½ cents a mile. Even the increased rates do not touch that figure. If you will refer to railroad rates elsewhere you will find that the fares for the shore route are extremely low. Take the New England lines for example. For the same mileage there the rates are greatly in excess of that for points along the Jersey coast."

S. P. C. A. MEETING.

The March meeting of the Plainfield branch of the S. P. C. A. will be held in the office of William A. Coddington Monday afternoon. Plans for the spring activities will be discussed and reports made.

Mr and Mrs. W. L. Hadley, who are at present residing at 325 East Front street, will remove next week to East Fifth street, corner Franklin place.

OPEN DAY AND NIGHT

"Daughter of the Gods"
Coming Theatre Attraction

Art lovers and "movie fans" of this city will soon have in common one great topic of conversation. The feature which is called the "picture beautiful" could not well be anything else, with Annette Kellermann in the title role; but Miss Kellermann with William Fox's producing genius and ample strong play back of her is the radiant joy in a picture that is incomparable. This Triple Alliance has swept every other so-called superlative feature from the motion picture field and gained a position that is well-nigh invincible.

It is so far in advance of anything that has yet been produced that we urge every progressive citizen to make a happy holiday for himself and enjoy this phoenix of the films. "Phoenix" we consider a happy metaphor, for William Fox literally burned the American gold cradle in Rocks as his tribute to the altar of Art.

About $200,000 went up in smoke in one scene alone, when a torch was set to the Moorish city, to get a picturesque background for the great battle scene, and the evacuation of the Sultan's capitol.

The story is one of entrancing interest and displays Miss Kellermann's individual skill and wonderful figure to undreamed-of advantage. This slip of a girl, who nevertheless carries the palm as the most perfectly formed woman in the world, should also be given a prize for talent, and a Carnegie medal for bravery. One is at a loss to know in which guise she is most admirable. We see her in the sapphire Caribbean, as graceful and mysteriously alluring as the sea-anemone; she flies like a gull through the air in a 100 foot dive, and on earth inerves herself with the forest as naturally as Diana. In the mad sultan's palace she dances with the inspiration of a pagan angel, and later, astride a war girth steed, rides like a Crusader at the head of her army.

If you want to see what a real million dollar picture looks like, and where every dollar of that million got its return in beauty, talent and setting, you will have that opportunity—one in a lifetime—if you go to see "A Daughter of the Gods" at the Plainfield Theatre, March 29, 30 and 31. Matinee daily.

Ben Welch's "Big Show" at Plainfield Theatre Monday

The coming of Ben Welch is an event but when the famous comedian and his Big Show appear at the Plainfield Theatre next Monday those who see it will be obliged to admit that never before has the comedian offered so much in the way of ideal entertainment. Mr. Welch is the chief attraction of course and this season those who visit his show will get more than the customary allotment of Mr. Welch. All through the performance he is in evidence and in addition to playing the important roles in "Love Arbor" and "The New Commander", the two acts written by Peter F. Carr, the comedian offers a brand new specialty in the Italian character. Mr. Welch is surrounded by a capital company of burlesque artists selected from the best that could be had, also a personal selection of chorus girls that carry cleverness and beauty. The cast includes besides Mr. Welch (himself) Pat Kearney, Frank P. Murphy, Florence Rother, Billy Wild, Vic Casmore Hilda Giles, Sid Gold, Leona Earl, Freda Florence, Mae Dolly. In addition to the cast of principals there is a large tuneful, tripping dancing and singing chorus of girls, whose wardrobe is the talk of the theatres that the performance has played.

"TURN TO THE RIGHT!"

"Turn to the Right!" by all odds the greatest laughing hit of the season is still crowding the Gaiety Theatre, New York, and although it soon celebrates its 300th performance there the end of the engagement that began August 17 is nowhere in sight. The famous Winchell Smith-John E. Hazzard comedy promises to break all records for New York runs and a particularly happy fact in connection with this is that during the long stay on Broadway not a single change has been made in the remarkable cast brought together by Messrs. Winchell Smith and John L. Golden and which includes Ruth Chester, Louise Rutter, Forrest Winant, William J. Kelly, Frank Nelson, Edgar Nelson, Samuel Reed, Harry E. Humphrey, Lucy Cotton and others who have added to their fame by their splendid work in this play.

"Turn to the Right!" is unique in that it is not only a great laughing success but also a play that appeals to those who demand the highest moral tone on the stage and it has received the enthusiastic recommendations of the Drama League, the Catholic Theatre Movement of New York and other important organizations for the betterment of the stage. With all the sweet home flavor of "The Old Homestead," the religious atmosphere of "Ben Hur" and the rip-roaring fun that keeps the tears of laughter chasing away the tears of sympathy "Turn to the Right!" has established itself as one of the few enduring plays of the period.

The story of "Turn to the Right!" deals with the resurrection of two young people through the influence of a saintly old woman who is renowned throughout the countryside for her piety and her peach jam. How this dear old lady is rescued from the toils of the village skinflint by the ex-thieves, who break the law in order to help her out but who finally become respected and wealthy members of the community, is told in a series of ingenious situations that bring laughter and tears in equal parts.

There will be an extra matinee Easter Monday, April 5.

"THE VERY MINUTE."

"The Very Minute," by John Meehan, is the title of the new American drama which will be the first of the new series of plays in which Arnold Daly will star under David Belasco's direction. It is the first play by Mr. Meehan, a young American author hitherto unknown to the theatre, and is in three acts.

Mr. Belasco will present Mr. Daly in "The Very Minute" in the Belasco Theatre, beginning Easter Monday, April 5th. Frances Starr in "Little Lady in Blue" being sent on a brief spring tour, following her four months' successful engagement in this comedy in the Belasco Theatre.

The company which will support Mr. Daly in "The Very Minute" includes William Morris, John W. Cope, Leslie Lonergan, Forrest Robinson, Harry Davenport, Cathleen Nesbit, and Marie Wainwright.

"LOVE O' MIKE."

Elizabeth Marbury and Lee Shubert's smart and dainty musical comedy, "Love O' Mike" transferred its successful activities Monday night from the Shubert to Maxine Elliott's Theatre, where it began the tenth week of its New York engagement. "Love O' Mike" has been acknowledged the legitimate successor of "Nobody Home" and "Very Good Eddie" in its intimate atmosphere, its charm of story and score and its youthful and spontaneous appeal.

The musical comedy is by Thomas Sydney, with lyrics by Harry B. Smith and Jerome Kern. The infatuation of a group of girls at a fashionable house party for a British nobleman, who is in this country on a munition-buying assignment forms the framework of the play.

The cast includes Lawrence Grossmith, George Hassell, Peggy Wood, Vivian Wessell, Molly McIntyre, Alan Edwards, Clifton Webb, Quentin Tod, Helen Clarke, Alison McBain, Richard Hall, Jack Bolin, Leone Morgan, Luella Gear, Katherine Rodgers, Gloria Goodwin and Rollin Grimes. Matinees are given on Wednesday and Saturday.

"HER SOLDIER BOY"

Clifton Crawford will begin the 17th week of his engagement in "Her Soldier Boy" at the Astor Theatre next Monday night. Capacity houses have been the rule ever since the opening of the operetta on December 6th last, thus testifying to an appreciation by the theatregoing public of a musical play which presents such a welcome combination of charming music, a humorous book, and a cast of brilliant singers and comedians.

"Her Soldier Boy" is the work of Rida Johnson Young, and is based upon the German original of Victor Leon. The music is by Emmerich Kalman, with additional numbers by Sigmund Romberg and Clifton Crawford. The story concerns a romance back of the firing lines in Belgium.

Mr. Crawford has for his unusually clever associates, Adele Rowland, Beth Lydy and Tom Richards, all of whom have in "Her Soldier Boy" the greatest opportunities of their careers, and the company also includes Cyril Chadwick, Eliz Gersely, Mildred Richardson, George A. Schiller, Harold Vizard, Frank Ridge, Ward DeWolfe and Ethel Brandon. There is a chorus of sixty. Matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

"SHOW OF WONDERS"

The "Show of Wonders," at the Winter Garden, begins its twenty-second week Monday evening. The longest run of any former Winter Garden extravaganza was nineteen weeks, the same being "The Whirl of the World." The "Show of Wonders" has, both as to general popularity and length of run, justified its title. The critic of the "New York Herald" very aptly set off this fact when the play was produced, when it stated that "The Show of Wonders is a wonder of a show." The introduction of new features to this gorgeous extravaganza has added greatly to its wonderments. "Submarine F-7," which depicts submarine warfare in a telling and thrilling manner, has been generally accepted as being the most startling spectacular effect ever seen in a Winter Garden show, or, for that matter, in any other musical extravaganza. "Submarine F-7" depicts in a faultlessly realistic manner the experience of a submarine crew during actual warfare; the sighting f a battleship, the sinking of the submarine under water, the discharge of the torpedo, the blowing up of the battleship, the sinking of the submarine through being hit, the struggles of the crew at the bottom of the sea, and their final rescue by divers. The large cast includes George W. Monroe, Howard and Howard, Walter C. Kelly, Tom Lewis, Marilynn Miller, John T. Murray, Grace Fisher, Adele Addsley, Alexis Kosloff, White & Clayton, Sidney Phillips, Dan Quinlan, Edmund Mulcahy, Eleanor Brown, James Grant, Ernest Hare, Virginia Smith, as well as the special company appearing in "Submarine F-7." The matinees occur on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. The usual big concert will be given tonight.

'Dusky Maids' Head New Theatre Bill

Because vaudeville will have little chance to amuse patrons of the Plainfield Theatre next week owing to other attractions, Manager Shannon has secured a bill for the latter part of this week that will keep that form of entertainment popular in the minds of local amusement seekers until the next engagement can be found room. "Billy" Elliott and his "Seven Dusky Maids" in "On the Levee," start off the program with an excellent combination of singing and dancing that faithfully portrays the "old South." Special scenery accompanies the act, making it one of the best features that has headed a local bill in a long time.

The other four numbers are equally as good as "On the Levee" and include a variety of amusements. The first is Rogers & Rogers, comedians; followed by Mercedes Clark & Co., in a comedy sketch; Ryan & Hazzard, talking and dancing comedians, and the Two Kelsos in a novelty comedy.

"THE WILLOW TREE."

It has been truly said that "The Willow Tree," now current at the Cohan & Harris Theatre, is a play everyone ought to see. Rich in poetic fancy and scenic splendor, this fantasy of Japan appeals to the imagination and stirs the heart by its compelling beauty. As a scenic spectacle, "The Willow Tree" has been seldom, if ever, surpassed on the American stage. It is an artistic gem.

"There is nothing so real as a wish in the heart of man," is a line from "The Willow Tree" and it the wish in the heart of the audiences who are viewing this remarkable play bears the same fruit as it does in the legend upon which this charming fantasy is based, there will be more happiness, sweetness and sympathy in the world as the result.

The tense interest with which "The Willow Tree" is received indicates that the wish secured the heart, in that the beautiful spirit, from the heart of the willow tree, might be real and not a fantasy born of the imagery of old Japan.

Miss Fay Bainter appears as the princess of "The Willow Tree" and makes the role thoroughly delightful. Here is an actress who possesses those precious qualities, childlikeness without a hint of childishness. Miss Bainter moves through the mazes of the strong and thrilling story of appealing graciousness and tender love. "The Willow Tree" is a modern tale in which the lovely love of the old world gods and fairy princesses come back to earth for an all too brief three hours.

Shelley Hull, who looks like the famous man whose first name he bears, acts the role of the hero in this fascinating play from the pens of J. Harry Benrimo and Harrison Rhodes, with much skill; in fact the entire cast that Cohan & Harris have assembled for this presentation could not be improved upon.

"The Willow Tree" is one of the biggest achievements we have had in the American theatre in years.

HIPP'S CONGRESS OF STARS.

Charles Dillingham's joyous pageant, "The Big Show," at the Hippodrome now presents a veritable congress of stars, representing the greatest living exponents of every line of sports and amusement. Among these Annette Kellermann, the justly famous diving Venus, will her court of flying mermaids, remains the bright particular star, while the agile Charlotte has brought a new interest to the wondrous new ice ballet, "The Merry Doll," with her nimble steel runners and her happy personality. George Wilson and the four hundred models, Sophye Barnard with the "Poor Butterfly" song sensation, Dixie Girard who has returned to impersonate "Miss Columbia," the Hippodrome's Beauty Squad supporting Joseph Parsons in "Hello, I've Been Looking For You," Toto, Joe Jackson and the Arnaut Brothers, together with the Hippodrome elephants and Nadelem, the ice skating monkey are but a few of the numberless novelties which make up this record breaking spectacle at the big playhouse.

With interest in the ice skating still on the ascendant and to stimulate activity and competition among amateurs, Charles Dillingham has arranged a series of Figure Skating Championships at the Hippodrome these mornings this coming week. These contests will be given Wednesday morning with classes for boys and girls under sixteen and for novices who have skated but one season. On Thursday the women's class and one in waltzing will be judged, and the final day Friday, the Hippodrome Challenge Cup, open to men and women amateurs will be competed for, as well as the cups awarded to the best pair-skaters. The judges will be Bror Meyer, Irving Brokaw, of New York, and George H. Browne, of Cambridge, and following the contest each morning impromptu exhibitions of figure skating will be given by Charlotte and other professional skating stars. These contests are open to all amateurs and they are being conducted with the sanction of the Eastern Skating Association and the International Skating Union.

The AEOLIAN-VOCALION

The Phonograph of Richer Tone That You Can Play

THE Aeolian-Vocalion is a phonograph of such superior musical quality that it is virtually a new type of musical instrument.

Tonal richness and fidelity distinguish the Vocalion. Deep voices of the orchestra that the talking machine intones but dully, high notes of the human voice that have sounded so thinly from your records—these and all the tonal beauties with which music is enriched, the Aeolian-Vocalion re-voices undimmed in splendor, unchanged in subtlest quality.

AND THE WONDERFUL
GRADUOLA

This remarkable invention, second in importance only to the invention of the phonograph itself, has made the Vocalion truly a musical marvel. Through the delicate tone-control which this ingenious device provides, you literally may sing with the voices of the greatest artists—play with the skill and technique of the greatest instrumentalists.

All Models of the Vocalion Are Sold on Liberal Charge Terms

The Aeolian-Vocalion is on exhibition and sale, in New York, only at Aeolian Hall. Whether or not you are a possible purchaser, you are cordially invited to hear the instrument demonstrated.

Home Defense League

The Mayor delivered the following message to the Common Council:

"I wish to inform you, and the public through this message to your honorable body, regarding certain measures which are being taken in this time of uncertainty and general suspense to prepare for whatever emergency may later arise. I have thought it best not to make announcement on this matter until certain plans which I have had could be developed. These have been worked out in the last month and are now sufficiently advanced, to enable me to state in a general way what is being done.

"Early last month the Board of Police authorized the purchase of additional equipment for the regular police force, and instructions issued for gun and revolver practice which is now being carried on systematically. In other directions also the police department has made active and thorough preparation for the maintenance of good order although I deem it inadvisable at this time to make public the details regarding the emergency organization of the regular force. In the Fire Department an emergency reserve has been created, the retired call men having volunteered for the purpose, and other protective measures taken.

"In order to have ready a reserve body of citizens as an auxiliary to the regular police force I have, with the approval of the Board of Police, organized a Plainfield Home Defense League. The general plan and scope of organization are as follows:

"1. I have appointed the following commission which has agreed to act with me in the management of the activities of the League: R. P. R. Hunisman, of the First ward; Marion S. Ackerman, of the Second ward; Henry S. Fullerton, of the Third ward; C. B. Lufburrow, M. D., of the Fourth ward. The purpose of the League is to organize, drill and otherwise train a body of citizens to be available for service as special police officers. The League will also undertake a general campaign of preparedness for Home Defense in order to mobilize the resources of the city for the protection of the citizens and their property. All expenses including those for equipment and drill and the cost of maintaining members as special police officers when called out as hereafter explained, will be met by voluntary subscription to a Home Defense Fund. George P. Mellick has accepted appointment by the commission as chairman of a finance committee of citizens, which will have charge of this matter. The committee will shortly announce where contributions may be sent. It is desired that all residents of Plainfield that would like to have a part in this movement shall feel that the smallest contributions are welcome. The commission will also name such other citizen committees as may be needed to further the objects of the League.

"2. Membership in the League is wholly voluntary, without dues, and may be terminated by resignation at any time. It is limited to able-bodied men, citizens of the United States and residents of good standing in the city for at least one year, who are not connected with any military organization. Members agree to give so much of their time outside their usual affairs as the commission may require for drill and other training, also to stand ready for emergency service at any time as special police officers, without pay, regardless of business or professional demands.

"3. All authority of the League will be superseded by that of the Mayor and Police Department from the time and for the period that actual service as a special police officer is required of any member of the League. All members of the League stand ready to be sworn in as special officers at any time, and as such to be subject to immediate call by the city authorities for police service.

"Otherwise all members of the League will be equipped and drilled, in such units or companies and with such officers and other organization, as the commission may determine. A. W. Ransome has accepted appointment by the commission as commander of the League and will have charge of this work under the general direction of the commission.

"Fifty citizens have volunteered to serve as a nucleus in the organization of the League and their nominations go to you today for confirmation as special police officers. Until called into service they have agreed to sacrifice their leisure for whatever drill and training may be necessary; and as stated they agree as members of the League to make whatever sacrifice of business or professional interests may be required in an emergency.

"5. The commission invites applications for membership in the League. Names may be handed to any member of the commission. Many are now being received and additional units are being organized. These will be equipped and drilled and be held available to be sworn in as special police when needed; or may be sworn in at once and held subject to immediate call for service.

"While the League as an organization is separate from the Police Department, all its services, including the recruiting of a reserve police force as above outlined, will be at the disposition of the regular authorities in all measures that may be taken for local protection.

"As the plan of organization of the League, so far as special police service is concerned, makes it necessary to limit membership and service to residents of the city, I have conferred with Mayor Smalley of the borough regarding the organization there of a league along identical lines. I am pleased to announce that the suggestion meets with his cordial approval and that he is already at work on the project. By this means the men of North Plainfield will have like opportunity to show their patriotism. While the two commissions will exercise separate jurisdiction, they will act in co-operation for the benefit of the community as a whole.

"The Plainfield Council of Boy Scouts has placed all local boy scouts at my disposition for such service as they may be able to perform. Already the scouts have taken a preliminary census of the city. In this matter also I have had the co-operation of Mayor Smalley who has approved similar action in the borough. The scouts will shortly undertake a more detailed survey of the resources of both communities for local and national emergency and we shall expect ready compliance with all requests for information. In addition the commission is working out with the Scout Council a plan by which the boy scouts will be available as messengers, on patrol assignments, and in other ways.

"It now seems probable that our country, despite unexampled effort to safeguard American lives and the nation's vital interests by an appeal to reason and the fundamental principles of civilization, may yet be driven to the employment of force in the defense of life and for the maintenance of right and liberty. Seeking first to establish international right and justice by persuasion and an appeal to moral obligation, we have given an example of sovereign forbearance which has amazed a practical world and will forever redound to the honor of American ideals whether or not it has advanced the security or the separate interests of the republic. No nation has ever given such proof of its devotion to peace. But what we now have is not peace and if we would have it we may need to be ready to enforce it.

"Therefore in this hour of national crisis I earnestly urge upon the people of our city not only that their loyalty which is known should also be proclaimed, for the encouragement of those entrusted with high responsibility, but that they awake to a realization of the menace which threatens the country and of this own duty in preparing to meet it."

ADELBERT VAIL.

Death came to one of Plainfield's oldest residents Saturday morning when Adelbert Vail, aged eighty-three, passed away at his home on East Fifth street from the infirmities of age. Services were held from the Friends' meeting house on Watching avenue Tuesday afternoon and interment was made in the cemetery behind the building.

Mr. Vail had been a lifelong resident of this city and was a prominent member of the Religious Society of Friends. At one time he was in the flour and grain business in New York and later was a grocer in this city and a bookkeeper in the First National Bank. He had retired ten years ago and until the day before his death had been in excellent health. Besides his wife, he is survived by three daughters and five sons. They are Mrs. Frank C. Knight, of Elmwood place; Miss Mabel H. Vail, a teacher in the public schools of New York; Miss Helen B. Vail, who resides at home; Clarence B. Vail, teller at the First National Bank; Percy W. Vail, of Reading, Pa.; Harvey A., Roy G. and Russell A. Vail, who live at home.

MRS. CHARLES V. SMITH.

The funeral of Mrs. Charles V. Smith, who died Friday night at her home on Greenbrook road from meningitis, was held Monday afternoon from the late home with Rev. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church, in charge. Interment was made in the family plot in Springfield.

Mrs. Smith had been under the care of a physician for several months for ear trouble but a few days before her death it developed into meningitis. She was in her twenty-sixth year, an active member of the First Baptist church and one of Lydia Chapter O. E. S. Beside her husband and one son, she is survived by her parents living in Milburn, three brothers and four sisters. Rev. Raymond E. Marshal, pastor of the Scotch Plains Methodist church, is a brother.

JOHN J. CURRAN.

Following a lengthy illness from complications, John J. Curran, Sr., died at the home of his sister, Mrs. Mary Higgins, of West Front street, Sunday. Funeral services were held from the home of his sister, Monday and later from St. Mary's church. Interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mr. Curran had been a resident of this city for many years. For a long time he had been engaged in the hacking business and previously was employed by former Mayor George Rockefeller. He is survived by two sons, John J. Curran, Jr., and Charles Curran, both of Plainfield.

While on its annual spring tour of the East, the Colgate Glee Club will make its first appearance in Plainfield on the night of April 3, when it gives a concert in the auditorium of the Plainfield High School for the benefit of the B. A. A. of that institution. The Glee Club will come to this city from Camden, where it will give a concert the previous night, and will include Monroe Good, a local boy, among its number.

The club is composed jointly of the mandolin and singing clubs and is made up of thirty-five students of the little New York State college. The program will be a varied one and will include college songs as well as classical pieces.

COMMUNITY ENDORSEMENT FOR HOME DEFENSE LEAGUE.

Municipal preparedness is exemplified in the most approved and most adequate form in Mayor Leighton Calkins' Home Defense League. It is the nucleus around which will be moulded Plainfield's protective and precautionary propaganda in the time of civil or international trouble. The step was prompted by the German embroilment but it is reasonable to expect that the organization will exert its influence in other directions should nothing serious develop from the present crisis. The wires of formation have been painstakingly laid; it is the result of a combination of effort lent by Plainfield citizens who have the best interests of the city at heart. These men are of the calibre who command co-operation in whatever they undertake and the mere fact that the league has been fostered by them is sufficient cause for community support.

To the casual observer and the critic who is ever ready to pick flaws in a problem with which he has no intimate acquaintance there may appear cause for adverse comment in the expenditure of money to equip a unit of volunteers for an event that is not certain to happen. It is a good thing for Plainfield that all of its citizens are not "pussy-footed" pacifists or "white-rabbits" with gelatine back-bones. It is a good thing that we have a mayor and an interested citizen group capable of diagnosing the needs of the future. The time has come when every municipality should prepare for the worst; it is far better to gamble on the requisites of the future now than to regret unpreparedness after the damage is wrought. Whatever measures Mayor Calkins and his advisory unit see fit to adopt as precautionary steps, and whatever money is spent to fortify Plainfield for what appears to be inevitable, are of little consequence to the sideline type of citizen now, but may prove to be of vital importance to him in the not far distant future.

The purposes of the league have been outlined in an intelligent and easy to understand manner by Mayor Calkins and the members of the organization have pledged themselves to city service in the time of trouble. They have gone on record as being willing to sacrifice business and personal interests to perform a municipal duty. It is at this time impossible to measure the good that may come from this body of men in the hour of national, State or city peril. Their ranks should be augmented by every able-bodied American in Plainfield; the mayor has asked for volunteers and the response should be general. There is no excuse for the physically fit citizen not being on the roll of the Home Defense League. He should accept the opportunity as an obligation and should be made to feel the consequences if he fails to rally to the occasion.

Equipment and ammunition have been purchased by the city for emergency use and under the league's supervision a representative body of men could be mobilized at short notice. This fact instills in Plainfielders, both dwellers and workers, a feeling of confidence that their homes, businesses and kin folk of the opposite sex will be adequately protected in the event of hostilities.

The international question at this time is the main cause for alarm but it has many tributaries through which harm may develop. Even Plainfield may have its allotment of vicious minded, anarchy-souled "inmates" who will stoop to the lowest niche in scheming harm to their fellow men. The league will operate to brand this class as undesirables and as menaces to watch with the eyes of a hawk if war with Germany does come. Some are under surveillance now and with the aid of the organization an exhaustive census may be compiled and a crusade may be conducted to gather data relative to the questionables.

The Home Defense League should have community endorsement; do your share by linking your name with the organization's. Just as much is expected of you as has been volunteered by those in the original unit.

INTIMIDATION ALLEGED IN LOCAL OPTION DEFEAT.

In the defeat of the Kates' local option bill by the Assembly Wednesday night emphasis is lent to Assemblyman William N. Runyon's charges that a "legislator is not supposed to think for himself." The boss-ridden element in the House was never brought to the attention of the public more prominently. Open charges that intimidation was resorted to by the anti-local option workers were made by Assemblyman John S. Amuerman, of Somerset county. He declares that he was told if he signed a petition to have the judiciary committee of the House relieved of further consideration of the bill he might expect a little or no attention from his Republican colleagues in getting his personal bills through the House. Assemblyman Dudley Bramhall, of Essex county, was also told that he would suffer by having his bills smothered; and like intimidation was practiced on Assemblyman Badgley, of Essex.

Evidence that the so-called "bosses" of the House resorted to the most despicable, underhand tactics after the local optionists had them cornered is at hand and it is high time that the voters of the State were furnished with the true status of these legislators. These are the calibre of men—we'll call them men—who are making our laws at Trenton. The character of those alleging intimidation is unquestioned; they would make no such charges if they had not been given sufficient cause to do so.

If the Kates bill became a law referendum elections on the saloon question would follow in ninety per cent. of the New Jersey municipalities within a year, and it is safe to conclude that fully seventy-five per cent. of this number would vote to abolish the saloon.

Why haven't the people a right to express an opinion on such an issue? Does it not vitally affect the average citizen? Assemblyman Runyon championed the bill because he believed it only right to put the saloon question squarely up to his constituents. He was not among the legislators who stood between the local option bill and New Jersey voters nor will he ever be as long as he is in the Legislature. The measure fostered by Senator John B. Kates, of Camden, is real home rule. The "bosses," or the reactionary forces of the Legislature, fought the bill on this ground.

TWO PLATOON SYSTEM AND ADEQUATE PAY.

"Not enough pay for the time put in" was the reason assigned by a fireman for turning in his resignation this week. His sentiment may have been expressed for personal satisfaction but his words brought an echo of endorsement from every other man in the department. He voiced the unanimous opinion of Plainfield's firemen and his one reason for retiring should lend emphasis to the demand for an increase in pay made to the Councilmanic Fire Board by this type of public servant.

The present wage is insufficient to purchase the necessities of life; the scale is inconsistent with the twenty-four hour schedule of duty. Even in cities where firemen have been given the advantages of the two-platoon system the money paid tops the local figure. In Plainfield the "smoke-eater" is expected to be on duty 144 out of the 168 hours of the week; he makes the fire station his sleeping quarters six nights out of the seven; the three one-hour meal periods are the only times during the day when he is allowed to be with his family; and out of his monthly stipend he is expected to purchase his uniforms and the other accessories necessary in the performance of his duty.

During the last month Scranton, Pa., was added to the list of cities which have adopted the two-platoon system. The new plan in the Pennsylvania city for fire fighters is to have one platoon on duty from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. and the other from 6 p. m. to 8 a. m., the shifts alternating weekly. Various other cities have tried this system and in every instance it has worked out favorably. It is only a matter of time before Plainfield will have to make some similar adjustment and the men now employed by the city may as well be given the advantages of the platoon system as an incentive to stick with the department and strive toward a goal of higher efficiency.

ROADS SHOULD BE PUT BACK IN PROPER SHAPE.

Several of the most used thoroughfares of the city have been rendered almost impassable by the laying of the joint sewer system pipe line. Two of these, Fifth and Seventh streets, have been literally "cut to pieces" in the excavation and refilling work and traffic conditions are in worse shape today than at any time for years past. Spring thaws are likely to make matters considerably more trying and vehicle drivers have already been forced to divert as much traffic as possible to other roads.

Although it is not reasonable to expect a betterment of conditions immediately—especially at this time when repairs of a permanent nature could not be made satisfactorily—the city should make some adequate provision for restoring the thoroughfares to normal shape as soon as weather conditions warrant. Much improvement is needed and the side item for the reconstruction of streets is likely to bring Plainfield's share of the sewer system cost up to a figure not heretofore anticipated.

Some temporary relief should be afforded autoists who are compelled to use Fifth and Seventh streets. It is plainly evident that the contractors are not putting the roads back in passable shape after tearing them up for pipe laying. It might be well to impress upon those responsible the fact that Plainfield expects the job to be done in a manner that will necessitate a minimum amount of after expense for road improvement. The refilling and rut covering has been done in a slip-shod manner in many instances and it is up to the city to bring the contractors to account for it.

THIS RULE IS A GOOD ONE; LIVE UP TO IT.

Some time ago the police department established a traffic regulation compelling autoists to approach the east bound Central Railroad depot from the Park avenue entrance and leave by the Fourth street roadway. The object of the rule was to minimize the danger from accidents at both the Park avenue and Fourth street drives and if the restriction is properly adhered to there is little danger of collisions. For a time vehicle drivers respected the order and the regulation immediately showed its good features. Of late, however, there has been a tendency to trifle with the rule on the part of careless or thoughtless drivers and there have been several narrow escapes recorded at these points.

The police department has been vigilant in enforcing the restriction but the limited number of patrolmen available at busy hours renders it impossible to station a man at both points to see that the measure is lived up to. Co-operation on the part of car or wagon drivers in entering from Park avenue and leaving by Fourth street is expected and should be forthcoming. The continued observance of the rule is essential to safety and a little thoughtfulness on the part of the individual will go a long way toward maintaining the practise.

BILL-BOARDS BECOMING A MUNICIPAL MENACE.

Of what use are bill-boards? Do these unsightly paint-daubed scare throwers add beauty to Plainfield? Are they performing a duty that could not be taken care of in a more modern fashion? Wouldn't newspaper advertising serve the purpose just as well and accomplish the desired results?

It will be only a matter of a short time when the State Legislature will invoke a law prohibiting such exhibits on municipal streets. There should be such a statute on our books now and the sooner we get one the sooner we will be able to curb the spread of these eye-sores.

Plainfield has its share of bill-boards. They are not as unsightly here as in some other places but they are multiplying annually and the need for some sort of regulation is evident. This city has sufficient bill-boards, in fact it has too many. Now is the time to either diminish the number or curb the increase.

The substitution of military training in the public schools for the present system of athletics would accomplish the desired result along physical lines and at the same time would serve a patriotic purpose. Military training in our public institutions of learning is a feature that should be encouraged by every municipality, especially at a time when the nation is facing one of the most serious situations in its history.

Most of our high schools have well organized athletic systems and the present schedules could be used to advantage in developing a program of military work. Opponents of militarism are pointing out that this sort of training would be strenuous for boys of the high school age but in this contention there is an indication that a point is being strained. The kind of military work among school boys would probably not be as exacting as that in the regular army or militia but would be adapted to the age of the participants.

Jewish citizens of Plainfield are uniting their efforts to establish a local social center and their plans have now progressed to a point where success is certain. There are sufficient of this race in Plainfield to warrant the founding of some institution or meeting center where the younger generation as well as the grown-ups may gather for sociability and the effort is one which the community should take pride in endorsing. A suitable centrally located site has been decided upon and it is to be hoped that the Jewish workers will in the near future acquire the fund necessary for a provision of modern conveniences. The aid of the gentile element should be at the disposal of the Hebrew enthusiasts for it has been proven in times past that the latter race has ably supported municipal projects which have promised no direct benefit to the Jew.

Few people realize what the improvement work now in progress at the local factory of the Niles-Bement-Pond Company means to Plainfield. In its particular line of industry this concern ranks with the best in the country—probably the best in the world. With its added facilities it will be able to give employment to an additional number of men. Already it has brought machinists and their families to Plainfield by the hundreds and the work it will have to offer will act as an inducement to many others to settle here. When the concern first came to Plainfield from Worcester, Mass., it brought the biggest influx of skilled mechanics ever coming to the city at one time and it is a noticeable fact that a majority of these men and their families are still living here.

In the death of George H. Frost Plainfield has lost another of its citizens whose career commanded national prominence. Born of modest parentage and educated, like many other great men, in the rural schools, he mounted steadily the ladder of success. Many of his life achievements have contributed to the nation's history and the name of George H. Frost enjoyed a country-wide distinction. We are proud to have had the opportunity to claim him as a fellow citizen; he had contributed his share to make Plainfield a better city; and his loss is one which the municipality mourns. The name of this man will be listed among Plainfield's and the Nation's immortals; in spirit he will be with us for years to come by reason of the accomplishments of his life.

Plainfield men—business, professional and private citizens—boarded a special train at the North avenue depot Tuesday night and went to Newark as representatives of the Plainfield Lodge of Elks. Seldom has a more representative turnout of this city's manhood been in evidence; the three hundred who participated in the visit to the Celebration City were a creditable example of what Plainfield can turn out.

Various organizations will unit Sunday to celebrate Boys' Day. Governor Edge has prepared a special message relative to the youth of today and this will be read at many church meetings and other gatherings where the boy is in evidence. This is but another of the many efforts to inscill a feeling of patriotism into coming citizens; Plainfield should do its part toward promoting the idea of the observance.

MR. ELLIOTT T. BARROWS, ESQ.

Mr. Elliot T. Barrows has submitted the following reply to an editorial published in the Record last week:

Answering your criticisms of my letter in your last issue, allow me to say, that I am not the president of the Board of Health, nor do I think your attempt to try and make out that the Board is not familiar with its own work, quite worthy of the position that you fill in our community.

The Board of Health ordinances do not require that the inspector of Plumbing shall be a "Master Plumber," it naturally is an asset, and all things being equal, preference would be given to a man who had that qualification. Plainfield in the past had been very fortunate to have found two citizens like Mr. Addis and Mr. McVoy, to take that position at a reasonable remuneration, and perhaps when the time comes for Mr. McVoy to retire, a like "Master Plumber" who has spent the best part of his life in hard work, yet active in mind and physical health, and wishing to spend a few years free from the worry of business may be found to serve the city, if not, and the young man who is "being groomed," as you express it, is no longer with us, the city will have the same chance among those who desire and seek the position as now.

Neither you, the young man, or myself, expect that he is going to standstill, and that his salary will not advance in the ratio that his services become valuable to the city, so that your sarcastic remark, "that we expect to get him for $900," (his present salary) to fill a position that might be worth much more, is most puerile.

Nor is there any point in your "mare's nest" that we did not know that Mr. McVoy cannot pass a State examination until June. This would apply to anyone who had not previously passed, and his appointment is subject to passing this test.

The question of not having started some one under Mr. Addis is quite pertinent, and had the latter given the Board an earlier intimation of his expected retirement, this might have been done, but his health seemed so good, and his work so congenial, that we naturally thought there were quite a few years' service still left to his credit, but now that we have had an illustration of "how age creeps on" and our friends are liable to give up without warning, it becomes more necessary to prepare, and put the Department in a position to meet any and all changes as they occur from time to time.

"Pertinency" is written in letters bold on every angle of the plumbing inspector issue. The subject is a vitally pertinent one to Plainfield taxpayers and the fact that our Board of Health evidentally believed that Mr. Addis, at the age of seventy-seven, was still fit for years of service is also pertinently important. Understand us correctly, Mr. Barrows, in the usage of the word pertinent. We mean to imply no discourtesy toward you or other members of the Board.

Concluding your letter you remark: "But now that we have had an illustration of 'how age creeps on' and as our friends are liable to give up without warning, it becomes more necessary to prepare."

Do you brand the appointment of a sixty-nine year old candidate to a $1,000 municipal office as PREPAREDNESS? The Board believed that Mr. Addis had quite a few years of service left to his credit but, despite the fact that he was nearing the eighty-year mark, it absolutely neglected to prepare for the inevitable emergency. Consequently Mr. Addis' retirement left the city "high and dry;" the Board was caught with its hands tied behind it when it became necessary to name a successor at short notice to this important office.

We suspected Mr. Barrows, that you were aware that Mr. McVoy could not take the State plumbing inspector examinations until June BUT DID THE PUBLIC KNOW IT? Your admission verifies our statement that the city of Plainfield is now paying $84 a month to a plumbing inspector who is not qualified to act as such. It may not be considered policy to let the public in on these secrets.

You express the wish that upon the retirement of Mr. McVoy "a like master plumber who has spent the best part of his life in hard work, yet active in mind and physical health, and wishing to spend a few years free from the worry of business may be found to serve the city."

From this statement we take it that the Board of Health is of the opinion that the plumbing inspectorship doesn't amount to much after all. You want a man "for a few years" and you would relieve him from the "worry of business." Quite charitable, to say the least, but why not abolish the office if there are no "worries" attached to it? If you favor the appointment of a man for "a few years" why not regulate the term of office accordingly?

The Board of Health ordinances do not require that the plumbing inspector be a master plumber but is it not a fact that the State examinations consist of tests which only the master plumber is qualified to answer?

Mr. Barrows, we note with gratification that you took no exception to the three denials we made of your alleged charges last week. Our explanations were probably comprehensive enough to convince even you.

It is not the intention of the Plainfield Record to antagonize the Board of Health or any of its members. It has merely analyzed an existing condition by a statement of pure facts. The fact that Mr. Barrows submitted a reply with a revelation of new facts reopened the issue where the Record left off.

In conclusion, Mr. Barrows, let us apologize for referring to you as the "president of the Board of Health."

IF GOETHALS COMES TO JERSEY. If General Goethals is engaged in a supervisory capacity by the State of New Jersey in connection with the construction of roads, the possible construction of tunnels and bridges, the planning and construction of canals, and other big engineering enterprises in which the State may be interested, it is very important to know to what extent he will be engaged, and Minority Leader Geran's objections to the bill creating a position for the General were based on very good grounds.

If General Goethals is to devote most of his time to the work of the State of New Jersey, then he will be worth almost any salary within reason, but if he is to be an outsider, with just consulting duties, then there is a grave question as to how far the State can go in the matter of salary.

With millions upon millions to be spent in the next few years no man could be better employed than General Goethals. If he would build New Jersey's big improvements as he has built the Panama Canal. Part time jobs, however, do not work out so well. To have the sky for the limit in permitting the State House Commission to deal with General Goethals in the matter of salary is adopting a dangerous policy, and is surrendering a prerrogative on the part of the Legislature which should not be surrendered carelessly.—Hudson Dispatch.

Many at Funeral of Geo. H. Frost

The funeral of George Henry Frost who passed away last Thursday night at his home on Watchung avenue after an illness of several months, was held Saturday afternoon at the late residence, Rev. John Sheridan Zeltz, pastor of the Crescent avenue church being in charge. Relatives and friends from various parts of the country were present and there were masses of floral tributes. During the service the hymns "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" and "Lead Kindly Light" were sung by Miss Grace Carroll and Miss Etta Roybert.

Interment was made in the family plot at Hillside, the honorary bearers being Dr. William L. Saunders, Andrew J. Gavett, L. V. F. Randolph, Malcolm MacKenzie, all of Plainfield, and Dr. Mansfield Merriman, Rudolph Herring, C. W. Baker and E. Kornfield, of New York.

A native and resident of the Middle West during his early life, Mr. Frost had lived in this city for the past twenty years. He was a civil engineer by profession and helped lay out a major portion of the suburbs of Chicago. He was founder of the Engineering News, the first magazine to be devoted exclusively to the engineering and construction field.

After he had established the publication as one of the biggest in the country he sold his interests to a New York syndicate and in 1904 purchased the Courier-News, of this city. A Councilman at the time the construction of a sewer in this city was first discussed, he helped formulate plans for this improvement and was otherwise interested in local civic affairs.

Captain Jack Bonavita Killed by Polar Bear

Word has reached this city of the death in Los Angeles on Monday of Captain Jack Bonavita following an attack by a polar bear. The animal was a part of an exhibit of trained beasts and attacked Bonavita and mortally wounded him before assistance arrived.

Captain Bonavita was well known in this city, especially to pupils of the High School. For the past decade he had paid an Annual visit here and always gave a lecture on animal life before the student body. Since 1904, when he was attacked by a bear at Coney Island, he had been without one arm. He was regarded as one of the country's foremost animal trainers and could relate many narrow escapes while subduing wild beasts.

Fanwood Recorder Has Reel Tangle to Solve

Fanwood borough is to have a trial tonight for the first time in several months when Morris W. Tracey, of Westfield, and Peter Ritter, Sr., of Fanwood, are both to appear before Recorder Charles Sheelen. To him will be left the task of deciding which party was responsible for an accident on Terrill road just over the city line Tuesday when Ritter's car was turned upside down and reduced to a scrap heap.

The case might never have been aired in court if Ritter had not earnestly asserted that Tracey caused the accident by running into him and if the Westfield man had not just as earnestly denied that he had caused the mixup. Ritter was nearing the Hotel Maples coming toward this city when Tracey attempted to pass him. He continued on his way and did not know anything had happened until a Plainfield officer stopped him and took him back to the scene. Ritter claims Tracey's machine hit his wheel hub causing him to swerve to the gutter and upset.

CHARLES DE GRAW.

The funeral of Charles De Graw, who died Wednesday, will be held tomorrow afternoon from the home of his sister, Mrs. A. D. Cook, of East Seventh street. Rev. Charles E. Herring will be in charge. Interment in Hillside.

Mr. DeGraw had been a resident of Plainfield for upwards of thirty years. He was born at Princeton in 1856, educated in New Brunswick, and started life in Plainfield as a clerk in a number of dry goods stores. Twenty years ago he and Frank Putnam formed a partnership to deal in men's furnishings and continued until about a year ago. Since then he has engaged in the realty business and been connected with Jack Horner in the bicycle business.

A sister, Mrs. Alfred D. Cook, of East Seventh street, and a brother, Elwin De Graw, of Philadelphia, survive him.

For some reason the car jumped the track near Metuchen and threw both men a considerable distance. Milton Bush, his companion, escaped with a few scratches. It is said at the hospital that Hockenbury will recover.

Clearing New Pond Property

Since it became known several weeks ago that the Nile-Bement-Pond Tool Company had acquired large properties adjacent to its plant in the West end as sites for three additions the concern has made preparations to clear the ground and get started on the improvements as soon as possible. Morris Isreal, the local contractor, has purchased from the Bond company the dwellings on the recently acquired land and will move them in the near future to other locations.

That property to the East of the main Pond plant, known as the Burke Brown section, has, besides the family homestead, a three story frame dwelling. On the other ground, located on the corner of South Second street and Prescott Place, there are two dwellings and a store. The Brown homestead and the store are to be torn down, while the two dwellings and the three story structure are to be moved by Isreal to the Jackson property, at the corner of South Second street and Lee place. The largest of the three buildings will be occupied by Frank Bradt as a restaurant and the other two will be rented.

Within the past few days the Philadelphia architects retained by the Pond company have filed a summary of the plans for the three additions, details of which appeared in last week's Record, the estimated figure upon them being $35,000.

"Tex" Millman, Well-Known Aviator, Dies

Aviator "Tex" Millman was buried Wednesday in St. Brigid's cemetery at Westbury, L. I. His was the first funeral ever held with a corteo of aeroplanes, according to the airmen of Hempstead Plains. Millman, besides teaching Government officers aviation, had charge of the machines of the Standard Aero Corporation, of this city, built for the U. S. He was at the local concern's booth at the recent exhibit at the Grand Central Palace.

Peter Carl Millman had grown from boyhood to manhood in the flying schools on the plains. He became one of the ablest and most daring air pilots, though he never took changes for the sake of doing fancy stunts. He never had an accident.

Millman was one of the defenders who caught two planes making a surprise attack on the United States Government flying station in the war practice two weeks ago and the long exposure in the air brought on pneumonia that was fatal.

Willard, Who 'Grows', Takes New Addition

Clarence E. Willard, of this city, who edifies vaudeville audiences by standing right out in the centre of the stage and increasing his height a foot by the simple process of telescoping himself, was married in the Municipal Building, New York, Wednesday by City Clerk Scully to Ida May Barnard, of No. 896 Asylum avenue, New Haven, Conn. The bridegroom is forty-two, the bride thirty.

With true professional pride Mr. Willard consented to exhibit his artistic talent to reporters and others in Mr. Sulzy's office. Standing beside his blushing bride, who gazed upon him with unfeigned admiration, Mr. Willard began to elevate himself. First he slid his neck up out of his collar three or four inches, like a turtle. Then, by degrees, he elongated himself until he was actually a foot taller. Slowly he dropped back into his normal stature again.

"Do you intend to continue in vaudeville?" Mr. Willard was asked.

"I don't know whether I can or not," he replied. "I was never married before."

P. H. S. Debater Tackle Passaic Tomorrow Night

The debating team of the Plainfield High School that represents that institution in the Rutgers College Debating League, will travel to Passaic tomorrow night to argue with the team representing that, High School. Harold Biddle, who is coach of the Red and Blue aggregation, has his eye on the championship again this year and has his cohorts marshaled for a victory.

The P. H. S. team is composed of Clifford Todd, Horace Bunker, Caryl Dunavan and Miss Fannie Mann, alternate. In the first debate the Rutgers Freshman team was easily defeated and if Passaic is also turned back it will mean that the locals have practically clinched the title for this section of the State.

ANOTHER ELKS' REHEARSAL.

Another successful rehearsal for "The Land of Mystery" which will be presented by Plainfield Lodge of Elks in the Plainfield Theatre on April 10, 11, 12, was held in the clubhouse on Watchung avenue last night. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Skillings, who are coaching the opera, have about decided on the principals and will now start smoothing over the rough spots. The music and score have been written especially for the production and is even better than that for "The Mystic Rose" of last year.

STRAND THEATRE.

The widely heralded motion picture debut of George M. Cohan takes place at the Strand Theatre "Broadway Jones," his greatest stage success, affords him his initial screen vehicle in which he is supported by an excellent cast including Marguerite Snow, Russell Bassett, Crawford Kent and Ida Darling. As a distributor of mirth and general good cheer, it is safe to say that Mr. Cohan has no equal on the stage today. He is quite the most dominant, popular and conspicuous figure we have had in the amusement field for a decade. Victor Moore, who some years ago appeared in one of Mr. Cohan's plays, is also on the Strand bill as the star of a new comedy entitled "Rough and Ready Reggie." A new chapter of Raymond L. Ditmar's "Living Book of Nature" and the Strand Topical Review will also be shown.

A musical program of exceptional strength will be presented. J. Ortiz De Zarate, a Spanish tenor, who is said to be the possessor of a most beautiful voice, will make his American debut. The number selected for the occasion is "Celeste Aida" from Verdi's "Aida." Grace Hoffman, the talented Coloratura soprano, will sing Strauss' "Voce Di Primavera." Other soloists to be heard are Arthur Depew and Ralph Brigham. The Concert Orchestra, under the direction of Carl Edouarde, will play Tchikowsky's "1812" and popular and classical selections to the subjects shown on the screen. During the presentation of "Broadway Jones" the incidental music consists mainly of George M. Cohan's own compositions. An extra added attraction of unusual interest will be the first presentation of any screen of an Animated Sculpture comedy in which clay figures play all the parts. "Animated Sculpture" is the invention of Helena Smith Dayton, noted New York sculptress.

HMRS. ABIGAIL BRIANT.

The funeral of Mrs. Abigail Briant, aged 85, who died Tuesday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Elwin Leland, of Sandford avenue, will be held this afternoon from the home of her daughter, Rev. Charles M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, officiating. Interment will be made in Hillside cemetery.

Mrs. Briant had enjoyed excellent health until a short time before her death, when she was stricken with paralysis. She had lived in this city since early childhood, but was born at Short Hills. A member of the First M. E. church, she was active in its work until increasing age prevented her. Her husband, Joel R. Briant, died about twenty-five years ago. He was associated with the Bank of the Republic and was a member of the Plainfield Board of Education. Mrs. Briant had lived with her daughter for several years.

She is survived by, besides Mrs. Leland, a daughter, Mrs. Charles E. Harris; two grandsons, a granddaughter and one sister. They are Edwin and Leslie Leland and Mrs. Benjamin Evans, of this city, and Mrs. Hannah M. Harris, of Bethayres, Pa.

"THE WANDERER" IS A SMASHING BIG HIT.

The biggest dramatic spectacle on earth, is the way "The Wanderer" at the Manhattan Opera House, West 34th street, New York, is now billed, and those who have seen this gigantic dramatic offering unite in declaring that it certainly exceeds all records so far achieved in the history of the American stage. Not only is the production enormous in a scenic sense, but the cast of high priced stars employed in the production exceeds any previous combination ever offered at much higher prices. For the price scale of "The Wanderer" is quite as wonderful as the show itself, this immense production and this superb cast being offered at a scale of prices with only $1.50 charged for the best orchestra seats. There is also a popular priced Wednesday matinee when the best seats are only $1.

"The Wanderer" is a gorgeously staged spectacle of old Jerusalem and the Holy Land of three thousand years ago. The story deals with Jether, the son of Jesse, of the tribe of Judea, who demands his portion and goes forth to Jerusalem in search of fame and fortune. The second act shows the young boy wasting his substance in riotous living, and the third act shows his return home, penniless and penitent. It is the old story of the prodigal son, of the Bible, told in a beautiful atmosphere of old Judea, and with a wealth of stage gorgeousness unequalled in any production ever seen in New York. The list of principals includes Nance O'Neil, Florence Reed, Beverly Sitgreaves, Janet Dunbar, Clara Blandick, James O'Neill, Charles Dalton, William Elliott, William H. Thompson, Frederick Lewis, and nearly two hundred others.

Standardize Bread Loaves, Says Weights Superintendent

Because the price has been increased and the size of loaves of bread reduced in New Jersey during the past year to an extent without precedent, State Superintendent of Weights and Measures William L. Waldron in his annual report, presented to Governor Edge, advocated a law compelling bakers to mark the weight of their loaves.

The superintendent also went on record as favoring a bill to confer upon the Department of Weights and Measures supervision to test gas, electric and water meters.

Anent the bread recommendation, Mr. Waldron's report states that his department tried three years ago to have the Legislature pass a law which would enable buyers to know what they are getting for the money expended. He says the word "loaf" is without meaning and believes it should not be used unless it has a specific definition.

Last year the Weights and Measures Department had an investigation made and loaves of bread selling for five cents were found to vary in weight from nine and one-half ounces to fifteen. The ten-cent loaf weighed from twenty to thirty ounces.

Speaking on this situation, the report says, "No satisfactory reason could be found for this condition. But to many it would appear from the figures that some of the bakers—especially those who sell the heavier loaves—are transacting business at a loss. On the other hand, it may be inferred, that the bakers were making an exceptionally high profit. In either event, it is unsound business and should not be tolerated. Quite a few bakers argue that it is impossible to enact satisfactory legislation requiring loaves of bread to be marked. We cannot agree with this point of view. We feel that a satisfactory law can be enacted that would not only protect housewives, but help bakers, as well."

Respecting the testing of meters Mr. Waldron's report says his department does not wish to reflect upon the Board of Public Utility Commissioners, which is doing all it can in this direction, but is limited.

Honest weights and measures are in use in greater numbers in New Jersey today than ever before, the report says. This is due to the continued vigilance of assistant superintendents of the department who have reduced dishonesty and fraud to a minimum. There were fewer prosecutions and convictions last year than ever before.

Since the department of Weights and Measures was established five years ago, the total equipment of scales, weights, measures, baskets, boxes, barrels, bottles and similar receptacles which have been tested and sealed amounted to 1,696,804, and the equipment condemned and confiscated numbered 47,831 pieces. The total number of prosecutions was 846 and the total received in fines was $16,131.25. Taking into consideration the elimination of condemned scales, weights and measures, it is estimated, the people of the State were saved hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Detailed account is given in the report of the checking of fertilizer purchases by farmers and thousands of dollars have been saved the purchasers. Plans formulated for this year call for more systematic and frequent inspections.

Last year 4,914 coal deliveries were reweighed and in some instances such shortages were discovered that prosecutions were necessitated. Twenty-four dealers, the majority of them peddlers, were arrested. Conditions in this respect, however, for the most part were excellent, says the report.

There were also reweighed 63,292 packages of tea, coffee, butter, sugar etc., last year, an increase of 2,773 over the previous twelve months. Less than five per cent. were found to be inaccurate and some prosecutions were commenced. Test made of gasoline pumps to protect motorists, and visits to the state institutions for an examination of equipment are also related in the report of Mr. Waldron.

The State superintendent's report says that the net weight which has been in operation since October to prohibit manufacturers from "weighing in" wrappings, cartons, paper and similar things in food stuff packages, will result in a great saving to consumers. An account of the educational work carried on by the department through lectures, demonstrations, and the issuing of pamphlets is also recounted.

Art Exhibit at 'Rookery' Big Success

A two weeks' art exhibit of portrait paintings by Mr. and Mrs. John Johanson, of New York, will close at the "Rookery" on Sycamore street, tomorrow afternoon with a tea at which Mrs. George Clay will be hostess. She will be assisted by Mrs. Marsom R. Buttfield, Mrs. Elizabeth Foster, Mrs. H. A. Pratt, Mrs. E. Vicar Stevenson, Mrs. Clinton Breese and Mrs. Herbert H. Foster.

During the entire exhibit considerable interest has been manifested by Plainfield people and a series of teas helped largely toward the success. The first of them was held Saturday afternoon, March 10, at which Mrs. William S. Tyler poured tea. She was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. David Rowland, Miss Rowland, Mrs. George Mellick, Mrs. A. H. Jones, Mrs. Horace Philips and Mrs. William Wherry. On Wednesday afternoon, March 14, the second tea was held with Mrs. George McGew the hostess, assisted by those who had shown an interest in the exhibit. The next was held last Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Henry Hibbard, assisted by Mrs. James Charles, Mrs. John Carlston, Mrs. Archibald Cox, Mrs. Caroline Lincoln, Mrs. Fred Yates, Mrs. Yarde Breese and Mrs. Brown Ralston did the receiving, and Jonas Lie, a former Plainfielder and prominent artist, gave an interesting talk. The fourth social afternoon was held on Monday, at which Mrs. Richard Boardman was hostess. Those on the assisting committee were: Mrs. E. M. Reickert, Mrs. Champlin Filley, Mrs. Henry Cochran, Mrs. Benjamin D. Hedges, Mrs. John Sheridan Zelie, Miss Clara Krans, Mrs. Fred Mygatt and the Misses Harman. Mrs. Maxwell Perkins poured tea on Wednesday afternoon, being assisted by Mrs. Harry T. White, Mrs. Harry Wells, Miss Frances Hyde, Miss Ruth Walton, Miss Catherine Yates and Miss Catherine Ginns.

This afternoon the next to the last of the teas is being held from 4 o'clock until 6 o'clock at the "Rookery." Mrs. J. Hartley Mellick is the hostess for this social event and on the assisting committee are Mrs. W. L. Richter, Mrs. Louis B. Waring, Mrs. William B. Tyler, Mrs. Story Rowland, Mrs. Frank C. Ard, Mrs. George L. Babcock and Mrs. L. H. Van Buren.

The "Rookery" was first opened for art exhibits about two years ago by Miss Edith Van Boskerck for the purpose of creating interest among Plainfield people. The first exhibit was of the work of Jonas Lie, a former resident, who is well known through his excellent paintings. The second exhibit that of Mr. and Mrs. Johanson, has been so successful that an organization known as the Plainfield Art Club, has been formed within the last week and already has a membership of over fifty. Another article regarding the club is to be found in another column. The present exhibition is of portrait painting done by both Mr. and Mrs. Johanson. The latter is probably better known in the art world by her maiden name, Miss Jean McClean. The "Rookery" has been appropriately furnished with heavy oak and the decorations have been done by Miss Van Boskerck, who is well known as a painter of mural designs.

Although it has not yet been definitely announced, it is probable that the "Rookery" will be open on Sunday afternoon in order that those who have not yet had a chance to view the exhibit may do so at that time. The widespread welcome which has greeted Miss Van Boskerck in her effort to give Plainfield people an opportunity to see such excellent paintings as those of Mr. and Mrs. Johanson has greatly encouraged her and it will probably result in others to follow in the near future.

To Get Voters' Views on Paoposed Changes

A movement in which Plainfielders are taking a prominent part has recently been started for the abolition of almshouses maintained by various municipalities in favor of a county institution. One unique feature that makes the plan worthy of at least investigation is that it would mean the saving of money instead of adding to the taxpayer's burdens.

At the present time there are eight towns in Union county with almshouses and if a county poorhouse was established there would no longer be need for them. Judging from a rough estimate it can be said that there are not over one hundred inmates of the entire eight and if they were concentrated the cost of upkeep should be materially reduced, although how much it would be hard to estimate until the plan was actually put into execution.

Plainfield would be one of the principal benefactors through a county almshouse. The report of the overseer of the poor for 1916 is not yet available, but that of the previous year shows clearly the saving to the city. In 1915 there were but eleven inmates of the poorfarm located on West Front street. The cost for that year to the city for the upkeep of the institution was $2,317.12, or approximately $210 for each person. To provide for all the inmates of the eight poorhouses in the county means an expense of between $25,000 and $35,000 annually. A county institution could be run for less and the taxpayers should demand that the plan be given a trial.

Charged with taking $35 from under the bed pillow of an aunt with whom he boarded, Stephen Brodak, of Dunellen avenue, Dunellen, was committed in $500 bail for the grand jury Tuesday morning by Judge Manoust-Unsaro in the Fourth Precinct Court, Newark.

Brodak, who is known also as "Jacob Seaman," disappeared Saturday shortly after his aunt, Mrs. Irene Seaman, of 178 Kinney street, Newark, missed the money. He was arrested Tuesday morning in St. Charles street, Newark, while on his way to work in a factory.

NEWS OF THE WEEK CONCERNING PLAINFIELD PEOPLE

"Preparedness" Lecture is Feature of Club Calendars

Plainfield people will have an excellent chance to get a graphic account of the world war from one who was in its very midst, when Captain Beith lectures in the Plainfield High School tonight under the auspices of the local branch of the National Special Aid Society. Anyone who knows "Ian Hay," the Scots novelist, through the medium of "A Man's a Man," "A Safety Match," "Happy-Go-Lucky," or any of his other delightful stories need only to be told that his ability as a lecturer is hardly eclipsed by that charming literary style that has won him a place in the front rank as an author.

Ada B. Talbot, a woman who has lectured before local audiences on a number of occasions, will give an illustrated talk on "Mexico—Yesterday and Today" in the auditorium of the Washington School next Thursday night under the auspices of the Plainfield Board of Education.

At a meeting of the trustees of the Charity Organization held Tuesday night it was decided to grant the request of the local Belgian Relief Society and relieve Miss Mabelle Phillips of her duties as charity officer for several weeks, during which time she will organize the Belgian Relief Work in New Jersey on a systematic basis. Miss Phillips is to undertake the work at the urgent request of the Hoover Commission.

The third of a series of lectures on "South America" will be given this afternoon in the Y. W. C. A. by Rev. Thornton B. Penfield, of Englewood. The fourth and last will be given next Friday afternoon.

The monthly meeting of the North Plainfield Parent-Teacher Association was held yesterday afternoon in the Harrison Avenue School. Following the business session Principal Albert Early gave an illustrated lecture on "Vimla."

Mrs. S. S. Carvalho, of West Eighth street, entertained the members of the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield at her home Tuesday afternoon. Miss Jean McKenzie, a war nurse recently back from Europe, gave an interesting talk on "Women's Place in the War." Tea was served.

A meeting of the Plainfield High School Parent-Teacher Association will be held in the auditorium of the High School Tuesday night. Dr. E. L. Fisk, director of the Life Extension Institute, under whose auspice New York's diet squads came into existence, will make an address on the proper prepration of foods and the kinds most nourishing.

A meeting of the Prince of Wales Relief Committee, New Jersey Branch, was held in the parish house of Grace Episcopal church yesterday morning. The committee has now changed its policy so that it will be working for the United States as well as Europeans. As long as this country does not need the services work for the English will be continued. A new department was inaugurated at yesterday's meeting to make sheets, pillow cases, towels and the like for base hospitals. Meetings are held in the parish house every Thursday morning from 9 o'clock until 12 o'clock.

Miss Janet Richards, who has delighted local audiences with her talks here during the past winter, will give the last of her series of ten lectures in the Hartridge Auditorium next Thursday afternoon, but because of a numbers of requests the Monday Afternoon Club has decided to engage her for two additional lectures on April 12 and 26. Tickets for the additional lectures may be obtained after the address Thursday.

The literary department of the Monday Afternoon Club will hold a meeting next week, at which time Mrs. C. R. Banks will read a paper on "Operas and Theatres in South America." At this week's meeting Mrs. John B. Patton read a paper on "Brazil and the Brazilians," followed by a discussion on "Brazilian Men of Letters." The meetings of the club are being held in the parish house of the First Congregational church.

Preparations are being made by the officers of the State Federation of Women's Clubs for the registering of the 117,000 members enrolled in its various clubs so that in case of any national emergency they may be ready to do their share in helping the country. Four clubs in this city belong to the state organization, namely: The Monday Afternoon Club, the College Club, the Musical Club and the Rosalie Club, and a canvass for registering each member regarding their fitness for work that may be essential is to be started at once. Letters are to be distributed for each woman to answer and in this city a search capability of every member of the two hundred odd clubs in the state will be on record and ready for reference.

The annual convention of the State Federation of Women's Club will be held at Atlantic City from May 2-5 and the Plainfield clubs belonging to the Federation will be represented by delegates to be chosen at the April meetings. The spirit of the entire convention will be "America First," and the speakers from all over the country that will be present will emphasize that fact in their addresses. New State leaders will also be chosen at that time, although local interest will not be centred on the outcome because there are no Plainfield candidates. Mrs. John R. Schermerhorn, of East Orange, is the candidate for president for two years, to succeed Mrs. Charles W. Stockton, of Ridgewood. Others are: For vice president-at-large, Mrs. William M. Wauters, of Bayonne, and Mrs. C. F. Dewey, of Hackensack; for recording secretary, Mrs. W. G. Moore, of Haddonfield; for corresponding secretary, Mrs. G. W. Bailey, of Newark; treasurer, Mrs. C. W. Healey, of Newark.

Although no Plainfield delegates have been chosen, a notice has been sent to the local clubs in the State Federation of Women's Clubs telling of a meeting to be held next Wednesday in the lecture room of the First Presbyterian church, Newark, under the auspices of the New Jersey State Home-Makers' Association. Lectures on the food problem will be given and means of remedying or bettering them will be discussed.

Two Musical Treats Will Entertain Soon

Pederewski, universally conceded to be the greatest living pianist, will give a recital in the Plainfield High School auditorium under the auspices of the Plainfield Musical Club. The great Polish musician comes to this city direct from appearances in the greatest musical centres of the world, where his playing has been even more highly praised than in former years. That Plainfield people appreciate the opportunity offered to hear him is evidenced by the large demand for seats made up to the present time.

Included in his repertoire for the occasion will be compositions of his own as well as works of some of the world's most widely known composers. The proceeds are to go to charity after expenses have been paid.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the musical to be held in the Plainfield High School on April 9 under the auspices of the Plainfield Dental Society has engaged the Erith Rubel Trio as one of the numbers on an attractive program. Evan Williams will also be one of the contributors to the evening's entertainment, the proceeds of which will go toward supporting the free dental clinic at Muhlenberg Hospital.

Amateur Thespians Have Active Season

Members of the Senior Class of the Plainfield High School have started rehearsing for their annual play, which this year will be "Monsieur Perrerchon's Journey." It is a French dramatic playlet and was translated into English by Prof. Hubbard, of the High School faculty. The play will be presented in the High School auditorium on April 28.

Arrangements are progressing finely for the presentation on April 13 of the comedy playlet, "All of a Sudden Peggy," under the auspices of the Boys' Athletic Association of the North Plainfield High School. The proceeds will go into the treasury.

The Junior Class at the Plainfield High School is trying to decide which one of several plays it will produce this year as its annual theatrical effort. A decision will be reached within a few days and rehearsals will start immediately.

Annual Banquet of Dutch Arms

Between fifty and seventy-five members of the Dutch Arms Band, of Trinity Reformed church, together with their friends, enjoyed the annual supper that was held in the Sunday-school room of the church last night. The dinner was prepared and served by the members of the Willing Workers' Class. Edgar F. Sheppherd was master of ceremonies for the evening, and a spirit of good fellowship and fun prevailed that made the affair the most successful ever held by the organization.

The chief speaker of the evening was Rev. Horace B. Silver, chaplain of the West Point Military Academy, who made an interesting and far reaching address on "American Citizenship." State Senator Edmund Burke Osborne, of Newark, Rev. John Y. Brook, pastor of Trinity Reformed church and Mr. Shepphard also made addresses.

Big Mass Meeting for Relief of Jews

Preparations are now under way for the holding of a monster Jewish mass meeting in Columbus auditorium on the night of April 3, at which time an effort will be made to raise $10,000 as the contribution of Plainfield Hebrews toward the relief of European war stricken Jews. Judge William Newcorn, who is at the head of the movement has appointed a committee of fifty of the most prominent of the faith in this city to complete detailed plans for the meeting and he now feels sure that a generous response will meet the plea.

A number of prominent men have accepted the invitation to be present at the meeting and make addresses. They will include Rabbi Stephen Wise, of New York, Mayor Leighton Calkins and others to be named later.

PUBLIC SERVICE PREPARED.

The Public Service Corporation has taken steps to guard its gas, electric and trolley properties throughout Northern New Jersey. Approximately 1,000 men have been put on guard at the different plants with orders not to allow anyone not connected with the corporation to approach. Both the gas and electric power plants in this city are now protected from possible damage by cranks.

Plainfield Art Club Formed at "Rookery"

Enthusiasm over the paintings now on exhibition at the "Rookery" has caused the formation of an organization to be known as the Plainfield Art Club. Its members intend to do all they can to create more widespread appreciation of painting and Plainfield people may expect exhibitions from time to time of the work of some of the world's greatest artists.

At the organization meeting held Saturday evening Mrs. C. B. Tyler was chosen president; Mrs. Henry Welles, vice president; J. Fred Zerega, treasurer, and Miss Elizabeth Goddard, secretary. Membership dues are $2 annually and there are already over fifty members.

Peony Appreciated by Fanwood Woman

In "The Book of the Peony," published last week, Mrs. Edward Harding, of Fanwood, brings into its literary own a flower long popular and long the subject of zealous labors in development. Catalogues and pamphlets there have been, Mrs. Harding's is the first book to bring together the widely scattered facts of the peony's history and cultivation.

Beginning her volume with an appreciation of the peony, our author has no hesitation in commending the flower as "the most superb and commanding which the garden yields." She esteems it so for many reasons: for the beautiful processes of its blooming, for the permanence of its foliage, for its hardiness, its ease of culture, its freedom from thorns, inserts and disease, for the landscape value in which it surpasses the rose; for its freshness and the infinite variety of its shades. Some of these points are shown in the illustrations, many of them is wonderfully true and delicate colors, with which the book is supplied.

Mrs. Harding devotes an interesting chapter of her book to the mythology of the peony. From ancient lore she quotes the legend that Paeon, pupil of Asseulapius and physician of the gods, received the peony from the hands of Leto and with it cured Pluto of a wound inflicted by Hercules. The history of the herbaceous peony in China and Japan is traced through succeeding pages. Then come the accounts of the great flower in England, France and America.

In connection with her pages on the cultivatino and propagation of the peony, Mrs. Harding gives a special chapter to questions of the soil. She has made exhaustive inquiries and experiments in these particulars, and her counsel in the matter of locating and preparing gardens, as well as in arranging the plants for the best decorative effect, will be found practical and valuable.

Fanwood Police Force May Ride in "Flivver"

Fanwood's police department may run around in an automobile within a short time if the advise of several of the councilmen and officials of that place is taken. It has been proposed to purchase a "flivver" for Marshal Logan so that he may make the rounds of the borough easier and will be able to answer riot calls with greater speed.

The marshal is not acquainted with machinery but would not mind the services of a chauffeur as he says he would learn how to drive in a short time.

"Never in the history of our nation has there been a more appropriate time for thus cultivating a spirit of devotion, never a time when we so need to humble ourselves before God to rid ourselves of human selfishness, to look for guidance that we may do the will of God and seek the establishment of the Kingdom of our Lord.

High School Students Hold First Drill Today

The first drill of the recently organized cadet corps at the Plainfield High School will be held this afternoon in the gymnasium of the Ninth street institution. Until an army or militia officer is secured the drills will be in charge of Physical Director Ralph Patch and Clinton Berreen, a Senior, who is a member of the First Field Ambulance Corps.

The anti-dated Springfield rifles, which did service when the old cadet corps of ten years ago was in existance, will be used at first. Setting up exercises and the manual of arms will be learned first and later will come target practise and other features.

Y. M. H. A. CAMPAIGN.

The local Y. M. H. A. has just one week more left in which to raise the remainder of the $7,000 that is necessary to purchase the John Leal school on West Front street as a clubhouse. More than half that sum has been subscribed up to the present time and Harvey Rothberg, chairman of the campaign committee, is planning one last rush in an effort to get the remainder of the fund.

New Golf Course for Country Club

The Plainfield Country Club will begin work shortly on the reconstruction of its golf course. Present plans would tend to make it one of the most difficult courses in the country, with the idea of claiming championships of a national character.

The changes will include the constructing of a new eight-hole course on the ground now occupied by the Mellek farm, the property having recently been acquired. The present eight-hole course will be further improved and when work has been completed it is hoped by the club members that an eighteen hole course will result that will justify claims for the holding of championships.

Responsibility for the improvements has been placed in the hands of several of the foremost golfing architects. Water hazards and other natural surface features will be utilized in making the changes. As soon as the weather grows favorable landscape gardeners will commence work in order to have the improvements completed in time for use during the coming summer.

P. S. C. Yearly Report Shows Abnormal Gain

The total revenue of the companies amounted to $42,548,775.10, an increase for the year of $5,077,546.86. The percentage of increase was 13.6.

The operating revenue of the Public Service Railway Company, the report shows, was $18,175,764.61, a gain of $1,606,321.29, or 9.7 per cent. over 1915.

The office is at 202 West Second street, Plainfield, with Eugene C. Miller as the agent.

The organization was formed "not for pecuniary benefit," according to the papers. The incorporators are John C. Fox, Robert Scott, Frank J. Kesel, Eugene C. Miller, Marion Leonard, William Willis, Robert McIntosh, Anna Moraller, Milton Hinchcliffe, Christopher R. Hobson, Thomas S. Wikoff, Lester Lowe and Romney. All are Plainfield residents, except Fox and Hobson, the former living in North Plainfield and the latter in Westfield.

MRS. FECKERT BUSY.

The New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association, in offering the services of its organization to the State in case of war, has taken the stand that the suffragists are patriots first. To meet the possible demand, all local branches throughout the State are busily engaged in enrolling members for relief work. An enthusiastic majority has volunteered, and in order to mobilize efficiently the resources of the organization the executive board of the association has elaborated the form of enrollment blank so that every woman in signing, can indicate what service she is best fitted to render. Mrs. E. M. Feickert is directing the work.

RECRUITING OFFICER HERE.

Corporal Edward M. Lutz has been in this city during the past week inspecting the local recruiting office. He is stationed at the main office of the district in Newark and says that Plainfield compares favorably with other cities of the territory. He is a veteran of the Spanish-American War and has also seen service during the Philippine insurrections.

TO ATTEND CONVENTION.

Local delegates from all the Women's Home Missionary Societies in this city will attend the annual conference to be held in the Halsey street church Wednesday. Rev. Dr. Hannon, of Drew Seminary, and Mrs. D. B. Street, of Washington, D. C., will make addresses.

Co. K's Banquet a Big Success

The fifth reunion of the Veterans' Association of the company and the sixteenth of Company K was held in Masonic Hall, the Babcock building, Wednesday night, and took the form of a banquet. Former officers of the company, the present officers and others were present and letters were read from the few that either illness or distance prevented from coming.

The banquet did not start until late in the evening, following a regular period of drill that gave the boys an appetite. The supper was prepared and served by R. H. Barnard and included everything that goes with a complete menu.

Captain Charles Peterson was toastmaster for the evening and presented the various speakers that were present, including Colonel William B. Martin, who was at one time commander of the local company; Howard Woolston, a former member of the company, and a number of the officers. Lieutenant Albert Littell spoke of rifle and Sergeant Nathaniel Hort gave a general idea of his version of the great war. Sergeant Harry Manning, one of the charter members of the company, gave an account of some of his experiences. Sergeant A. R. Tranchand read a letter from Colonel Edwin J. Murfin, of Nebraska, who was speaker at the last annual banquet, and Sergeant Agar read letters of regret from those who are or were members of the company telling why they had been detained.

During the course of the evening Captain Peterson presented gold watch fobs to Sergeants Augustus Van Arsdale and A. R. Tranchand for services rendered. Oliver R. Pearson, one of those unable to be present because of illness, will receive one later.

The reception committee was composed of Captain Charles A. Peterson, First Lieutenant Arthur R. Phillips and Second Lieutenant James R. Conkling. The members of the entertainment committee were First Sergeant George L. Anear, chairman; Sergeants LeRoy DeCamp and George B. Howell; Corporals Myrton E. Glover and Ellis Carman.

SEEKING RECRUITS.

Army and navy recruiting officers are now at the Plainfield postoffice constantly and are trying hard to help swell the ranks of enlisted men in both branches of the service by securing local recruits. There have been fifteen new enlistments in the army from here since the recent trouble with Germany became acute, but the navy has not been so fortunate in getting men. Someone is always on duty and willing to answer questions regarding enlistment.

POLICE BILLS FAIL.

Senator Pierce, of Union county, made another attempt Wednesday afternoon to get through the Senate his substitute for his State constabulary bill, which creates a State Rural Guard at an expense of $100,000 a year. He could not muster votes enough and it was again laid over. Assemblyman Geran's bill giving policemen an eight-hour day also failed to get eleven votes in the Senate and was laid over.

TANZER JURY UNDECIDED.

After staying out for over twenty-four hours and unable to yet come to an agreement, it now looks as if the jury that is to decide whether or not Rae Tanzer perjured herself in claiming that Oliver Osborne came to this city with her would be discharged and the entire case thrown out. It is the second time the Tanzer girl has been tried for swearing that it was Oliver Osborne who came to this city with her.

ANNUAL BENEFIT FAIR.

The pupils and teachers of the Hartridge School are completing preparations for the holding of their annual fair on Marshall's for the benefit of the children's ward at Muhlenberg Hospital. By means of the fair the ward is entirely supported at an expense of over $500 a year. The fair will be held in the Hartridge Auditorium and all sorts of fancy and useful articles will be on sale.

GERMANS HAD PARTY.

The Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein held a "shore" festival in Saengerbund Hall last night. The men were dressed in white suits, and the women had summer dresses on. A program of musical and vocal numbers was enjoyed, after which dancing entertained until a late hour. Refreshments were served.

Y. M. C. A. CIRCUS.

Members of the Y. M. C. A. are rehearsing for the annual "Barnyard and Dingling's" circus to be held in the gymnasium next week. It will be an even funnier than last year and will include many more side shows "freaks" and "wild animals."

BUSINESS MEETING.

A business meeting of St. Mary's Club will be held Monday night at 8 o'clock.

A Bamboo Forest.

There are few spots imaginable more beautiful than a Japanese bamboo forest. It is the most lovely in color, the most aristocratic and the best behaved forest in the world. It whispers pleasantly and gently, and the severest winds cannot make it angry. The long, slim bodies of its trees are useful long after death, for they are made into water pipes, canes, fences, picture frames, vases, fishing rods, roofings, flutes, fans, furniture and poles.

U. S. Looking for 2nd Lieutenants

A notice issued by Adjutant General H. P. McCain, of Washington, announces that there are many vacancies in the grade of second lieutenant in the United States Army and that the next examinations for the position will be held on April 23. Applications should be forwarded to the Adjutant General as soon as possible.

The United States Army wants civilians between the ages of 21 and 27 years at the time of their appointment as second lieutenants. Uncle Sam wants lots of them at the present time, and he will pay them $1,700 a year. He says that promotion promises to be unusually rapid, and he guarantees that officers will get 10 per cent. on the yearly pay of the grade for each term of five years' service, not to exceed 40 per cent. in all.

The educational requirements of a second lieutenant are published in General Order No. 64, War Department, of issue of 1915, and copies may be had from the postoffice department. Graduates of recognized colleges will be exempted from examinations in certain subjects upon presentation of diplomas.

The Kitchen Cupboard

TASTY MEATS.

LIVER IN CHUTNEY BUTTER SAUCE—Wash and boil two pounds of calf's liver until quite tender; then break it up with a silver fork. Melt and have ready a half pint of butter, adding to it the juice of an onion, a saltspoonful each of pepper and salt, a tablespoonful of chutney sirup, and a teaspoonful of chopped tarragon leaves. Add the liver and heat, but do not boil. Garnish with toast and cress.

Beef Sausage.—To one pound of clear beef add two pounds of lean beef. Clear the suet from the skin and chop suet and beef very fine; season with a teaspoonful of finely powdered sage, a saltspoonful of thyme, a saltspoonful of pepper and a teaspoonful of salt. Mix and mold into flat cakes and fry a delicate brown. A little onion juice may be added to the sausage meat if liked.

Sour Roast.—Select a good piece of top sirloin weighing four or five pounds; have it larded with a little salt pork, then rolled and wrapped in thin slices of bacon and tied. Lay it on the grating of the pot roast pot and cover it with a sliced carrot, a diced raw potato, half a cupful of chopped celery, a thinly sliced onion, half a tsp. of garlic, a bay leaf, three cloves, six raisins, a cupful of vinegar, three lumps of sugar and enough water to nearly cover the meat. Cover the pot tightly and cook evenly, turning the meat over during the cooking, for three hours. Just before it is done add a saltspoonful of pepper and half a teaspoonful of salt. Lift the meat and strain the gravy; then return the gravy to the pot and thicken it with browned flour mixed with water. Add a dozen seedless raisins and serve hot.

Pot Roast.—Take two pounds veal or beef, cut into small cubes and place a layer of the meat in a small bean pot. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and flour; then a layer of sliced onion and tomato canned; and so on until dish is full; fill with cold water, cover and bake slowly all day.

Fricatelli.—Grind pork tenderloin fine in a meat chopper. Season with salt and pepper, grated cracker crumbs, bit of powdered sage. Take half as much bread as meat, soak the crumbs until soft, squeeze dry and mix with the meat. Add one or two unbeaten eggs to bind. Shape into small flat cakes, dredge with flour and fry.

GRAFT RULES CHINA.

To Refuse to Accept It Would Create a Big Sensation.

Why can't China build her own railroads, dredge her own canals? She has engineers who are no slouches; she has limitless material and the cheapest of labor.

There are two reasons, sloth and graft, the outgrowth of sloth.

Try to take one of the little steamers that ply from point to point along the coast of China. "Will the boat leave today at the schedule time?" you ask the agents at the dock. "Maybe, perhaps, probably not till tomorrow," the serious Chinese tell you. Tomorrow again there is some delay, and you may have about for a week before you get off in that steamer. How could such methods build railroads, dredge canals? Question, even if the government could float all the bonds in the world?

Graft, which permeates all China, from the highest official to the poorest coolie, would make it very difficult for a corporation to live on many would take bites from the income.

A missionary once told me on a visit to a story of a Chinese boy, educated in a mission school, who nearly up set a whole province by refusing graft. He was appointed to some local government, he was given what in our money would be $200 for expenses. When he returned he handed in $50.

"What is this for?" they asked.

"I spent only $250," he explained.

There was a great to-do, and the governor of the province sent to see this lad, who had done what no man had ever been known to do before. But he was solemnly assured that he must not return that $50 because it would merely cause others who kept all they could get.—Eleanor Booth Simmons in World Outlook.

Mr. and Mrs. George Flatley, of Pearl street, North Plainfield, are the parents of a young son born several days ago.

Policemen Seek Increase; Compare Salary Scales

An interesting table comparing the salaries paid members of the Plainfield police department with those paid in other nearby cities has been prepared by members of the force who are active in the campaign to secure an increase. In almost every instance arguments show that local policemen are receiving wages under the scale paid elsewhere and that from the chief down to the patrolman the salaries are below standard.

Application will be made to the Common Council in the near future by a committee of patrolmen for a moderate increase. They will claim that they are unable to support families on their present wage and that they should not be compelled to purchase uniforms if the present wage is to be kept in force. Police clothing is an expensive item and in several towns listed in the table below the municipality pays for the uniforms.

The following tables show the maximum paid the different grades:

Town	Chief	Captain	Lieut.	Sergeant	Patrolman
Westfield	$1,650.00		$1,400.00	$1,300.00	$1,300.00
Elizabeth	2,500.00	$1,800.00	1,368.75	1,277.50	1,186.25
Bayonne	2,500.00	2,000.00	1,700.00		1,300.00
East Orange	2,400.00	1,400.00	1,300.00	1,300.00	1,300.00
Fort Amboy	2,000.00	1,600.00	1,600.00	1,500.00	1,300.00
Hoboken	3,000.00	2,250.00	1,700.00	1,150.00	1,500.00
Plainfield	1,800.00	1,500.00	1,350.00	1,300.00	1,200.00

To Add Fifty Volunteers to Defense Unit

Members of the Home Defense League are now holding drills regularly and are becoming accustomed to their duties. Most of them are showing decided improvement in target practice and besides having indoor drill routine they work out-of-doors. At the last drill on Wednesday night they were all measured for uniforms and in another week will be entirely outfitted.

Work is now being completed on the formation of a second group of fifty men to act as a reserve to the first. The names of those selected will be sent to the Council Monday night for confirmation and will include residents from all parts of the city. The first drill for the second unit will be held in the Evergreen avenue school Wednesday night. All those who do not attend drills regularly will take the matter seriously will be dropped from the League.

Contributions for the fund being raised to support the League are coming in slowly and Mayor Calkins has sent out an appeal asking everyone to help with even a little bit. Contributions may be handed in at the Plainfield Trust Company.

Aero Plant Works Under Government

During the past week activities at the Standard Aero Corporation's plants on upper North avenue have been redoubled in an effort to increase the output to the greatest possible degree. For the past six months the concern has been engaged in filling orders for sixty machines of three different types and while they have not yet been completed, the officers have placed the facilities of the corporation at the disposal of the Government, which means it will be working at top speed until the next to the United States is complete.

As a part of the plan to make the local concern one of the chief governmental manufacturers of aeroplanes, plans were drawn up during the past week and presented to the Building Inspector calling for one story wooden addition onto the main building on North Ave., on Pete Johnston avenue, to be used as a work shop. The building will be 110 x 160.10 and of such construction that it can be completed in a very short time. Alexander Milne Calder has the contract for the work, has a large gang of men at work in day and night shifts. After dark the men are helped in their work by large searchlights that illuminate the ground where the factory is being constructed. The expense of the structure is placed at $5,000 in the building permit.

ANOTHER QUITS.

Patrolman Joseph Inslap will tender his resignation to the Common Council Monday night. He leaves the local force to take a position as a chauffer.

Americans ! Attention !

Company K, Second Infantry, has been called to colors. The Plainfield unit, as well as many others of the command, is way below war strength and the official personnel of the outfit is doing everything possible to stimulate recruiting. The present enrollment is below sixty and 100 are needed. Men living in Plainfield are especially wanted and Captain Charles Peterson is scouring the city for recruits between the ages of eighteen and forty-five. Those who have no dependents are particularly desirable.

There is every chance for advancement from the ranks to a commission. The men, in addition to their pay, are given a clothing allowance, worth about $50 for six months, and what allowance is not drawn is given in extra pay; they are fed, given shelter and prompt medical attention, and if in any way physically incapacitated while in service, they come within the pension provisions.

Men who serve in wartime are given preference in civil service positions, and, in certain positions, governmental and municipal, cannot be removed from office except after trial on charges.

The pay of a first sergeant is $45 a month; duty, mess and supply sergeants receive $30 a month; cooks, $30 a month; first-class private, $18 a month; private, $15 a month. Thirty-six cooks and mechanics are needed.

GOVERNOR EDGE MAKES A PLEA

A call for men to recruit the National Guard to full war strength was made by Governor Edge today when he issued the following proclamation:

"In response to the many proffers of time on the part of patriotic citizens of our State, both men and women, I wish to express my deep appreciation and at the same time to call their attention to the first and most urgent help they can render.

"Several units of the National Guard have been called to the colors and it seems very probable that others will follow. What we need now above all things is enlistments in the National Guard, in order that the ranks be filled to full war strength of approximately 2,000 men per regiment as stipulated by law.

"I am grateful for the earnest offers of citizens to form home defense leagues, inspire census propaganda and their other activities along many allied lines, but what New Jersey most needs now is men, and I will deeply appreciate co-operation on the part of the people of the State toward securing enlistments in the various organizations of the National Guard. In this field of endeavor our citizens can show their practical co-operation in the first responsibility of the government."

There must be 2,007 men in the Second Regiment and if the volunteers do not come a draft will be resorted to. In this event all physically fit men between the ages of eighteen and forty-five would be eligible.

Borden Out; Rankle Will Captain Troop

Following the receipt of official notice from the War Department to the effect that Captain Albert G. Borden shall been relieved of the command of Troop D, First Squadron New Jersey Cavalry, members of the outfit elected First Lieutenant Daniel Rankle to succeed him and Second Lieutenant J. N. Charles was raised to the rank vacated by the new captain. An election will be held next Thursday night at which time these changes will be formally ratified at the command of Major Hobart Brown and a second lieutenant will also be named on that occasion.

First Sergeant Robert H. Cox, Sergeant Roger Mellick and Corporal Donald Fullerton took examinations in New York yesterday for Federal Reserve duty and should Sergeant Cox pass this test he will not run for the first lieutenancy, for which he is now in line. Should he elect to remain with the troop it is absolutely certain that he would be the unit's choice to succeed Lieut. Charles. In the absence of Sergeant Cox as a candidate the field will be left to Supply Sergeant John P. Sickler, Senior Sergeant W. L. Richter and Stable Sergeant Louis Alberts. It is expected that a fight for the vacancy will develop between Sickler and Richter, both being highly qualified for the rank and both having a big following in the troop. Sickler is a veteran of the United States Army service man and his experience in the regular army has made him a valuable officer of the militia.

The retiring captain is a resident of South Orange and he made application for a discharge soon after returning from the border, giving private affairs as a reason. His first militia service was as a private with the First Troop, with which he enlisted April 27, 1900 and he was made a corporal on November 25, 1903. On March 15, 1906 he was made sergeant and on August 2, 1912 a first sergeant. He was being transferred to Troop C on May 29, 1913. Captain Borden was made first lieutenant of the First Squadron and elected to the captaincy of Troop D. He is stationed at Hoboken.

Captain Rankle's record follows: Private Troop D, March 30, 1915; second lieutenant, April 29, 1915; first lieutenant, May 1916; private, Troop A, Squadron A, Calvary, National Guard of New York, January 3, 1917; returned to Troop D, November 12, 1912; honorably discharged January 18, 1913.

Dr. Stansfield Accepts Call

Rev. J. Attwood Stansfield, who conducted a week's revival service at St. Stephen's church in February, will return to Plainfield on Sunday to remain in charge for six months. Since the resignation last November of Dr. Henry Mosher the church has been without a pastor and until Dr. Stansfield conducted his revival services the congregation was rapidly losing interest. For the past three years Dr. Stansfield has devoted his time to missionary work and it was with difficulty that he was persuaded to take charge of the local pastorate.

Dr. Stansfield's phase of religious teaching had its inception at the General Convention of the Episcopal Church three years ago and last year preaching missions were conducted in all parts of the country. He was the first representative of the new endeavor to visit Plainfield and his reception here was indicative of the keen interest manifested in the work in all of the places he has visited. He came here from Jamestown, N. Y.

Although this is his second year in this mission activity Dr. Stansfield is qualified as a forceful and thoroughly efficient mission conductor in England and Canada before coming to this country. [illegible] study of this new [illegible] novation in Episcopal teaching has been heartily endorsed here since this coming.

Schools Close For Easter Week Today

The public schools of the city and borough closed this morning for the annual Easter vacation. The schools of the city will remain closed until a week from Monday, re-opening on April 9, but those of the borough will probably open before that. It was the original intention in North Plainfield to eliminate the spring vacation entirely to make up for the late fall opening, but because of the protest of the Parent-Teacher Association and individuals it has been decided to give the children at least a few days' vacation.

PLAINFIELD RECORD PLACED ON A-1 LIST.

In this week's edition of the AMERICAN PRESS is published a list of 403 A-1 weekly newspapers in the United States and the PLAINFIELD RECORD is one of the seven from New Jersey. These have been selected from the thousands of weekly publications in all parts of the country and in commenting on the A-1 list the AMERICAN PRESS says:

"It is an honor to be on the list, and it is discreditable to be off the list. These papers are pledged to do business on business lines and are pioneers in the regeneration of the country's press of whom their fellow publishers should be proud."

The purpose of the list is to bring reputable weekly newspapers to the attention of A-1 advertising agencies. The co-operative measures this enabled will be found invaluable to both the publisher and the advertising agent.

The AMERICAN PRESS has carefully investigated each publication and only those of the highest standard have been admitted to the list. The investigation included all departments of the newspaper and the fact that only a small percentage passed the tests indicates the character of the examination.

Calkins Favors Training Bill

At the organization meeting of the mayors of New Jersey cities of the first and second class held in Trenton on Wednesday a resolution presented by Mayor Leighton Calkins was unanimously adopted and forwarded to the President and Congress urging that a law be passed making universal military training. The Mayor also offered a resolution asking the Legislature to adopt a bill compelling all aliens to register in case of war.

Mayor Calkins was appointed to the committee on "National Guard work" and yesterday issued a statement to the residents of Plainfield calling upon them to do all in their power to help recruit Troop D and Company K to full war strength.

Expect Reduction in Coal by May 1

It is likely that the usual spring reduction for the price of coal per ton will be made, according to information furnished today by large coal dealers here. The price will probably drop 25 cents either April 1 or May 1, it was announced.

If local coal merchants are granted the customary 50 cents reduction at the mines and the freight charges are cut 25 cents, dealers will drop the price. Coal which is now selling for $8 a ton will be sold at $7.25. This includes chestnut, egg and stove. Pea coal will be $5.50 under the new schedule.

Why Not Trade at Home?

Who Will Give Company K a Motor Truck?

What citizen or group of citizens will donate sufficient money for the purchase of a light automobile truck for the use of Company K?

It is absolutely essential that Plainfield's infantry unit have a vehicle of this kind for use in the field of service and the outfit has no fund at its disposal at present which could be used for the purpose. Any model truck would serve the purpose.

When Troop D was called to arms last June several patriotic citizens combined to purchase a motor truck and it was indispensable both at the mobilization camp and on the border. It saved many a burdensome trip for officers and enlisted men and also saved the unit considerable expense for transportation purposes.

There is no telling what kind of service will be expected of Company K and no matter where the unit goes for what duty it performs the motor vehicle will be a necessity.

Anyone desiring to make the purchase or become part of a group of patriots to supply the necessary money should communicate with the Plainfield Record at once.

Pneumonia Fatal to Frank Lent

Frank Lent, a resident of this city for the past two years, and manager for the New York printing firm of Lent & Graff, died at his home, 1118 South avenue, yesterday morning, following an illness of two weeks. He was taken ill after going into a run-down condition through over-work and offered little resistance when pneumonia developed. His death came as a distinct shock to the members of Plainfield Lodge of Elks, who elected him to membership in the order but a short time before his death. He was an ardent hunter and fisherman and for many years was prominent in New York athletic organizations. Beside his wife, he is survived by one daughter, Miss Florence Lent, a son, Edwin Lent, living at the parental home, and a brother and sister who reside in New York.

Big Mass Meeting for Relief of Jews

One of the largest mass meetings ever planned for relief purposes in Plainfield will be held in Columbus Auditorium Tuesday night under the auspices of the local Jewish War Relief Committee. The direct purpose of the meeting is to raise $10,000 to give as Plainfield's share toward the several million that is being raised throughout the country for the relief of the Jews in Europe.

A committee of the most prominent Hebrews in the city, with Judge William Newcorn as chairman, have been working for several weeks securing speakers and making other arrangements toward the success of the meeting. Rabbi Stephen Wise, of New York, will be the principal speaker of the occasion and will doubtless talk on the revolution in Russia, the chances it will mean for the thousands of oppressed Jews and the new opportunities it will offer them. Mayor Leighton Calkins and John Sheridan Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, will also make addresses, as will Judge Newcorn and several other local men.

Cadet Corps Ready to Guard the City

The weekly drill of the Plainfield High School cadet corps is being held this afternoon under the direction of Captain John Brandeth, of the U. S. Reserve Corps. The boys have taken hold of the rudiments of military drill and Captain Brandeth is now dividing them into squads and giving them company drill.

The boys are enthusiastic over the idea of preparing and in case of need are willing to police the city or do anything else to help. The rifles are of old style and if the opportunity offers they will be replaced by new ones. Uniforms will also be one of the improvements in the near future.

Co. K Leaves; Infantry Waits In Best Fettle

Prepared to take the field at a moment's notice Company K, Second Infantry, left the North Avenue depot at 10:25 o'clock this morning for the First Battalion Headquarters at Elizabeth. The commissioned personnel, including Captain Charles Peterson, First Lieutenant A. R. Phillips and Second Lieutenant James Cowling, have been in conference frequently since the muster in order arrived Wednesday afternoon and it is the consensus of opinion among the commissioned staff of all Second Infantry units that it will require days and probably weeks for the program of definite assignment to arrive.

Lieutenant-Colonel William B. Martin, of the regiment and formerly captain of Company K, and Major Conrad Hall, of Elizabeth, conference with Captain Peterson and First Lieutenant Phillips at the Plainfield armory yesterday afternoon. Preliminary details relative to mobilizing at the battalion armory in Elizabeth were discussed and the local officers were urged to see that their command was recruited up to peace strength (65) within twenty-four hours so that there would be nothing to hinder the unit in taking the Federal oath.

Orders were issued to Captain Peterson from the Eastern Department on Governor's Island yesterday forenoon to be ready to move and it was anticipated that the trip to Elizabeth would be made later in the afternoon. Instructions later, however, indicated that the order merely meant to be prepared at any time and Captain Peterson was given no definite information about future plans.

First Lieutenant J. N. Charles, of Troop D, was also a visitor at the Company's armory and he offered any assistance that might be needed in the preparations for departure. The infantry is well equipped, however, and little or no outside aid will be needed.

It is likely that a Federal officer, probably Captain Walter L. Reed, U. S. A., assistant inspector-instructor of the New Jersey Infantry, will arrive at the armory today and administer the Federal oath. Recruiting is now going on in full blast and Captain Peterson has hopes of bringing the unit up to war strength before Federal orders arrive. Many applicants have been examined but only those meeting all requirements have been accepted.

When the assignment of infantry is made for guard duty by the War Department it is very likely that Company K and the entire First Battalion will remain under service within Union county. There are sufficient plants and railroads to be protected in this county and it is not likely that the government will take Company K to other parts.

TROOP LIKELY TO BE CALLED.

There is every probability that the First Squadron of New Jersey Cavalry, including Troop D, of this city, will be called to arms within the next two days and it is also probably that at least one troop will be assigned for duty with the infantry. Rumor has it that Troop B, of Red Bank, will be associated with the First Battalion of Infantry and will be brought to Union county for service.

Captain Reed will be assisted in the muster in work by regimental medical corps. The regimental staff will be assisted in the medical examination by Major Carroll Buck, U. S. A. Medical Corps.

No additional orders have been received from Adjutant General Barber or the War Department other than the original orders, directing the regiment to mobilize, and officers and men are straining every effort to perfect the mass of petty details preliminary to taking the field, particularly on police duty, which necessitates the splitting of commands over a large terrain.

The supply officers of the regiment have been in touch with Adjutant General Barber and the Eastern Department of the War Department for the purpose of hurrying equipment and supplies for the difference between war and peace strength, and assurances have been received that the necessary additional clothing, tentage, etc., will be supplied quickly. The lack of these additional supplies was the cause of the confusion and delay at the Mexican border mobilization last year.

The routine work incident to mobilization has been continued in the same spirit of dispatch and efficiency that marked the beginning Wednesday, the details being handled today as quickly as they appear. The recruits will be placed under officers, given the rudiments of drill and then assigned.

Unfurl Old Glory !

Representative young men of Plainfield have been called to serve Uncle Sam. The present situation is a serious one; it is impossible to venture a prediction on the outcome of the German issue or on the kind of duty that will be required of Company K.

When Troop D left for the Sea Girt mobilization camp last summer it was given a patriotic send-off that will be long remembered. When Company K left Plainfield for its mobilization camp it was started on a trip the end of which is unknown and it should have been accorded an equally as enthusiastic adieu.

As a citizen you owe to these men to see that they are made to feel that Plainfield is proud of them. Company K left Plainfield this morning practically unnoticed. It is your duty as a citizen to keep tabs on their movements in Elizabeth and when they are assigned labor then see you did the troop. The Record is your information bureau and you can keep watch on future movements by 'phoning 3030.

Plainfield is dying the flag. During the week the colors caught the breeze in many quarters of the city. They flashed above shops and stores; they streamed from the flagpoles of public buildings; in the residence sections they flew from roofs and porches.

But this is only a beginning. There are hundreds of buildings where the flag is not yet flying. Fly Old Glory today from those buildings and those homes. Not tomorrow, but TODAY. Plainfield is patriotic to the last man within her borders. Prove that patriotism by raising Old Glory NOW.

Whether you believe in war or peace, pacificism or militarism, you believe in that flag. It is the flag your fathers cherished when they fought for liberty, the flag John Paul Jones nailed to his masthead when he fought for the freedom of the seas, the flag that blazed the way westward for the pioneers, eastward for Commodore Perry to the peaceful invasion of a hermit kingdom, northward to the pole with Peary, southward once across the ramparts of Mexico City and again up the slopes of San Juan Hill.

Wherever dangers have threatened and perils pressed the United States of America; the United States flag has flown unfurled. Dangers press and perils threaten the United States today. Fly the flag in Plainfield NOW!

War Declared!---On the H. C. of Living

Plainfield residents have organized to combat the high cost of living. Incorporation papers were filed in Elizabeth last week for the National Producers' and Consumers' Supply Association and its cited purpose is "to reduce the high cost of living to members." Eugene C. Miller claims to be the first one to introduce the method of organization in this country, he having gotten the idea from England, where he says there are many such bodies.

Admission to the association is opened to anyone at a fee of $1 per year and each one joining receives a membership certificate which "entitles the holder to enjoy all the privileges as a member thereof." The low membership fee is explained in the incorporation papers, which say "it was not formed for pecuniary benefit." Already many have joined and it is hoped the rolls will hold several thousand names in a few months.

An office has been opened at 202 West Second street and the association will shortly start saving its members money. The first move in this direction will be the sale of milk, which will be distributed to homes. To members it will be sold at cost, but non-members will be charged the wholesale price, the profit going toward reducing commodities for members. Later groceries, meat and other things will be sold on the same plan.

Thus far only the organization meeting has been held, at which time Robert McIntosh was chosen president; Marion Leonard, vice president; Christopher R. Hobson, treasurer and Eugene Miller, secretary. The secretary will be placed under $5,000 bail as security for the proper handling of funds. The office of secretary has only been temporarily disposed of because as soon as the volume of business warrants an efficiency expert will be secured, who will be expected to make daily reports of the association's business.

Miss Janet Richards, of New York, gave the last of her series of ten talks under the auspices of the Monday Afternoon Club in the auditorium of the Plainfield High School yesterday afternoon. Because of the large number of requests that she continue her lectures, the Monday Afternoon Club has secured Miss Richards to give two additional talks during the coming month, one on April 12 and the other on April 26.

In her talk yesterday Miss Richards devoted herself to a discussion of the present crisis facing the United States, during which she touched on the nation's preparedness and the probable outcome of the war with Germany.

At the April meetings of the four Plainfield women's clubs that hold membership in the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs, delegates will be chosen to attend the annual convention at Atlantic City from May 3-5. The four clubs belonging include the Monday Afternoon Club, College Club, Musical Club, and Rosalie Club.

A regular meeting of the Prince of Wales Committee, New Jersey Branch, was held in the parish house of Grace Episcopal church yesterday morning. The time was spent in sewing on bandages, hospital supplies of various sorts and garments to be used by either England or the United States in case of need.

Because they feel that her work is of more importance to the local organization, the directors of the Charity Organization have asked Miss Abelle Philips not to accept the invitation of the Hoover Commission and organize the Belgian Relief work on a systematic scale.

The committee from the Literary Department of the Monday Afternoon Club has made arrangements for a lecture of most unusual interest to be delivered at the Congregational church on Monday, April 2, at 3:45 o'clock. The lecturer, Edward Pace Gaston, will describe his experiences on the European battlefields and in the prison camps in his talk on "My War Adventures in Germany and Belgium." Mr. Gaston is an American, who tendered his personal services as a neutral on the outbreak of the war. Armed with his passports as an American citizen and in the face of great personal danger, he carried out personally four extended war relief expeditions into Germany during the first clash of arms and reached remote parts of Belgium. During the course of his travels he visited about 60,000 Allied prisoners and reported upon their treatment by the Germans. By request of the German Government he likewise visited German prisoners of war held by the British and was repeatedly arrested and imprisoned as a spy. Members of the club and their friends are cordially invited to attend.

The next meeting of the Women's Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield will be held in the headquarters of the league in the State Trust Company's building on Friday, April 27. At that time the annual reports will be presented and officers for the ensuing year elected.

Miss Ada A. Talbot gave an illustrated lecture in the Washington School last night before a large number of residents of the West End on "Mexico—Yesterday and Today." It was one of the last of the series under the auspices of the Board of Edu-

Williams Saved from Laconia

Information furnished the Record by Joseph Sheilabarger, a New York lawyer, indicates that John Williams, formerly of this city, was among the survivors on the Laconia when it was sunk by a German U-boat some weeks ago. Mr. Sheilabarger states that he has just received a letter from Williams in which he says he "was saved from the Laconia after a very hard time."

Describing the letter further, Mr. Sheilabarger says it is undated, but bears a Liverpool postmark of March 8. Williams gives his address as 6 Carnarvon Street, Liverpool, but does not say whether or not he will trust himself to the waters of the Atlantic again on a trip to America to join the two remaining children the Lusitania disaster left him out of a family of eight.

Up to the time of Mr. Sheilabarger's letter no word had been received by local friends from Williams and his name did not appear among the list of survivors the general belief was that he had been lost. Edith Williams, aged thirteen, and John, aged twelve, had also given their father up as lost. The former is cared for in Jersey City and the latter lives in Plainfield, and they received with joy the news that their father was safe. Still, it would be no wonder if even the sound of the ocean was filled with horror for them after having seen their mother and four brothers and sisters drowned on the Lusitania, at the same time being barely saved themselves, and then having their father nearly meet a like fate.

Biederwolf Here Wednesday Night

Rev. Dr. William E. Biederwolf, the popular evangelist who conducted a six weeks' campaign in this city last spring, will return to Plainfield for a few hours next Wednesday night to make an address in the Plainfield High School under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church. Dr. Biederwolf has just completed a campaign at Lawrence, Mass., and will make a flying visit here while on his way to Syracuse, where he opens a campaign on April 5.

He will have to leave shortly after 10 o'clock to get a night express from New York, he will start his address at an early hour, the meeting opening shortly after 7 o'clock. It is not known just what Dr. Biederwolf will talk on, but he will describe the Family Altar League, which he has organized in each city he has conducted a campaign in.

Mr. McEwan, who led the choir at the Plainfield campaign, will also be present and a special effort is being made to have all those who were members of the choir present Wednesday night to sing.

Seashore Rates Take Big Jump

It may be that some Plainfielders who had anticipated spending a portion of the summer along the Jersey shore will not mind the rise in fare that has recently been announced by the Central Railroad of New Jersey. But it is probable that some will have to figure out some way to secure the extra money before they can begin thinking of the ocean breezes. As announced in last week's record, all fares between Plainfield and points on the Jersey coast would go up from three to fifteen per cent., and today a rate table secured from the General Passenger Agent of the Central Railroad is published so that residents may begin planning ahead. Starting with Matawan and continuing down the shore to Point Pleasant the single and return fares are:

	S.	R.
Matawan	$ .81	$1.45

WHY NOT APPROPRIATE CITY MONEY FOR THIS?

In view of the fact that the Home Defense League has been stamped by its prime movers as a municipal organization designed for municipal service there appears no good reason for burdening a few citizens with the expense of properly equipping it for service. Just why have the people of Plainfield been called upon to contribute toward the cost of outfitting and maintaining the unit as individuals instead of as a city? Why did not the Common Council appropriate the money needed in the same manner as it sets aside funds for other community undertakings?

Wednesday night the city of Newark appropriated $50,000 for protection against internal disorder; of this amount $13,000 is to be used for providing better arms for the police and the remainder for equipping citizens under the direction of the Defense Emergency League. If it was legal for Newark to authorize this money for home defense purposes what reasons has Plainfield for dodging the burden and demanding that private individuals pay the price?

There is every reason to believe that this city has enough patriotically inclined citizens to contribute sufficiently toward such a fund but when there is no moral reason for thrusting such an obligation upon them those responsible should hesitate. We have been asked to contribute to one fund after another; most of them for causes the worthiness of which has never been disputed, but the present campaign appears to be taking the form of an appeal that is not entirely warranted and which may not in a way that will bring disfavor on future requests.

It is not too late yet to make this appropriation. The cost of properly equipping the unit is not a small one and those in charge of the financing plan will have some trouble in gathering sufficient money. The Common Council should be called upon Monday night to at least make up the defieit or to appropriate a fund that may be drawn upon for this purpose when the occasion demands.

WORTHY CAMPAIGN CONDUCTED BY JEWS.

Some of Plainfield's most prominent and influential citizens have given flattering endorsement to the campaign now in progress by which it is hoped to raise $10,000 for Jewish war sufferers. That the cause is a worthy one goes undisputed and that the municipality wants to have a share in the country-wide fund gathering is evidenced in the attitude some of our best known citizens have assumed toward the project. It is a measure that should have the support of the general public and there is every reason to believe that such a condition exists.

The collections to date have been gratifying to the busy committee in charge but considerable money must be forthcoming before the goal is reached and for this reason those at the head of the campaign are making a city-wide plea for individual co-operation. Donations of a large or small character are welcome and the contributors may rest assured that what they give will be used for human betterment.

Next Tuesday evening Rabbi Stephen Wise and prominent local city officials will make addresses at a mass meeting to be held in connection with this work. The opportunity to hear a man of Rabbi Wise's calibre is in itself a treat but on this occasion he comes here to explain the million dollar campaign now going on in America in behalf of stricken Jewry and his talk will be both intellectual and interesting. The general public is invited to hear him at this time and Plainfield should see that he is greeted by a representative audience.

$500 ANNUAL SALARY IS NOT SUFFICIENT.

That the annual $500 is not sufficient compensation for the calibre of men who sacrifice their time and business interests for legislative service has been a conceded fact for years and but there has been no attempt to increase the figure to an amount commensurate with the work. The session just closed was a typical example of the responsibilities placed upon the shoulders of these public spirited individuals and it is high time the State recognized their value.

Few people realize how much energy serious men put into their work. It was only last year that the State nearly lost one of its most valued public men, Senator Charles O'Connor Hennessy, of Bergen county. Senator Hennessy was taken sick during the session of the Legislature, but "stuck it out" until a day or two before adjournment; then he was so exhausted that a bad cold soon developed into pneumonia and for days his life hung in the balance.

These busy men have to put in days and nights at Trenton, besides which most of them have to attend to their private business affairs, more or less, on days when there are no sessions. The people have very little realization of the patriotic duties that sincere men perform, for it is a matter of patriotism, or ambition, for the salary of $500 which each legislator receives cannot make the holding of office a profitable venture.

• • • • •

Former United States Senator "Jim" Martine dropped into Plainfield during the past week and conducted a hand-shaking bee. Either through neglect or a possible suspicion that the Farmer-Orator was touchy on the subject we failed to call his attention to the incompleted condition of the new postoffice.

MOVEMENTS SHOW JERSEY IS PREPARED.

Within a few hours after the orders were sent out for the mobilization of the First and Fifth Regiments of the New Jersey National Guard "practically every man was present or accounted for" at the regimental armories in Newark and Paterson; and within three hours after the call came Wednesday every man in Company K was on hand in the local armory; Governor Edge said the State is ready to put 5,000 men under arms in three hours' time and can increase this number largely in a few days; and from every direction came offers of their services from patriotic women and men.

New Jersey was prepared, as it was a year ago when summons came for the guardsmen to go to the Mexican border. It is pleasing to the people to know that the department of the Adjutant General is not only ready at a minute's notice to respond to calls, but actually anticipates the calls. New Jersey has nothing to learn from the government War Department when it comes to being ready in even an unexpected emergency. That is preparedness.

• • • • •

WHAT MANUFACTURER WILL TAKE THIS PATRIOTIC STEP?

Even those persons who advocated the abolishment of the old fire department gong will have to admit that it would come in mighty useful in the event of trouble with Germany. As a signal for the mobilization of troops or the defense league or by the application of a code it would prove a valuable asset to the municipality. The hour will probably come when instantaneous action will be needed and no better warning sound could be wished for than the discarded gong.

Where it now rests and the amount of work that would be required to reinstall are not known but it is very likely that some patriotically inclined manufacturer could be found in Plainfield who would contribute steam and room in his factory for the signal. It would be an easy matter for the mayor or commander of the Home Defense League to communicate with the factory superintendent at the proper moment and a certain number of "toots" would bring that portion of the league in Plainfield "to arms" at short notice.

EVENTS OF THE HOUR STIR UP PATRIOTISM.

Whether it be for war purposes or as a precautionary measure the mobilization of a Plainfield militia unit has caused the city to be enveloped in a wave of patriotism such as has never before been evidenced. Citizens have been grapped by the spirit of the day; thrilled by soldier activity; and awakened to the seriousness of the German issue. The time has come for Plainfield to contribute to the nation's resources—both in men and patriotism.

Muscle is expected of New Jersey and Plainfield is certain to play an important part in whatever offensive measures that are taken. We have factories in our midst that are especially adapted to government needs and we have two excellent militia commands that are certain to see service in the event of war. Plainfield's resources are on a plane with the best to be offered by any municipality in the State and they will not go unnoticed.

• • • • •

RECRUITS NEEDED AT ONCE BY LOCAL MILITIA UNITS.

Where are Troop D and Company K going to get enough Plainfielders to bring their rosters up to war strength? This is the problem now confronting the commissioned personnel of each outfit and it is vitally important that some decisive step be taken in the immediate future to stimulate recruiting.

Plainfield young men of war age have been given their one best opportunity to enlist for service. A few months hence it may not be possible to affiliate with either local unit and the chance to go to the front with home folk will be lost.

Take advantage of the call that has been issued; visit the armory and get whatever additional data you need. The time is coming when your services will be demanded and there is considerable more glory in being listed as a volunteer than as a conscript.

The worst is yet to come, according to report. The National Retail Shoe Dealers' Association, now in session in New York, announces that cloth will be substituted for leather in making shoe tops. The length of the tops will be increased. The lengthened tops will appear in more pronounced colors. Reds and pinks and strong blues and bright greens and purples may appear.

If the war will, save us from this, let it be declared. We repeat it, sir, let it come!

The ingenuity of those who manufacture women's wear, in creating a demand for their products, was never more evident than in these days of high prices. At a time when dyes are scarce and poor in quality, fashion decrees the most gaudy colorings in women's wear that have ever been used. At a time when the price of shoes is high and going higher, the length of shoe tops has been extended and such colors are contemplated as will make shoes anything but durable.

The gaudy hat or suit or frock decreed by the fashion dictators for wear this spring cannot fail to soon fade and another will soon be required to take its place. And those who can least afford to buy clothes will purchase the less durable kind.

In Plainfield, as in other leading cities throughout America, today is being observed as Father and Son Day. This gracious custom had its beginning some years ago in Cleveland, Ohio, where Robert E. Lewis, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., undertook, as part of his work for the youth of the community, to impress upon fathers the duty and pleasure of real comradeship with their sons. Through his wide experience Mr. Lewis had learned that thousands of boys, particularly those in their early 'teens, lose touch with their fathers at the very time when boys are most in need of wise and sympathetic counsel. He saw that homes and communities as well as individuals would be far happier if every father took the time and interest to be his son's best friend. Newton D. Baker, now Secretary of War and then Mayor of Cleveland, was quick to see the great social good potential in this idea; and he issued a proclamation setting aside a day of special remembrance and resolution for this purpose. Within a few weeks the mayors of a hundred other cities had followed the Cleveland example, and the idea was of national adoption.

The resources of the great State of New Jersey, manpower, property, instrumentalities, are all tendered the United States Government in the impending troubles. Governor Edge has signed Senate bill 308, which gives the Governor power almost without limit in using the resources of the State to aid the country in case of war.

New Jersey has been short-sighted in the past, for a ship canal across this State and good roads across the State would have added immeasurably to the value of the strategic location of New Jersey, but these things cannot be overcome in a jiffy, and all that New Jersey can do is to offer the best she has, and that is considerable. This has been done without stint.

Maybe the days will come when public officials will pay more attention to the needs of their State, when foresight will take the place of imminent necessity; then, and not until then, will this State get he full benefit of its natural resources.

Germany has publicly abandoned all lawful modes of civilized warfare and has substituted assassination. The world is thus thrown back into a state of nature with respect to her, where nations must invoke the primitive and paramount law of self-preservation. Assassination long ago disappeared from land warfare as a crime too vile to be countenanced among civilized belligerents. In 1806 Charles James Fox, British foreign minister, spurned the offer of a French renegade to assassinate Napoleon and thereby end that great war. The manual of the German general staff, while joining in the condemnation of this crime, preaches officially to its army that it is permissible if accomplished through enemy subjects or third parties. It is not surprising, therefore, that wholesale assassination has been so lightly adopted as a permissible practice in its navy.

No small amount of credit is due DeWitt Hubbell, secretary-treasurer of the Plainfield Trust Company, for the part he is playing in directing the financial end of the Home Defense League work. This is but one of the many instances in which he has made a sacrifice of time and energy to assist in the promotion of a civic enterprise. No man in Plainfield is better qualified to look after this important branch of the league's program and the city is fortunate in having the advantages of his service. A large amount of detail work is involved in the undertaking and it has been necessary for Mr. Hubbell to set aside a considerable portion of his time for the conduct of the end for which he volunteered.

Many accidents in which automobiles figure may be traced directly to the faulty eyesight of one of the drivers involved. Steps should be taken by the State to make mandatory on eye examination for each license applicant. Individuals whose vision is not of the best are not competent to drive motor vehicles and to issue licenses to such persons is placing the lives of pedestrians and other drivers in peril. There are many people who carelessly neglect to have glasses prescribed for near-sightedness or far-sightedness and if their eyes were properly treated by State physicians when they apply for auto drivers' licenses their vision could probably be brought up to the desired standard.

One of the preparedness measures adopted by Police Chief Kiely is a program of target practice for members of his department and under expert tutorage the men are rapidly gaining an experience that will prove invaluable as an asset in the regular routine of work and in the time of international trouble. Already several of the "students" have qualified as sharpshooters and the compulsory practice should result in every policeman becoming thoroughly acquainted with firearms and able to use them in case of emergency with the desired affect.

In the event of war with Germany owners of hotels and amusement places along the Jersey shore might just as well close down. The nation on the other side of the water has already demonstrated its ability to dispatch submarines to our shores and a bomb tossed from the breakers to the boardwalk of Asbury Park some fine summer's morning would strip the resort of three-quarters of its populace by nightfall. In other words Jersey coast resorts are not the most desirable spots for dwelling places in war times.

Suggestion made during the past week that Secretary "Joe" Tumulty is flirting with the governorship nomination should prove an eye-opener for Jersey Democrats. That the rumor has a certain amount of creditable foundation is a safe conclusion and that Tumulty commands the necessary prestige is also noteworthy. His broad experience and his proven qualities make him a deserving candidate. His knowledge of State and national affairs is superior to that of any other Jersey Democrat.

With the winter supply of coal at low ebb and the possibility of a need for replenishing in sight householders are informed that a drop in price is expected either April 1 or May 1. The majority hope that the decrease will take effect next Monday for the necessity of refilling bins at the present rate is not a relishing thought. A cut of 75 cents per ton will restore last spring's prices, and may encourage many families to lay in their next winter's supply during the summer months.

No more timely thought could be advanced at this instant than the suggestion that Plainfield erect a suitable staff on which to float a city flag. This city for years boasted of a municipal flag-pole at the head of Park avenue on Front street but since it was taken down no substitute has been offered. Little expense would be involved in erecting a new one and at this time such evidence of civic patriotism is desirable.

Orders Indefinite

The order to mobilize was received by Captain Peterson at 1:55 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and within one half hour the first batch of enlisted men had reported. These included the soldiers working at the Spicer Manufacturing Company's plant in South Plainfield and in speaking of the incident today Captain Peterson was highly complimentary toward the Spicer officials for their cooperation. An automobile was furnished the guardsmen and they were hustled at all possible speed to the armory. Within three hours after the telegraph had been received the entire strength of the unit had reported and stood ready to receive the preliminary commands from the captain.

The smoothness and precision with which the notification work was carried on reflects with credit on the commissioned staff of the company. None of the confusion and delay in evidence at the federal mobilization last June was apparent Wednesday in the Company K armory and similar conditions prevailed throughout the whole regiment.

The War Department order for the Second Infantry follows:

"Having in view the necessity of affording a more perfect protection against possible interference with general, commercial and military channels and instrumentalities of the United States, in the State of New Jersey and being unable, with the regular troops available at his command, to insure the faithful execution of the laws of the Union in this regard, the President has thought proper to exercise the authority vested in him by the constitution and laws to call out the National Guard necessary for the purpose. I am, in consequence, instructed by the President to call into the service of the United States forthwith, through you, the following units of the National Guard of the State of New Jersey, which the President desires shall be assembled at the places to be designated to you by the commanding general, Eastern Department, Governor's Island, New York, and which said commanding general will, as has been directed to communicate to you: Second Regiment Infantry, New Jersey National Guard."

The action of the President in summoning the Second and other New Jersey National Guard regiments to the colors is followed by Secretary of War Baker to be for the purpose of fully protecting the postal, commercial and military channels of New Jersey.

The Second Regiment will be assigned to guard railroad property and likely particularly in the Delaware Valley between Trenton and Easton. Disposition of the troops has not been fully determined, but all of the details will have been worked out by this evening and by tomorrow morning it is expected that every company of the regiment will be on the move.

This call of the Second Regiment to do defensive duty forthwith means that the regiment will have to be recruited. There are now 1,027 men and officers in Colonel Horace Reading's command. Recruiting to place the regiment on war strength at footing will ensue immediately, and it is expected that in the course of a week or ten days the full war quota of 2,067 men will be in the field under the Second Regiment's colors.

There is urgent need for recruits to bring the Second Regiment up to war strength. Here is a splendid opportunity for young men of Plainfield, particularly those who are unmarried, to be of the greatest possible service to their state and nation.

There must be 2,067 men in the Second Regiment, Colonel Reading informed us this morning, to quickly recruit to war strength by volunteers. If the volunteers do not come, a draft will be resorted to.

The Second Regiment is made up of 12 line companies and a headquarters, a machine gun and a supply company. There are three battalions the First, headquarters at Elizabeth, commanded by Major C. R. Hall; the Second, headquarters at Trenton, commanded by Major John H. McCullough, of Trenton, and the Third, including the Freehold, Prince ton, New Brunswick and Somerville companies commanded by Major Walter A. Morton, of Trenton. Captain William E. Pedrick, of Trenton, is adjutant of the regiment.

The companies of the Second Regiment are A, B, D, and E, Headquarters, Supply and Machine Gun Companies of Trenton; Companies C, I, and I, of Elizabeth; G, of Freehold; H, of New Brunswick; K, of Plainfield, and L, of Princeton.

All orders for movement of troops of the Second will be issued by Colonel Reading at his headquarters in the Second Regiment Armory in Trenton. He has arranged his business as Trenton freight agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company so as to devote his time exclusively to the Second Regiment during the period of service of his command.

Edge Orders Shoes

Equipment had been arranged for by Col. David S. Hill, of Quartermaster General Murray's department, and the requisitions placed for supplies. Wednesday Governor Edge directed that 10,000 pairs of shoes be bought for $40,000. He took this action instead of awaiting the arrival of goods from the government, as he did not want the men handicapped. He hopes the government will reimburse the state, but he was opposed to any delay now.

The summoning of the Second followed the recommendation made by the Governor and the Adjutant General to Major General Leonard Wood of the Department of the East. The entire state has been divided into zones by the state authorities and they have calculated upon the number of men they will need for the protection of public buildings, manufactories, etc. General Wood in turn sent the message to Washington and the order from the President followed.

Blanche Bates Here April 17 in New Play

Blanche Bates will receive a glad welcome when she returns to Plainfield, matinee and night, April 17.

She will be seen in a new play by Paul M. Potter called "Eleven P. M." The stage has missed this brilliant and admired actress during her brief retirement and her admirers will not fail to applaud her return to the art she always has graced with such charm and fine achievement. Another distinguished member of the cast will be Wilton Lackaye, while the supporting company will include such well-known players as Charles Hammond, J. H. Barnes, Thomas J. McGrane, Charles Butler, Louise Mackintosh, Jeffreys Lewis, Janet Travers Maria Ascaraga, Sallie Bergman, Ford Fenimore, George Shelton, Henry Viray and Albert Prisco.

The show is being brought here by David Rogers, treasurer of the Plainfield Theatre and the proceeds will be presented to him by Messrs. Counihan & Shannon as a testimonial for efficient work.

production will go to her. Between each of the three acts vocal and instrumental solos have been arranged for and following a social hour with dancing will be enjoyed.

The junior class of the North Plainfield High School has picked "The Elopement of Ellen" as the annual class play for this year and started rehearsing for its production this week under the direction of Miss Elsie Campbell. The exact date for the presentation of the play has not yet been decided upon but will be within the course of a few days. The first assignment of characters was as follows: Richard Ford, a devoted husband, Douglas Stewart; Molly, his wife, Elsie Kurzhals; Robert, Molly's brother, Seymour Day; Max Ten-Eyck, Robert's chum, Stanley Burnor; Dorothy March, engaged to Max, Adele Demarest; June Haverhill, a college girl, Florence Cornwall; and John Blaine, rector of St. Agnes, Nelson Kenworthy.

Rehearsals for "Monsier Perrechon's Journey," which will be presented next month by the senior class of the Plainfield High School have started under the direction of several members of the faculty. Several students are trying out for each character and when the final selections are made an unusually strong cast should result. Those who are trying for places in the cast and the characters they are seeking follow: Armand, Everett Case, Fred Smith and Paryl Dunavan; Daniel, same three; Joseph, open; Major, Edward Crone, Chester Alpaugh and Caryl Dunavan; Mlle. Perorchon, the Misses Loise Setter, C. Final selections will be made within a few days of those in the cast that will present "All of a Sudden Peggy" in the North Plainfield High School on April 13 for the benefit of the G. A. A. The proceeds will go toward defraying the expenses of the athletic teams.

Captain George Feiring is City's Veteran Fire-Fighter

Fire Headquarters will have a celebration on Sunday to mark the completion by Captain George Feiring of his twenty-third year as a member of the city's fire department. One of the first paid members of the department, he has grown with it and is one of the most efficient of Chief Deaning's assistants.

Captain Feiring first joined the department in 1894 as a driver and was stationed at Headquarters until the West End house was constructed and then was located there. In those days the department was part volunteer and part paid, and the drivers *were subject to the orders of volun*teer firemen. He remained in the West End for several years when he, the late James Daley and William Townley were appointed captains. Townley was put in charge at No. 3 house, Daley was senior captain and located at Headquarters and Feiring was captain of No. 1 house.

Feiring remained at the West Second street house for nearly ten years and during that time gained the reputation of being the best driver in the department and became known as a fearless fire fighter. Upon the retirement of Chief Thaddeus Doane last November a number of changes were made in the department. Assistant Chief Jennings was named as Doane's successor and Townley as his assistant. Townley and Feiring joined the department at practically the same time and there was at first considerable discussion as to who would be made assistant chief.

In the rearrangement Feiring was made senior captain and placed in command at headquarters. There he has kept up his excellent record and is liked by all his men and the many residents who are numbered among his friends.

William R. Codington Expresses Satisfaction at Serving County

A letter expressing former County Attorney William R. Codington's satisfaction at having served the county Union and its Boards of Freeholders for twenty years has been received by Director George G. Teller. In the letter, which was received too late to be presented at the last meeting, Mr. Codington reviews the improvements made throughout the county, and testifies as to "the careful, honest and straightforward manner in which these important transactions were consummated."

Following is the letter:

"My Dear Director—There will be presented at the meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders, to be held on the 22d inst., my resignation as county attorney, to take effect on that date.

"As you know, I have been contemplating this action for some time past, owing to the impaired condition of my health, having during the year past been confined, by my home tel, considerable of the time, and, while I have had an able assistant, yet I feel that my duty to myself requires me to resign as county attorney and so be relieved of further responsibility as such.

"In resigning I beg to say that it has been a great source of pleasure and satisfaction to have so long served the county of Union as its attorney, and to be associated with such a representative body of gentlemen as the Board of Chosen Freeholders has, for the most part, during this long period been composed.

"For the period of upward of twenty years last past, during which I have been serving as county attorney, the Board of Chosen Freeholders of this county, as representatives of the public, have had supervision of many large and important public improvements, including the new county courthouse and public buildings, the Bessie Burn Santatorium, many important public roads, and numerous other matters of great public interest, and involving the expenditure of large sums of public moneys; and I feel it is only a just and proper tribute to the board for me to say that, in all these years during which these improvements have been made, it is a source of great pleasure for me to testify to the care, honest and straightforward manner in which these important transactions were consummated, the board always putting forth their best energy, effort and ability in the interest of the public whom they were serving, and, believing that you and your associates will continue the same commendable action, and thus merit the approval of the public at large."

Annette Kellermann and Her Mermaids Heading Big Bill

One of the most interesting subjects in William Fox's million dollar picture beautiful, "A Daughter of the Gods," of which Annette Kellermann is the star, is the mermaids' fish tail. Quite a story in connection with this is told. First of all, how Miss Kellermann and Mr. Fox, after a search of weeks, finally found a cloth that represented fish scales. This in itself entailed a great deal of research work.

They hunted the large wholesale houses in New York city for a long time to find a cloth, that, while representing a fish scale, would at the same time be practical in the water. More than 100,000 yards of the goods were ordered and shipped to Jamaica, where the costume department, under the supervision of Mrs. Lee, took over the girls, fitted them with the mermaid tails and sent them on their way.

In order to costume the girls, 150 sewing machines and operators were employed. While the fabric withstood the water to a certain extent, it did not last more than a week or 10 days, so one may imagine how many duplicates had to be manufactured to complete the picture.

Before the mermaids attempted to swim thus encumbered, they practiced for more than two months under the direction of Miss Annette Kellermann, who would send them out into the harbor with their feet tied together by handkerchiefs or ropes. In this way the girls became experts, and, when the call came for them to put on their fish tails and impersonate mermaids, they were very, very successful as you will see on the screen at the Plainfield Theatre today and tomorrow.

"Puss-Puss" the Attraction at the Plainfield Monday

The attraction next Monday at the Plainfield Theatre will be Jean Bedini's Big Novelty Show, "Puss-Puss." This is the organization that made a decided hit last season on account of its being different and faster than other burlesque shows. It is produced again this season under the personal direction of Jean Bedini. He has certainly made rapid strides in the past four years toward a high place in burlesque circles; he has set such a standard that other burlesque shows are finding it difficult to follow. All of the supporting company this season are of his calibre and they can be depended upon to give an unusually meritorious performance.

Among the supporting cast who deserves special mention are, Mimi (Buddie) Harrison, that clever ingenue; Pam (Smiles) Lawrence, who won so many friends last season as soubrette with that same attraction, will again be seen in the same role; Harry Jackson, that funny little Hebrew comedian, who is making fame in leaps and bounds; Charlie Mac, the English eccentric comedian, who played with Charlie Chaplin, when the latter was in vaudeville. Mac created the drunk part in "Fun In a Music Hall;" George Brooks, handsome juvenile, who is sure to create a success for himself as a dancer and a straight man; Al Ricardo, burlesque's premier ventriloquist, and those two clever blackface singers and dancers, Toots Davis and Edw. Stafford, singing their funny song, "In the Jail House Now," and others equally as well known for their talents as entertainers.

Novelties in the way of costuming are many, scenery and electrical effects are in amazing profusion and are important features that have been provided to make "Puss-Puss" one of the best on the burlesque circuit.

The "Kiss Chorus" are young, shapely and handsome, selected from a great many because of their ability to sing and dance. The musical numbers they execute are flots which of ten stop the show until the second and third encore has been given.

Bedini always has a surprise for his patrons. This year it will be a double header, the "Ignatz Pluto Troupe" and a travesty on the New Yorks' latest success, "Very Good, Eddie."

"THE YELLOW JACKET."

Following the custom inaugurated by Madame Patti, and subsequently imitated, with improvements, by Sarah Bernhardt, the divine, and Sir Beerbohm Tree, "The Yellow Jackets" is to have another farewell engagement in New York. This one opened at the Liberty Theatre Monday, and will last two weeks. It is announced as positively the last engagement in New York this season and, notwithstanding that there has been already "farewell" engagements at the Cort Theatre and subsequently at the Harris Theatre, this really is to be the last "farewell" because "The Yellow Jacket" must begin a four weeks' split Your Monday, April 9, at the Academy of Music, Baltimore. The subsequent bookings are, the Star Theatre, Buffalo, week of April 16; the Broad Street Theatre, Newark, week of April 23; and the National Theatre, Washington, week of April 30. This will bring to an end the season of 1916-17 which, for standing of theatrical triumph, "The Yellow Jacket," has been one of unexampled triumph.

WHAT SOCIETY IS DOING DURING WINTER MONTHS

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

NEWS OF THE WEEK CONCERNING PLAINFIELD PEOPLE

Women Show Loyalty Anew in Forming Latest Club

Patriotism still remains the one outstanding keynote of activity in women's club circles at this city, and while the splendid work of the National Special Aid Society and other similar organizations is being kept up and even enlarged upon the busy clubwoman finds time to join a new society or remain active in the affairs of older bodies. Letters of approval from Governor Edge and Mayor Calkins have spurred them on in their work of preparing to help in case of war. Wartime lectures and a card party here and there fill in the few empty hours, but if war is declared everything will be dropped in favor of patriotic work.

Plainfield's newest patriotic move took place Wednesday morning when a number of women already active in National Special Aid work met at the home of Mrs. A. S. Carvalho, of West Eighth street, when a Women's Auxiliary to the Home Defense League was formed. Although no stated work has been laid down for the auxiliary to do in the event of war, the members pledged themselves to do anything necessary. In co-operating with the Defense League their activity one would naturally be confined to nursing and would include providing meals, clothing, bandages and other articles.

The officers elected were: President, Mrs. Joseph D. Philips; secretary, Mrs. Jessie K. Stevens; treasurer, Mrs. Henry Crofoot White. One of the first things that the auxiliary will devote itself to doing now is to the raising of funds for the purchase of equipment for the Defense League.

The weekly meeting of the Sesame Club was held yesterday morning at the home of Mrs. A. L. DeLeeuw, of Park avenue.

Miss Mary Gray Peck, a member of the Motion Pictures Committee of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, gave an illustrated lecture in the Emerson Avenue School yesterday afternoon on the moving picture. Its value as an educational medium and when used merely as a source of entertainment. She told what sort of pictures were best for young people to see and what were not and described that point which divides those of educational value from those of the vulgar. The auditorium was filled with those local people who are interested in the development of the moving picture and showed by their attitude that they heartily agreed with Miss Peck's plan for censorship of pictures and the adopting of other features that would tend to make them more useful. She has but recently returned from a tour of the West giving lectures on the same subject under the auspices of various women's clubs and has been working in co-operation with the National Committee on Films for Young People.

The Plainfield branch of the National Special Aid Society took rapid strides during the past week toward increasing its efficiency. In return to letters sent to Mayor Calkins and Governor Edge the society received word that the services of its members would be utilized immediately following any hostile move and they have prepared for that time to come. At a directors' meeting Tuesday afternoon a number of important plans were discussed that will shortly be put into effect. Preparations are being made for the holding of a card party in the near future, the proceeds to be used to replenish the treasury.

The semi-monthly meeting of the Plainfield Business Women's League, which was to have been held in the Y. W. C. A. tonight, has been postponed because it is Good Friday. The next meeting will be on April 20 and a committee is already at work arranging an interesting program.

The annual rummage sale of the North Plainfield Parent-Teacher sociation will be held in one of the stores of the Pittis block the latter part of May. The exate date will be announced later.

A "fashion show" under the auspices of the dressmaking department was held in the rooms of the Y. W. C. A. on East Front street last night and was viewed by a large number of women. It included a display of gowns, suits, millinery and neckwear from local stores. One of the features of the show was moving pictures of the spring styles from the country's fashion centres.

Musical Season Will Soon Close

Only a few more weeks remain of the local musical season and during that time there will be a number of recitals or concerts of excellent worth that should prove to be fully as good as any of those preceding. Taken as a whole, past and future, Plainfield has enjoyed one of the most active musical seasons in years and has heard some of the world's greatest artists, including Kreisler, Hofmann and others.

Local musical lovers are indebted in large part to the Plainfield Musical Club for the major portion of the season's activities. Two more meetings of the club remain yet to be held and they will be featured by excellent programs. The first will be held at the home of Mrs. Henry *Lockwood DeForest, 955 Hillside ave*nue, on Easter Monday afternoon, April 9. Mrs. DeForest will be heard in piano solos, as well as piano and 'cello duets and trios of piano, violin and 'cello. Mrs. John Miles, of Philadelphia, will play the violin and Miss Laura Tappan, of New York, will be the 'cellist.

The second meeting will be held on Tuesday afternoon, April 17, at the home of Mrs. John Peters Stevens, of 985 Hillside avenue. Mrs. Harry Rowe, pianist, will be assisted by Hubert Linscott, of Brooklyn. Mr. Linscott's ability as a singer is well known, he being bass in the choir of the Crescent Avenue church.

Miss Queena Tilliston, the lyric coloratura soprano, who during the past few years has risen rapidly as a figure in the musical world, will make her second appearance here of the season when she gives a recital in the auditorium of the Plainfield High School on April 17. The recital will be given under the auspices of the Civic Reserves' Circle of the King's Daughters.

Plainfielders hold an unusual affection for Miss Tilliston, because, aside from the excellent quality of her voice, she is a local girl and a graduate of the Plainfield High School. For several years she has been studying under the careful tutelage of Madame Sembrich, who considers her of great promise. After the war she plans to bring her out in Italian Grand Opera.

All plans have been completed for the concert to be given in the Plainfield High School on Easter Monday

Elks' Coming Opera Heads Amateur List

Plainfield is fortunate this spring in having a number of amateur productions that will serve as sources of amusements immediately following the completion of the Lenten season. By far and large the biggest of them all is the operatic production, "The Land of Mystery," to be presented in the Plainfield theatre on April 10, 11 and 12, under the auspices of Plainfield Lodge of Elks. With a cast of one hundred and twenty-five adults and three hundred children, the opera will be the largest amateur theatrical production ever presented in this city, even exceeding the Elks' opera of last year in size.

The play and musical score for "The Land of Mystery" was written and will be presented under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Skilling. They have direct superintendence over the rehearsals and selection of characters. Mr. and Mrs. Skilling have not as yet completed the assigning of the principal parts but will do so during the course of the coming week.

The scene of the first act of "The Land of Mystery" is supposed to represent a huge garden in India. Special scenery has been secured and the costuming will be a faithful reproduction of the dress worn by the natives. Feature musical numbers and tableaux sketches are woven in the plot and serve to make the opera even more interesting than usual. One of these is "The Dance of the Nautchee," in which ten girls in brilliant costumes give an exhibition of Hindu dancing. Another special set is entitled "The Chume" and features a number of girls who sing "Won't You Let Me Be Your Chum?" Numerous solos will be sung at opportune times, including "Everybody Loves, and I Love You," sung by Miss Sadie Lee and Charles Cregar.

Illness to several members of the cast forced the Chi Gamma Chi Society to postpone the presentation of "The Hoodoo" in St. Joseph's Hall until April 13, but the intervening time is being spent in rehearsing until the production of the three-act comedy farce will be even better than at first anticipated. Miss Mary O'Connor is acting as coach and a large share of the credit for the

Artists Change Library Gallery

Work is just being completed on the redecorating and rearranging of the art gallery and museum in the Plainfield Public library along lines followed in the large art exhibition centres of New York. The library is one of the few available places in the city to hold public exhibits and the board of trustees has made the improvement with the purpose of providing suitable quarters for exhibits from time to time as well as to preserve the works of art now located on the second floor of the main building.

In changing the art gallery and museum about, those in charge were fortunate enough to secure prominent men to superintend the work. The redecorating and hanging of pictures was done under the supervision of John Carlson, a well known artist of Woodstock, N. Y., while the architect was W. A. White, of New York city.

Following out the idea adopted at the Metropolitan Museum of Art and other centres, the walls of the gallery have been finished in dark brown. The paintings have all been cleaned and hung in the most advantageous positions. One end of the gallery has been cleared of paintings and will be fitted up exclusively for art exhibits of the works of various painters that the library trustees are planning to bring to this city from time to time.

The walls of the museum have been finished in a dove gray and the cases have been put in excellent order. The bird collection and the unique collection of Alexander Gilbert have been remounted and classified for the benefit of visitors.

A number of members have joined the newly organized Plainfield Art Club during the past week until now it is larger than any similar body in this section. No meetings have been held since the initial one but Mrs. Cornelius B. Tyler, the president, expects to call one in the near future, at which time preliminary plans for the club's activities will be made.

During the past few days the collection of portraits by Mr. and Mrs. John Johanson, which have been on exhibition at the "Rookery" for several weeks, were removed to New York. Although the exhibit closed on Saturday, many availed themselves of the opportunity of viewing it on Sunday and Monday. Miss Edith Van Boskerck and Miss Laura L. Rogers, who arranged the exhibit, are planning several others in the near future to be held at the "Rookery" on Sycamore street.

Hartridge Students' Annual Benefit Fair

The students and teachers of the Hartridge school will hold their annual fair in the auditorium of the school tomorrow afternoon for the benefit of the Children's Ward at Muhlenberg Hospital. Each year they have worked to raise $400 to support two beds and with the surplus they have been able to help in other ways. They furnished the $500 for the initial equipment for the ward and later screened the children's piazza, at a cost of $175. This year they have spent $100 for spreads and baskets, besides slippers and

31 Extra Features

The latest Mitchells show 31 features which nearly all cars omit. Things like a power tire pump, dashboard engine primer, reversible headlights, etc.

They show many added luxuries. We have added 24 per cent to the beauty cost this year, out of savings in our new body plant.

They show eight styles of bodies, including a Club Roadster. All are our own designs, exclusive to Mitchells, built in our own body plant.

And now there are two sizes—Mitchell and Mitchell Junior. So you can get the size, the style, the price you want in Mitchells.

100% Over-Strength

But our greatest new announcement is 100 per cent over-strength. In the past three years we have doubled our margins of safety.

Over 440 parts are built of toughened steel. All safety parts are vastly oversize. All parts which get a major strain are built of Chrome-Vanadium.

Gears are tested for 50,000 pounds per tooth. Engines get 10,000-mile tests to prove that parts do not wear.

The result is a lifetime car.

All Extras Free

All these extras—hundreds of them—come free in Mitchell cars. They are paid for by factory savings. Yet, on this year's output, they will cost us $4,000,000.

They are here because John W. Bate, the great efficiency expert, has cut our factory cost in two. He has built and equipped this model plant for building this single type. And nowhere else could a car like this be built at our factory cost.

You'll Want Them

Come see what Mitchell offers more than other cars. See the extra features, the added luxury, the over-strength. After that, cars without them will seem incomplete.

And see the Bate cantilever springs, which ride like an aeroplane. In two years not a single one has broken.

See both sizes. One is $1150, one $1460, f. o. b. factory. No other fine cars on the market show such amazing values.

under the auspices of the Plainfield Dental Society, the proceeds of which will be for the benefit of the dental clinic which the society supports at Muhlenberg Hospital. Evan Williams, considered America's greatest concert singer, will be the feature of the affair and will be assisted by the Edith Rubel Trio, of New York. Members of the society of Westfield, Dunellen and other places besides this city are working for the success of the affair and a capacity audience is practically assured.

Paderewski was at his best Monday night, when he gave a recital in the auditorium of the Plainfield High School and as a result the hundreds of music lovers that gathered to hear him were loud in their praise of his ability. On his tenth tour of America, the great polish musician came to this city under the auspices of the Plainfield Musical Club and included in his repertoire a variety of numbers that served to display his skill. The program was composed of four parts, as follows: 1—Variations and Fugue on a Theme by Handel, Brahms; 2—Sonata in E Flat Major, Op. 27, Beethoven; 3—Andante, Allegro, Tempo 1, Allegro molto vivace, Adagio con expressione, allegro vivace; 3—Carnaval, Schumann. 4—(a) Ballade in F Minor, (b) Three Etudes, (c) Nocturne in G Major, (d) Mazurka, (e) Scherzo in B flat minor, Chopin.

During the course of its annual spring tour, the Colgate Glee Club will make its first visit to Plainfield next Tuesday night when it gives a concert in the auditorium of the Plainfield High School under the auspices of the Boys' Athletic Association of the school. The organization, which is a combination of the various minor clubs of the college, is one of the best in this part of the country. Following the concert dancing will be enjoyed for several hours, music being furnished by Van Epa' banjo orchestra.

The program for the concert will be as follows: Part 1—1 (a) Alma Mater, (b) Campus Songs; 2—Quartets; 3—American Patrol, Instrumental Club; 4—A Medley, Glee Club; 5—Violin Sools, Mr. Russell; 6—Character Sketches, Mr. Hayes; 7—Invictus, by Huhn, Glee Club. Part II: 1—Serenade, by Pierne, Instrumental Club; 2—open number; 3—Serenade to Juanita, by Jouberti-Spicher, entire club; 4—The Unstrung Quartet; 5—Broadway Potpourri, Instrumental Club; 6—Star Spangled Banner, by Key, entire club (the audience is asked to join).

Another college musical organization will appear in this city for the entertainment of Plainfield music lovers, when the Lincoln University Quartet gives a concert tonight at 8 o'clock in the Washington School. The affair is to be held under the auspices of the Dunbar Club. Lincoln College is located at Oxford, Pa., and is one of the country's leading colored institutions. The program follows: Instrumental selection, Milton Seldon; quartet, "Remember Thy Creator;" reading, from Dunbar, H. S. Young; vocal solo, W. K. Saunders; quartet (Parks), "Old Black Joe;" reading, Dunbar; U. S. Young; quartet, "While My Lady Sleepeth;" piano selection, Milton Seldon; quartet, "Over the Ocean Blue;" reading, U. S. Young; vocal solo, J. P. Young; quartet, (a) "Perfect Day," (b) "Hail Lincoln."

Paper To Conduct Excursion To New York Hippodrome

People of Plainfield and vicinity will be given an opportunity to witness New York's biggest theatrical hit of the season on Monday night, April 30, when the PLAINFIELD RECORD will conduct an evening's outing to the great metropolis. The current sensation at the Hippodrome entitled, "The Big Show," will be shown especially on that night for local people and the RECORD special on the Central Railroad will carry the pleasure seekers to and from New York. The RECORD has made its excursion attractive by a unique and surprising offering for the trip and entertainment. For $1.75 Plainfield people will be taken to New York and given the best seat in the Hippodrome, America's largest playhouse. Ordinarily the train fare to the metropolis would cost the Plainfielder $1.05 and the seats that have been reserved for the RECORD would cost an additional $1.50. Thus, you get a $2.55 value for $1.75, saving eighty cents. At the same time you are assured of the best train accommodations and the finest seat in the Hippodrome. A big block of reservations have been set aside exclusively for the RECORD and every possible convenience will be furnished the excursionists.

Last year the Plainfield Daily Press conducted a similar outing to the Hippodrome and the success of the venture was even greater than the directors anticipated. It was the first time that such an excursion had ever been taken out of Plainfield but nevertheless nearly 500 persons went along and had the time of their lives." It is hoped that twice that number will go with the RECORD. The price is exactly the same and accommodations will be identical with those of last year.

The seats will be put on sale at the RECORD office in the course of a fortnight, announcement of the exact time to be made later. The time that the train will leave Plainfield will also be made known later.

This year's spectacle at the Hippodrome surpasses all its previous triumphs, and "The Big Show," which is now reaching its 400th presentation, holds all records of attendance. Over one million and a half patrons have attended this huge amusement and most fascinating creation ever palace,—which seats 5,274 people—so far this season. Its composite bill contains every known style of entertainment with swimming, skating, minstrels, musical comedy revues, varieties, circus novelty, illusions and sensational divertisements, all cleverly and skillfully intermingled. Its long list of stars number over 200 and over 1,100 people are concerned in the entire ensemble of ballet, chorus and specialty artists.

Foremost among the extraordinary features this year comes Annette Kellermann, the justly famous diving Venus, who is actually seen in the water through the three-stage contrivance conceived by Charles Dillingham, which places her huge tanks of water on a super-structure in plain view of the audience. Here is seen an aquatic spectacle called "The Queen of the Mermaids," which could not be presented on any other stage. The divine Annette is surrounded by a group of 200 pretty mermaids, who achieve a success which is attracting crowded houses twice daily. It is the most daring shown at this house of many wonders. The ice skating ballet of the Hippodrome which first started the skating craze which has swept the entire country, still holds supreme sway with all the most famous imported and American skating stars and "the two hundred pretty girls on ice." "Poor Butterfly," the song hit of the year, and other song successes, clowns, the elephants, acrobats and a hundred and one other novelties completes this monstrous program. Popular prices prevail and two performances are given every week day.

Guard Presented With Truck Like Pershing Used In Mexico

Witnessed by more than three thousand persons, including four companies of Second Infantrymen, the official presentation of the Republic motor truck purchased by the citizens of Plainfield for Company K, was made in the Elizabeth armory Wednesday night. Albert F. La Rock, proprietor of the Plainfield Record, which was instrumental in raising the fund, made the speech of presentation, and the truck was accepted by the company by Captain Charles Peterson, who responded with a short address. The whirlwind campaign for the auto fund was opened by the Record in last Friday's edition and by Wednesday morning $1,562.50 was contributed. The amount remaining after the auto is paid for will be turned over to George P. Mellick, chairman of the Citizens' Committee, for the relief of soldiers' families.

Remarkable work in the collection of funds was accomplished by the members of the National

Special Aid Society under the direction of Mrs. Frederick Goddard and Mrs. Austin Andrews; the Veterans' Association and former Senator Ernest R. Ackerman. The following women acted as team captains for the N. S. A. in a systematic canvass of the city Tuesday night: Mrs. Frank C. Ard, Mrs. Lewis E. Williams, Mrs. Sherman B. Jocst, Mrs. William Tyler, Mrs. William Power, Miss Alice Corey, Mrs. Archibald Cox, Mrs. C. G. Munro, Mrs. Story Rowland and Mrs. H. C. Pierce.

Norman D. Loughlin, chairman and treasurer of the Veterans' Committee, handled the fund and his report shows that the N. S. A. S. turned in $531 and the Veterans' Association collected $131.50. As soon as it was seen that the money would be raised Mr. LaRock and Mr. Loughlin went to Trenton and brought the truck immediately to the Elizabeth armory. Following the presentation the audience and other companies of militiamen indulged in a cheering session in honor of Company K and Major Conrad Hall allowed the truck to remain in the center of the armory floor for inspection during the evening.

The following names appear on the Henry Cochran, H. L. DeForest, J. B. Co., Kelley Plug Head: list of contributors turned in by Stevens, D. P. Irins, S. Barnhart, A. Treasurer Loughlin: Ernest R. Ackerman, Frank Smith, Hamilton Kean, Charles W. McCutchen, Alexander Gilbert, A. A. Tilney, George P. Mellick, H. Reveley, T. J. Mumford, Pierre Mali, A. Stockton, Duncan W. Taylor, Malcolm McClellan, Blanche P. Nash, Holstein, W. K. Dunbar, Elizabeth P. John H. Jewett, Wm. M. Power, Wm. Bowen, R. L. Ginna, Geo. A. Bowman, A. Ottersen, Mrs. W. G. Cooke, Harvey Fisk, H. Stevens, A. P. Beers, J. Whitney Baker, Cash, H. C. Pierce, Geo. L. Babcock, Frank C. Ard, Walter L. Richter, C. B. Tyler, Stuart Patterson, E. T. Barrows, C. B. Eddy, T. M. Day, Jr., E. C. Laidlaw, E. J. Patterson, L. A. Williams, Jr., W. L. Tyler, Sidney Williams, S. B. Lawrence, P. G. Wallace, Wilcox, Archibald Cox, Geo. M. Bolc, Jos. W. Gavett, Wm. E. Briggs, A Friend, N. A. S., John S. Johnston, Cash, DeMeza & Blimm, Cash, St Mary's School, C. C. Burke, Cornelius H. Phillips, Joe Meyer, D. & D. Supply Co., Plainfield Milk and Cream Co., Kelley Plug Head.

The Republic truck is a one-ton vehicle and was the first motor truck sent into Mexico with General Pershing's forces. It carried the general's personal equipment during the march and made camp every night for the general's staff. The U. S. Signal Corps are at present using trucks similar to that one owned by Company K and 200 are being used by the U. S. Airplane Corps. The Company K machine has solid rubber tires and five hundred of the same model have been ordered with pneumatic tires to be used as ambulances by the army. It is made in the largest truck factory in the world, located at Alma, Mich., and 24,000 machines have already been ordered for 1917.

Record Office Designated U. S. A. Recruiting Depot

Twenty thousand mechanics and artisans are wanted by the War Department at once to join the Quartermaster Enlisted Reserve Corps and the Plainfield Record office has been designated as the local station for recruiting. Lieutenant Krellwitz, U. S. A., visited Plainfield Wednesday afternoon and completed arrangements for the local campaign. Those interested should communicated with the Record at once and Lieutenant Krellwitz will visit the Record frequently to follow up applicants and trace their references.

Men of many trades, from blacksmiths and butchers to motorcyclists and tentmakers are wanted, and rapid promotion is promised to those who prove themselves fit. The call for these men was issued in the following form:

"Twenty thousand men, of all trades, wanted for the Quartermasters Enlisted Reserve Corps.

"Desirable persons qualified to fill the following named positions will be enlisted in the Quartermaster Enlisted Reserve Corps for a period of four years, unless sooner discharged by proper authority, and promoted to the higher grades as vacancies occur and the reservists' qualifications, education, and service justified. Promotions will be rapid in the case of men of high character who show most proficiency in their particular lines. The positions are as follows:

"Bakers, blacksmiths, butchers, cr.gaders, (pack trains,) carpenters, carpenters, (foreman,) chauffeurs, cooks, electricians and helpers, engineers, (stream,) farriers, forage masters, horseshoers, horse trainers, laborers, machinists and helpers, masons, (brick and stone,) mechanics and helpers, (automobiles,) motor-car masters and their country to meet aggressions assistants, motor truck masters and from foreign nations, Congress, on assistants, motor-cyclists, overseers June 3, 1916, authorized the formaof labor, painters, painters, (foreman,) packers, (with pack trains,) pack masters, (foreman,) pack masters, plumbers, (foreman,) saddlers, (foreman,) saddlers, stablemen, stenographers, storekeepers, teamsters, tentmakers, train masters, typewriters, wagon masters, wagon masters, (assistant,) watchmen, wheelwrights.

"Recognizing that from patriotic motives many are willing to do their share to further the preparedness of tion of the enlisted reserve corps as an auxiliary of the regular army, such reserves to be made up of men from all walks of life and skilled in various trades and businesses as indicated above."

The pay for these men will be more attractive than that allotted to privates and non-commissioner offices and will no doubt serve as an inducement to those who have hesitated in enlisting because of the pay.

Hamilton Out In Cort Show

After several weeks spent in rehearsing in New York "The Masked Model," by John Cort will take the road tonight, making the first stop at Johnstown, Pa., tomorrow night. Considerable local interest is attached to this production because of the presence of Walter F. Hamilton, Jr., or Verdon street. Mr Hamilton has been playing in "Watch Your Step" since last September and following his return from a long tour several weeks ago resigned to accept a better and more important part in the new production in the theatrical field.

After leaving Johnstown the show will appear in Pittsburgh Saturday night and then start on an itinerary that will take it to the Pacific Coast. The return east will not be made before next September.

Since he was introduced to the "big time" show world the North Plainfield young man has scored a big success and his progress has been watched with interest by his many local friends. His new undertaking is considerably more important than what he has appeared in to date but his admirers are confident that he has the ability to make good.

Mr. Hamilton will probably be best remembered as a coach of the Holy Cross football team as a participant in the amateur productions of the Plainfield Lodge of Elks.

Seats Going Fast For Elk's Affair

Seats for the Elks' annual theatrical production, this year entitled "The Land of Mystery," have been on sale at the Plainfield Theatre for four days and are going fast. Those having coupons should exchange them for seats at once as the most desirable reservations are likely to be gone in another forty-eight hours.

Rehearsals for the show are now being held almost nightly and there is every reason to believe that "The Land of Mystery" will eclipse all other efforts of the Plainfield Elks' lodge to give Plainfield amusement lovers something well worth seeing. The cast has been completed and those in charge are now busily engaged in "sand-papering" the rough edges.

Elk's New Officers Were Installed On Wednesday

At the weekly meeting of Plainfield Lodge of Elks on Wednesday night the officers for the ensuing year, who were elected last month, were installed with appropriate ceremonies by District Deputy John H. Cose. Those now occupying the official positions of the club are:

Exalted Ruler, Francis J. Blatz; esteemed leading knight, Dr. C. L. Crist; esteemed loyal knight, Edward J. Harding, Jr.; esteemed lecturing knight, Vincent William Nash, Jr.; secretary, A. C. Starker; treasurer, Fred R. Hynes; trustee, S. P. T. Wilbur; trustee, E. C. Soarlar; representative to grand lodge, Walter S. Marder; chaplain, Robert Gow; esquire, William Mulvey; organist, Garret T. Dunham.

Company K Not Likely To Leave Elizabeth Over Weekend; Plainfield Soldiers Await Orders In Form That Elicits High Praise

There seems little possibility that Company K will be moved from Elizabeth within the next twenty-four hours and both officers and enlisted men believe that the unit will remain at the Elizabeth armory over the week-end. This will be welcome news and friends an opportunity to visit the soldiers Sunday and it is likely that Major Conrad Hall will put the four companies in Elizabeth through a special battalion drill either Sunday afternoon or evening. State troops have taken over the military police sectors of North Jersey and the entire First and Fifth Regiments are on duty. Such detachments of the Second Regiment as will be used in the Northern part of the State have also been assigned. This completes the Northern military sector and the three companies are co-operating without a hitch.

It is practically certain that Company K will not be ordered out of the State. The Plainfield outfit is now the largest one of the four in the Elizabeth armory and the evening battalion parades have indicated that it is superior to the other three in form.

There have been no unusual occurrences along the military front." So far as the troops' precise location is concerned, for purposes of publication, "somewhere in New Jersey" still expresses the extent to which such information can be given out with official sanction.

A field call is fondly hoped for by practically every officer and man in the units not yet ordered to mobilize, and in all these commands there has been considerable activity in enlisting. At the Roseville Avenue Armory in Newark of Troops A and C, of the First Cavalry Squadron, there was a rush of men to enlist last night, and Major Brown has given orders that the men are to be examined as fast as possible and to hold themselves in readiness to be sworn in when the squadron is authorized to recruit to war strength.

Captain Peterson and his men spent the week at Elizabeth in "watchful waiting," plenty of "paper work" being supplied to occupy their attention. Under the direction of Chief County Detective John A. Galatain the soldiers had their finger prints taken Monday night, the work lasting into the early morning hours. First Lieut. Phillips did the fingerprinting for Company K under Chief Galatain's instructions.

The physical examinations resulted in twenty per cent. of the men in the four companies being turned down but a majority of these rejections were assigned to bad teeth and a portion of these were accepted after the dental work was taken care of by Plainfield and Elizabeth dentists who donated their services. During the physical tests Monday a homeless boy who had alighted from a freight train at Elizabeth applied for admission to Company K. Appearances indicated that he was slightly below the standard height and measurement showed that he was just below the mark by one quarter of an inch. Sergeant Hort happened upon a remedy, however, and the anxious youth readily agreed to any terms of this story. He was passed. The "remedy" consisted of a wheel on the top of the head with the butt end of a gun. A swelling of considerable size was raised and he passed the test with colors flying. We have Captain Peterson's word for the truth of this story.

The stay at the armory was made as comfortable as possible and friends of soldiers were admitted at all times except Monday night, when the finger prints were being taken. The exclusion of visitors gave rise to the rumor that plans were forming for departure early Tuesday morning but Captain Peterson assured the press that such was not the case.

Secretary Olof Gates, who had charge of the Y. M. C. A. tent at Sea Girt during the Mexican mobilization, opened a postal card, tobacco and candy booth in the armory Monday and this served as a great convenience to the enlisted men. Within a few hours after the quarters were opened the secretary had handled 250 pieces of outgoing mail and the soldiers were given the spot for letter writing, checker playing and listening to the phonograph.

Mess passes were distributed to the Company K men Tuesday afternoon and night than at any time during the stay in Elizabeth. Officers and enlisted men flocked to Plainfield in droves in the evening but all were ordered to report back to the armory by taps (11 o'clock).

An Industrial Mass Meeting Next Week

A mass meeting under the joint auspices of the Business Men's Association and the Board of Trade will be held in Columbus Hall on Tuesday night as part of the countrywide campaign to enlist employers, employees and public spirited citizens in the movement to guard against industrial trade perils of the future. Several prominent speakers who are authorities on the subject have been secured to express their views.

The idea of organizing the movement in Plainfield was first thought of by the Business Men's Association and the Board of Trade has enthusiastically offered to help. The speakers have been arranged for by the Industrial Observation Movement of New York and will include Ellis T. Howland, secretary of the Motor Truck Club of America and a leading journalist, and Michael J. Hickey, head of the Industrial Conservation movement. Mr. Howland will talk on "Promoting Permanent Prosperity," while the latter will tell of the importance of considering the human element in any attempt to increase the efficiency of industry.

The meeting will be open to all and it is probable that local men somewhat familiar with the idea will express their views.

TODAY IS GOOD FRIDAY.

Featured by three-hour services, symbolic of the suffering of Christ on the Cross, arranged by Roman Catholic and Episcopal churches and by services to be held in practically all evangelical churches, Good Friday is being observed today. A legal holiday, the day is being noted also by the closing of the courts, the banks and many business offices.

Forming Third Defense Unit

The Mayor has announced that the Home Defense League is to be divided into companies, according to geographical districts, so that the two units of fifty men will not be maintained as such, for organization purposes. They are referred to as units merely for convenience in describing their appointment to membership in the League.

Mayor Calkins has asked the Commissioners to recommend fifty more men for a third unit, for appointment within the next few days. Application blanks may be had from the Commissioners, or from Chief Kiely at police headquarters. Applicants whose business is in Plainfield are requested to see Chief Kiely personally when they sign their applications, unless they are known to one of the four Commissioners, Messrs. M. S. Ackerman, R. F. R. Huntsman, Dr. Lufburrow and Henry S. Fullerton.

Target drill is being carried on every night and Mayor Calkins and the Commissioners are pleased with the showing made so far under the leadership of Commander Ransome. The men are rapidly having proficiency in shooting.

A plan of mobilization has been determined upon, by which the Defense League can be brought to any part of the city on five minutes' notice. Each section of the city will have a certain number of men assigned to it; but the plans will be known only to the city authorities and the League Commander and his immediate assistants. Other steps in practical measures of protection are being taken.

Hope Chapel To Build Church In West End

At the annual meeting of the congregation of Hope chapel held last night definite action was taken toward the removal of the church to the West End. It was announced that the trustees of the Crescent Avenue church had agreed to allow the removal, and the committee in charge of the matter reported that a plot at the corner of Grant avenue and Sixth street, 100x200, had been secured from Charles W. McCutchen as a site for the new structure. The building of a new church, it is expected, will cost in the vicinity of $50,000 and at last night's meeting $4,200 was subscribed by members of the congregation.

A committee was appointed to have charge of the funds to be raised for the church and include Donald McInnes, John Slorah, George Leidig, Frank Rimmer and Thomas Hendry. Meetings will be held at frequent intervals to keep the project moving.

Quarters
CO. K, SECOND INFANTRY
Elizabeth, N. J., April 6, 1917.

As Captain of Company K, it affords me one of the most sincere pleasures of my career to be their spokesman in expressing to the citizens of Plainfield, through your columns, the grateful appreciation of the members of the Company for the auto supply truck so thoughtfully bestowed by the good people of our home town.

The prompt organization of the Citizens' Committee, the spontaneous response of the community at large, the thoughtfulness and consideration shown in the selection of the gift,—all appeal powerfully to the hearts of men who, owing to the suddenness of the call for departure, did not have time to take formal or ceremonious leave of their fellow townsmen. It may well serve as an example of practical patriotism to the people of the entire State.

When all have done so well, it is hard to single out any one person for particular praise; yet I feel it would be ungenerous in extending our thanks to the citizens of Plainfield not to bring to their attention the heavy obligation owing to Senator Ackerman. The Plainfield Record, the Veterans' Association of Company K, to Mr. Norman Loughlin, of The M. & L. Auto Co., also a veteran of Company K, and last but not least the local branch of The National Special Aid Society,—all of whom contributed so materially to the successful termination of this exceedingly worthy project.

At the time of the presentation, so complete and overwhelming was the surprise, I was utterly unable to adequately express the intense gratitude felt by every man in the organization down to the latest recruit.

The daily service rendered by the splendid gift of the folks at home will be a constant incentive to perform the duties which may fall to our lot, whether they are merely the guarding of property within our own borders or more serious duties the nature of which as yet lies in the unknown future.

With grateful remembrances, I am

CHARLES A. PETERSON,
Captain.

NO BUILDING.

Building has taken another slump in this city, due in part, no doubt, to the present war crises. With the exception of the $5,000 addition to the Standard Aero plant, there has been practically no permits filed and the few that have been only total a few thousand dollars.

Mr. A. L. LaRock,
Plainfield Record,
City.

My Dear Mr. LaRock:

In behalf of the Veterans' Association I desire to thank you most heartily for the excellent service you have rendered us, making it possible in a large measure to secure the auto truck for our local company of guardsmen in company K. The boys are highly elated over the success of our efforts, and we cannot help but think particularly of your wonderful work in making its accomplishment a certainty. Many of them have commented on the tremendous success you had in such a short time, and they are deeply indebted to you, thought that our local people and particularly you and your associates are cooperating with them in such a strong and determined manner. I am expressing their heartfelt gratification in saying that they appreciate your efforts most sincerely, especially your opening of the campaign on last Friday.

With my personal thanks in behalf of the Veterans' Association and myself,

Yours very sincerely,
NORMAN D. LOUGHLIN.

Season's Dramatic Success Offering for Near Future

A welcome change from the average run of the season's dramatic offerings will be the appearance at the Plainfield Theatre, Tuesday Matinee and Night, April 17, of Miss Blanche Bates, the well-known American actress in a new play by Paul M. Potter entitled "Eleven P. M."

Blanche Bates.

After many desultory theatrical ventures, which have attended a rather light season, the announcement of the appearance of a star of Miss Bates' magnitude, in a play by the renowned author of "Trilby," and many other world-familiar dramas, is a welcome event. Due to the dearth of any dramatic material suitable for the expression of her vivacious personality, and the power and versatility of her acting, Miss Bates has been absent from the boards for a short time, but the present vehicle is said to provide abundant opportunity for the exercise of this great actress's talents.

Through the instrumentality of her managers, T. H. Hunter, Inc., Miss Bates has been surrounded by a cast of exceptional brilliance, including Mr. Wilton Lackaye, one of the best American actors, who created the original role of Svengali in Mr. Potter's play "Trilby." Other familiar names are Charles Hammond, Thomas J. McCrane, Charles Butler, Louise MacIntosh, Janet Travers, Jeffreys Lewis, J. H. Barnes, Ford Fenimore, Maria Ascaraga, Sallie Bergman, George Shelton, Henri Virey and Albert Prisco.

"The Sightseers" Coming Attraction at the Theatre

"The Sightseers" is the title of the merry two-act musical "Folly" which is to be presented at the Plainfield Theatre, Monday, April 9th, by "Blutch" Cooper's big burlesque company, giving a matinee and evening performance. This season the stars of the organization are Will J. Kennedy and Jack Miller, the well-known comedians. Surrounding them will be found a supporting company of unusual talent which Mr. Cooper has recruited from the flower of burlesque entertainment. The book of "The Sightseers" was written by Billy K. Wells, and it is said to be one that combines both comedy situations and particularly brilliant dialogue for burlesque. The lyrics for the vocal numbers were written by Billy K. Wells, and were set to music by Billy K. Wells, who has furnished a score that is brimming over with tuneful melodies. In addition to the musical comedy offerings, there will be interspersed during the action of the play many all-star vaudeville acts, amongst which will be the Carnival Four, a quartet of singers possessing remarkable voices ranging from deep bass to tenor; Katherine Dickey in a comedy singing specialty and Will J. Kennedy presenting his "rube" number. The entire production has been staged under the personal direction of Mr. Cooper. The special musical numbers for the ensemble have been arranged by Raymond B. Perez. The beauty chorus which has been sent on tour with this organization is one of the best trained in burlesque today, and Mr. Cooper is justly proud of the score of girls who are seen on the stage during the action of the entertainment. Those who doubt but have to see the wonderful stage settings, the costly and gorgeous costuming, the exquisite modern gowns, to say nothing of the expensive footwear and dazzling millinery.

BARNUM & BAILEY

The Barnum & Bailey circus began its limited New York engagement at Madison Square Garden last Thursday. A wonderful new programme was shown and it is claimed that this season the monster entertainment has more and better things to show than ever before; starting with a magnificient pageant entitled "Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp", the circus occupies three hours or more with events in air, on platforms and in rings and in hippodrome surrounding. Not one moment is lost in all of the spaces of the great enclosure.

The opening feature is the first attempt at Chinese pageantry in the history of American Circuses and it has been described as the most gorgeous presentation ever attempted. The story of the genii slave of the magic lamp is too well known to need description here. However, it may be well to call attention to the possibilities for display in coloring and magnificent settings in Chinese locale and to the fact that Barnum & Bailey spent $1,000,000. to reproduce all of its glorious possibilities. The circus program which follows the pageant is made up almost entirely of names and acts new to the American public, the cream of all the continental circuses having been rushed to the big shows European agents for booking on account of the closing of most of the foreign circuses. There is a complete Chinese circus, replete with thrilling aerial and acrobatic feats. The famous Hanneford Family, champion riders of Europe will display their wonderful skill. Signor Bagonghi, the dwarf bareback rider, described as the equestrian comic of the century, will not new animals in the great zoo. There are more than one hundred acts and to name and describe them would occupy too much space.

KELLERMANN "DON'TS."

One evening last week at the Hippodrome, Annette Kellermann addressed a group of college girls on the stage after the regular performance of "The Big Show." These young students who were visiting New York wanted to see the diving Venus swim for, like Vassar College, the faculty of Ward Belmont has decreed that swimming is a necessity to the college woman.

Miss Kellermann illustrated the correct way to begin and then told the girls some of her "don'ts."

1. Don't try to hold your head far out of the water. To do so increases the strain. All that needs to be out of the water is the nose for breathing.

2. Don't make hard work of it, for that tires you quickly. The stroke should be slow and complete. Try counting ten during each stroke.

3. Don't wear any more clothes than you need. They hinder your movements and make the body much heavier. Many of the costumes I have seen on the shore are inspired more by vanity than modesty.

4. Don't above all wear a corset or a tight belt, for these hinder the circulation. Many cases of cramps have been traced directly to corsets and tight belts.

5. Don't swim after eating, nor eat for an hour after swimming.

6. Don't go into the water unless the body is thoroughly warm. Don't stay in the water after your teeth commence to chatter.

7. Don't stay in the water more than fifteen minutes the first time or two. Then you may increase the time by five minutes each day. Unless the conditions are exceptionally fine, you should never stay in the water more than half an hour.

8. Don't go in swimming on a cold raw day, even if the water seems warm.

9. Don't try to dive until you have perfect confidence in your stroke. Don't at any time try to dive in shallow water.

"EILEEN" AT THE SHUBERT.

The romantic comic opera, "Eileen," the newest musical production now on Broadway and which has been voted the finest play of its kind seen in New York city for many years continues to fill the Shubert Theatre at every performance with delightful audiences, began the third week of what promises to be a most successful engagement last week.

Henry Blossom and Victor Herbert long associated in the making of successful musical plays can always be counted upon to turn out something that is far above the ordinary. In this case they both have surpassed themselves with the result that "Eileen" has been praised as their finest collaboration. Joe Weber, too, has shown his appreciation of their work in providing for the perfect presentation of their latest writing what every one admits to be the finest singing company, both as to its principals and to its chorus, provided for any musical production seen for a long time.

"THE CENTURY GIRL."

The announced policy of the Dillingham-Ziegfeld administration of the Century Theatre to not permit the concurrent or subsequent presentation on another stage of the musical spectacles prepared for production in the Central Park West playhouse may be altered to countenance an interesting experiment planned by a representative of the Imperial Russian Ballet. The plan is to reproduce exactly in Moscow, the "Ballet Loose," one of the most notable and most comic features of "The Century Girl," and to perform the burlesque not separately but as a number on one of the regular ballet programs in the Russian metropolis. In effect it will be an attempt to probe the Russian sense of humor.

Russian audiences take their ballet as well as almost all other forms of theatrical entertainment very seriously; attempts to evoke hearty laughter are notably rare on the part of performers and producers. It is the belief of the plan's originator that the offering of this beautifully mounted, beautifully costumed bit of American satiric foolery will be appreciated, and may lead to a demand not only for a leavening of the ballet performance with an occasional pinch of comedy, but to a broadening of the view of Russian opera and theatre authorities that may result in an establishment of mutual interest between them and American managers likely to result to the advantage of both. Phonographic records of the score written by Victor Herbert for "The Ballet Loose," costume sketches, and a voluminous action scenario, to be supplemented by a motion picture film, will be sent to Moscow when the opportunity offers and though the experiment will not be made for several months at the earliest, reports of the result will be awaited with considerable interest.

"THE WILLOW TREE."

Every one agrees that the most fascinating play the season has produced is "The Willow Tree," now in its sixth successful week at the Cohan and Harris Theatre, New York, a moonlight dream of love and beauty is this exquisite fantasy of Japan with incomparable Fay Bainter in the role of the princess and handsome Shelley Hull as the young Englishman who, disappointed in an affair of the heart at home, seeks, in the land of the lotus flower, an inspiration that will assuage his pain of mind.

In a beautiful image hewn from the heart of a willow tree, the love-lorn youth sees a likeness to the girl he has left behind him. He makes it his own and, having placed it upon a shrine, the statute is awakened to life through the charm of a mirror and becomes a beautiful princess to whom comes the soul of purest woman and with whom he lives until rumors of war calls him back to his own people.

To accompany this delightful and highly dramatic love story, Messers. Cohan and Harris have supplied a pictorial setting that is in perfect harmony with its idyllic theme, while the cast that presents it is well-nigh perfect. Especially fascinating is the simplicity and charm of Miss Bainter's visualization of the different-dual roles of the princess and the English girl. Hers is a triumph in technique and diverse moods, while Shelley Hull, of "Cinderella Man," renown makes an eloquent figure of the romantic young Englishman the type of lover exactly suited for the blending of the Far East and West here.

The credit for a rare evening in the theatre, however, must be equally divided among the authors, Messrs. Hengerer and Harrison Rhodes, the actors and the producers; their combined efforts have made "The Willow Tree" a perfect play and one that everyone ought to see.

STRAND THEATRE.

The ever popular portrayer of atin characters, George Beban, will be seen at the Strand Theatre in "The Bond Between," a photo-drama of which he is the author as well as the star. In this new play he enacts the role of Papa Duval, a Frenchman living with four grown children in a French restaurant in New York city. Mr. Beban has carried throughout the picture a true Bohemian atmosphere of the real artists' section of New York. One of the unusual scenes is the entire basement and first floor of a typical New York boarding house. Included in the cast are: Colin Chase, Vola Vale, Mrs. Buehler, John Burton, Nigel de Brulier, Paul Weigel, Eugene Pallette, W. H. Bainbridge and Signor Buzzi. Some thrilling and interesting pictures of the Pendleton (Oregon) Round-Up will also be presented, showing cowboys and cowgirls racing, bulldogging, riding bucking bronchos, contesting for the world's championship. Victor Moore will be seen for the first time in his latest and funniest comedy entitled, "His Military Figure." Another new picture of interest is an educational study showing the evolution of agricultural machinery. The Topical Review contains the very latest news pictures, edited daily.

"LOVE O' MIKE."

Having transferred its successful activities from the Shubert to the Maxine Elliott's Theatre, "Love O' Mike" is proving even more of a musical comedy triumph. The intimate atmosphere of the Maxine Elliott is admirably suited to the daintiness and charm of this new production of Elisabeth Marbury and Lee Shubert, and with the beginning of its twelfth New York week next Monday night the production bids fair to run throughout the summer.

"Love O' Mike" is by Thomas Sydney, with lyrics by Harry B. Smith and music by Jerome Kern. The infatuation of a group of girls at a fashionable house party for a British nobleman whom they believe a hero forms the framework of the play.

Plainfield's Supply of Water is Safely Guarded

Plainfield and the surrounding towns will have an adequate supply of water no matter what occurs. That has been insured by steps taken by the Plainfield, Union Water Company and the police authorities. The pumping station has been carefully fenced and is under the supervision of several watchmen, while the Westfield police has sent two men to guard the mammoth reservoir of the company located near that town.

National Guard News

One of the gifts welcomed by the Plainfield boys at the Elizabeth armory last Sunday was an assortment of cigarettes from Mrs. James M. Charles, of this city. Many have asked what the soldiers need and the reply usually indicates that smoking material is the most acceptable.

Sunday was "Plainfield Day" at the county seat. Friends and relatives of the militiamen swarmed to the Elizabeth armory, many going early in the morning and remaining until late at night. Captain Charles Peterson was officer of the day Sunday and the Plainfield boys were doing guard detail. The squads worked only a few hours, however, and it was possible for the men to be with their guests the major portion of the time.

The need of a small motor truck was never more felt than over the week-end. The numerous trips the commissioned officers had to make to and from Plainfield by train could have been taken in the truck if one was available and the surplus material could have been moved without encountering the big expense in hiring vehicles. Company K has had no issue of mules and the transportation of equipment is done under a handicap.

Captain Peterson extended a twenty-four hour leave privilege to Private Charles H. Baumann Friday night in order that the latter might carry out his wedding plans. The original date of Private Baumann's marriage to Miss Grace Ruth Shipman, daughter of Dr. Alfred Shipman, of Westervelt avenue, was set for Saturday but the possibility of Company K being moved before that time caused the young folks to bring it ahead one day. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. C. E. Gillespie at the bride's home. Private Baumann returned to his unit Saturday noon and Mrs. Baumann was a visitor at the armory Sunday.

Cooks Hort and Millwater, of Company K, were forced to work under serious handicaps at the armory in preparing mess for the Plainfield boys and it was generally agreed that the "eats" did not measure up to the Company K standard. Owing to limited space it was necessary for the three companies to pitch their mess shacks on Magnolia avenue, just off Walnut street.

The visitors at the armory Sunday were treated to a thrill in the afternoon when the sound of a bursting shell caused the rumor to be spread that one of the sentinels had fired on a suspicious character. Hundreds fled from the interior of the big drill shed but investigation brought the fact that the sound was caused by an exploding torpedo on the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks which pass within one hundred feet of the armory.

Announcement to the effect that First Sergeant Robert H. Cox, of Troop D, had successfully passed the Federal Reserve examinations making him eligible for a captain's commission was gratifying to his colleagues in the local militia outfit. It will first be necessary for him to get his discharge from the troop before receiving his commission. Sergeant Cox has been one of the most valuable members of the local unit and was recognized as one of its best soldiers while the troop was stationed on the border. The other members are sorry to see him go but he has their well wishes for success in his new work.

During the short time it conducted a recruiting office in Westfield Company K picked up a number of good men. Corporal Hort was in charge of the Westfield office.

Lieut.-Colonel William B. Martin, of the Second Regiment, formerly captain of Company K, spoke in highly complimentary terms Monday of the manner in which Captain Peterson's men responded to the mobilization call. He visited the local armory the day before the unit left for Elizabeth and was much impressed with the manner in which the equipment was distributed preparatory to entraining.

A number of recruits have been added to Troop D during the past fortnight, several of them being native Plainfield boys. Ludlow Vandeventer, of this city, who is a student in Princeton University, sent a letter to a member of the local troop last week in which he promised that a number of college students would come to Plainfield and join the unit as soon as it was mobilized.

The medical department of the Jersey guard is in need of eight surgeons, according to Lieutenant Colonel William G. Schauffler, surgeon general. Applicants should communicate with Adjutant General Charles W. Barber. Colonel Schauffler says the situation presents a good opportunity for young men from 22 to 30 years old, and should be especially attractive to those who have recently graduated from medical schools or are serving as interns in hospitals. Such officers, if accepted, will be commissioned as first lieutenants in the Medical Corps, and will be entitled to receive $2,200 a year while in the service.

The First Field Hospital Company, headquarters Second Regiment Armory, Elizabeth, needs about twenty recruits to bring the command up to war strength. This organization offers excellent opportunity for young men to learn first aid, nursing and field sanitation. The field hospital company had service on the Mexican Border. The officers of the social body of the company are Earl Kraeuter, secretary; Orton R. Baldwin, treasurer; R. F. Harris, historian, and Lawrence T. Knowles, sergeant-at-arms. The trustees are First Sergeant R. F. Doran, Quartermaster Sergeant Charles Linfonte, Transportation Sergeant Joseph Plach, Sergeant R. F. Harris, Mess Sergeant Frank Schneider, Sergeant Joseph Maistz and Corporal Lawrence T. Knowles.

First Lieut. Phillips went from the Elizabeth armory to "somewhere in Jersey" Wednesday to take the finger-prints of Second Regiment men on detail.

A rooster is the latest edition to Company K's mascot menagerie. The feathered pet has been named "Dick" and some of the members of the outfit are responsible for the statement that it is being carried merely as a safeguard against empty stomachs. If Mess Sergeant Carman fails to keep up his reputation as a menu-maker the rooster is likely to be transformed into soup.

While not engaged in entertaining the visiting fair sex in "K" quarters Sergeant Hort has been spending his time reading the autobiography of Benedict Arnold and acting as orderly for the other "non-coms."

Captain Peterson is thinking seriously of abolishing the "moustache brigade" that has been recruited during the past week. The captain contends that hair is a breeder of germs and as the army has failed to supply mustache cups he believes it his duty to put a ban on the ornaments.

Regret is manifested throughout the Company K rank and file over the rejection of Private "Hub" Reynolds, one of the veterans of the outfit, because of small stature. "Hub" isn't very wide or very long and it was decided that he wasn't big enough to stop a German shell.

Private Cliff Milliken has been appointed company clerk by Captain Peterson.

Rueben Sharp and Osmun are members of the First Battalion's band which held its first drill Tuesday afternoon.

Captain Peterson has earned the title of "ladies' man" in the First Battalion. The Plainfield leader is the hardest man in the outfit to find for he is generally encircled by an attractive collection of the fair sex. He has a close rival for this honor in the person of Lieut. Jim Conklin.

Fanwood Ready to Give All of Youth

Fanwood has been fairly bubbling over with patriotism ever since the United States broke with Germany and tomorrow night will show her loyalty to the country by forming a company of volunteers ready to do anything they are called upon for. Other places will raise volunteer companies and in some cases more, but when it is considered that Fanwood have only seven hundred population, and that a company would take a hundred men it can be seen just how many able-bodied men will remain.

The meeting tomorrow night will be held in the Fanwood firehouse and it is expected that an army man will be present to make a plea for men. Equipment will partially be furnished, it is thought, by funds raised by contribution.

Relief Auxiliary is Planning to Help

A meeting of the "Volunteers" Auxiliary of Plainfield and North Plainfield will be held sometime during the coming week, at which time plans will be made for the aiding of the dependent families of Company K that have been called to the colors. George P. Mellick, chairman of the finance committee, will have charge of arrangements.

The "Volunteers' Auxiliary" was formed last summer to aid the families of Troop D men who went to the border. There is still a surplus in the treasury from then and patriotic residents would undoubtedly come to the fore with donations. A large amount of good was accomplished by the auxiliary last summer and from present indications their chance to help now will be even greater than then.

URGES LOYALTY.

Large corporations and other business organizations throughout the county have taken steps during the past week to be ready to back for the United States. Richard A. Claybrook, a former councilman and prominent Plainfield resident, made a plea for "undivided allegiance to President and country" at a meeting of the New York Produce Exchange on Wednesday that was attended by over 800 members. Mr. Claybrook is vice president of the Produce Exchange and in an address urged all to join the Exchange branch of the Home Defense League.

The Soul of Co. K

Lord God, in all humility,
The clash in wars array,
I kneel before Thy altar here,
To wish, to hope, to pray.

The Wish

I wish to have with me this day
On yonder blood-drenched field
The sweet protection of Thy Grace
And Mercy as my shield.

The Hope

I hope the cause I advocate,
Is free from selfish gain,
And that its triumph shall not leave
Upon my soul a stain.

The Prayer

I pray the Cross I march beneath,
Shall still remain sublime
The Christian soldiers' leading light
Thro endless, endless time.

Lord God, in all humility,
Thy soldier kneels today
To kiss the Holy Cross of Christ
Pull girded in wars array.

War Will Affect High Schools

That both the Plainfield and North Plainfield High School will discontinue athletic activities for the remainder of the year if the United States becomes actively embroiled in war seems to be the consensus of opinion among a large number of the pupils of both institutions. Because the schools are closed for the week and most of the instructors are out of town no one in authority at either the city or borough school could be seen to find whether or not action in the matter would be taken in the near future.

The majority of the boys at the Plainfield High School have become intensely interested in the recently organized cadet squad and after school hours are engaged in drilling or shooting. While the borough school has no such body the students are determined to stand by their colors and if a general call were to be issued they would, like those from the Ninth street school that went to war, enlist. Such a step would leave only the smaller youths in schools.

About the only form of athletics left for this year is baseball and in view of the present trouble it would be warrantable to cancel the schedules of fourteen or fifteen games. It would also mean the calling off of the annual city championship series between the two schools.

Arline Fredericks Starring at Theatre

Arline Fredericks, formerly starring in "Oh, Oh, Delphine," is occupying the headline position at the Plainfield Theatre for the last part of the present week. With her own company, she is offering a scenic comedy sketch that is one of the best that has graced the boards of the local theatre in many a day.

"Candidates," a political riot, is another number that is successful in its purpose, that of entertaining. The five jolly tars and a girl" that offer a singing vehicle, including the latest song hits, is deserving of special mention, while Edgar Berger, in a novelty act, and Shepherd & Ott, comedy singers and dancers, complete the vaudeville bill. Hearst-Pathe Weekly and other motion pictures are included in the program for both today and tomorrow.

Third Defense Unit May be Organized

The second unit of the Home Defense League was sworn in Wednesday night, giving the city a protection now of 100 men in the league. Because the interest shown has been so great and because there are so many that are still willing to join the league, it is probable that a third unit will be organized in the near future.

The men in the first two units have shown surprising improvement since they started drilling and a number of them have turned out to be excellent shots. They have all been measured for uniforms and in a short time they will have their entire equipment purchased with funds raised among local residents for the league.

Y. M. C. A. CIRCUS.

"Barnyard and Dingling's Circus" will make its annual appearance in the gymnasium of the Y. M. C. A. on April 20. Numerous rehearsals, new features and new faces will tend to make the affair one of the best ever held by the association and it is expected that a large number will witness the "fun."

ADDITION NEARLY COMPLETED.

During the past week Alexander Wolfe has had carpenters working night and day on the $5,000 emergency addition of the Standard Aero Corporation and the entire addition, $30,000, will be completed early next week. The company will then be able to nearly double its output.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, APRIL 6, 1917.

The following letter has been sent by Elliott T. Barrows to the Record:

Your "tempest in a teapot" regarding the appointment of Mr. McVoy, a master plumber, to the position of plumbing inspector in the Health Department seems to call for further light on the subject.

You need not have suspected that the "Board" was aware that no "State examinations" could be held until June; for this is a matter of record, and it was immaterial whether the appointee was Mr. McVoy, "Jones" or "Smith," as either of them would have to serve on probation until that time, and your statement that, "The city of Plainfield is now paying $84 a month to a plumbing inspector who is not qualified to act as such," only reflects the spirit you have shown in this matter.

Do you still maintain the above?—for if so, it means that the city would have to be without the services of an acting sanitary inspector from February until June, holding up all new work and plumbing changes during that period.

Your conception that, "The opinion of the Board of Health, that the plumbing inspectorship doesn't amount to much after all" because the incumbent would be "free of worry," is also in keeping with your attitude, for while "charity" is sometimes a mild term for politics, neither one enters into this appointment, or any other act of the "Board," nor can it be possible that you really believe that the holder of this position performing only routine work, laid down in the sanitary code, can have worries compared to the business man struggling against competition, bad times, and the question of existenee.

I did not say that Mr. McVoy's appointment was along the lines of "preparedness," but the training of a young man for plumbing inspector who has already passed an examintion as "Sanitary" and "Health Inspector" is along those lines, and I may add now, those of civil service. We will all agree that the State examination consists of "tests" that a "master plumber" should know; these are also questions any intelligent sanitary inspector after preparation can answer.

If you are honest in your criticisms of the "Board," the subject surely has assumed a "vitally pertinent one to Plainfield taxpayers," for if Mr. McVoy, a well known plumber, was qualified to sit as a member of the "Board of "Health" he is not qualified to serve the city as plumbing inspector. The four members of the Board who appointed him and the Mayor and Corporation Counsel who acquiesced in the act, failed somehow to protect the city. Be frank and tell the taxpayers where they did so, for if we cannot do justice to the city of our homes, I am sure that all members of the "Board" will gladly retire in favor of more faithful servants.

But one point was made by the Plainfield Record in its original editorial on the plumbing inspector question —the appointment of a sixty-nine-year-old candidate to an office vacated by a man who thought he was too old for the duties at the age of seventy-four. Other scores that have been made since by the Record and which have evidentally proven distasteful to the Board of Health were the direct result of information furnished by Mr. Barrows in his letters. In championing the Board's cause (we took it for granted that he was the authorized spokesman) Mr. Barrows brought to light sufficient evidence to stir up the "tempest" and it has now outgrow "teapot" proportions. In its first article the newspaper proved conclusively that the Board's action was unwarranted, unqualified and unbusiness-like, and the facts submitted have not been discredited by Mr. Barrows.

There is absolutely no reason why the city should be without a plumbing inspector from February until June nor is there any reason why it should be forced to pay $85 a month to a man who has not passed the prescribed tests. You admit that the "training of a younger man for plumbing inspector is along the lines of preparedness." If you are convinced of this fact, why did not you and the other members of the Board think of it before Mr. Addis retired and train the young man for the job?

You admit that the State tests consist of questions that any intelligent sanitary inspector could answer after preparation. Then why did you not prepare one of your sanitary inspectors to take the examination in view of the fact that your present employe was seventy-four years old and not likely to be available for duty much longer?

On every previous occasion we have stated plainly that we do not question Mr. McVoy's ability either as a plumbing inspector or as one of your colleagues on the Board of Health. Neither do we question your ability but we are of the opinion that some of your remarks would not be approved by other members of the Board. Your intimation that the routine work of the inspector's office involves no worriment such as that which characterizes the life of a business man "struggling against competition, bad times and the question of existence" should act as an inducement for young men to prepare themselves for the vacancy when Mr. McVoy retires and you should have no dearth of "young" material at that time.

We still maintain that what we have said is the whole truth; we have been given no cause to think otherwise. We are honest in our criticism of the Board in this instance and no apology offered by one member of the Board is sufficient to qualify the step which the Board has taken. The evidence shows that there was neglect in not preparing for the emergency and that little or no foresight was shown in the selection of a successor to Mr. Addis.

NEWARK'S EXAMPLE NOT A TYPICAL EXAMPLE.

Members of the Board of Fire Commissioners in Newark have installed the two-platoon system at a cost of $126,000. But the price paid to satisfy the men is out of all proportion to what the new feature should cost and those in favor of such an improvement in the Plainfield fire department have no cause to be alarmed by the stir which has developed among Newark taxpayers.

The Board of Fire Commissioners admits that it erred in attempting to install the two-platoon system on the basis of six-man company squads. It was a plan that was hopelessly inefficient, and it must be said that in its present modified form, although better than was proposed, it is far from perfection.

It is now proposed to add 130 men to the department *instead of eighty. This will bring the first cost of install*ing the system to about $126,000 instead of $86,000. The ultimate cost, when the new men have advanced to first grade and pay, will be not far from $175,000 a year. But neither the first cost as now reckoned, nor the ultimate yearly expense as stated, will be enough properly to man the department and maintain its efficiency. It will require more still than 130 additional men.

By adding eighty new men it was designed to form squads of six to each company and man three battalion companies in addition. With 130 men the increase in the force will average less than one man to each squad. The board proposes to impress the pensioners on the retired list to act as house guards when the companies are absent on fire duty, with help from the policemen on post. This has the appearance of being doubly impracticable. No dependence can be placed upon the chance that a re*tired fireman would either obtain knowledge that a fire* has occurred or would be able, if willing, to serve as house watch. Possibly, if guarding a fire house was made a special duty of policemen other duties might have to be neglected and more policemen would be appointed to balance the work. It would be better and no more costly to add firemen instead.

The commissioners are aware that the consensus of experts on fire fighting is that eight men to the squad is the lowest measure of numerical efficiency. Eight-man squads are favored by some of the members of the board. But the ogre of expense still intervenes. The taxpayer must be coddled, even though the risk be the destruction of his property and, maybe, of his life. It looks as if the board, in seeking sustenance, has fed Newark something less than half a loaf.

DO YOUR PART IN AID OF RELIEF WORK.

One Plainfield unit has been called to colors and we have every reason to expect that the second will follow shortly. Mobilization of the infantry unit has brought forcibly to our attention the need for immediate action by those of us left behind in mapping out some plan by *which the dependents of the guardsmen will be comfort*ably provided for. The Citizens' Committee, of which Mr. George P. Mellick is chairman, successfully handled a similar proposition at the time of the Mexican mobilization, and there is every reason to expect that this same organization will shoulder Plainfield's responsibilities once more.

But the present state of affairs is even more serious than those in evidence last June. There are considerably more families to be taken care of and consequently much more money will have to be raised. In a crisis of this kind every red-blooded American feels called upon to do his individual share and there is no more worthy channel for well doing than in the relief of families. Contribu*tions of big amounts will be needed to carry on the work* but the little offerings aid toward obtaining larger ones and donations of any size are to be encouraged.

There are men in Company K today whose greatest worry is that which concerns the families they left behind. They confess that they have been living with no thought for the "rainy day." When the call to arms was sounded it found the family cupboard bare and no funds to meet the landlord. Immediate relief of these cases is necessary and there must be money available to carry on the praiseworthy work. The so-called "big men" of Plainfield have contributed liberally to the fund but they should not be looked to for all of the financial aid. Others should contribute according to their means.

Investigations will be conducted to ascertain the exact status of the families making appeals and the amount of money they have been used to having for the purchase of every-day necessities. They will be impressed with the need for economy but they should be allowed to want for no necessity of life.

Do your little bit to assist Mr. Mellick and his colleagues. Turn in your mite or your one hundred check today. No one will venture to question the worthiness of the cause but some might find room for criticism if they only knew the vast amount of work this committee plans to do with limited resources.

For the benefit of those who do not know it might be said that it is good form not to keep the American flag out after dark. The flag on anything but a post actually besieged should never be displayed between sunset and sunrise. Keeping the flag at the mast-head over-night is looked upon by many as evidence of unmistakable indifference or inexcusable neglect. The flag bearing the Stars and Stripes which inspired Keyes' lines "Star Spangled Banner" was in actual service at Fort McHenry during the attack and siege of that important fortification at night by an English fleet.

THIS RECORDER HAD THE RIGHT IDEA IN MIND.

When a Hoboken recorder sentenced two young men to the navy after they were found guilty of thievery he may have committed a serious error but we find it difficult to believe that any magistrate would take this action because he was of the opinion that the navy is a place for thieves. Certain parties have become greatly wrought up over the sentence for they have evidentally failed to take into consideration the circumstances. The two young men were not moral degenerates nor were they hardened criminals. The recorder probably believed them to be possessed of the necessary qualities for redemption and he probably thought that service under Uncle Sam's flag would make good citizens out of them. He was right if this was his idea.

There are many first-timers Arraigned in Plainfield's police court, as well as elsewhere, who are the victims *of circumstances. They never had a chance to see the bet*ter part of life; their boyhood was spent battling against the darker odds. The discipline of the navy is what many a young man needs to bring him back to the path of righteousness and while we are not advocates of sending all types of criminals to navy recruiting stations we do believe that an act such as the Hoboken recorder has "committed" would be the "making" of many a young wrong-doer.

Many a father has put his own son in the navy as a means of giving him a "straightening out" process, and we cannot believe that the record had any other idea in mind than helping the boys, and helping his country, when he sent the two young men to the Navy Department.

It will not be out of place for the Government to give him and all other magistrates to understand that the navy is not a correctional institution, but to mete out drastic punishment would be all out of proportion to the spirit of the offense.

SOLDIERS' FAMILIES WILL WANT FOR NOTHING.

Citizens of Plainfield are to be congratulated on the spirit of patriotism evidenced in the raising of a fund for a militia motor truck and also in the contribution of money to help defray the expenses of the Citizens' Committee in caring for the families of soldiers called to service. Little trouble was experienced by the Record, the Veterans' Committee and the National Special Aid Society in raising the necessary amount for the needed vehicle for Company K and there was a good sum left over which will go into the treasury of the Citizens' Committee.

We are not performing a charity in caring for the needy ones left behind; it is a duty we should perform. A number of Company K men are wage-earners of the poorer class. They have dependent families who have been left without support because the bread-winner has answered the call to arms. The money spent for the motor truck was put to good use but the sum left over will be put to even better use and the amount that will be forthcoming from citizens who have not as yet contributed will be very much needed.

It is up to the city of Plainfield, and by this we mean those who have been left behind, to care for the needy families of the guardsmen. They should want for nothing; they should be supplied with the same necessities of life as they would be enjoying if the head of the house had not been called. Mr. George P. Mellick heads the Citizens' Committee and checks sent to him will be used exclusively for this purpose. No amount is too small nor too large.

WHAT ONE MOTHER IS WILLING TO SACRIFICE.

The appeal of the pacifists to the women of the nation to rise up in a protest against war made no impression on one Plainfield woman who has five sons. Only one of them is old enough to go to war, but she is willing to make the sacrifice if the time comes when they are needed. Here are her own words:

"It is hard for a mother to think she might lose her son, and I can't bear to think what might happen to Dan, but I'm happy in the thought that he is man enough to want to answer his country's call. I have four others, not quite old enough, but all anxious to join the colors. If the country calls for them and they still want to go, I would be willing to make the sacrifice."

American womanhood is just as strong as it was in '76, just as strong as it was in '61, just as strong as it was in '98. American mothers are just as brave and courageous as French mothers, Russian mothers, English mothers, Italian mothers, Belgian mothers—Spartan mothers. They cannot be scared, bullied nor cajoled. Those page advertisements are too palpable to fool anybody. They are un-American. The American people cannot be judged by the weak-kneed pacifists and foreigners who made their protest at Washington Monday.

MAKE THE VISITORS FEEL AT HOME HERE.

Reverence for the militia uniform has never been so sincere as it is at the present time. During the past week the khaki garbed guardsmen have mingled among us as representatives of the Federal government's propaganda. They command the respect of old and young; their appearance thrills the individual with patriotism; their presence instills in us a feeling of safety against the inevitable developments of war time. Show the visiting militiamen every consideration; find no fault with the Federal regulations even though they put you to some inconvenience in the course of your day's work; keep ever in mind the fact that these men are the patriots who stood ready to answer the first call to colors.

When our Plainfield boys went to the Mexican border last summer they were treated by the townspeople of Douglas in the worst conceivable manner; they were fleeced by the storekeepers and restaurant owners; they were looked down upon by the better class because they were $15 a month privates. We expect no such conditions to arise in Plainfield while the visiting guardsmen mingle among us, but there is always that thoughtless class in a city who stand ready to jeer and bleed. This faction is in the minority here; it is hardly detectable.

Local Belgian Society Loser By U Boat Raid

Some more of the work of the Plainfield Belgian Relief Society went for naught when a German U boat sunk the relief ship Trevier off the coast of Shoveninsen several days ago. Part what part of the huge cargo of food and clothing that was on its way to the Belgians was contributed by the Plainfield society is not known, but because this city's generosity has helped make up every cargo it is known that there was some loss to the society.

The cargo will not, however, be a financial loss to the Belgian Relief Commission, because the insurance covering the ship will be used to replace the material lost. The Trevier was bound to Rotterdam and left New York February 29 after the Commission received assurances from the German Government that the vessel would be accorded "safe passage."

FUND NOT COMPLETE.

As a result of the mass meeting on Tuesday night held in Columbus Hall under the auspices of the National Jewish Relief Commission, more than half of the $10,000, Plainfield's share of the $1,000,000 fund, was raised. The appeals of Rabbi Stephen Wise, Mayor Leighton Calkins, Dr. John Sheridan Zelie and other local people once more showed their liberality and since the contributions have come in to Judge William Newcorn, chairman of the committee. Work is not to be stopped by the committee and it is hoped that in a short time the entire amount may be sent to the headquarters of the fund.

Co. K Awaits Call To Duty

No military organization would be complete without a mascot and the First Battalion companies are no exception. Company K, of Plainfield, has a little terrier which has been named "K." Not to be outdone, Company C sent several men to Perth Amboy Monday and they returned with a goat which has been cutting up all kinds of capers much to the amusement of the guardsmen. Company I tried to secure a monkey and have not yet given up hope of obtaining one. However, they have three mascots, a goat, a rabbit and a bantam rooster. Company F has departed from the usual run of mascots and has secured a small automobile. This is painted a light gray and on the rear the word "Mascot" has been inscribed. It is a perfectly good and workable auto, as any member of the company who has been out in it will testify.

Care should be exercised by relatives and friends of Company K members in sending mail to the guardsmen while they are in the field of service. The exact whereabouts of the milliamen will not be divulged under any circumstances and all of the outgoing mail will have to pass through a censor at Governor's Island. Address all mail to soldiers as follows: "Private John Jones, Company K, Second Infantry Headquarters, Trenton, N. J." Be sure and give the full name and rank of the individual and the matter will be forwarded from the Trenton armory to the field station.

"Joan The Woman" At Proctor's Hous

Of all the motion pictures ever made none has had a finer purpose than "Joan the Woman" in which Geraldine Farrar, the far-famed opera star will appear at Proctor's Theatre for 3 days, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, April 16, 17 and 18.

It is not merely awe-inspiring as a spectacle and thrilling in its heroic moments, but there is something bigger and more ennobling back of it than stage craft.

It shows to what heights a woman can rise when it comes to a moment of sacrifice. No one can hold back the big lumps that come to the throat when they see this wonderful peasant girl of France with one of England's greatest invading Knights at her feet in humble supplication of love, but back her human emotions because her country needs her. And in the continuance of this throbbing love story every soul must be stirred to see the girl, Joan, hard as adamant at the battle field, twice save the life of her suitor only to find in the end that he is the one selected to trap her for the King of England. Historical and wonderful in pageantry it is, but the thing that will make it take rank with the greatest motion pictures of our time is the way Joan's great love story is woven through it all.

Cecil B. De Mille, the producer of the spectacle, has created an epoch in photo-dramatic history with this thrilling and artistic achievement.

Local Water Case Should Be Tested

Trenton, April 6.—The State Public Utility Commission yesterday made a report in the complaint of Symon Hirsh against the Plainfield Union Water Company, alleging that his bills for water service in Plainfield are excessive and the amount of water for which he was charged was not used.

The board says that the company, in view of the circumstances in the case, which apparently involves a dispute of the merits of a charge for service for a single quarter, should not discontinue service to the petitioner, Hirsh, and that it should accept payment of the subsequently assessed water charges. It is the opinion of the commission that the dispute should be settled in a court of law.

Many At Funeral Of Former Boroughite

Funeral services for Charles Steiner, who died in California several days ago following a lingering illness, were held from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Steiner, of Jackson avenue, yesterday afternoon and were attended by a large number of relatives and friends. The services were very impressive and were conducted by Rev. Howard H. Clark, pastor of the Congregational church, and Rev. C. L. Goodrich, formerly of this city, but now of Amherst, Mass. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery.

The bearers were Charles Beyer, James McClymont, F. L. Morgan, Stacy Reynolds, Stryker Hoagland and Albert Steiner.

During the service the Misses Alice and Grace Carroll sang the hymns, "Abide With Me" and "Cross and Crown." Easter lilies and other floral tributes were massed about the casket, prominent among them being a large wreath from the members of the class of 1905 of the North Plainfield High School, of which the deceased was a member.

Charles W. Swalm Now A Benedict

Alicia Louise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Ten Broeck, of New Brunswick, was married to Charles Willett Swalm, of this city, Monday by the Rev. Paul Hayne, in the Livingston Avenue Baptist church of New Brunswick.

The bride is a graduate of the New Brunswick High School, also the State Normal School at Trenton. Since leaving the Normal School she has been engaged as teacher in the Grove Street School, Irvington, N. J.

Mr. Swalm is connected with the Public Service Gas Company of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Swalm will be at home to their friends after May 1 at 642 Watchung avenue, this city, where a home already furnished awaits them upon the return of their wedding trip.

MCCANN ACTING AGENT.

Several candidates have already appeared for the position of motor registration clerk for Elizabeth, which has been left vacant by the retirement of C. J. Mahon. It is expected that Motor Vehicle Commissioner William L. Dill will make his appointment within a week. James J. McCann, motor registration clerk of Plainfield, has been acting in Mr. Mahon's place since the latter's resignation. He has been drawing the salary for both positions.

CAPSTICK STILL VERY ILL.

Although somewhat improved, the condition of Congressman John H. Capstick, who is ill with pneumonia at the Morristown Memorial Hospital still remains serious. The severe illness from which Mr. Capstick has suffered has weakened his heart action, it is now reported.

120-inch Wheelbase

Mitchell SIXES

$1460 F. o. b. Racine
7-Passenger—48-Horsepower
127-inch Wheelbase

Our New $1150 Six

Thousands who wanted Mitchells wanted a smaller car. So this year we show Mitchell Junior.

Not too small. The wheelbase is 120 inches—the motor is 40-horsepower. That's way beyond the usual in a car for five.

You have never seen a fine car with such running value.

Unique Things

The Mitchell is famous for its hundreds of fine values.

31 Unique Features—
24 Per Cent Added Luxury—
20 Per Cent Over-Strength.

These are all paid for by factory savings. Due to John W. Bate. He has spent millions to obtain them. This whole plant has been built and equipped by him to build this one type economically.

The result is a great car, built at far lower cost than anyone else could build it. And that saving goes into these extras.

See the Result

See the 31 features which nearly all cars lack. See this year's added luxury, paid for by savings in our new body plant. We spend 24 per cent more on beauty than last year.

But the greatest Mitchell extra is this double strength in every vital part. Our margins of safety—once 50 per cent—have been doubled in three years.

Over 640 parts are built of tungsten steel. All safety parts are vastly overdone. All parts which get a major strain are built of Chrome-Vanadium.

The object is a lifetime car, and note this: that we have it. Cars still in good condition have been run over 200,000 miles.

Cost $4,000,000

The Mitchell extras on this year's output will cost us $4,000,000. They cost you nothing, because our factory methods create them.

Compare the Mitchell with cars without these extras. We will abide by your judgment on which car you want.

St. Mary's School Shows Patriotism

"When once the President is vested with authority to act, his authority is God's command to the conscience of the nation," was the way in which Rev. B. M. Bogan started his patriotic address to 650 students of St. Mary's Parochial School, besides many adults at services held around the flag-pole in front of the school last Monday morning.

If the lesson of devotion to our country and confidence in its destiny were needed it were as readily learned as it was eloquently imparted in an incident witnessed in the vicinity of Fifth and Liberty streets on Monday last at noon. Standing at attention, in the hollow square about the flag-staff of St. Mary's Commercial School, six hundred and fifty pupils joined in a ceremony of national devotion that lifted the hearts and the minds of the spectators to a new appreciation of education as a factor in patriotism.

For ten minutes they had been assembling—the tots from the kindergarten, the boys and girls from the preparatory and grammar schools and their elder brothers and sisters from the commercial—when from the dividing lines at the south side of the square two baby children, a boy and a girl, bore the folded flag into the arena. When it was adjusted to the halyards, Father Bogan addressed them in part as follows:

"My young fellow Americans, within a few minutes there is to be enacted in the Capital City of the United States a scene that shall live in the history of the Nation. President Wilson, surrounded by his official advisers, and the Senators and Congressmen of every State in the Union, will stand sponsor for the will of the people in a crisis in our national existence as serious in its reality, as awful in its consequences, as epochal in its finality as any in the history of our country.

"With the burden of responsibility upon his shoulders, he has carried his obligations to the people through months of contending influences with a patience and fortitude that have in themselves builded a pedestal on which history shall place him for the gratitude and admiration of posterity. With an intimate knowledge of the mind of the people,—the resources of the Nation and the inevitable horrors of war, he will plead the cause of national honor in defense of which every American worthy of that sovereign title shall stand out to be counted. Today our young soldier men stand awaiting the call to a soldier's duty—our hopes and our hearts are with them. When once the President is vested with authority to act, his authority is God's command to the conscience of the Nation. That he may wield his authority with wisdom is our prayer; that he may direct as unerringly is our hope; that the honor of the Nation shall be preserved is the tribute of our confidence in his leadership. Strong as your voices are, you cannot hope to reach his ear, and so you give flight to the impatient flag that it may bear aloft the message of your faith in him, your hope in him, and your confidence that through him the God of battles will uphold the honor of the Flag without a stain."

Just as the flag took flight and the opening tone of The National Song was heard, the Angelus bell in the nearby steeple called the people of the parish to their mid-day prayer. The Nation's song was hushed for the moment, as with bowed heads and reverent tone, the Angel's prayer was said. Then with the sanction of religion on the spirit of patriotism, the "Star Spangled Banner" was sung as if the Soul of America awoke on the lips of the singers and the angels above gave echo to the song of a Nation's confidence.

Banner of America! O banner of the people!
In the love we bear you, let all class distinction die.
Wave from tow'ring city spire or tiny village steeple,
Every eye is glad to see your splendor in the sky!

Banner of America! Oh, gonfalon of glory!
Many a soldier son for you has suffered death's eclipse,
Many a soldier dad whose name is lost to song or story,
Gladly gave his life to see you shine above the ships!

Banner of a freedom that the centuries have sighed for,
Banner of a land that gives the soaring spirit scope,
Ever-sacred symbol of a dream that men have died for,
Wave above a nation where the humblest heart may hope!

Rev. J. W. Flynn New Pastor at Monroe Ave.

Complying with his request that he be sent to some other pastorate, Rev. D. B. F. Randolph, for the past three years pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, was assigned at the Newark Methodist convention to the Methodist church at Hasbrouck Heights. His place has been filled by Rev. J. W. Flynn, for some years pastor of the Bernardsville Methodist church, who will occupy the pulpit for the first time on Easter Sunday morning. Dr. Randolph will leave for his new charge sometime during the coming week.

It Costs Less---At First

To bury in a wooden box, a slate or brick cistern or even a cement vault with an unsealed lid costs less than the Norwalk. A heavy top lowered and sealed by hand is naturally more expensive. But once you have seen with your own eyes the workman cement the top and bottom of the Norwalk Vault together into one solid piece of masonry you are satisfied; and that comfort is worth any price you could pay. That's why every modern undertaker is glad to use the Norwalk—he can guarantee his work. Your undertaker can give you the necessary information.

Beauty—and beauty to a marked degree—is a prominent characteristic of the CONWAY. The delicate grace of its line, the superb finish of its case can give you no other impression than one of beauty. You cannot realize that it is a player piano of moderate price.

And yet, beauty was purely incidental—in the creation of this good instrument. First of all, it was made to be RELIABLE. That was the aim—to design a player-piano of sturdy strength and durability—for it was to be an instrument destined to carry a name that cannot countenance inferiority—the name of CONWAY.

It is the name of one of the greatest manufacturers in the piano industry—and his product is worthy of his name. It is one of the greatest achievements of the industry—a moderately priced player-piano of RELIABILITY.

WHAT SOCIETY IS DOING DURING WINTER MONTHS

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

NEWS OF THE WEEK CONCERNING PLAINFIELD PEOPLE

Patriotic Women Make a Plea for United Effort

Speaking in behalf of the entire organization, Mrs. Frederick W. Goddard, president of the local branch of the National Special Aid Society, has issued an appeal for all local women's societies that wish to help the United States to unite their efforts as a means of better accomplishing that end. Plainfield women have long been noted for their patriotism and during the present crisis, when war seems inevitable, have been working as never before, but a considerable portion of their energies have been wasted because they have gone about their work in the wrong manner. Mrs. Goddard's plea for a united effort should meet with instant success. All information as to proceedure will be given by Mrs. Goddard.

Mrs. Goddard's appeal was worded as follows:

All Plainfield women's organizations desiring to do war relief work are earnestly urged to affiliate with the National Special Aid Society. Information as to procedure may be obtained from the president, Mrs. F. W. Goddard. 'Phone 2580.

The National Special Aid Society stands ready to answer the call of their Government in doing what they can to relieve suffering and distress.

Mrs. James F. Fielder and Governor Edge are co-operating with the society, and it is earnestly hoped the women of Plainfield will respond to this appeal.

The effort on the part of the local branch of the National Special Aid Society to bring the local women's organizations together so that they may work in one direction with the greatest possible results is a commendable one. Of them all the National Special Aid is the only one that has had any official recognition. Both Mayor Calkins and Governor Edge have accepted the proffered services of some two hundred members of the society and the national organization, composed of women all over the country, has received the support of the Government.

At present there are no less than a dozen small societies composed of only a few women who are working on bandages, sheets or some other such thing. The National Special Aid has opened headquarters on East Front street and besides completing the making of supplies for a base hospital the members have learned the rudiments of first aid, organized a motor unit and prepared to fill other positions now occupied by men.

Following the receipt of instructions from the Government, the local branch of the National Special Aid Society has commandeered fifty beds at Muhlenberg Hospital. Sheets, bedspreads, bandages and other articles that have been made by the members of the hospital have been sent to the institution and everything is ready to care for wounded, whether as the result of an explosion, a rifle shot or anything else. While the members of the society will see to the upkeep of the beds and care for the injured, the nurses at the hospital will also help, as well as the young women who completed the National Special Aid first aid course.

The National Special Aid Society has appointed a "comfort" committee, with Mrs. A. C. Penn as chairman, whose duty it is to do all possible to help Company K and Troop D, when that unit is called out. Yesterday the motor unit of the society went to Elizabeth and took cigarettes, candy, magazines and books to the boys of Company K. Many letters and words of remembrance from mothers, sisters or sweethearts were also conveyed to them.

The society has organized three classes of women who wish to become "trained helpers." They will change bandages and make wounded soldiers comfortable until a surgeon can attend to them. Large numbers of women are flocking to the headquarters of the society each day, to

Elks' Operetta to be Presented

Easter Week has several amateur theatrical productions on its date card for the entertainment of local people, and the largest of them is the annual operatic presentation by the Plainfield Lodge of Elks. Rehearsals have been about completed and other arrangements have been made for the elaborate staging of "The Land of Mystery" in the Plainfield Theatre next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

The setting for the opera is representative of an India garden and calls for special curtains, drops and lighting effects. Several separate sketches and the latest song numbers are included in the program and add to the attractiveness of the offering. The entire cast will include nearly 400 adults and children, the latter forming the chorus in "The Ballet of the Fairies." The principals that have been selected by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Skilling, the coaches, are as follows:

Cornelius Vanderocks, American, William J. Tallamy; Bindhandhadhad, priest of Madura, R. F. Tallamy; Loonl-O-Yam-Yam, Hindu fakir, Joseph C. Martin; Willie Steele, a never do well, Charles Krueger; Otto Koppet, Steele's Dutch companion, Benjamin Bedwell; Noah Ham, Vanderock's valet, Harry C. Bliss; Ima Smore, Edward Bennett; Kara-must, head Nautch girl, Miss Juliette Brancati; Kishu Lani, temple singing girl, Miss Bessie Gunzelman; Inhoo Kan, a Nautch, Miss Grace Harding; Mary Swift, a newly-made heiress, Miss Sadie F. Lee; Aphrodite, a chemical product, Miss Edna Mantz; Toney, a black chemical product.

Another effort on the part of local thespians to amuse will be the presentation in St. Joseph's Hall on Wednesday night of a three act comedy farce, "The Hoodoo." It will be under the auspices of the Chi Gamma Chi Society and will mark the initial entrance of that fraternal organization into the theatrical field. Those included in the cast of "The Hoodoo" are the Misses Nora Bergen, Alice Seidel, Daisy Maria Murray, Helen A. Brymiarski, Frances Newman, Theresa McCullough, Margery Barry, Margaret Moran, Anna McGinness, Elsie Moulton, Katherine Newell and Esther Regan and Earl Moran, Harold Neal, William Mead, Alfred Seidel, Edwin Sullivan and Frederick Greene. Dancing will follow the production.

Big Musical Here Monday as Benefit

A musical concert will be held in the auditorium of the Plainfield High School on Easter Monday night under the auspices of the Plainfield Dental Society, the proceeds to be devoted to the maintenance of the free dental clinic at Muhlenberg Hospital. Evan Williams, widely known concert singer, and the Edith Rubel Trio, composed of three women of international reputation, will contribute the evening's program and will be assisted at the piano by Barry L. Gilbert.

Of the singers who have delighted American audiences for many years it is safe to say that there is none whose name is more closely associated with our concert stage than Evan Williams. This most distinguished artist (long known as the "great Welsh tenor," although born in Ohio) is known through the length and breath of the land His golden voice has thrilled thousands in concerts and millions through the medium of the Victor records distributed the world over. No doubt if he is called upon for encores he will respond with some of his favorite songs, including "Absent," "A Dream," "A Perfect Day," "Open the Gates of the Temple," and other popular airs.

During the past season several distinguished artists have followed The Rubel Trio in its work of bringing to light rare and little known musical gems heretofore never heard on concert platforms and the interest aroused has been wide-spread. In thus combining on one program works from the literature of classic and modern trio music, arrangements for short groups of songs from centuries ago and a group of folksongs of many lands, there is a variety and interest to the Trio's offerings that has until now remained unknown in chamber music concerts. The Trio is composed of Edith Rubel, violin; Marie Roemaet Volk, 'cello, and Brenda Putnam, piano, and their renditions of folksongs has gained for them a high place in the musical world.

The Colgate Glee Club made its first appearance in Plainfield on Tuesday night when it gave a concert in the Plainfield High School

War's Judgment

Bloody war, that curse of ages,
Over Europe once more rages
And world-interest engages
As it did in days of yore.
Destroying seats of learning,
Poor peasants' shelters burning,
Pleas for mercy grimly spurning,
As they give oft been spurned before.

The fifth Commandment disregarded,
While cathedrals are bombarded,
Christian Onchings all discarded,
While they blindly worship Mars.
Amid a steady cannonading,
Through screams of blood they're wading
And each the other's home invading,
Never thinking of the scars.

On the ocean ships they're sinking,
Culture with foul murder linking—
This should set mankind to thinking
Or ways and means to prevent war.
Now what form of compensation
Can repay the winning nation
That the woe and degradation
Will not outweigh by far?

Oh! the misery, tears and sadness,
That are caused by this war madness!
These, instead of joy and gladness,
Which are to this century due.
Could the strongest condemnation
Be too severe for civilization
To place on this abomination
That's been engendered by a few?

Know these few that soon or later
They must stand before the greater
Judgment seat of their Creator,
Then to Him what will they say?
Will they dare to refuse
To accept their weak excuses,
For the flaunting and abuses
Of His laws, as well He may—

They will then remember His words sublime,
Which will endure till the end of time:
Though forgotten here in their worldly climb—
"Vengeance is Mine—I will repay."

PERSONAL

The schools of the city and borough re-open Monday for the last session of the school year after being closed for a week during the annual spring vacation. Students, too, who have been spending a few days at their homes from college or boarding school are preparing to leave to resume their studies. There were no dances or other social activities to help while away the time this year and as a result most of the young women resorted to relief work.

Among those registered at the Greenbrier, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., for the Easter activities are Mrs. Ernest R. Ackerman, Miss Julia Weber and Mrs. Max Meinger, of this city.

Mrs. O. B. Waring, of Park avenue, has recovered from a several weeks' illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank French, of Washington street, who have been enjoying a pleasure trip through the South, have started North and expect to arrive in the borough early the coming week.

Charles Hand, the local realty promoter, is taking a few weeks' rest at Atlantic City.

William G. Besler, of West Eighth street, and president of the C. R. R. of N. J., is in St. Vincent's Hospital, New York, recovering from an operation of a serious nature.

Miss Marie Adele Le Poidevin, of West Sixth street, became the bride on Saturday night of Thomas W. Power, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Power, of West Seventh street, at a quiet home wedding. The ceremony was performed at the home of her mother, Mrs. Ellen P. Le Poidevin, by Rev. D. B. F. Randolph, of the Monroe Avenue church. Miss Elizabeth G. Doig was matron of honor and the best man was William J. La Poidevin, brother of the bride, who was given in marriage by John Le Poidevin, another brother. Following a wedding trip they will reside on West Sixth street.

Miss Anna Schwartzbach, of Elizabeth, and Charles Kurtzman, of this city, were married Sunday night at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schwartzbach, of Elizabeth. They are now enjoying a wedding trip to Atlantic City and on their return will reside on West Fifth street.

Mrs. Henry Clay Irons, of West Eighth street, will close her winter home at Ormond Beach in a few days and return to Plainfield after spending the winter in the South. Mrs. Irons gave a bridge and tea party on March 10, the proceeds of which have been sent to Europe in the name of the Mercy Committee, of which she is an ardent worker.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Edith May Lippencott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lippencott, of Fairview avenue and William Kunzelman, also of this city. No date has been set for the wedding.

Daniel McNamee, of Central avenue, has been spending his spring vacation from his studies at Lafayette College in Plainfield.

Chester Chamberlain and Ted Ryder, both of this city, are enjoying an Easter vacation from their studies at Brown University.

Miss Dorothea Bull, of Park avenue, is sojourning at Atlantic City.

The annual dance of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, will be held in Columbus auditorium Monday night. Van Eps' banjo orchestra will furnish music and the committee on arrangements is arranging several entertaining features.

Who Will Help in a Patriotic Cause?

At this time when everyone is trying to show his or her patriotism in every way possible, someone has made the discovery that Plainfield, unlike the majority of other cities, does not possess a flag or pole of its own. As a result Francis L. Montgomery, of Watchung avenue, has started an agitation which he hopes will end in the purchasing of a large flag.

Mr. Montgomery proposes to erect the pole opposite the Crescent Avenue church and across from the new city hall. A number of people have already expressed a wish to help and any one who will contribute may communicate with Mr. Montgomery, at 1015 Watchung avenue.

Spirit of Eastertide in the Local Churches

The observance of Easter in the churches this year will carry with it a double significance, especially so when this country finds itself on the brink of war, and because of that special efforts have been made by every denomination for appropriate programs. In several of the churches sacred cantatas will be rendered, while in all of them musical services will be the feature. Visiting preachers have chosen interesting and unusual topics for their sermons, and decorations in the churches will bear out the spirit of the occasion. The annual exercises of the Sunday-schools will be held on Easter, for the most part in the afternoon.

The annual Good Friday union service of the churches of Plainfield will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. It is planned to make it one of the largest church gatherings ever held in the city and the public is urged to attend. Among the ministers of the city who will assist and who have asked their congregations to attend are Rev. Philip B. Strong, Rev. Samuel T. Carter, Rev. Edward S. Ralston, Rev. Birney S. Hudson, Rev. Henry Meeter, Rev. C. S. Gillespie and Rev. John Sherdina Zelie.

Included in the services will be a musical program with appropriate hymns. The "Seven Words From the Cross" will be sung, as well as other Easter pieces.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL.

The services at the First Congregational church on Easter Sunday morning will be in charge of the Rev. Howard E. Clarke. The church will be appropriately decorated and special Easter music will be rendered by violin, harp, organ and choir. At the vesper service at 4 o'clock in the afternoon Rev. Dr. J. T. Stocking, of Upper Montclair, will preach. Special Easter exercises will be enjoyed by the members of the Sunday-school at the regular session.

GRACE EPISCOPAL.

On Easter Day the services at Grace Episcopal church will start at 7:30 with the celebration of Holy Communion. Two other communion services will follow at 8:00 and 10:30. At 4:00 p. m. the rector, Rev. E. Vicar Stevenson, will conduct a special children's service, and at 8:00 there will be a choral Evensong. S. Frederick Smith, the organist, will be in charge of the musical services, which will be appropriate in nature. On Monday and Tuesday of Easter Week the rector will conduct a service at 10:00 a. m.

ST. STEPHEN'S.

Beginning with Easter Sunday St. Stephen's will have a pastor for the first time in months. Rev. Dr. J. Atwood Stansfield, who so successfully conducted a week's revival at the church during February, has consented to fill the pastorate for at least six months and will take charge tomorrow. Holy Communion will be celebrated Easter morning at 7:00 and the morning services with Holy Communion will be held at 11:00, and the evening service will be at 8:00. The choir will render appropriate music at the two preaching services and the church will be decorated with Easter flowers.

HOLY CROSS.

An evening service will be held in the Church of the Holy Cross tonight in observance of Good Friday, at which time Rev. Latta Griswold, of Trinity chapel, New York, will make an address. The oratorio of "Calvary" will also be rendered, with several solos.

On Saturday afternoon at 4:30 the rector will conduct an evening prayer with short address, followed by Easter baptisms.

There will be special services on Easter Sunday beginning with the celebration of Holy Communion at 7:00. Morning prayer will be at 10:30, morning preaching service with Holy Communion at 11:00, children's Easter festival in the afternoon at 3:00, and evening prayer with short address at 7:45. Metler Davis, as follows: Prelude by organ, "Spring Song," Alfred Hollins; carol, "This Joyful Easter-Tide," Amsterdam Dutch, (1685); anthem, "They Have Taken My Lord, Away," Sir John Stainer; offertory anthem, "Come See the Place Where Jesus Lay," Horatio Parker; and postlude, "Hallelujah Chorus," George Frederick Handel. At the Sunday-school session there will be a program of Easter hymns, and the pastor will also make a short address. At the afternoon musical service there will be a rendition of a program of five spring songs.

ST. MARY'S.

Easter Masses will be celebrated at 6:30, 7:30, 8:30 and 11:00 at St. Mary's Sunday. The last mass will be a solemn mass. Miss Mary A. A second communion service will be held at 8:00, followed by the morning service at 11:00. The rector will take various phases of the "Resurrection" and embody them in his sermon. Under the direction of Juan Babcock, choirmaster and Evan Stevens, organist, a musical program will be rendered as follows: Processional, "Welcome Happy Morning," hymn, "The Day of Resurrection;" offertory anthem, "Christ Is Risen," and recessional, "Jesus Christ Has Risen Today." At 3:30 in the afternoon the members of the Sunday-school will hold their annual Easter festival. The rector will make a short address and the attendance prizes will be awarded. At 7:30 there will be an Evensong service, when the rector will again discuss the "Resurrection." The church will be decorated.

ALL SOULS'.

Rev. Mr. Haltzly will take "Faith or Doubt" as the subject of his sermon at All Souls' church on Easter morning. The Sunday-school session will be as usual. On Monday afternoon from 2 to 5 an Easter Monday part will be held in the church parlors, to which all of the congregation are invited.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

The members of the Sunday-school of the First Presbyterian church will have charge of the morning service Easter Sunday and will render as appropriate program under the direction of Martin A. Korff. Rev. Charles E. Herring will make a short address appropriate to the occasion. In the evening a musical service will be rendered that has been arranged by Organist Harold. The choir will sing "Unfold Ye Portals Ever Lasting," from the Redemption, and afterward Mrs. James Gilbert will sing a solo, "Christ Is Risen." The entire evening service will be given over to a musical program arranged by Miss Alice Carroll and consisting as follows: Cantata, "Life and Death," by Sheldon, and "King All Glorious," by Barnby. Arrangements for the services have not as yet been completed, but they will be in the nature of a welcome to the new pastor.

FIRST M. E.

The services at the First M. E. church Sunday will be devoted entirely to the observing of Easter. At the regular morning service Rev. Charles M. Anderson, the pastor, will preach a short sermon of an appropriate nature and a musical program will be rendered under the direction of Clifford Braider. The annual festival of the Sunday-school will be held in the afternoon, the program for which Dr. Joyce is planning. Mr. Braidder is arranging a program for the evening service, which will be entirely musical. It will include the rendition of a sacred cantata. The church will be suitably decorated with palms and lilies.

TEMPLE BAPTIST.

Plans are now being made for the proper observance of Easter at the Temple Baptist church. Rev. E. C. Conover will preach appropriate sermons at both the morning and evening services and there will be special music.

PARK AVE. BAPTIST.

Special Easter services will be enjoyed by the Sunday-school of the Park Avenue Baptist church Easter Sunday morning at 9:45. At the 11:00 o'clock morning service Dr. Birney S. Hudson will preach on "The Resurrection and Modern Thought." In the evening his subject will be "God Does Not Stop War." Special aster music will be rendered by the quartet.

Y. W. C. A. to Observe Tenth Anniversary

The Plainfield branch of the Young Women's Christian Association is making plans for the observance this month of the tenth anniversary of the forming of the association. On April 9 the Women's Institute will hold its annual meeting, at which Miss Frederman will exhibit some of the work of art crafts classes, and Miss Alice Titus, acting general secretary, will describe the work being done in this city.

A "Library Party" will be held in the association rooms on the evening of April 14 under the auspices of the educational department of the association. Everyone who comes is asked to bring a book as a donation to the library. A meeting will be held on April 19 under the auspices of the missions works department. Miss Nina Brentmore, of Australia, but who for some time has been directing the association work in Calcutta, India, will make an address, as will several others.

The last event arranged for is a "tag day" on April 21. Miss Elizabeth McKee has entire charge of arrangements for the campaign and is preparing to have twenty captains with over two hundred workers on hand for the day. Proceeds of the "tag day" will go to the association.

Beginning last Monday, couples desiring to be married in this State must now wait three days after making application for a license before the ceremony can be performed.

Miss H. O. Mattison, local registrar of vital statistics, has been notified that the law passed at the last session of the Legislature makes it necessary for the couple to make application for the license and then wait forty-eight hours before it can be granted. After it is granted twenty-four hours must intervene before the ceremony.

Women's Clubs

work on bandages, pajamas and other equipment for the hospital.

There will be two departmental meetings of the Monday Afternoon Club that will be held in the parish house of the Congregational church during the next two weeks. This coming Monday a meeting of the civics department will be held and will be in charge of Mrs. Charles R. Banks, of Watchung avenue. On April 16, the following Monday, the literature department will hold a meeting, at which time Mrs. Archibald Cox will read a paper on "Progressive Chile," and Miss Elsie De R. Suffern will read one on "Chilian Men of Letters."

At the April meeting of the Monday Afternoon Club held this week delegates to the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs' convention in Atlantic City from May 3-5 were named. Mrs. Harold D. Corbusier, president of the club, and Mrs. C. G. Emil Larson, the vice-president, were chosen and if they are not able to attend alternates will be picked.

Mrs. Brice Collard, corresponding secretary of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs, has sent letters of instructions to the various delegates that will represent the individual clubs at the convention in Jersey City from May 3-5. All names of delegates and alternates must be filed with Mrs. Collard not later than April 25. A list of the hotels that are co-operating with the Federation in making plans for accommodating the delegates has been arranged by the secretary for the aid of those attending the convention. The hotels have oblikated themselves to contribute a percentage of their receipts to the bureau which will be maintained by the Federation to defray expenses. Badges and credential cards will be issued to delegates and they will admit the holder to the steel pier.

As the first step toward helping prepare the city, the recently organized Women's Auxiliary to the Home Defense League has started a two months' campaign to raise funds for the league treasury. The campaign will be a paper saving one and every householder in the city is asked to help. Two collections of paper will be made, one on May 1 and the other one June 1. Those who would help make the campaign a success are asked to communicate with Miss Jessie K. Stevens, 149 Crescent avenue.

One of the most successful lectures held under the auspices of the Monday Afternoon Club this season attracted many members of that organization and their friends to the parish house of the Congregational church Monday afternoon to hear Edward Page Gaston talk on "May War Adventures in Germany and Belgium." He vividly described his visits to thousands of Allied prisoners in Germany, of the destruction in Belgium and his inspection of prison camps in England.

Miss Janet Richards will give the first of her two additional lectures under the auspices of the Monday Afternoon Club in the auditorium of the Plainfield High School on Thursday afternoon. She will discuss the live topics of the day, our relations with Germany and other issues of national interest.

Mrs. Henry D. Hibbard, president of the Kenyon Gardens Association, is preparing to announce the resume of the activities of that organization, where they were interrupted last fall by the advent of cold weather. The work will have a double significance this summer, because besides being a pleasure it will tend toward reducing the high cost of living. A list of reasons why the Gardens should be supported has been issued by the officers and is as follows:

The work is health-giving. There was a noticeable gain in health among the children who worked in the gardens last summer.

The work is valuable from an economic standpoint. The vegetables raised on an 8x12 plot form a substantial addition to the family supplies.

The work furnishes pleasure of the best kind. Some fine crops grew in gardens last year, but the biggest and best was happiness.

Mrs. Henry C. Wells, Mrs. Champlain Riley and Mrs. Lawrance M. McNiel have been in Washington during the past week as delegates of the Plainfield Peace League. The members of the league have become interested in the plan of Miss Mabelle Phillips to Americanize foreigners and are doing all they can to help.

Mrs. Gilbert, of Crescent avenue, entertained the members of the Hasbro Club at her home Tuesday afternoon.

The National Belgian Relief Commission, co-operating with the Plainfield Belgian Relief Society, will send two of its workers here on the evening of April 25 to address a mass meeting to be held in either the Hartridge Auditorium or Plainfield High School, on the supplementary meal plan. Mrs. Vernon Kellogg, the only woman relief worker inside the German lines since the war started, and George R. Baker will make the two chief addresses and local people interested in the work will also speak.

Cornelius B. Tyler, treasurer of the local committee raising funds for providing Belgian children with meals, reports that there is $1,500 on deposit as part of Plainfield's contribution, which is enough to supply that number of children with food for a month. A dollar furnishes one child food for a month and the plan is to get a certain number of Plainfield people to agree to give that amount each month toward the fund.

before a large number of friends and supporters. The proceeds were for the benefit of the B. A. A. of the High School. Following the concert Van Eps' orchestra furnished the music for dancing until a late hour. The list of patronesses follows: Mrs. Albert O. Tilney, Mrs. R. Van D. Hedges, Mrs. Leighton Calkins, Mrs. Harry E. White, Mrs. L. D. Beers, Mrs. Lindsey Best, Mrs. Frank S. Holt, Mrs. A. E. Crone, Mrs. Archibald Cox, Mrs. E. Stuart Simons, Mrs. Henry M. Maxson, Mrs. S. K. Woodruff, Mrs. S. G. Hubbard, Mrs. Charles E. Borden, Mrs. Juan Babcock, Mrs. Steven H. Voorhees, Mrs. J. Herbert Case, Miss C. O'Donnell, Mrs. Frederick R. Chamberlain, Mrs. C. A. Dill, Mrs. W. L. Smalley, Mrs. E. H. Good and Mrs. George H. Fountain.

One of the two remaining musicals of the Plainfield Musical Club for the present season will be held Easter Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Henry Lockwood DeForest. Mrs. DeForest will be heard in piano solos, as well as piano and 'cello and piano and violin duets. She will be assisted by Mrs. John Mills, of Philadelphia, violinist, and Miss Laura Tappan, of New York, 'cellist.

Weekly rehearsals for the presentation of a program of short songs sometime during May have been started by about fifty members of the Community Chorus under the direction of Clifford Bralder. The rehearsals are held in the auditorium of the Franklin School every Monday night. The exact date of the concert has not yet been decided upon and probably will not be until Mr. Bralder is satisfied with the rehearsals.

Controversy Holds Up Improvements

It became known this morning that owners of property on West Second street are contemplating improvements to buildings on that thoroughfare that will make it one of the best in the business section of the city. The inability to gain the consent of the owners of the property at 108 West Second street has caused nothing to be done and unless some agreement is reached things will be left as they are.

Little regard for the building line has been shown on the north side of West Second street and as a result the sidewalk is a great deal too narrow. The front of the structure located at 108 West Second street juts out several yards beyond those on either side and besides causing the sidewalk to be so narrow that theatre crowds have to take to the street at that point it hides the view of the buildings on the west side of it from Park avenue.

Counihan & Shannon, Fred Ivamy and other property owners on that thoroughfare have wanted for sometime to improve the fronts of the structures they occupy but are unwilling to do so until the building line ordinance is enforced so that it is uniform the entire length of the street.

County Derives Big Sum From Aliens

The sum of $1,376 has been turned into the county clerk's office in the past two months as the result of naturalization applications, and half of this amount will go to Union county. Last Friday's eight-two applicants, sixty-two for first and twenty for second papers, helped to swell the sum. This is the largest amount ever taken in during such a short period from naturalization applications.

The realization of $688 for the county has meant that the county clerk's office has been giving time and work to receiving and registering the various papers needed by an aplicant. Ever since relations with Germany became strained, and then broken, the office has been going at high speed, not only Friday and Friday evenings, but also during the rest of the weekdays.

It was for this reason that the county clerk applied to Judge Connolly for extra pay for his force during the stress of the citizenship rush. The latter, however, saw no reason for the increase, saying it would not be possible to give a temporary raise because of the law, and believing that the extra work would not last long. No great signs of a decrease in applications have yet been evident.

"HER SOLDIER BOY."

Clifton Crawford will begin the eighteenth week of his engagement in "Her Soldier Boy," at the Astor Theatre next Monday night. That the theatregoing public appreciates a musical play in which charming music, a humorous book and a brilliant cast are cleverly combined is proved by the fact that capacity audiences have been the rule at the Astor since the opening night of the operetta on December 6th last.

"Her Soldier Boy," which is based upon the original of Victor Leon, is the work of Rida Johnson Young. The music is by Emmerich Kalman, with additional numbers by Clifton Crawford and Sigmund Romberg. The play concerns a romance behind the firing lines in Belgium.

Coast Duty For Plainfield Boys A Severe Test

(By Staff Correspondent.)

With Company K—Somewhere In Jersey—April 13.—Grimly determined to do their Federal chiefs' bidding but heartily sick of the monotonous duty assigned them members of Company K, of Plainfield, have thus far weathered the wintry blasts blown from the gray Atlantic in excellent shape. Captain Peterson's charges are in all probability patrolling one of the most disagreeable unit posts in the State's picketing plan. Since we landed here the mercury has on several occasions dropped to zero; the winds have been severe and penetrating; and the territory we are protecting is not the kind that brings thoughts of "Home Sweet Home."

During the past forty-eight hours climatic conditions have been milder and guard detail has been less exacting. The men are all hardened to the task before them but they all yearn for action—real action. Guarding piers and coastline is wearisome work under the best of circumstances but the Company K boys are performing their patriotic duty in admirable shape; hardly a murmur of discontent being noticeable.

That there has been a "leak" somewhere is evident. When we first landed here we were admonished not to divulge the location of our post and were warned against furnishing relatives with even an inkling of information regarding our camp site. The number of visitors from Plainfield during the week, however, has been strongly indicative that our whereabouts are generally known. Automobiles and trains coming into this place have brought scores of home folk and the amount of mail directed correctly to the intended receiver is another evidence that the "leak" has occurred. Strict discipline is being maintained by Captain Peterson and his fellow officers, however, and the visitors or letters from home are not allowed to interfere with soldiery conduct.

Only a few of the Plainfield boys have been granted leaves thus far, several of them going to Plainfield on over-night trips to attend to urgent business. In every instance they returned back to the post at a designated time and there is little chance of the enlisted men gaining over-night liberties unless they furnish sufficient reason for the same.

Captain Peterson went to Plainfield on business yesterday afternoon and returned here shortly before noon. During his absence First Lieutenant A. R. Phillips and Second Lieutenant James Conkling were in charge.

Disagreeable weather conditions and the monotony of coast guard duty has been somewhat overshadowed by the hospitality of the natives. Everything possible is being done to make our stay at this place a comfortable one. A large and well appointed armory is at our disposal for sleeping purposes and our entire subsistence is stored in the drill shed. Residents of this place stand ready to do our bidding at every turn. All we need do is say the word and it seems as though Company K could have anything it wanted.

The seventy-three men of the Plainfield outfit are guarding a territory over 600 square miles and at present they are working in twenty-four hour shifts. Captain Peterson is working out a plan by which he hopes to be able to station an extra man at each post for relief duty. This will enable the guards to secure an occasional day off and a possible opportunity to visit home.

When the company arrived at the main post last Friday afternoon the work of distribution started immediately and happenings in various places indicated that the people along the coast had been well posted on the soldiery here. When one detachment arrived at a small resort half the population was waiting at the railroad station.

At one station the people have threatened to rent a private house for the soldiers' benefit, installing shower baths and other conveniences. At another place the railroad has fitted up a hot air system in the waiting room of the station for the benefit of the guards.

CITY OF PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION.

Whereas, the Congress has declared that a state of war has been thrust upon the government and people of the United States by the Imperial German Government, and has authorized and directed the President to employ the resources of the government to carry on the war and bring the conflict to a successful termination.

Now therefore, I, Leighton Calkins, Mayor of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, do call upon all citizens resident in the city to display the flag at their homes and places of business, and show by act and word their unswerving loyalty to the government of the United States and their determination to support it by all means within their power for the defense of country and for the maintenance of the rights and liberties of mankind; and

Whereas, The President in his message to the Congress has reminded us that, notwithstanding our present conflict with the Imperial German Government we are still the friends of the German people and have, even in war, the opportunity to prove that friendship by our attitude toward those of German origin who live among us;

Now therefore, I do further urge upon the people of this community that they make allowance for natural feelings of sympathy which Americans of German descent will have for the unfortunate plight of the country of their origin, and show them and those also of German birth who, notwithstanding such feelings, are in fact unconditionally and outspokenly loyal to the country of their voluntary adoption, a neighborly consideration.

As for aliens among us, they will be protected in their personal and property rights so long as they conduct themselves inoffensively, obedient to their obligations as residents in this country, which impose upon the man honorable compliance with the laws of the land and will be violated by the slightest hostile act, in abuse of the friendship and hospitality which we offer them in no spirit of mere tolerance but rather with the sincerest feelings of sympathy and regard.

Given under my hand this 6th day of April, 1917.

LEIGHTON CALKINS, Mayor.

To Mobilize Students for Home Service

This State is going to be mobilized right down to the children.

On farms, in shops, in school a great junior industrial army will work to supply food, equipment and other necessities, not only for the army in the field, but also for the Red Cross and the population at home.

Plans for the army were outlined yesterday by Assistant Commissioner Lewis H. Garris of the Department of Public Instruction at the second day's meeting of the conference of county superintendents and helping teachers of the State, which was resumed yesterday morning in Trenton. The scheme is sweeping in its scope and thorough in its details, and the mobilization is already under way.

The pupils of the State will be divided into five divisions. The agricultural division will assist in the production of food supplies on the farms, the larger boys will be placed on farms near their homes and will receive an adequate wage for their work.

Boys' vocational schools will manufacture products in constant demand by regular troops, and girls' vocational schools will furnish supplies for the Red Cross Society or kindred organizations. The household arts division will co-operate with associated charities in furnishing necessary household supplies for dependents of soldiers, and the manual training division will work in shops for the production of equipment, both for soldiers and others in war service.

Potato Bug Army Growing

Mayor "Bill" Anderson, of Watchung, is recruiting an army to fight potato bugs, this avenue of war preparation being another of the erstwhile Indian chief's twentieth century ideas designed to fit the demands of the day. In an interview with a Record reporter this morning the mountaineer resented the suggestion that the novel movement was a brainstorm product but agreed that the Dorrymora decemlineata specie of insect does not size up as formidably as an able-bodied German. "But there is just as much inspiration fighting the potato bug as there is in stopping cannon balls," added Bill.

"The response to my call for recruits has been very encouraging," declared the commander in chief. "Folks are beginning to realize the urgent necessity of putting every acre of spare ground to use."

Fighting the potato bug, the potato beetle, the potato worm, the potato fly, or the potato rot will, of course, be merely incidental in Mr. Anderson's propaganda but if he is going to turn a profitable crop of the esculent farinaceous tuber he must necessarily train his recruits in the art of routing all animal life that will tend to retard the hardy growth of the plant. The Watchungite shares the belief that the farmer will prove himself a far more important than the soldier during 1917 and he is spending a generous share of his busy life in departing facts to substantiate this claim to likely candidates.

You don't have to be acquainted with a hoe or spade to enlist in Mr. Anderson's unit of preparedness. A desire to help Uncle Sam in the present crisis is the only qualification necessary.

Attractiveness is lent to the potato bug army mobilization by the assurance of Mr. Anderson that the working district will not be confined solely to Watchung soil being underway to acquire suitable land in the civilized districts of Plainfield.

Owens' Job Placed Under Civil Service

The positions of twenty-one collateral inheritance tax collectors, one for each county, were all vacated by the act passed by the Legislature which just took effect. John P. Owens, of this city, who is the collector of Union county, is one of those affected. Besides vacating the positions that they shall be filled under Civil Service regulations, State Comptroller Bugbee has temporarily reappointed all the dismissed collectors, excepting in Atlantic and Essex counties, pending the arrangements for the Civil Service test.

Essex county Lawyer Peter J. Cavichia, an Edge Republican, has been named temporarily to succeed Lawrence T. Fell, a Nugent Democrat. No appointment has been made yet for Atlantic county.

These are the places that were filled by former State Comptroller Edwards, without regard to Civil Service under an act passed by the Democratic Legislature of 1914.

Captain Vogel in N. Y. State

Somewhere In New York State—April 13.—Company H, 71st regiment, New York city, is diligently guarding railroad bridges and tracks in New York State commanded by Captain F. W. Vogel, of Plainfield, N. J. The leader in private life is a member of the music firm of Vogel & Briggs in the New Jersey city.

Captain Vogel this afternoon spoke highly of the treatment being received by the New Yorkers in Hudson, in Stockport and in Tivoli. "The people of Hudson are hospitable and deserve outspoken praise," he declared. Lieut. Conway concurred.

"Too much cannot be said in praise of the local Y. M. C. A.," Captain Vogel said. "Not only have privileges in association's buildings been given our men, but stationery, etc., in abundance have been provided."

Many Hudsonians are donating pies, salads, candies, cigars and cigarettes to the "H" boys, too, and the use of the Elks' Club, St. John's Hall and the Knights of Columbus Hall have been offered the soldiers.

"The boys are very thankful to the management of the Playhouse for its kind offer to the boys to attend the 'movie' shows there free of charge. It is a commendable offer and the Playhouse management can rest assured that it will be thoroughly appreciated," one of the officers said.

Many of the soldiers saw "Joan the Woman" last night and this afternoon. They were greatly impressed by the picture which gives scenes of war in old days and at present.

The "H" boys at Stockport and Tivoli have excellent quarters, and the boys at the local armory appear pleased with their environment.

Captain Vogel left this city two weeks ago, his unit being one of the first ordered out for duty in the German crisis. He had only a short time previously returned from McAllen, Tex., where his command was stationed with the Mexican border campaign. He is recognized as one of the best officers in the New York State militia and has been many years of service.

A detailed receipt will be given for all articles so surrendered, and at the close of the war such articles will be returned.

Fourth Regiment Ordered Mobilized, Others Ready

Washington, April 13—Seven companies of National Guard Coast Artillery troops were called into the Federal service yesterday for police purposes, making more than 73,000 National Guardsmen under arms. They are: First Company, New Hampshire; Fifth, Eighth, Thirteenth, Fourteenth, Fifteenth and Eighteenth California.

Later Secretary Baker ordered into the Federal service the following National Guard Infantry units:

First Tennessee, Second Maine, First South Carolina, First Separate Battalion Florida, Second and Third Regiments and Company A of Kentucky, Eighteenth Pennsylvania, Fourth New Jersey, Third New York and Fifth Maryland.

The calling of the Fourth Regiment leaves only the Third Regiment, three batteries of artillery and one squadron of cavalry in this State. Troop D, of this city, belongs to the latter and expects a call any minute.

Factory Heads in Session to Plan Guarding

Special instructions for safeguarding all the plants in New Jersey engaged in the manufacture of war materials, including munitions, were given to the State factory inspectors yesterday at a conference held for the purpose at the State House, Trenton.

The meeting was held by the Department of Labor under the direction of General Lewis T. Bryant, State Commissioner of Labor. The school of instruction was conducted by Commissioner Bryant and Charles H. Weeks, chief of the Bureau of Structural Inspection.

The factory inspectors, numbering more than twenty, were given detailed directions as to their duties in bringing about the most efficient inspection that will aid the United States Government in the war emergency by safeguarding every factory that is turning out war supplies.

Several Plainfield factories will be affected by the newly mapped out program. The Standard Aero Company's local plant is at present the only local establishment under military guard but it is anticipated that similar protection will be furnished several others in the near future.

Captain Confers With Committee

Members of the Citizens' Committee met in the office of the Mayor last night for the purpose of discussing plans for caring for several families of men enlisted in Company K. Captain Charles Peterson, who came to Plainfield on official business earlier in the evening, was present and gave the names of a half dozen soldiers whose families are in need of community help.

William Newcorn, who is acting as chairman of the committee in the absence of George P. Mellick, presided over last night's session. During the course of the evening suggestion was made by one member that the care of soldiers' families takes the form of a charity and should be taken care of by the oversoor of the poor or the Charity Organization. Mr. Newcorn and Captain Peterson strongly resented the remark and the chairman explained that the act was a patriotic duty and not a charity.

The men named by Captain Peterson for aid have been carefully investigated by him and the expense entailed in adequately providing for their families will not be more than $200 a month.

Smalley Quits "Mayoring" to Celebrate Birthday

Mayor "Bill" Smalley, of North Plainfield, is today celebrating his arrival at the half century milestone. One of the main events of the day was a birthday party (with candles and all the other fixin's) in Ahearn's restaurant at the noon hour, members of the Business and Professional Men's Luncheon Club being the invited guests.

The borough official has spent the greater portion of the day struggling to bear up under the avalanche of "you don't look a day over twenty" compliments from his admirers (the majority being of the opposite sex).

Assemblyman Runyon Will Address "Gops"

The Union County Republican Committee will hold its monthly smoker next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the committee's headquarters, 64 Broad street, Elizabeth. Assemblyman William Runyon, of this city, it is expected will speak.

There will be some excellent vaudeville entertainment and refreshments will be served. The committee in charge comprises: Oscar Lamb, chairman; Thomas Searle, Harry Beltz, Elias Applegate and Charles A. Otto, Jr.

CAPSTICK BETTER.

According to information given out by his secretary, John E. Nicol, of this city, the condition of Congressman John H. Capstick, who is recovering from pneumonia, is very much improved. He is still confined to the Memorial Hospital at Morristown.

LICENSE RENEWED.

At the opening session of the Somerset County Courts at Somerville on Tuesday the licenses of Frank Probst, of North Plainfield, and Henry Pedefous, of Warrenville, were renewed.

Many Recruiting Stations Waiting for Volunteers

If the bill proposed by Senator Lodge, which is now in Congress, becomes a law universal training in the United States will become a reality and every male between the ages of 19 and 25 will be called to to the colors. However, until the fate of the bill is decided one way or the other the Government will have to depend upon voluntary enlistments to swell the ranks and in order to give everyone who wants to a chance to enlist thousands of recruiting stations have been opened all over the country in the past two weeks.

WHERE TO ENLIST.

TROOP D,
1120 Putnam avenue.
COMPANY K,
320 West Front street.
U. S. ARMY,
240 West Front street.
U. S. NAVY,
240 West Front street.
U. S. MARINES,
250 Market street, Newark.
ENLISTED RESERVE CORPS,
Record Office.

Patriotic youths in Plainfield should not find it difficult to find a recruiting station if they really want to enlist and if they apply at any of the places named they will be given the opportunity to join whatever branch of the service they desire to. With the exception of Company K armory every station is open with someone always on duty to answer questions or receive applications for enlistment. When the first call for Company K was issued recruiting was started, but when the company was moved "somewhere in New Jersey" additions to the ranks were stopped for the time being at any rate.

Troop D the local cavalry organization expects to be ordered to mobilize at any moment and in the past few days has received a number of recruits. As soon as the call comes an effort will be made to muster the company to full war strength of 100 men and officers.

Recruiting stations for both the U. S. Army and Navy have been established for some months in the Post Office building on West Front street, but since war was declared a special effort has been made to secure young men. The army seems so far to have been their favorite, although bot branches of the service have lost a number of men through lysical disability. During the past week Lieutenant Krellwitz, U. S. A., has made several trips to Plainfield from Washington, D. C., to arouse enthusiasm over the Quartermasters' Enlisted Reserve Corps and has resignated the Record office as an enrolling station. Men of all trades are wanted and will have an excellent chance or advancement. The nearest recruiting station for the U. S. marines is at 250 Market street Newark, and several Plainfield boys have already gone there to enlist. Enlistment for service on the mosquito fleet or on U-boat chasers are taken at the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

To Americanize Our Foreigners

Plainfield, following out the idea put into such excellent practice in New York, is to have a sort of forum, where the sole aim of those interested will be to make better citizens of the thousands of foreigners in the city. Due to the efforts of a number of local people who think that a foreigner should know about this country other than the color of its flag, a meeting of all those interested has been called for next Tuesday night to be held in the Public Library. Mayor Leighton Calkins will preside and a number of local people will make addresses. An effort to effect a permanent organization will be made.

Practically all the foreign organizations in the city have been approached and all have been enthusiastic over the project. Representatives of the following societies will be present at the meeting: Alliance of Poles, colored missions, Charity Organization Society, Children of Israel, Congregation Chavey Zedek, Daughters of the American Revolution, Gesang and Turn Verein, Italian Mission, Monday Afternoon Club, National Special Aid Society, North Plainfield Board of Education, Peace Society, Plainfield Board of Education, Protestant Evangelical church, Public Recreation Committee, Salvation Army, Catholic church, Thule Society, Swedish Pilgrim church, Young Women's Christian Association, Young Men's Christian Association, John Sobieski Society and the Visiting Nurse Association.

SEARCHLIGHTS INSTALLED.

Members of the Home Defense League stationed at the water works were helped last night by the rays of three searchlights so placed as to keep the ground around the structure in light.

LODGE DANCE.

A regular monthly meeting of Division 4 will be held in the lodge rooms at K. of P. Hall on Tuesday night, April 17. The initiation of candidates will take place.

Aliens Retired by U. S. Order

German employes of the Bosch Magneto Company of this city, quit work Tuesday morning following the receipt from the government of an order outlining the terms of the war time rule prohibiting aliens from remaining within the half mile radius established around munition plants. It is believed that the near proximity of the Standard Aero Corporation plant inspired the communication and it was immediately accepted at its face value by the Germans, numbering about thirty-five.

Self-starters, searchlights and magnetos are being turned out in large quantities at the South avenue factory and it is believed that the government will eventually commandeer the concern's resources. The retiment of German officials leaves a number of important vacancies, the majority of which occur in the executive department.

Military Training in Jersey High Schools?

Trenton, April 13.—The State Board of Education will meet tomorrow afternoon at 10:30 to decide whether or not there shall be military drill in New Jersey high schools. The Legislature passed a law requiring physical training in all schools, but left the question of military training with the Board of Education. The Board will hear all interests at tomorrow's meeting.

Assistant State Commission of Education Lewis H. Carris has completed the plan for the junior industrial army of the State. This organization is to mobilize direct and utilize the youth of the State to increase the production of necessities.

PARENTS OF BOY.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Wyckoff, of 28 Howard street, are the parents of an eight-pound boy.

YOUR TURN HAS COME—ENLIST AT ONCE!

By order of the War Department recruiting of the National Guard of New Jersey was resumed yesteday. Orders are to bring the company strength up to one hundred men.

Company K Needs You and Your Friends.

Captain Charles Peterson, First Lieut. A. R. Phillips and Second Lieut. James Conkling, who comprise the official commissioned personnel of the Plainfield infantry unit, began preparations for an active recruiting period yesterday and Captain Peterson visited Plainfield last night. There is room for a number of young men in this outfit and Captain Peterson is particularly anxious to secure volunteers of good moral character who have no one dependent upon them for support.

Life at Present Station Ideal.

The Company K boys are being treated royally at the scene of their present assignment. There is every reason to expect that they will be left at this spot indefinitely and as mild weather approaches the conditions will be ideal for seasoning recruits. This is your greatest opportunity to prepare yourself to serve your country. Get in touch with Captain Peterson at once and if you want further information visit the office of the Plainfield Record where minute details will be furnished you.

The National Guard is part of the first line army. Organization of a great army, soon to be undertaken, will entail months of training and require thousands of officers. The regular army and the National Guard are the first sources of material for such officers.

"Eleven P. M." Starring Blanche Bates, Here Tuesday

That well-known American actress, Miss Blanche Bates, will appear at the Plainfield Theatre, matinee and night, April 17, in a new play by Paul M. Potter, entitled "Eleven P. M." This is welcome news to local playgoers. Miss Bates has achieved many successes in the past that have endeared her to the theatregoing public, and in her new production by the author of the famous "Trilby," she is said to be provided with a vehicle eminently suited to her electric personality. As an actress she is second to none on our stage, and as a woman her high ideals for the best in the American theatre have endeared her to the public and to her profession. It will be good to see her again and to know that her brief retirement, due to the lack of a suitable play, is definitely at an end. Her managers, T. H. Hunter, Inc., have provided her with the best possible support of cast and production. Wilton Lackaye, one of the best actors on our stage, is the featured member of Miss Bates' remarkable company, which also includes such excellent players as Charles Hammond, Thomas J. McGrane, Charles Butler, Louise Mackintosh, Janet Travers, Jeffreys Travis, J. H. Barnes, Ferd Fenimore, Maria Ascaraga, Sallie Bergman, George Gaston, Henri Virey and Albert Prisco.

Blanche Bates.

The play has received the highest praise from critics in the cities in which it has showed and is the best local offering of the season. It is the annual testimonial to David Rogers, the treasurer, and that alone should insure a full house.

Huge Spectacle For Proctor's

Miss Geraldine Farrar, who has just completed under the direction of Cecil De Mille a filmed version of the life story of Joan of Arc, entitled "Joan the Woman," recently discussed the difference between the arts of motion picture and grand opera acting. The picture will be shown at Proctor's Theatre for three days, beginning next Monday, April 16th.

"There is something so different about creating a role for the camera and creating a part for the opera," said Miss Farrar. "The two arts are not so closely allied as one would think. With the opera there are weeks of preparation, to be sure, and then comes the premier. It is true that great latitude is allowed on the operatic stage for the development of character and to the broadening of effects. But after all, the fundamentals of the performance continue the same in its various repetitions.

Miss Farrar as "Joan."

"The past summer has been a revelation to me. For nearly three months, many hours every day and sometimes far into the night I have watched the story develop from an idea into a massive production. I think Mr. De Mille has done wonderful things and I believe the scenario by Jeanie Macpherson is to be a revelation to those who doubt that a long picture must rely upon its spectacular features to the exclusion of its heart interest. It is true that throughout this picture there are various extraordinary spectacles, such as the battle scene in the siege of Orleans, but one never loses sight of the central figures, her hopes, her ambitions, her disappointments and her failures."

Youthful Wanderer Booked At Theatre

Norman L. Spir, the American Boy Scout, who interviewed President Wilson, the Kaiser, Lord Kitchener and other world famous characters, will be at the Plainfield Theatre today and tomorrow, when he will tell of his experiences in traveling about the world. Although only a youth, he has seen more and gone through more than many a full grown man and narrates it in an interesting manner.

Another number on the bill that is especially appropriate to this season of the year is a comedy sketch with a patriotic motif, entitled, "The Slacker." It is presented by Johnny Walker and his company and treats lightly with a serious question. The other three numbers on the program include: The "Parlor Car Trio," comedians; Baker & Lane, clever girl dancers and singers, and Rosa & Stewart, variety artists.

The latest moving picture releases will be shown, including Pathe News and Mutual comedies.

Midnight Maidens At Theatre Monday

Considerable interest is displayed in the announcement of the Midnight Maidens as the attraction which comes to the Plainfield Theatre, Monday, April 16. Not only is the offering a noteworthy one on account of its large display of vaudeville specialties, but its chief attractiveness is in the two rollicking farcicttas, entitled "A Trip to Prisco" and "Fun in a Music Hall." A stage on a stage with brilliant hilarity exploited from patrons of two boxes adjoining the stage behind the footlights, is one of the best hits ever seen in extravaganza.

A large cast has been engaged and an extra large number of skilled mechanics will provide the different settings and effects.

Grace King, the well-known and dainty singing 'cellist, claiming to be the first one who ever introduced a specialty of this particular character; Fern, Bigelow and Meehan, in a conglomeration of eccentric drolleries; Hancock and Vernon, prominent whirlwind dancers; Billy Barry, the Celtic entertained; Helen Byron, prima donna; Clara Gibson, dashing soubrette; Ethel Vernon, a comedienne of charm; Harry Hearn, a grotesque mirth provoker; William Hoyt, a unique and clever German comedian; Charles Cardon and others will be much in evidence.

There is a wealth of wardrobe in which the well selected chorus will be seen to great advantage. A score of musical and dancing ensembles and the scenic splendor is unsurpassed.

LOCAL BOYS ENTERED.

While the Plainfield High School will not enter an entire team in the twenty-third annual athletic games of the University of Pennsylvania to be held on Franklin Field from April 27-28, several local boys are planning to sport the Red and Blue at the games. One of them will probably be "Bill" Daniels, the colored flyer, who made an excellent impression last year in the 100 yard dash. Allen Stevenson may enter in the shot-put. Ralph Runyan, a former P. H. S. boy and now a student at the U. of P., will represent that college in the pole vault and is considered to have an even chance with any one in the country in that event.

AFTER THE RAILROADS.

The Board of Public Utility Commissioners of New Jersey yesterday notified the D., L. and W. Railroad the Erie, the New Jersey Central and other railroads operating in New Jersey to file with it reports of all delays to trains of more than five minutes during the month of April.

FOOD PRICES SOARING AS TROUBLE DRAWS NEAR.

With Government officials considering plans for Federal control of food supplies, prices continued to soar to unprecedented heights yesterday.

Wheat futures opened strong with May bringing $2.02 1-2 cents per bushel in the pit, the highest price since 1869.

Corn and oats also opened strong and with good gains.

Cash wheat ranged as high as $2.11 1-4, while sales of cash corn went to $1.30, a high figure for this generation.

Hogs opened at $15.65 a hundred pounds, a new high record for this. Top price at noon was $15.75. May pork was $35.35 and July $34.85 per barrel, a gain of 20 cents each over yesterday's close. May lard was up 10 cents and July 20 cents. Ribs also showed good gains.

WOULD QUIT AS TRUSTEE.

New York, April 12.—Expressing a wish to retire from the trusteeship of the Samuel J. Tilden estate, Louis V. F. Randolph, of Plainfield, N. J., testified before Justice Finch in the Supreme Court that he had at times differed with George W. Smith, another trustee.

Fanwood Concentrating Efforts On 'Home Guards, Red Cross and Farming

Preparations are underway in every town, village and hamlet throughout the United States for war, but few places have arranged for such a complete mobilization of its resources as has Fanwood borough. In order that every resident may be doing something worth while three different branches of effort have been organized; namely: The Home Guards, community farming and Red Cross work. Officers have been elected and active measures have already been taken.

The control of the idea is vested in a board of directors and is the outcome of a committee on the part of the Civic Association. Edward Meeker has been elected president, rFank Bonnell, vice president; Herbert Knight, treasurer, and Arthur Kay, secretary. They are to be helped and advised by committees. Mrs. Albert I. Nichol is directing the work of the Red Cross Society. Major James Strausse, a retired army officer, will be military director until called to the colors, and Hulbert Beardsley will probably be chief of the community farming project.

The women and young girls of Fanwood have been engaged in Red Cross work for some months and as a result have a base hospital practically equipped, the Home Guards were organized during the past week and farming will be started as soon as the weather permits. At the organization meeting of the Home Guards seventy-six members were enrolled under the direction of Captain J. J. Thoman of Westfield, and already application has been made to the Government for an allotment of Krajg rifles. A site for a suitable rifle range is now being picked and as soon as possible uniforms will be secured. Major Strausse will probably have his men out for their first drill tomorrow afternoon.

While everyone will help in the community farming, it will be especially for those who are unable to take an active part in the Home Guards. A fund is to be raised to pay for the plowing of ground and the remainder of the work will be done by individuals. A number of property owners have granted the use of unused land for cultivation and before long onions and potatoes will be a common sight on front lawns.

Signal Station At Headquarters

The fire gong which was discarded by the Plainfield fire department several years ago has been put in service again at the plant of the Niles-Bement-Pond Company. This concern has agreed to furnish the steam necessary to operate it but the gong will in the future be used only as a signal for the Home Defense League.

Under the direction of Police Chief Kiely, the active head of the defense league during the day in Plainfield, the central station of the gong was established at police headquarters Wednesday morning. It will be tested every morning at 7:30 in order that the league may be certain that it is in service in case of emergency. The heads of the defense organization will arrange a schedule of taps in the near future which will be made known to the volunteers so that they will be ready for a call day or night.

LOCAL BOY IN SHOW.

Plainfield is represented in the Tech. Show of the students of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, "Not a Chance," by Dester Van D. Chandler, '19, who is one of the chorus.

Rev. and Mrs. Birney S. Hudson expect to leave the city in the course of the next few weeks for a month's vacation. On June 1 Mrs. Hudson leaves the Park Avenue Baptist church to take charge of the Portland, Maine, Baptist church.

All Wireless Stations Are to Be Dismantled

Announcement by the War Department that all amateur wireless stations are to be dismantled while the present trouble is occupying the country's attention means that a number of Plainfield youths will have to dispense with their outfits for the time being at least. While the police department has not yet received instructions to superintend the dismantling something definite may be expected at any time.

Secret Service men have on a number of occasions intercepted messages evidently intended for hostile people and this week every amateur station in New York was put out of commission by the police. Although there are quite a number of stations in this city none of them are large enough to send any great distance. When a request is made to each one possessing a station they will likely be willing to help by taking their apparatus down.

VISITED ATLANTIC CITY.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Newton Crane returned home Sunday from Atlantic City after spending five days. City Tax Collector and Mrs. William R. Townsend spent the week-end at Atlantic City. William Counihan, one of the managers of the Plainfield Theatre, and Mrs. Counihan spent last week at the same Atlantic coast resort.

HANDLING FINANCES.

A. M. Harris, of Central avenue, is chairman of the committee handling the financial affairs of "Billy" Sunday's New York revival, which opened last Sunday.

JUST A SUGGESTION: NOT A CRITICISM.

Although there has been hardly an utterance of complaint from those members of the Home Defense League who have been assigned to guard duty the plan of patrol now in use does not appear to be the most efficient that could be mapped out. The policy of compelling a man to cover a post for four consecutive hours does not savor of military ethics and it is doubtful whether or not the commanding personnel is getting the desired results. During the past week men have been detailed to guard the water tanks in the east end of the city, the duty being assigned in four-hour shifts, a man going to the post at a designated hour and leaving for home as soon as relieved.

In the Federal army and in the militia a man is seldom called upon to patrol a post more than two hours at a time; the general rule being to do duty two hours and rest four hours in an appointed guard house near the post. He is thus enabled to obtain the amount of rest during the night that will make him fit for service the following day.

As we understand it the Home Defense League has adopted an eight or ten-hour night schedule at the water tanks, one shift of men reporting at 9 o'clock and working four or five hours and another detail going on duty at 1 o'clock for a similar length of duty. The period of activity is altogether too long for the seasoned soldier and it is only reasonable to expect that it is too exacting from the volunteers who have their own business interests to look after the following day. If instead of having two shifts all of the men were ordered to report at 9 o'clock and serve in alternating details a bigger squad would be available at all times and greater efficiency in patrol work could be attained. There would be a reserve force stationed at the guard house at all times which could be mustered out at short notice. In the present plan trouble at one post would no doubt necessitate calling the guards from other posts and leaving certain spots unprotected.

The present plan may also have its good features but it is hard to believe that a man patrolling one post for four hours consecutively is capable of rendering the same efficient service as a man working in alternating shifts.

RED STAR MOVEMENT WORTHY OF SUPPORT.

An effort is being made locally to stir up interest in the Red Star work authorized by the United States War Department and there are sufficient reasons for a general endorsement of the project in this and other communities of New Jersey and the nation. The Red Star move will be patterned after the Red Cross organization but the new activity will take charge of horses and other dumb animals during war time instead of human beings. The care of beasts of burden has been a troublesome proposition to the government in previous times of stress and the Red Star movement bobs up as the most logical solution to the problem. On the battlefield and in the training camp much depends upon the animal and an organized force to work for the preservation of the horse and mule is much needed.

The recent Mexican border campaign stages out as a graphic example of mistreatment received by horses and mules. The soldiers did not have the necessary time to devote to the care and acclimation of the equine and as a consequence many of them died or had to be shot after considerable suffering. It is the aim of the Red Star movement to do just such work in the army camps, relieving the enlisted men of the responsibility for sick animals and providing qualified veterinaries to doctor and care for them.

Mrs. Stephen G. Van Hoesen, district agent for the S. P. C. A., has been designed by the Secretary of War Newton D. Baker as the local representative of the Red Star and she is making an earnest plea for volunteers. The departure of work should appeal to any lover of horses and also to the patriotism of skilled veterinaries.

"HOLD-UP" SCHEME DISGUSTED PUBLIC.

Officials invested with authority to issue permits for public demonstrations of skill or cunning in our city streets should see to it that no such "hold-up" scheme as was practiced on the citizens of Plainfield Wednesday night is again allowed. The "steeple-jack" who drew a crowd of two thousand unsuspecting persons to Front street and Madison avenue was a schemester of the first class. His plan was to sensationally advertise a feat of climbing on a public thoroughfare and then refuse to perform until he was presented with every cent of twenty dollars. He appeared at a designated spot at 6:30 in the evening, delivered a long-winded oration savoring wholly of self-praise, declared he would have to be furnished with the $20 before going through his advertised performance, and after counting his collection and finding himself a little over a dollar short used this excuse for another delay.

The throng was a thoroughly disgusted one and the calibre of exhibition he finally gave added still more to their distaste. He climbed the side of the Endress building with the same skill as a carpenter would saw a piece of wood or a window cleaner would shine a piece of cut glass. In the meantime traffic at one of the busiest corners of the city was stopped for nearly an hour at a rush period. That there were no serious accidents was fortunate.

Applicants for similar exhibition permits will stand investigation. On this occasion the public was "bilked" out of $20 in one of the slickest ways conceivable.

FEDERAL RIFLE RANGE NEEDED IN NEW JERSEY.

Senator Frelinghuysen has selected the Great Piece Meadows, near Caldwell, as the logical site for a Federal rifle range and his suggestion that such an asset to national preparedness should be established immediately is likely to meet with the endorsement of his colleagues in the United States Senate. The spot is situated in the midst of a population of over 8,000,000 people and they are in urgent need of some facility of this character in order that they may train in marksmanship.

There are approximately 6,000 men in the rifle clubs of New Jersey but the organizations are widely distributed and in some parts of the State firearm practice is strictly banned. In Plainfield we have been given the advantages of a well appointed range in the rear of police headquarters. Its popularity was evidenced at the start and not a day has gone by since its inception that numerous business and professional men have not reported to better themselves as marksmen. What Plainfield needs other communities need and the Federal rifle range would supply the facility in a way that no other project would take care of it.

Military authorities have placed the stamp of approval on rifle practice in municipalities and there is every reason to believe that other cities of the State will follow the example set by Plainfield.

MAYOR CALKINS FOR THE STATE ASSEMBLY?

Although it is still a little early for the political bee to start buzzing in his noisiest tones informal comment being passed around the county indicates that there is a movement in the course of formation to put Mayor Leighton Calkins in the assembly race next fall. Whether or not the city executive will consent to run for the nomination has not as yet been announced, but he is known to have his quota of ardent supporters throughout Union county and if his name goes on the Republican ballot it is certain to gather a substantial vote. Mayor Calkins has formed an intimate acquaintance with municipal, county and State affairs and is fully qualified to assume an intelligent stand on all matters.

Rumor has it that Carlton B. Pierce is slated to go at the next election and if Mayor Calkins enters the race and is successful there is little doubt but what he will succeed the Cranford man. He will be given the Republican vote from this end of the county and there are those G. O. P. stand-bys in the Elizabeth end who do not feel kindly toward Mr. Pierson. When the proposition is presented to the mayor in a formal manner it is to be hoped that he will see his way clear to accept.

DISMANTLE WIRELESS DEPOTS; AVOID TROUBLE.

One phase of home defense work that should be assigned to our Plainfield league is the dismantling of amateur wireless stations in and about the city. This matter should be taken up at once and unlicensed operators should be given to understand that their equipment will be confiscated and destroyed if allowed to remain in position. It is probable that the Federal government will order such measures in Plainfield as it has elsewhere but the Home Defense League could be of marked assistance in taking a census of the amateur plants operated locally.

While a majority of the stations located near here are not of the powerful type the government has made it a rule to dismantle wireless outfits of every description, whether they are capable of receiving or sending long distance messages or even if they are temporarily out of commission.

Local operators should demonstrate their patriotism to the extent of complying with orders that have been issued elsewhere. Sooner or later the task of tearing down stations in this vicinity is going to commence and it will then be necessary for the owners to furnish the War Department with a detailed account of themselves, their intentions and their apparatus.

OBEY THE LAW; KEEP YOUR MOUTH SHUT.

"Obey the law and keep your mouth shut" is the literal meaning of an important point in Mayor Calkins' proclamation. The chief city executive wisely advises us to treat our neighbors of German birth with consideration as LONG AS THEY CONDUCT THEMSELVES INOFFENSIVELY. He suggests that we make allowances for the natural feelings of sympathy which Americans of German descent will have for the unfortunate plight of the country of their origin but it is only reasonable to expect us to deal with aliens or naturalized Americans decently as long as THEY OBEY THE LAW, AND KEEP THEIR MOUTHS SHUT.

Mayor Calkins calls upon Plainfield citizens to display the Stars and Stripes and by this time they should be flying from every American home. You as an American citizen have a right to resent any affront to the emblem of Americanism but exercise good judgment in dealing with those of unpatriotic tendencies. You have the right to appeal to the proper authorities and you may rest assured that you will get the satisfaction your red blood demands.

HOW ABOUT THAT TROLLEY EXTENSION?

The demand for a Plainfield-South Plainfield trolley line was never more conspicuous than it is at the present time. The buses operated by the Plainfield Transit Company are partially fulfilling the needs of the people in the suburban village but the establishment of a definite route with a more frequent schedule must necessarily follow. Plainfield merchants are awake to the fact that some of their most profitable trade comes from the adjoining town and if they are going to keep or increase it they must furnish their customers with better means of transportation.

Manufacturing interests have caused people to flock to South Plainfield in large numbers of recent years and the business interests of the town are not capable of filling the demand. Plainfield merchants have profited largely by South Plainfield trade and it would be to their interests to revive the movement for an extension of the local trolley service to the suburb.

N. S. A. S. ROUTINE HAS ASSUMED BIG PROPORTIONS.

With a steadily broadening scope the National Special Aid Society is bringing its influence to bear more prominently each day. The character of the work being conducted is highly patriotic as well as essential to the demands of this important era in the nation's history and those at the helm deserve every assistance and encouragement the community may give them. The society has adopted a program that will be indispensable in the event of actual warfare and through its channels the women of Plainfield will be given the opportunity to play a conspicuous role.

Weeks of preparedness have mobilized the National Special Aid Society's forces to war-time strength and the leaders have determined upon the avenue of activity through which they will be of best service to their country. Time and energy devoted to preliminary details by the chief movers in the organization have developed a program designed to influence womankind to do a man's work while the nation is engaged in a struggle with the enemy.

"PLANTING DAY" ONE WEEK FROM TOMORROW.

Governor Edge has issued a proclamation designating Saturday, April 21, as "planting day," the object being to encourage the development of agricultural interests in the State to the utmost point possible in order that New Jersey may contribute its fullest share to the food resources of the nation. School children as well as householders are urged to join in the movement. Every foot of ground should be made to count during the coming summer months and the State should turn out four or five times the quantity of garden truck it has in previous years.

The governor's proclamation is self-explanatory:

"The period is one of uncertainty. There is no lack of confidence or patriotism, but the food raising, economic question is not as clear and distinct as we would have it. One sure way of dispelling the mist of uncertainty in this respect and re-establishing that stability which we should have is to increase the productivity of our farm lands."

FAMILIARIZE YOURSELF WITH MILITARY COMMANDS.

Today is the eighth day of the war. Already a number of lives have been added to the nation's war toll although we have not engaged in actual conflict with the German forces. Persons who persist in disobeying military commands in this serious era must expect to pay the penalty. The government has ordered its guardsmen not to take any chances; the militiamen have been commanded to shoot to kill when their order to "halt" is flagrantly unheeded.

Every good American should familiarize himself with the military commands published elsewhere in this paper. If he fails to respect the uniformed guard's orders he must suffer the consequences. This is no time for trifling and the trifler is looked upon as a menace to the nation.

Complaints have been made by several individuals who have occasion to use the streets in the business section relative to the reckless manner in which the motorcar used by the postoffice messenger to deliver and receive mail from the railroad depot is being driven. There has been a very evident disregard of pedestrians' rights and it is high time the colored chauffeur was "jacked" up. He has averted a number of accidents by narrow margins and he seems to be inclined to continue the daredevitry until something serious occurs. Mails must be delivered to trains with every possible dispatch but there is no law which allows a postal service employe to drive a car at excessive speed endangering life and limb. The postmaster has had the matter brought to his attention and if he finds that the individual in question is not competent to control the machine in the proper manner he should be given to understand that there are other men available who will observe the laws.

With the coming of summer we are once more reminded of the inhuman duty our policemen are called upon to perform when stationed during the day time on a business section beat. The traffic patrolmen are oftentimes compelled to stand for hours at a time at the juncture of Park avenue and Front street with a broiling sun beatifix down upon the brick pavement which acts as a ready reflector of heat. Conditions are bad enough in the winter time but the scorching sun's rays make the job a well nigh intolerable one in mid-summer. Other cities have erected a small shed at traffic stations and the man on duty is thus enabled to perform his work with less discomfiture. It would cost the city only a small sum to perform a similar humane act and the deed would be greatly appreciated by the patrolmen.

Work being done by the Plainfield Belgian Relief Society has been given more or less prominence during the last year but few people realize the extent of the service rendered. Local women have devoted generous portions of their time to work for the relief of the stricken people of the war country and the results are inestimable. It is only reasonable to expect that the Plainfield Belgian Relief Society will turn its energies in another direction should America become involved in the struggle and the organized efforts of the women enthusiasts will undoubtedly prove of even more value to their home country than they have abroad.

Auto Brigade to Be Formed

With a view to definitely establishing the prescribed duties and rights of volunteers the Home Defense League announced the following list of regulations at Wednesday night's meeting:

1. Members of the League shall carry their badges at all times; and display them on drill nights and also whenever on duty.

2. Members shall carry night sticks only when on duty and when otherwise specially ordered.d

3. Members shall wear uniforms only on drill nights, and when detailed for duty.

4. Members shall carry fire arms when on duty, at target practice, and on drill night upon the issue of orders to that effect by the commander.

5. Members of the League are required to appear for drill, practice, and patrol or other police duty, as and when ordered unless excused, in advance on account of sickness or great emergency. Members whose private affairs interfere with absolute regularity will be asked to withdraw in order that men on the waiting list who are eager to join the League and are able to conform to military regulations may be selected in their stead.

It is further announced that the National Special Aid Society has very kindly offered to serve hot lunches at police headquarters just before and immediately after the hours when men go on and off night duty. Until further notice these lunches will be served between 8:30 and 9 p. m.; between 12:30 p. m. and 1:30 a. m.; and after 5 a. m.

The Mayor announces further that the Commission will shortly appoint a sub-committee to organize an automobile brigade. The men of Plainfield who cannot otherwise work as active members of the Defense League for patrol duty, but who own automobiles and are able to offer their services in that way, will be invited to communicate with the chairman of the Automobile Committee as soon as appointed. The service to be performed by each member of the automobile brigade will probably be to drive his car on regular assigned nights, possibly as often as once a week, to call for men who patrol and take them from their homes to their posts and return them when relieved. This is the tentative plan which the Automobile Committee will work out in detail.

As soon as the League is recruited up to full strength, Commander Ransome will make a permanent squad assignment by districts. The Mayor and Police Board on recommendation of Chief Kiely will then probably call upon the League for the assignment of a certain number of men for patrol duty each night on short four-hour shifts. By this arrangement, members of the League may be called out for four hours as often as once a week. The patrol service will cover various sections of the city. This will relieve a number of regular police officers now on detailed as an emergency reserve force at police headquarters ready to go out at a moment's notice.

The Commission announces the appointment of Henry W. Brower as reporting secretary of the League. He will be in charge of all records and all communications should be addressed to him at police headquarters.

Mayor Calkins states that the League will parade publicly as soon as fully recruited and uniformed. This will probably take place on a Saturday afternoon with the regular police in line and also, if possible, the old call firemen who have offered their services to the city for emergency call.

The Commission has appointed William M. Wherry, Jr., chairman of a committee on local resources, which will shortly take a census to supplement the preliminary census recently taken by the Boy Scouts. Each resident will be asked to give certain information regarding nationality, residence in the city, occupation, etc., which no law-abiding person will wish to withhold. The census will be taken by members of the Defense League who will report to the city authorities all persons who decline to give fully the information requested.

JERSEY SENATOR DIES.

State Senator Edmund Burke Osborne, of New Jersey, died last night in his home at Montclair, after an illness of six weeks from para-typhoid. He was fifty-six years old and leaves a wife and two sons.

He was a delegate to the Republican National Convention in 1912 and a delegate to the Progressive National Convention in August of the same year. In 1911 he was made a member of the New Jersey State Board of Education by President Wilson and was elected State Senator in November last.

Mr. Osborne was born in Manchester, Iowa, and was president of the Osborne Company, manufacturers of art calendars.

Pierson Creates Berth For His Brother-in-Law

The Municipal Finance Measure, introduced by Assemblyman Pierson, of Westfield, has created the position of State Commission of Municipal Accounts and Mr. Pierson's wife's brother-in-law, Walter R. Darby, of Westfield, had been appointed to the position by State Treasurer Reed.

The newly created berth carries a salary of $3,600 a year and the duties will be to supervise municipal sinking fund requirements, receive and compile the annual financial statements required from all municipalities under an act of the Pierson series, record bond issues and in general oversee municipal finance in order that they may comply with the new laws.

Jersey Doctors Appealed To For Reserve Service

A letter calling on the doctors of the State to "do your bit" in the present crisis and enroll in the New Jersey Association of the Medical Reserve Corps of the United States army, was approved at a meeting of the association at Newark last week. It is being sent out over the signature of Dr. David A. Kraker, president. The letter reads:

"This is the time when every man should come to the defense of his country, and medical officers are particularly needed now. The immense undertaking of organizing an army such as proposed requires the services of a large number of doctors to examine recruits and perform other work in the medical department of the United States army.

"At this particular time, when patriotism and love of home and country are strong in our hearts and hundreds of true men are offering their services for the firing line, won't you 'do your bit' in a professional way by joining the Medical Reserve Corps, and if required, give your country the benefit of the service you are so well qualified to perform? Those who join the Reserve Corps will be immediately commissioned as first lieutenants, with advancement to the rank of captain or major when suitable proficiency is shown in the military work.

"As a red-blooded American citizen, we know you are interested. This division is authorized by the War Department to examine applicants."

PLUMBING INSPECTORSHIP.

To the Editor, Plainfield Record:

The controversy appearing in your paper in reference to the plumbing inspector of the Board of Health, is becoming somewhat interesting.

Why don't some of the old boss plumbers come forward and settle the whole question, as they well know that McVoy was engaged in the well-driving business for years and when his oldest son graduated as a journey plumber from A. M. Griffen he continued the plumbing with well-driving.

A. next Thursday night, when over five thousand feet of film will be shown depicting every phase of college life at the big New York State University. VERDICT FROM LOCAL MAN.

Miss Anna Levine, a bookeeper, has obtained a verdict of $1,200 against Frederick E. Chase, a song writer, of Plainfield, in the Supreme Court of Bronx county. She alleged that Chase had obtained $1,600 from her on a promise to invest it in a music publishing company.

HAD FLAG RAISING.

With hundreds of employes gathered about to watch the ceremonies, a large American flag presented to the company this week by the machinists was unfurled at the factory of the Scott's Press Works at noontoday. The affair was considerably surprised this week when Fred W. Fleming, speaking on behalf of the men, presented the flag to the concern. The funds for it were raised by popular subscription and the men were all willing to help.

OPEN SEASON.

Unless rain takes a hand and prevents, the baseball team of the Plainfield High School will play its first game of the season tomorrow afternoon against Roselle High School at Roselle. Until bad conditions should make it impossible the schedule as originally intended will be played out.

COMING DANCE.

Clan Mackenzie is arranging to hold a dance in Debele's Hall on Friday, April 20.

To Mobilize Pupils

Each pupil in the army will be given a certificate of enrollment by his school superintendent or principal. These school officials will be the recruiting officers, and when the boys and girls enlist they will take this pledge:

"On my honor I will do my best to devote myself to the service of my State and country in the present crisis—one, by planting, cultivating, harvesting and marketing crops on the farm; two, by influencing others to do the same; three, by keeping myself physically strong and mentally alert in the performance of these obligations."

The soldiers in this Junior Industrial Army will receive, in some cases, wages for their work, but for all of those who serve with fidelity there will be a badge merit signed by Governor Edge.

How the pupils will assist in increasing the food output was outlined in a letter from the Department of Public Instruction, which will be sent broadcast throughout the State.

Older boys in the schools will be excused from their studies to till the land, and this agricultural work, whether it be on home gardens or on the bigger farms, will be credited to them toward a diploma.

"In the present national crisis," says the letter, "the help of all, in whatever capacity, is a paramount duty. Pupils of the public schools may render effective service to the State and nation by assisting in the planting, cultivation, harvesting and marketing of crops during the present season. Not only is it our duty to guarantee an adequate food supply for our own people, but our responsibilities broaden to include the rendering of unrestricted aid in helping other countries, which are facing a food shortage."

Blanks already have been prepared, so that teachers may keep account of the work pupils do on farms.

"It is recognized," states the letter, "that the initiative and the control in all this work rests with the local Board of Education, and that, moreover, the movement is not one of conscription, but one of volunteer service."

Although the school authorities are desirous of having all the pupils volunteer for farm work, the movement contemplates several checks which will work for the preservation of the boys' health and characters. In enrolling boys, school authorities should exercise judgment and caution, the letter says, and then it adds that for farm work these conditions apply:

Boys must be over fourteen years of age, must be in good physical condition, and cannot enter the work without the permission of their parents or guardians. Moreover, the school principals will decide whether any volunteer is undertaking the work seriously and with a determination of seeing it through.

Not only will the boys in rural districts have an opportunity to work on the farms, but city boys as well will be asked to serve. Arrangements may be made through city and county superintendents for the sending of these boys to the country. County granges, Y. M. C. A.'s and churches will aid in suitably placing boys who thus volunteer, and every precaution will be taken to guard them from undesirable surroundings and companions.

Boys who enlist for farm work will be enrolled in the Agricultural Division of the Junior Industrial Army. A record will be kept at the State house of the services rendered by each boy, and volunteers, when they obtain work, will be designated by an emblem supplied by the State. Upon the conclusion of the harvest all volunteers will receive a certificate of honorable discharge, signed by the Governor.

H. S. Training

The first division will consist of those willing to work on farms. Plans are being worked out for placing and care of the members of this division. An adequate wage will be paid.

Second division—Boys' vocational schools, to manufacture articles in constant use by all branches of the regular army and sailors.

Third division—Girls' vocational schools, to furnish supplies for the Red Cross or similar duty.

Fourth division—Household arts division, to co-operate with Associated Charities in furnishing household necessities for dependents of soldiers.

Sixth division—Manual training division for shops furnishing equipment.

Other divisions will be formed as required and experience dictates. Formation of the first division is proceeding rapidly, the State Grange and the State Department of Labor aiding.

OBSERVE ARBOR DAY.

Arbor Day this year falls on Friday, under the law designating the second Friday in April for its observance. The State Forester is directing the attention of county and municipal superintendents of schools to the statute requiring the introduction of special Arbor Day exercises into all the schools of the State, and the preparation by the superintendents of plans for these exercises.

IN THE SERVICE.

Rev. J. Madison Hare, pastor of the Scotch Plains Baptist church and chaplain and captain of the Fourth Regiment, N. J. N. G., received word last night to report at the regiment's armory in Jersey City.

National Guard News

Sergeant Frederick Goddard was elected second lieutenant of Troop D at last week's meeting to succeed J. M. Charles, who was moved up to the rank of first lieutenant, the office that was left vacant when Daniel Runkle was elected captain to succeed Albert J. Bordon, retired.

Sergeant Goddard is one of the veteran members of the unit and while at the border was appointed a clerk in the First Brigade Headquarters' staff of General Edwin Hine. He was a corporal at that time and was raised to corporal following the return home.

Battalion Adjutant Albert L. Littell, of the Second Infantry, visited his home in Plainfield over Sunday. He is not with the Company K-boys but is stationed "somewhere in Jersey" with two Elizabeth companies.

The equipment of the cavalry and infantry was found to be in excellent condition at the last Federal inspection and of recent date the officers have been taking advantage of every opportunity for drill work. The horses of Troop D are now stabled at the Horse Show grounds and the animals are in just as good condition as the soldiers for service. More mounts will be needed but these will probably be issued by the State or Federal government as soon as the mobilization call is sounded.

The organization or a regiment of New Jersey cavalry is a possibility if the nation goes to war with Germany. This has been suggested by some of the leading officers of the National Guard, and the project is looked upon with much favor by officers of the present cavalry troops of the First New Jersey Squadron. At present there are only four troops of cavalry in the State, two located in Newark, one in Red Bank and the other in Plainfield. In organizing a regiment of cavalry Newark would probably be expected to supply at least three of the new troops, which would make in all five troops with headquarters in that city. They would be recruited from Newark and various Essex towns. Another troop might be organized in West Hudson, while South Jersey would undoubtedly supply several troops.

Major Hobart B. Brown, commanding the First New Jersey Cavalry, is jubilant over the large number of recruits who have enlisted in Troops A and C during the last week. Each troop is now recruited above the peace strength, more than seventy enlisted men being in each. The war strength is 100, exclusive of three commissioned officers.

Commissioned officers of the New Jersey National Guard who in civil life are employes or attaches of any department of the State or any county, city or other municipality, under the provisions of the McCran law, as interpreted by those familiar with the intent and purpose of the act, cannot be paid by the municipality they serve while they are doing military duty with the guard. The McCran law was passed the last day of the 1917 session of the Legislature. In the Second Regiment are two affects; among others, Lieutenant-Col*onel William B. Martin, Captain* C. C. Gordon and Second Lieutenant Frank V. Lowden, of the First Battalion. Enlisted men, excluding sergeants, corporals and sergeant-majors may be paid their full wages as county or city employes if the governing bodies so order.

Colonel Martin is county clerk. Lieutenant Lowden is a member of the prosecutor's detective staff and clerk of the Grand Jury, and Captain Gordon is a teacher in the Westfield schools. All three draw liberal salaries while in the service. The full text of the McCran law is as follows:

"1. It shall be lawful for the departments, institutions, committees, commissions or other bodies of the State, or any sub-division or municipality thereof, to pay the salaries or compensation of their employes or attaches during the time said employes or attaches, as members of the National Guard of this State are performing military duty incident to current war conditions; provided, however that such salary or compensation shall not be paid to any commissioned officer of the said National Guard. This act shall take effect immediately."

Battalion Adjutant A. I. Littell made a plea yesterday that motor trucks be donated to the Elizabeth companies, declaring that if the people of Elizabeth want to show their appreciation of the guardsmen that they can exhibit it in no better way. The companies have great need of motor trucks and if the city of Plainfield could honor its company by such a gift, he asks why Elizabeth cannot do likewise.

GOING TO DOVER.

Some thirty-five members of the Dover Lodge of Elks came to Plainfield on Wednesday night to attend the "Land of Mystery," the annual show of the Plainfield Lodge. They extended an invitation for the local boys to be present when they stage their show next month and plans are being made to send a large delegation from this city.

ON TO PLATTSBURG.

The men in this city who have at*tended the Plattsburg training camp* at any time during its existence of two years have formed themselves into an organization for the purpose of enrolling a large number of Plainfield men who will attend the camp during the coming summer. Lectures about the camp life are to be given before various men's clubs from time to time in order to arouse enthusiasm and any member will be glad to give information regarding enrollment or the expenses.

TO ADOPT SCHEDULE.

A meeting of the baseball moguls of the City League will be held Monday night at the home of Dan Randolph, the secretary. Among other things that will come up for discussion will be the adoption of the schedule which calls for the initial opening on Saturday, April 28, and continuing on each Saturday and holiday through the summer. The prospects for this season seem to be brighter than they were last and with several new clubs entered the race should prove a close one that will not be decided until the last game.

MRS. SARAH SCHERMERHORN.

Mrs. Sarah Schermerhorn, aged 86 years, died this morning following a lingering illness due to advanced age at the home of Mrs. Isabella R. Pope, of 147 North avenue. Arrangements for the funeral have not yet been completed.

MRS. SARAH A. GREENE.

Following an illness of long duration due to the infirmities of age, Mrs. Sarah A. Greene, wife of the late David C. Greene, died this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. St. John Fitch, of 916 Park avenue. She was in her 83rd year and had resided with her daughter for a number of years. Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

DR. SAVITZ NAMED.

The State Board of Education, at a meeting held in Trenton on Saturday last, named Dr. J. J. Savitz, superintendent of the Westfield schools, to succeed Dr. James M. Green, as principal of the State Normal and Morel Schools at Trenton. Dr. Savitz will assume the duties on July 1st.

The position carries a salary of $5,000 and the use of a handsome residence close to the schools. Dr. Green, who has held the position for a number of years, resigned on account of ill health.

Will Soon Register All Single Men

Means of registering all single men between the ages fixed under the universal training bill and of registering those to be exempted were discussed yesterday by the executive council of the Committee on Labor of the National Defense Council. Men between the ages of 18 to 23, inclusive, will first be called, those younger or older being exempt, provided the bill is favorably acted upon by Congress.

Through co-operation with State and municipal government toward accomplishing this great work will be sought under general plans of State co-operation in placing the Government on a war footing.

It apparently is the intention of the War Department to aim for an army with 2,000 000 men as its first object, the men to be raised in incre*ments of 500,000 as rapidly* as they can be officered and trained.

Secretary of War Baker went to the Capitol yesterday to explain to Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the Senate Committee on Military Affairs, the War Department bill to raise an army of about 2,000,000 men in two years by compulsory service. The measure has been approved by the President, and will be formally presented to the military committees of Congress within a few days.

Now that Congress has nearly completed its action on the war resolution there is beginning to be some uneasiness over the universal training ides.

HOW TO REACH SOLDIERS.

For the benefit of those whose soldier boys are on duty for their country, somewhere in the United States —exact location not public by a War Department ruling—it has been stated that mail to the boys may be addressed in care of whatever department they are under.

Department headquarters are:

Southern, Fort Sam Houston; Eastern, Governor's Island; Central, Chicago, and Western, San Francisco.

In case it is not known in which department the man serves, address letters care of the Adjutant-General's Office, War Department, Washington, where proper disposition will be made of them.

HAS CENSOR PLAN.

Former Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, of this city, has made the recommendation to the Postmaster General which he thinks will help in the deliveries of mail in case every letter and article is censored. Realizing that the holding up of mail while it was being censored would cause infinite trouble and delay to business men, he advocates the establishing of a separate department for the censoring of business letters and other parcels likely to be of great importance. His plan has been well received at the Capitol and will likely be put into effect.

Agriculture Will Occupy Many People

The United States, and in fact the entire world, is confronting the serious problem of a food famine, a condition that is becoming more acute all the time and threatens to bring starvation to whole nations despite efforts that are already being made to offset the trouble. Governor Walter E. Edge has placed New Jersey in the front rank among the other States of the Union by issuing a proclamation in which he asks that all owners of large country places or waste land and all golf clubs lend them for the raising of commodities. Plainfield clubs and individuals are making preparations to do their part and while they have not organized to work in one general direction it is possible that something may be done along those lines in the near future.

In asking large property owners to lend their estates for gardens, Governor Edge named Dr. Jacob G. Lipman, of the agricultural station at New Brunswick, as director of the work and he will have supervision over the entire State. Many places owned by Plainfield people, including estates and unused land, could be devoted to raising crops and a number have already come forward with offers that would allow the use of many acres in this vicinity. David D. Kenny, owner of large sections of land on the mountain between this city and Scotch Plains, has volunteered the use of it to those who would cultivate it, while Dr. Charles Eaton and others have offered their farms for use.

Golf clubs all over the country are plowing up portions of their links this year and potatoes and onion blossoms will take the place of well rolled lawns. The Shackamaxson Country Club, the Plainfield Country Club and the Hydewood Golf Club are all located in the immediate vicinity and although the board of governors of none have yet taken any definite action toward giving up part of the links for agricultural purposes, the statement of Howard W. Perrin, president of the United States Golf Association, of which all three are members, would indicate they are going to do something toward relieving the situation.

In a recent letter to several of the clubs in the association that have already started plowing for crops, Mr. Perrin said:

"I believe all our 500 clubs will at once actively adopt the plan, and I hope to have an opportunity to offer my own services as a tiller of the soil."

Both the National Special Aid Society and the Kenyon Gardens Association have completed plans for extensive agricultural activities. At a meeting of the board of directors of the former organization held yesterday the Kenyon Gardens' Association offered twenty plots of ground, each 8x20, at its property on Stelle avenue, near Arlington avenue. The offer was accepted and already a class of twenty women has been formed and will receive instruction several mornings a week from a member of the Government agricultural station at New Brunswick. Another class is being formed by Mrs. J. H. Van Buren, of Seventh street, who has been placed in charge of this department of the society, and it will start its period of instruction sometime next week.

The offer to the society by Dr. Charles Eaton of his farm at Watchung was declined because it was thought to be too big a contract, but each member of the society has promised to keep her own garden, be*sides working in the Kenyon's plots.*

The Kenyon Gardens' Association is also planning for an active season and will have many more women and children included in its membership and considerable more land on hand to be tilled when it opens the season next week than it had last year.

No Citizenship For Them Until the War Has Ended

Citizenship is now being refused to Germans and Austro-Hungarians in Newark and many other places. Judge Laurence, in the Common Pleas Court in Newark, has announced that the cases of all subjects of Germany and Austria would be postponed, probably until after the war, without prejudice. The court reasoned that, under the law pro*hibiting aliens with whose country* the United States may be at war from obtaining first papers, the logical procedure would be to deny citizenship to such aliens until the conflict is settled.

TO CONSTRUCT RANGES.

At a meeting of the Fanwood Home Guards held last night David D. Kenny, it was announced, was willing to donate the use of land on the mountain east of this city for a thousand foot rifle range. The Scotch Plains Home Guards have received a like offer and the two organizations are to join together in laying the ranges out. They will be constructed according to regulations with standard targets and a ten foot pit in back of them for the markers. A requisition to the Government for Krag rifles has been sent in by both bodies and two former National Guard men, Rev. J. Madison Hare, captain of the Fourth Regiment, N. J. N. G., and John Strausse, major in the Twenty-third N. Y. N. G., will act as instructors.

RULES FOR DISPLAY OF NATIONAL FLAG.

In order to show proper respect for the flag the following ceremony should be observed:

It should not be hoisted before sunrise nor allowed to remain up after sunset.

At "retreat," sunset, civilian spectators should stand at "attention" and uncover during the playing of the "Star Spangled Banner." Military spectators are required by regulation to stand at "attention" and give the military salute.

When the National colors are passing on parade, or in review, the spectator should, if walking, halt, and if sitting, arise and stand at attention and uncover.

When the flag is flown at half staff as a sign of mourning it should be hoisted to full staff at the conclusion of the funeral.

In placing the flag at half staff, it should first be hoisted to the top of the staff and then lowered to position, and preliminary to lowering from half staff it should be first raised to the top.

On Memorial Day, May 30, the flag should fly at half staff from sunrise to noon and full staff from noon to sunset.

To hang the flag union down is a sign of distress and it should never be so hung unless in need.

In decorating with bunting the same rule should be followed as in hanging the flag, i. e., the blue stripe should be on top the same as the field of the flag.

P. S. Baseball League Ready

A Public School Athletic League has been instituted in this city under the direction of the Public Recreation Committee. In connection with the league, six baseball teams, representing the Irving, Jefferson, Whittier, Evergreen Avenue, Washington and Grammar Schools has been organized and trained by James Nash, Jr., the Committee's athletic instructor. A schedule of thirty games has been arranged and games will be played every Monday, Wednesday and Friday beginning last Tuesday and concluding June 8. The games will be played after school hours at Hope Common, West End Oval, the Soccer Field (Clinton avenue), Crescent Oval and on the field at the corner of West Fourth street and Monroe avenue. Great enthusiasm has been displayed thus far and each team will make an effort to hold "first place."

On Tuesday evening, April 17, the Athenian Athletic Club has arranged to play a final basketball game for this season on the High School court with the St. Douglas team of Orange.

Swimming classes will be a feature of the work conducted by the Recreation Committee. A ladies' class meets every Friday evening in the High School pool under the direction of Miss Marian Snyder. Instructions are given in swimming and diving. A class for men will be started Wednesday evening, April 18, with Mr. Nash in charge. This will be a splendid opportunity to learn how to swim or to enjoy the sport.

The Saurer Band, a new organization which represents the International Motor Company, is holding rehearsals each week in the Washington School.

The Public Schools are being used by several different Boy Scout troops which have recently been formed.

A Colored People's Union Bible Class will be started in the Washington School and meet regularly each Sunday afternoon.

The Aero Club is using the High School manual training room every Monday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

GOLF CHANGES.

The United States Golf Association has sent out a notice announcing the change in the par system. Hereafter all holes up to 250 yards will be par 3. Above this and up to 445 yards, par 4. From this distance to 600 yards it will be par 5, and anything over this will be par 5. This change was made necessary on account of the increased length that it is possible to get out of the new balls.

WHEN TOLD TO HALT, HALT!

If a military sentry, on guard duty, cries "Halt!" do not argue —halt promptly. Then, when he asks: "Who goes there?" answer: "A friend."

If more than one person is halted, the sentry will order: "Advance one." This means that all the party, with the exception of one, shall remain standing while one advances slowly toward the sentry for recognition until the sentry again commands "Halt!"

He will then question the challenged one. Answer promptly and courteously, and obey any order given.

The sentry is the personification of the United States army. His orders are to shoot to kill when his challenges are not obeyed. As a soldier, he must obey orders.

Undoubtedly the Government of the United States will shortly offer for popular subscription a large bond issue to provide funds for emergency measures. While the terms and conditions are not yet available, there will probably be a large over-subscription, due to the strong patriotic spirit aroused by recent events, as well as to the opportunity thus afforded for obtaining a tax-free security of the highest grade.

All patriotic citizens will want to do their share when the opportunity presents itself and to that end this Company will be glad to assist its clients and friends by handling their subscriptions to such a loan when, as and if issued.

WHAT SOCIETY IS DOING DURING WINTER MONTHS

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

NEWS OF THE WEEK CONCERNING PLAINFIELD PEOPLE

Stupendous Growth Marks Special Aid's First Year

Members of the Plainfield branch of the National Special Aid Society are making preparations for the observance of the first anniversary of the organization on Saturday, April 28. Starting in with a handful of enthusiastic and patriotic women in 1916, the society has grown by leaps and bounds until now it embraces on its roster 675 active members, including women of every creed and in every walk of life, all of whom are drawn together by the one impulse—patriotism. As nearly as can be ascertained at the present time the local society is the largest in New Jersey and certainly the most active. Not satisfied with the progress already made, new classes are being formed or other lines of endeavor instituted each day until now the organization is regarded as being better able to meet an emergency than any other in the East.

The first meeting of the local branch of the Special Aid Society was held on April 28, 1916, and resulted in eighty women gathering at the Cedarcroft to perfect the organization. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Frederick W. Goddard; vice president, Mrs. Alice Davenport Walte; secretary, Miss Dorothy Fleming; corresponding secretary, Miss Louise Paterson, and treasurer, Mrs. Chester Lawrance. The board of directors chosen included: Mrs. Charles R. Banks, Mrs. J. K. Charles, Miss Edith Fraser, Mrs. Charles Frost, Miss Evelyn Hartman, Mrs. Frederick Wallace, Mrs. Arthur Unger, Mrs. Charles Monroe, and Mrs. Frederick Hughes. The chairmen of the eight principal committees were: First Aid, Mrs. W. W. Cargill; motor, Mrs. Austin; membership, Miss Margaret Butfield; junior aids, Mrs. Frances Osborne; social relief, Mrs. Andrew C. Penn; publicity, Mrs. Paul Welles; home economics, Miss Mary Welles, and entertainment, Mrs. Walter Wrighter.

Until a few months ago there was no central spot from whence the society could work, but shortly after the International critical situation became acute headquarters were opened in a store on East Front street, and since then all the society's efforts have been concentrated there. During the year a hospital service has perfected and now there are sixty trained helpers ready for instant call with several classes receiving instruction at present. Classes in ride practice, practical nursing, motor repairs, canteen and diet cooking and sewing have been formed and thousands of hospital supplies made. A number of excellent lectures have been held under the auspices of the society, paralysis victims have been taken to the hospital for treatment, supplies have been taken to Company K and a Civilian relief committee has been formed. One of the last moves was to take over fifty beds at Muhlenberg Hospital in case of emergency, upon the suggestion of the Government.

In order to conserve the members' energies to the utmost advantage a schedule of hours has been arranged for headquarters as follows: Monday—Surgical dressings; Tuesday—Sewing on hospital supplies; Wednesday—King's Daughters' Day (all members welcome); Thursday—Preparation of materials, morning, afternoon and evening; Friday—Cutting of garments, junior society branch; Saturday—General work. Mrs. Goddard devotes Fridays morning from 10 to 1 in receiving reports and making suggestions to the various committees.

Current Activities.

The entertainment committee of the society has completed plans for the holding of a card party on the afternoon of April 20, at the Park Club, the proceeds to be turned into the treasury. Table reservations are now being received.

A class in canteen cooking will be inaugurated next Wednesday under the direction of Miss Beatrice Gardner, of East Front street. Members may enroll at headquarters.

The local society will be represented at the Allied Bazaar that opens at the Grand Central Palace, New York, tomorrow. Specially prepared posters of the work done by the society will have prominent places in a tea room maintained in the building by the National Special Aid Society headquarters.

Third: members of the society that have been receiving instruction for some time from Dr. Corbusier will be graduated today and will be available for any emergency as "trained helpers." Another class of a like number will start Monday under the direction of Miss Smith, head nurse at Muhlenberg Hospital.

The members of the society in the motor squad will meet at the M. & L. garage, Thursday night at 8 o'clock to receive practical instruction in the repairs of motors. Mrs. Austin Andrews is in charge.

The local society has been assigned the territory between Elizabeth and Somerville as its special district and any explosion or emergency will find members on hand to help.

Henry B. Newhall, of Woodland avenue, has offered his house with 25 beds as a base hospital. They will be under the same control as the fifty at Muhlenberg Hospital and ready for any use. The proffer of a large farm that can be tilled by the society has also been made, but no definite action has yet been taken in the matter by the board of directors.

Twenty-eight dozen towels have just been completed at headquarters and sent to Muhlenberg Hospital as part of the supplies for the fifty beds. Activities of the society in agricultural fields are mentioned in another article in this issue.

The United States of America and Prince of Wales Relief Committee, New Jersey branch, held a meeting in the parish house of the Grace P. E. church yesterday morning immediately following the usual working hours. It was primarily for the dis-

Exhibit To Open New Art Gallery

Plans are being made by the art committee of the directors of the Public Library for the holding of an exhibit in connection with the reopening of the art gallery in the library on Park avenue in the near future. The gallery has been closed to the public for nearly a year and a half and when it was decided to reopen it several prominent artists were enlisted to re-arrange and redecorate it with the result that it will make an excellent place for the holding of large exhibits.

Just what the nature of the exhibit will be has not yet been determined, but it will include a collection of the works of several prominent artists. The old collections have been retouched and several permanent ones have been added so that everything will be new to local art lovers.

Well Known Lyric Singer At Benefit

What will probably be the last recital of the season for Plainfield music lovers and will also be one of the best of the year will be the appearance in the Plainfield High School next Wednesday night of Queena Tillotson, well known coloratura lyric soprano. The concert is being given under the auspices of the Cup Bearers' Circle, City Union King's Daughters, and the program has been arranged especially for the occasion by Madame Sembrich, who is her teacher.

Miss Queena Tillotson.

Miss Tillotson at her first recital of the season here last November rendered a program of such worth that many have requested she include at least one of the selections in the program for the coming concert and because of the especially large number of requests she has decided to sing "Annie Laurie." Her last selection will be "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Those who heard her at the November recital and hear her Wednesday will note that a considerable change in the quality and volume of her voice has been wrought even in that short time. Madame Sembrich, herself a noted prima donna, now thinks that after several years of

Elk's Big Opera Well Received

After being witnessed by three capacity audiences, the opera, "The Land of Mystery," staged and presented under the auspices of Plainfield Lodge of Elks, completed showing at the Plainfield Theatre last night. It was by far the most pretentious offering ever attempted by amateurs in this city and its success was due in large part to the work of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Skilling, who composed and directed its presentation. Besides entertaining hundreds of Plainfield people, the affair was a financial success as well.

Replete with song numbers and special sets, there was just enough of a plot to hold the interest of the audience. Faithfully following out the customs and traditions of India, the latter was set for the opening scene to represent a big garden and throughout the entire production the elaborate staging effect was never lost sight of for a moment.

The cast of over 400 hundred people was an excellent one and showed the effect of lengthy rehearsals and good coaching. The success of the affair was the acting of the three hundred children who had parts in the chorus, while the principals in the special numbers were well received.

"All of a Sudden Peggy" will be presented in the auditorium of the North Plainfield High School tonight by members of the student body for the benefit of the Boys' Athletic Association. Following the presentation dancing will be enjoyed, music being furnished by a New York orchestra.

After several postponements due to illness among members of the cast, the Chi Gamma Chi Society successfully presented "The Hoodoo," a three-act comedy farce, in St. Joseph's parish house last night. Those who took part in the production were the Misses Nora Bergen, Ann-Veronica Daley, Maria Murray, Helen A. Brynjarski, Frances Newman, Theresa McCullough, Margery Barry, Margaret Moran, Anna McGinness, Elsie Moulton, Katherine Newell and Esther Regan and Earl Moran, Harold Mead, William Mead, Alfred Seidel, Edwin Sullivan and Fred Greene. Dancing followed the presentation and refreshments were served.

Mrs. W. L. Wright, of Plainfield, is a guest at the Wolcott Hotel in New York city.

PERSONAL

With the close of the Lenten season and the constantly lowering clouds of war threatening to call all able-bodied men to the colors, Easter week has been the occasion of more weddings than during any other season of the year. Marriages that savored of the military were the most numerous and a number of them were social events of the season. The younger set has been dividing its time between attending the marriages of one of its number and engaging in war relief with the result that coming so close on the heels of Holy Week it has been the busiest period of the year.

One of the marriages that was hastened by the impending call to arms took place Tuesday afternoon, when Miss Catherine Ginna, daughter of Mrs. Daniel F. Ginna, became the bride of Roger Drew Mellick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Mellick, the ceremony being performed by Rev. John Sheridan Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, at the home of the bride's mother on Watchung avenue. The ceremony was performed in the presence of about one hundred and fifty of the immediate relatives and friends of the couple.

The bride was gowned in white satin, trimmed with old lace, and she carried a bunch of lilies of the valley and white roses. Miss Catherine Drayton, of this city, was maid of honor and wore a gown of cream lace over ping. She carried an arm shower bouquet of spring roses.

The best man was J. Hartley Mellick, a brother of the groom, and the ushers were Arthur C. Crundon, of St. Louis; Stanley W. Burke, Thomas M. Day, 3d, and John C. Martin, all of this city. Mrs. Ginna gave her daughter in marriage.

Both young people are prominent in society in this city and Mr. Mellick is a sergeant in Troop D, having gone to the border with the company last summer. The probability of being again called into active service caused the date of the wedding to be advanced from October. Mr. Mellick is a member of the brokerage firm of Carlisle, Mellick & Co., of New York. Mr. and Mrs. Mellick are now on a wedding trip through the South and upon their return will probably reside in Plainfield until the war crisis is settled.

EARLE-RUSHMORE.

One of the first and largest spring weddings in this city since the close of the Lenten season will be solemnized in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church tomorrow night at 8 o'clock when Miss Mary Rushmore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Townsend Rushmore, of Stelle avenue, becomes the bride of Horace B. Earle, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Earle, of Watchung avenue, the Rev. John Sheridan Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, officiating.

The matron of honor will be Miss Louise Earle, a sister of the groom, while the bride's other attendants will be the Misses Gwendolyn Gangh and Elma Yerkes, of this city. Miss Gertrude Wood, of Trenton, and Miss Gertrude Richard, of South Orange. Edward P. T. Thorn, of New York, will be the best man, and the ushers will be Murray Rushmore, a brother of the bride; T. F. Denson Warfly, of Staten Island; Lester Platt, of Caldwell, and Charles Strange, of Montville, Pa. Miss Rushmore will be given in marriage by her father.

Following the wedding ceremony a reception for the young couple will be held at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Murray, of Central avenue, at which about 200 guests will be present. Following an extensive wedding trip the couple will make their home in Westfield.

WEAN—CARR.

Another Easter week wedding will take place tomorrow night in the First Presbyterian church, when Miss Ruth Wean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Wean, becomes the bride of Sydney Powell Carr, of Washington, D. C., but a former resident. Rev. Charles E. Herring will officiate and afterward a reception will be held at the home of Miss Wean's parents on Park avenue.

Mrs. Herbert E. Knight, of Tillotson road, Fanwood, will give a bridge party at her home next Tuesday afternoon from 3 o'clock until 5 o'clock, the proceeds to be for the benefit of the Fanwood Red Cross Society. Tea will be served.

Mrs. Henry Clay Irons, of West Eighth street, returned home this week from the South, where she spent the winter at Orlando Beach.

Announcement has been made of the approaching marriage of Miss Laura P. Gildersleeve to John W. Dickenson on Wednesday night at their future home, 718 Richmond street, Rev. Edward Ralston, of

The convention will be held in the auditorium of the High School from August 21-26. Meals will be served in the gymnasium and there will be sessions in the morning, afternoon and evening. The bride was attended by two maids of honor, Miss Alice R. Van Horn, a sister, and Miss Edith D. Rudderow, of Moorestown. Miss Charlotte R. Quig, of Delaware, N. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church. Relatives and intimate friends of the couple were present. Mrs. Daniel C. Adams, of this city, was the matron of honor, and the best man was Stanley Karner, of Boston, a brother of the groom. Miss Clara Karner, a sister of the groom, played the wedding march.

A reception followed the ceremony and afterward the young couple left on a wedding trip. Upon their return they will reside in this city.

BORMAN—ALLEN.

Miss Dora Louise Borman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Borman, of this city, became the bride of Edward L. Allen, of this city also, on Wednesday afternoon, the ceremony being performed by Rev. The bride was dressed in a traveling suit and had as attendants Miss Marion E. Freile, a sister, and Miss Ruth A. Hay. Following the marriage a wedding breakfast was enjoyed and afterward the couple left for several weeks' trip through the South. Upon their return they will reside on Russell road, Fanwood.

The second collection of paper by the Plainfield Belgian Relief Society will be made on May 12, the sum realized from the collection to go toward the milk fund. The local society has fed hundreds of Belgians since the war started through its earnest efforts and is now wying to do even better.

Under the auspices of the Monday Afternoon Club, Miss Janet Richards, the well known lecturer, gave a talk on the present national crisis before a large number of the members of the club and their friends in the auditorium of the Plainfield High School yesterday afternoon. The lecture was both timely and interesting and during the afternoon she freely expressed her views on the United States' entry into the world war. The second of Miss Richards' special talks, which will also be her last appearance here before fall, will be given in the High School on April 26, when she will continue her discussion of the affairs of the day.

Activities of the Kenyon Gardens Association promise to be greater this year than ever before. The plea from the Government that unused land be cultivated has resulted in large local property owners offering the use of their land and the association will be able to cultivate as much as it wants. The list of children who are to work in the gardens has not yet been completed by Mrs. Henry D. Hibbard, the president, but everything will be ready for the spring opening in another week.

study Miss Tillotson, who is a former resident and graduate of the Plainfield High School, is ready to appear in opera and as soon as the war ceases she plans to take her to Italy for that purpose. She will be assisted on Wednesday night by Emil Polak, pianist.

5. (a) To a Waterlily, MacDowell; (b) Ode to Spring, Suk, Mr. Polak.

6. (a) Longing, Frank La Forge; (b) In Pride of May, Frank La Forge; (c) Dutch Serenade, Side Lange; (d) A Question (dedicated to Miss Tillotson), Emil Polak, Miss Tillotson.

With nearly two hundred women of Union county, including a large number of Plainfielders, as patronesses, Miss Maude Klotz, well known American concert singer, gave a recital in the auditorium of the Westfield High School last night. Over a thousand people from that place, Plainfield, Cranford, Elizabeth, Fanwood and other places were present and were heartily pleased with her. The recital was given under the auspices of the Grant Parent-Teacher Association.

Miss Klotz was assisted by Maxmilian Pilzer, one of this country's leading violinists. They rendered a program of classical compositions that for interest and diversity has seldom been approached outside of metropolitan circles.

Another recital by the well known Kneisel Quartet will be given in the Westfield High School next Thursday night. Many Plainfielders have heard that famous quartet before and as the coming appearance will be the last before they retire from the music world for good it is probable many local people will again avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing them again. It is being held under the auspices of the Westfield Musical Club.

What is expected to be the last meeting of the Plainfield Musical Club for the coming season will be held at the home of Mrs. John Peter Stevens, 985 Hillside avenue, on Tuesday afternoon. The afternoon's program will be rendered by Mrs. Harry McGee, pianist, assisted by Hubert Linscott, bass. This week's meeting of the club was held on Easter Monday at the home of Mrs. Henry Lockwood DeForest, of 955 Hillside avenue, at which time Mrs. DeForest offered a pleasing musical program. She contributed piano solos as well as piano and 'cello duets and trios with piano, 'cello and violinist. She was assisted by Miss Laura Tappan, of New York, 'cellist, and Mrs. John Miles, of Philadelphia, violinist.

Evan Williams, one of America's greatest concert singers, assisted by the Ethel Rubel Trio, gave a benefit recital in the auditorium of the Plainfield High School on Monday night, the proceeds going to defray the expenses of the Free Dental Clinic at Muhlenberg Hospital.

With one exception the titles were all in English, but the music was selected from some of the composers of classic fame. Groups of selections by the Trio were specially pleasing, rendered by Miss Edith Aubel, violin; Miss Marie Roniger, 'cello, and Miss Brenda Putnam, pianist. Their longest selection was the theme and variations from the Trio in A-minor, by Tschaikowski, which was very much enjoyed. The number "All Through the Night," in which the 'cello was prominent, "Bonnie Sweet," "The Little Shepherdess," and "An Old Irish Tune" were very popular with the audience, and brought out an encore.

Mr. Williams' first number was a group from Handel, and the selection "Sound An Alarm," with a touch of the dramatic, brought him an encore, to which he responded with "All the World Loves a Lover." In his second group of four, comprising the "Monotone," "Songs My Mother Taught Me," by Dvorak; "A Swan," by Grieg, and "The Message," by Brahms, he felt the enthusiasm of the audience, and entered more heartily into the program. Persistent applause brought him out again, and he responded with "Sweet Miss Mary." The audience would not let him go, and he responded with "A Perfect Day," which made his name popular on the Victor records. In his concluding group of four selections "Murmuring Zephyrs" was a pleasing one, but perhaps "The Spirit Song" by Haydn was his best. After the selection "Wind and Lyre" he was recalled twice, and responded with "Open the Gates of the Temple" and "The Four Leaf Clover."

Daniel McNamee, of Central avenue, has returned to his studies at Lafayette University after enjoying a spring vacation.

Lester Mellick, of Prospect avenue, is on his way home from an extended business trip through South America.

Plan To Move Post Office By End Of Month

Announcement was made yesterday that Plainfield's new Federal Postoffice building, which has been undergoing many vexatious delays in construction work, has practically been completed and is ready for acceptance by the government. The surprise and Postmaster Hoagland immediately began completing plans for changing over the mail facilities of the city from the Babcock building, where the office has been located for nearly twenty-five years, to the new structure. April 28 has been fixed as the tentative date for the "swing-over" but there is a possibility that this may have to be held a day or two. At any rate, there seems to be no question but what Plainfielders will be buying stamps and mailing letters in the beautiful new postoffice home by the first week in May.

While it may seem an almost Herculean task to make the change without interrupting the receiving and distribution of the great amount of mail matter handled by the Plainfield office each day, it will be accomplished by Postmaster Hoagland and his men without any noticeable interruption. Preparations have been underway for the removal for several months. All that is needed is the word from Washington to "get busy" and the trick will be accomplished quickly the most habitual postoffice frequenter will find it difficult to realize it is all over. The interior arrangement of the Watchung avenue structure has been arranged to care for many times the number of people handled in the old place, making it much more convenient for the clerical staff to properly handle all business coming before it. There is a possibility that a public inspection day of the building may be designated before business begins, thus permitting the Plainfield public to see every department without hindrance to the distributing staff.

The new postoffice building and the site it occupies represents a governmental outlay of more than $150,000. The original bill appropriating $100,000 was put through Congress by Charles N. Fowler, of Elizabeth, when he was a representative from this district. That was more than ten years ago. By the time the necessary ground had been secured from the late Albert L. Force and the Society of Friends it was found that more money was needed and a second appropriation of $50,000 was obtained by former Senator James E. Martine, of this city. The original contract figure was $89,000, a sum which has since been added to because of changes ordered after work was under way. The corner stone was laid in December, 1915, and but for union troubles and failure of materials to arrive the building would have been completed within a year. The office is considered one of the finest in New Jersey and is calculated to bring a decided change in the business aspect of Watchung avenue between Front street, and also of East Second street from Park avenue to Watchung avenue.

Previous to its being established in the Babcock building where it was placed at the completion of that structure laid in 1892, Plainfield's postoffice was only a small affair occupying the store on East Front street, where M. C. Van Arsdale's shoe business now is. Previous to that it was for a long time in the Schorb building on East Front street, where Wescott's cafe is now located. A. E. Hoagland, who will have the honor of being first postmaster in the Federal structure, is now serving his first term, having been appointed by President Wilson to the recommendation of former Senator Martine.

Local Arcanum Lodge Affected

The news from Boston that Federal Judge Aldrich had appointed a receiver for inquiry into the financial affairs of the Royal Arcanum was received in this city with much concern, as Plainfield has been one of the New Jersey strongholds of the order almost since its institution. There are two local councils, Plainfield, No. 711, of which W. G. Wright is regent, and Greenbrook, No. 1735, of which Charles F. Muhlenbeck is regent. The two organizations have a total membership of 215, all that is left out of 450 that were on the rosters previous to the readjustment of assessment rates two years ago. Plainfield Council, which is the older of the two, had at one time a total of 154 members and now has but 111, while Greenbrook dropped from its high warter mark of 137 to 104, the lowest it has had since it received its charter on December 10, 1894.

Neither of the two Plainfield coun-

Fire in the West End
Threatened Big Damage

What threatened to be a disastrous fire in the coal yard of Richard Temple on South Second street at Muhlenberg place, Wednesday noon was stopped in the bud by the prompt arrival of the fire department, and the laying in of five lines of hose to quell the flames that were shooting high in the air. Damage amounting to more than $500 on each side but-in the opinion of all concerned this figure is small in comparison with what seemed probable when the various companies first reached the scene. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

The fire, which evidently originated from a locomotive spark, was first noticed at about 12:30. It was then creeping along the railroad tracks used jointly by the Commercial Mills and Mr. Temple. The mill buildings and the storage building of the Potter Press Works are directly adjacent and the flames were rushing towards them when checked. Fire Chief Jennings' decision to use plenty of water was all that saved these nearby structures as the flames were reaching 30 feet in the air because of a stiff wind when the first hydrant was opened up. The firemen have had numerous experiences with conflagrations in the Commercial Mills yard and were taking no chances. The damage done was mostly confined to Mr. Temple's coal sheds, screens and the railroad trestle.

City Leaguers Ready to Start

Baseball will get underway in this city in earnest a week from tomorrow, when the City League will open its third season with Hone Chapel, St. Joseph's, Netherwood and First Baptist aggregations fighting it out for first place. The games will continue each holiday and Saturday until September 1. Most of the teams will play practice games tomorrow in order to work out final details for the league race.

A meeting of the officials of the league will be held at the home of the secretary, Dan Randolph, on Monday night, at which time all the managers will be expected to hand in their roster of players to be carried through the season. Other important matters will come up for discussion.

Third League Unit Now Ready For Duty

A. W. Ransome, commander of the Plainfield Home Defense League, has adopted a new plan regarding the drilling of the corps that he expects will whip the men into shape as soon as possible. The men are divided into squads that drill by themselves one night apece each week, and one night a week all the members of the league drill in the High School gymnasium.

The members of the third unit of the Home Defense League have been appointed by the Mayor, bringing the total number of enrollment up to 450, and they appeared in the High School gym Wednesday night, at which time they were sworn in and measured for uniforms.

Another committee to help increase the efficiency of the league has been brought into being by the appointment of Robert Rushmore as chairman of the automobile brigade. Mr. Rushmore is seeking recruits who are willing to join him and may be reached at 722 West Eighth street. Those who join will at present be asked to take the members of the Defense League to and from the guarding points and to conduct officers of the league on tours of inspection.

SCIENCE EXHIBIT.

The classes in domestic science at the Plainfield High School will give a practical demonstration of the knowledge they have gained during the year at the High School next Thursday afternoon.

Local High School Boys Join Colony

Dr. Henry Maxson, superintendent of the Plainfield schools, has just placed before the boys of the Plainfield High School an offer to spend the summer on a farm to help carry out the idea formulated by the Junior Industrial Army of New Jersey, that of providing food for the country. Boys to make the trip are now undergoing examination and from the applicants the twenty best will be chosen. Those who go will receive credit for the full year's work and seniors will be allowed to graduate with their class in June. Those boys accepted will become members for the summer of what will be known as the Bernardsville Farm Colony, which will at first consist of fifty members.

The proposition is planned, and financed by Grant B. Schley, who will turn over 75 to 100 acres of his Froh-Heim Farms Estate at Far Hills to be cultivated by a colony of boys from the high schools of Bernardsville, Bloomfield and Plainfield. Headquarters will be located on the grounds of the Bernardsville Fair Grounds, adjacent to the Schley Estate, and the camp will be a military camp under military management and discipline, under charge of a commissary department and drilled by an army officer.

The camp will be known as the Froh-Heim Farms Club. Mr. Schley will finance the undertaking, but a committee of boys, under supervision, will have charge of the business end of it, to keep an account of all materials furnished and goods purchased, and the profits of the ventures will be divided pro rata among the boys that stay until the end. Each boy will receive from the Froh-Heim Farms a drawing allowance of $1.00 per week for immediate personal expenses. The plan is being perfected by Superintendent W. J. Bickett, of Bernardsville.

School building on East Front street, where Wescott's cafe is now located. A. E. Hoagland, who will have the honor of being first postmaster in the Federal structure, is now serving his first term, having been appointed by President Wilson to the recommendation of former Senator Martine.

Camp opens May 1. It is expected that crops will be harvested by the middle of September, so that the boys can return to school at about the usual time of opening. If it is necessary for them to stay at the colony after school opens, to gather in the harvest, arrangements will be made by the school authorities and coaching provided to help boys make up their lost school work.

Each boy will bring with him two blankets, a pillow, working clothes, and a Scout suit for a drill uniform. Besides these, he will bring individual personal articles to suit himself. The bed will be furnished by Mr. Schley and will be a cot.

Local Elks Plan Annual Dover Trip

At the regular meeting of Plainfield Lodge of Elks Wednesday night Exalted Ruler Louis J. Blatz appointed a committee to make all arrangements for the annual visitation to the Dover Elks' yearly minstrel show. The trip will be made by automobile and will include supper at the Mansion House in Dover, of which Gerald Hann, a former Plainfielder, is proprietor, and reception at the Elks clubhouse on Blackwell street following the performance. The date of the trip is Monday night, May 7.

The Dover Elks always send a delegation to Plainfield for their annual minstrel or musical comedy production. Thirty-five were in the party which saw the first presentation of "The Land of Mystery" at the Plainfield Theatre last week. W. W. Nash, Jr., William C. Mulvey and Roy Woodhull comprised the committee appointed by Exalted Ruler Blatz and they hope to have at least 100 Plainfielders participate in the junket. The committee also plans to have all the automobiles leave Plainfield at the same time, in order to have a parade through the principal streets of Dover.

Annual Y. M. C. A. Circus Tomorrow

The annual circus of the Plainfield branch of the Y. M. C. A. will be held in the gymnasium of the association building on East Front street, tomorrow, both afternoon and night. The men and boys have been working for weeks to get the performance up to last year's standard and press reports emerging from headquarters would indicate that they have succeeded in doing so.

A number of special acts never before seen in this city outside of a legitimate circus are included in the program. Bert Hanson will contribute a contortionist act, Benny Herse will impersonate Charlie Chaplin, and hand balancing, bulldog and wrestling acts will comprise portions of the program, while clowns and other funsters will ramble about in gay attire.

Tickets for the affair are being sold by members of the association or may be obtained at the door immediately before the performance.

Death Comes To a Noted Local Jurist

In the presence of a gathering of mourners which included relatives, friends and practically a full representation of Plainfield's legal profession, the funeral of Walter L. Hetfield, former judge of the local District Court, was held at his late home, 552 East Second street, Wednesday afternoon. The death of the honored lawyer took place at his residence early Monday morning after an illness with heart trouble and complications that extended over a period of two years. While it was known that he was in poor health, Judge Hetfield's friends were not prepared for the end and it cast universal gloom over the entire city. The funeral service was in charge of Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First Methodist church, who read scripture and delivered the dissertation, while Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church, offered prayers. Both clergymen acted in the same capacity at the grave-side in Evergreen cemetery, where interment was made in the family plot. The gathering in the home comprised delegations from all the organizations to which Judge Hetfield belonged, these being Jerusalem Lodge, F. and A. M.; Jerusalem Chapter, R. A. M.; Plainfield Lodge of Elks; Plainfield Lodge of Odd Fellows; Unity Lodge, K. of P., and the Woodmen of the World. Every organization contributed a floral tribute, while an especially beautiful set piece was presented by the Plainfield Bar Association.

Judge Walter L. Hetfield.

The pallbearers for the service were selected from Judge Hetfield's closest associates in the local legal field. Those acting in an honorary capacity were William R. Codington, William A. Coddington, Charles A. Reed, William Newcorn, S. S. Swackhamer and W. M. Stillman.

The active bearers were: Asa S. Randolph, Francis J. Blatz, Martin B. Stutsman, W. G. De Meza, J. Henry Crane and William N. Runyon.

Walter Levi Hetfield was born in this city at the corner of Fourth street and Madison avenue on July 21, 1856, and was therefore in his sixty-first year at the time of his death. He was the son of Levi Hetfield, a Plainfield pioneer and a descendant of the Hetfield family which located in Union county in the Elizabethan period. Mr. Hetfield received his education in the Plainfield schools and because of a natural aptitude for law took up the study of Blackstone in the office of the late William L. Maxson, at that time the leading attorney in the city. From the day that Walter Hetfield was admitted to the bar he gave evidence that he had selected the proper calling.

"Cornell Night" at Y. M. C. A. a Success

Under the direction of a number of men in this vicinity who are graduates of Cornell University, "Cordell Night" was observed in the Y. M. C. A. last night and was attended by several hundred of the boys who are students at the two local High Schools. Albert Early, principal of the North Plainfield High School, showed a number of reels of moving pictures depicting life at the university, including one of the Cornell Cadet Corps during inspection and one of the Cornell-Harvard dual track meet.

Several students at present at the university were present and created considerable interest and enthusiasm by relating stories of college life. Similar entertainments featuring other of our large American colleges are being planned by the association officials for the near future.

"Tabs" Will Soon Mark Anniversary

At a meeting of St. Mary's T. A. B. Society, to be held in the society hall on West Fourth street tonight, further plans will be made for the elaborate observance of the forty-fifth anniversary of the organization on May 20. The preliminary arrangements already made include a vesper service for the members and their friends at St. Mary's church and a monster banquet in T. A. B. Hall on Monday night, May 21. It is probable that five hundred diners will attend the latter and speaking by men of State and national prominence will be a feature.

One of the distinguished men who have already signified their intention of being present is Monsignor Cody, of St. James' Parish, Newark, who organized the Plainfield T. A. B. Society in 1872. On that date nineteen young men signed the charter roll and of these only two are living today. They are John Barry, of Arlington place, and John Walsh, of Madison avenue. Both these "old timers" will occupy seats at the speakers' table on the night of the banquet.

St. Mary's T. A. B. Society is at present one of the strongest and most active organizations of the kind. It has a total membership of two hundred and thirty-two, practically all of them being young men. The society has a completely equipped building on West Fourth street, where the nightly attendances average 100. Joseph T. McCue, who has been president for the past two years and who has been an important factor in building up the organization, was renominated for the presidency this week and will be elected at the first regular meeting in May.

Call Men to Help Fire Department

As a part of his plan to protect the city during the present trouble with Germany, Mayor Leighton Calkins has notified the call men of the Fire Department that have offered their assistance what they may do in case of a fire call. Under the plan of organization the men will be divided into groups with formal assignments to the various firehouses; that if a signal is given calling them all out they will proceed direct to the fire and there report to the various captains to whose houses they were assigned. The details regarding the assignment of them will be worked out by the Mayor with the Fire Committee and Chief Jennings, after which the men will be announced. They will be called when needed by a signal blown on the gong used by the Defense League.

Out of the thirty-four call men that were included on the rolls for the Fire Department before it became entirely paid all but four have offered their services in the present trouble and Mayor Calkins has thanked each one.

Mrs. Joseph A. Haynes Suffers Loss Of Leg

Mrs. Joseph A. Haynes, formerly of this city but more recently residing with her daughter, Mrs. Frank Palmer, of Fanwood, is seriously ill at Muhlenberg Hospital following an operation performed several days ago for the amputation of her right leg. The limb became affected several weeks ago and despite every medical precaution a gangrenous condition developed. Amputation was resorted to as a last extreme, the operation being performed by Drs. Hedges and Endicott. The patient rallied after the ordeal and is at present resting comfortably.

Mrs. Haynes is the wife of Joseph A. Haynes, for many years the district agent for the New Jersey Central and manager of the North avenue freight yards. She resided for a number of years on Craig place and just previous to going to Fanwood occupied a residence on Emerson avenue.

Plainfield Harbors No "Slackers" for the Army

With the thought of being called to fight in the trenches lurking in their minds, men from all over the country that are now taking out marriage licenses are being termed as slackers. Plainfield, however, cannot be accused of harboring many of the species. If the records of the Board of Health's marriage license bureau can be relied upon. As is the rule following the Lenten season, a slight increase in the number of licenses issued can be noticed, but in speaking with a Record reporter Miss Harriett Mattison, registrar of vital statistics, said that it was entirely normal and could in no way indicate that the men were trying to escape military duty.

Submarine Chaser To Be Built By Plainfielders

Through the efforts this week of two of Plainfield's most prominent young men, this city is to be represented on the ocean during the war with Germany by a submarine chaser of the best and fastest type. Warren Ackerman and Reginald Rowland, two members of Troop D, first proposed the idea and thus far have collected over half of the $22,000 needed to construct a "chaser" such as has been planned.

The plan has been accepted with enthusiasm by everyone approached and a number of finential men have agreed to see that it is carried through. Several donations of $1,000 have been received and it is expected that within the next few days the entire amount will have been collected. The boat will be turned over to the Government for as long as the war may last and then will be returned to the donators. It will then be sold and the contributors to the fund will receive their money back in proportion.

Ackerman and Rowland have already completed details for the building of the boat and it is now under construction in a big shipyard. It will have every device for detecting and destroying hostile submarines and will be built for speed. A crew of ten will man it, each one to be fully acquainted with every detail before the boat will be accepted. All of them will undoubtedly be local boys, including Ackerman and Rowland. Thomas Fraser, a former enlisted man in the English navy and an expert on marine engines, will be head mechanic, and Gresham Sharp, Jack Caulfield and other young men will be included in the crew. A number of them are now engaged in taking a course in coastwise navigation. One of the most important members of the crew will be the wireless operator, who, according to present plans, will be a veteran of the Ward line.

Although it is not yet definitely known just where the boat will be assigned for patrol duty, it is known that an effort is to be made for assignment to that portion of the coast between Cape Cod and New London, on the New England coast. That section of the coast is familiar to most of those who will be in the crew and it is figured that by the time the boat is completed the crew will be competent enough to put it into instant service.

Co. K Boys Are Still On Guard

"Somewhere in New Jersey," April 20.—Another week on guard duty has passed and finds every member of Company K in excellent health, although the routine is getting rather monotonous. All the boys have gotten out of the hospital and are taking their turn at guard duty, the major portion of which consists in keeping watch on a huge uniform factory, which is under Government supervision and turns out 15,000 uniforms a day.

Captain Charles Peterson is busy perfecting a plan whereby an extra man will be added to each detail so that one day a week will be allowed each man to be off duty, when he will probably be able to go home.

The Captain, Sergeant Glover and First Sergeant Agpar took time off while we-k go fishing, but when they returned would say nothing as to the size of the catch.

"Wake Up, America" Was Sounded Here

Plainfield, following out a proclamation issued for the occasion by Mayor Calkins, fell in line with other places all over the United States yesterday and observed "Wake Up, America" day with the ringing of bells, exercises in the schools and a parade.

Three times, in the morning, at noon and in the waning evening, every church bell in the city pealed out its solemn tones for five minutes, and at the 9 o'clock morning exercises in each school patriotic exercises were in order. A feature of each program included the reading of Longfellow's celebrated poem, "Paul Revere's Ride." The poem was also flashed on the screens of the local moving picture theatres at each performance.

At 7:30 last night the Boy Scouts paraded through the business streets of the city. There were several hundred boys in line who carried flags, banners, hoes and other farm implements.

Dr. Van Dyke Will Lecture Here

Dr. Paul Van Dyke, head of the Department of History of the Graduate School in Princeton University and brother of the celebrated poet, Dr. Henry Van Dyke, will deliver a lecture at the Plainfield High School Auditorium on May 4, under the auspices of the Plainfield Chapter of Mt. St. Mary's Alumnae. The proceeds of the lecture will be devoted to the Volunteer Auxiliary of the Home Defense of Plainfield and North Plainfield. The following women comprise the committee:

Irene M. Duchesne, Grace Rafferty, Mary R. Sullivan, Murial Collins, Teresa Schneider, Marguerite McDonough, Marie Tobin, Bernadine Duchesne, Marie Louise Sullivan, of Plainfield, and Florence Greasheimer, Manville; Evelyn Wolcott, Abbie Wolcott, of Westfield; Mrs. J. Driscoll, Margaret McEwan, of Raritan, and Mary Demond, of Somerville.

PYTHIANS' BIG TIME TONIGHT.

Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., has completed plans for a big get-together in the Babcock building tonight. Seven candidates will receive the third degree, the work being done by the degree teams of Castle No. 82, of Somerville. Grand Lodge officers will be present and the several social time will follow the initiatory.

Father Bogan's View Of Loyalty

On Sunday morning at St. Mary's church, Father Bogan, following the custom of the Catholic pulpit, preached on the gospel of the day, "The Risen Christ's Commission to His Apostles." At the conclusion of his sermon at the last Mass he introduced a thought on the present war conditions of our country.

"The belief," he said," that every American worthy of the name holds at heart is that his country deserves high honor among the nations. Our Constitution is our National Bible. In it is embodied the principle of human liberty. In the exercise of that principle men freely discuss its varied applications in securing freedom for the individual and welfare for the nation. Yet there are times when the principles of our National Constitution present difficulties in meeting national conditions, and hence amendments are legislated to bring the spirit and the letter of the law into safe administrations of our National affairs. In such vexatious times we Americans turn from our discussion to the supreme constituted authority for final solution. Once that authority pronounces its decision, discussion ends and obedience becomes the only mark of Americanism. Then what has always been accepted by Americans as a tenet of our National making comes out from the crucible of authority brilliant in the spirit of National Truth and stamped as a dogma in our National Creed, to question which is treason, deservedly cutting off the recognition of sovereign rights and privileges of an American.

"But a few days ago you joined in religious service in sympathetic memory of the sufferings and death of Our Divine Redeemed. You saw the God-man submit to the vacillating whim of a murderous mob that had but a few days before proclaimed Him King. You looked upon the crowned head, you marked the nail-pierced hands and feet, and you heard the gasp of agony, and in it all you read the olden story of God's enduring love for His people. In self-searching retrospect you saw many a human slip and many a fatal fall. But in the memory of that Divine Strength exerted in your behalf you arose in your determination—with God's help—to meet the vileness of sin and win out in the struggle, for the victory is yours."

MAY REPEAT SHOW.

A movement is on foot to have the musical comedy success, "The Land of Mystery," as produced at the Plainfield Theatre last week by the local Elks, repeated in the near future, for the benefit of the Home Defense League. The matter was broached at an informal gathering Wednesday night and will be considered fully by committees from the Elks and Home Defense League next week. Robert F. Skilling, the author and producer of the musical comedy, is still in the city and may be brought into service for the coming presentation.

ELECTED TRUSTEE.

At the annual meeting and banquet of the New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce held at the Robert Treat Hotel, Newark, yesterday, Ernest R. Ackerman, of this city, was elected one of the trustees of the organization. At the banquet held following the business session Governor Walter E. Edge, Major-General Goethals and Dr. Charles A. Beard, of Columbia University, made addresses of a patriotic nature.

ED. EDELL LISTENS TO CALL OF FARM.

Prospects of high prices being paid next winter for potatoes and onions have induced Edward Edell, one of Plainfield's best known machinists, to give up the lathe and bench for the plow and harrow. He sailed away in a flivver a few days ago bound for "somewhere in South Persey," where he has purchased a farm and where he will hereafter devote his time to extensive agricultural work, on the lines laid down in a correspondence course of husbandry, which he has been studying for the past year.

"The machine shops are busy now," said Ed. to a group of friends at Laing's Garage, where he has been employed for many years, "but it won't keep up forever. Farming is a sure enough thing all the time and if vegetables continue to bring the fancy figures they have commanded recently I can retire before you fellows are very much older. Me for the simple life hereafter."

Mr. Edell has been employed in several local shops beside working at Laing's Garage and was for a time a foreman at the Standard Aeroplane Corporation's plant on North avenue. He is extremely popular with a big circle of friends and his departure from the city is deeply regretted. He refuses to give the exact location of his farm for fear of raids on his garden patch by some of the fellows with whom he has been working. Most of them have access to big touring cars that can run to South Jersey in a very short time.

"If the gang knew just where to find me," remarked Ed with a knowing wink of his eye, "I would wake up some fine morning and find that my whole potato and onion crop had been confiscated for a Plainfield commissary department. I never farmed before but I have swiped many an apple and watermelon in their natural state and I don't propose to take any chances. If everything goes well with me this summer I will give a clambake in the fall and maybe induce some of the boys to get out of the machine gang and follow the plow in the same locality where I have bought my place."

Gregory, Attorney General of the United States, to notify all alien enemies within this locality to bring to Police Headquarters and surrender the following articles which, under the Proclamation of the President, dated April 6, 1917, it is unlawful for alien enemies to have in their possession:

Any firearm, weapon, or implement of war, or component part thereof, ammunition, maxim or other silencer, bomb, or explosive, or material used in the manufacture of explosives; any aircraft or wireless apparatus, or any form of signaling device, or any form of cipher code, or any paper, document, or book written or printed in cipher or in which there may be invisible writing.

A detailed receipt will be given for all articles so surrendered, and at the close of the war such articles will be returned.

Any alien enemy who fails to surrender such articles within twenty-four hours after this public notice will be subject to summary arrest if such articles are found in his possession; and the articles will be seized and forfeited to the use of the United States.

DEATHS OF A WEEK

MRS. MIRIAM ADLER.

Mrs. Miriam Adler, widow of Julius Adler, died Sunday night at her home on Terrill road, after a brief illness. The funeral was held at the home of her sister, Mrs. M. A. Rose, of Fanwood, yesterday morning and the burial was at a Long Island cemetery. Mrs. Adler was a native of New York and had made her home in this city for the past five years.

MRS. ELIZABETH C. WESTON.

Mrs. Elizabeth C. Weston, widow of George Weston, died Sunday night at the home of her niece, Mrs. Henry W. Williams, 138 Crescent avenue. She had been ill since last February and was apparently gaining strength when a relapse occurred. The funeral service was private and was held at Mrs. Williams' home Wednesday in charge of Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. Burial was made in the family plot at the cemetery at Stamford, Conn., yesterday morning. Mrs. Weston was a native of Weston, Conn., but lived for many years in New York city. She had spent much of her time in the last days of her life in Plainfield and had a wide circle of friends.

MRS. JESSIE B. TENNYSON.

Mrs. Jessie Burdick Tennyson, a resident of this city for the past twenty-one years, died Tuesday night in Muhlenberg Hospital, following an illness of two weeks with pneumonia. The funeral was held at her late home at 612 Madison avenue at 11 o'clock this morning and was in charge of Rev. Dr. Strong, of the First Baptist church, where the deceased was a member and faithful worker since making her home here. Burial was in Hillside cemetery.

Mrs. Tennyson was born at Troy, N. Y., forty-seven years ago, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Van Buren Mattison. Her mother died about a year ago. Mrs. Tennyson's surviving relatives are two daughters, Miss Corinne Tennyson and Miss Evelyn Tennyson, and one sister, Miss Harriett Mattison, registrar of vital statistics at the local Board of Health office.

LOUIS S. DARLING.

Louis S. Darling, a native of this city and resident here until about fifteen years ago, died Sunday at his home at Rockville, Conn. He was forty-three years old and had a wide local acquaintance. Mr. Darling's family lived for many years on South avenue, near Woodland avenue, and as a young man he was an ardent fisher and hunter. In later life he was the winner of many casting contests at sporting shows and was considered an authority on fishing and hunting subjects. He was the author of numerous books dealing with these sports. Darling also had an enthusiastic dog fancier and with his sister exhibited prize canines at the Madison Square Garden bench shows.

The editor of the "Out in the Open" column of the Newark Evening News published the following eulogy of Mr. Darling in yesterday's issue of that newspaper:

"Only a few people got close to Lou S. Darling, who died Sunday at his home in Rockville, Conn., but those few found him a staunch friend and a charming fellow. Lou's gruffness, his abrupt manners and blunt speech covered a kindly, thoughtful heart, and a mind so wrapped up in the realities of the outdoor world he knew so well, and loved so much, that it had no tolerance for the petty vanities and insignificances. If one understood those facts it was not difficult to see the real man—a square, clean, capable sportsman, a substantial, helpful companion, a solid unit in the world of business. Here in Essex county more than one man will miss him, and the old Esopus River, in Ulster county, New York, which he had fished and loved for twenty-five years, and written about in verse and in prose, will not seem the same with his sober, bearded face missing when the campfire glows. The 'boys' who called him 'Chief' never will forget him."

ISAAC AUGUSTUS HULIT.

Isaac Augustus Hulit, aged 57 years, died Saturday afternoon at his home, 350 Hamler avenue. The funeral was held at the residence Tuesday afternoon and was in charge of Rev. H. St. G. Burrill, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross. Burial was in Hillside cemetery.

HERBERT E. CLARK.

The funeral of Herbert E. Clark, whose death occurred at his home on Sycamore avenue Sunday afternoon, following a brief illness, was held at the late residence Wednesday afternoon. The service was in charge of Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, of which Mr. Clark was a member. Many local relatives and friends were in attendance and also a delegation of associates in the Chemical National Bank of New York, with which the deceased was connected for thirty-seven years. A beautiful floral piece from the bank employees was conspicuous in the large array of flowers from friends and relatives. Burial was in the family plot in Hillside cemetery.

Mr. Clark was born in this city fifty-seven years ago and always made his home in this locality. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis K. Clark, whose home for many years was at Fourth street and Central avenue, the property having been purchased some time ago by the late Mrs. J. R. Truell as the beginning of Truell Court. Mr. Clark entered the Chemical National Bank as a boy and advanced by various stages until he was the head of the foreign department of the institution. During the past year he had been detained from work by intermittent spells of poor health but his condition was not considered serious. He was able to walk down town the last Saturday and the end came suddenly Sunday afternoon, just at a time when his relatives and friends thought he was getting much better.

Mr. Clark is survived by three sisters, Miss Florence M. Clark and Miss Mabel H. Clark, who live in the borough, and Mrs. Robert B. Clark, of New York; also one brother, Frank E. Clark, who retired recently after serving as clerk to the Plainfield Board of Education for many years.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, APRIL 20, 1917.

DO NOT SUFFER ABUSE FROM THIS SOURCE.

Citizens and business people of Plainfield have had occasion during the past week to complain of the manner in which militiamen detailed to guard factory sites within the city have been conducting themselves. There is a mistaken idea of the rights of a Federal soldier in the minds of many persons and anyone experiencing the slightest degree of trouble caused by one of these guards will confer a favor on the municipal authorities by reporting the same at once to the police department. The offenses in some instances have assumed serious proportions and the problem of attempting to curb them is a difficult one to work out.

The militia uniform does not give the man a right to impose upon citizens nor does it give him the right to commit deeds which civilians would not dare attempt. The non-commissioned officers in charge of the guard details that have been sent here should be "jacked" up and it is up to the citizens to furnish the police department with evidence that will warrant a rounding up of offending parties. There has been an evident disregard of law and order but Plainfielders who have been imposed upon have been too much inclined to complain informally rather than bringing their charges to the proper channels.

One of the many instances of lawlessness was brought to the attention of the Record last week by a local restaurant owner. Two khaki garbed youths, evidently of the enlisted class, ordered and ate two hearty meals, after which they refused to pay the cost of the food, declaring that they were soldiers and were not expected to pay. The Federal government is supplying these men with funds for their daily rations; they are expected to pay for everything they buy just as any civilian would; and their uniform does not give them the right to abuse Plainfield citizens. The restaurant owner was charitable enough to overlook the offense because the men were intoxicated but this latter fact should have been sufficient reason for reporting the guilty parties to the police at once.

The men who have been stationed in Plainfield have disgraced the militia uniform by walking the streets in an intoxicated condition; they should be given to understand by superior officers that such conduct will not be tolerated in Plainfield; and local people should aid the authorities in bringing them to account.

CONSIDER THE ALIEN.

With the passing over of the first patriotic fervor following the decision of Congress to make war on Germany, a very noticeable fact has become apparent, and that is that too much credence has been given absolutely groundless and foolish rumors concerning aliens in our midst. Within the past week stories have been passed from one person to another about all sorts of important things that are supposed to have been done by alleged pro-German sympathizers. Like all other malicious reports the yarns have gained in volume as they spread about and as a result more than one argument was engendered that threatened dire results. One reputable citizen who has had his naturalization papers for many years and who has been prominent in Plainfield business life came in for a large share of the harmless talk. It was currently reported that he had been arrested, that arms and ammunition had been found in his home, that secret service men were trailing him about day and night, and that he was preparing to organize a hostile force of Prussians, and many other activities equally as silly. The same circumstances were credited to a West Third street grocer who has at no time ventured an opinion either one way or the other on the all-important topic and who is undoubtedly as loyal an American as those with colonial ancestors, although he was born on German soil. Still another instance has come to life where an Austro-Hungarian employed in one of the local shops had been subjected to all manner of indignity because he was unable to produce his citizenship papers when a fellow workman taunted him with being an alien. The man in question had taken our his papers several years ago but had left them for safekeeping with a relative in Connecticut. But for the fact that cooler heads asserted themselves a serious squabble would have occurred. Where the truth is not known and where no effort is made to ascertain it, there is always a chance of riotous conduct when heedless youths pick upon an innocent man who has renounced the land of his birth and sworn allegiance to the United States. These new citizens have not really done anything to incur animosity and when the proper time comes will back up President Wilson with deeds and not words. They will be found absolutely loyal, willing to undergo any sacrifice for the upholding of the country in which they have cast their lot, but continual nagging does not add to their peace of mind or increase any feeling of respect to all Americans who frequently forget the first principle of altruism. Give them the proper chance they were led to believe they would receive when they embraced the Stars and Stripes. Refrain from applying insulting epithets to a man who minds his own business, and above all give the naturalized citizen the same square deal you would ask for yourself under similar circumstances.

COMMUNITY ENDORSES VON MINDEN'S ACTION.

Every patriotic American in this vicinity, and for that matter the entire country, applauds the action of Judge von Minden, of Dunellen, in holding for the Grand Jury without bail an Austrian who deliberately desecrated the Stars and Stripes and refused to show any contrition when warned of the gravity of his act. It is to be hoped that the Middlesex body of jurists follow the example set by the local magistrate in giving the fellow the punishment he deserves. This is no time for trifling when the insulting of "Old Glory" is known to be an established fact. The occurrence in question took place a few days ago in the yards of the Levering & Garrigues factory at West Dunellen. Joseph Braick, a native Austrian who has not yet sworn allegiance to America although he has been living here a number of years, was the offendant. He scaled a 30-foot flag pole and in a malicious manner tore to ribbons a new flag that loyal workmen had tacked in place. An angry crowd rushed at Braick when news of what he had done was spread around but a special marshal hustled him to jail before he suffered any violence. In answer to Judge von Minden's query as to what made him do as he did, the culprit replied, with a half smile on his face, that he did it "simply for fun." That was the breaking point for the doughty justice, himself a native born patriot and a State officer for many years in the Jr. O. U. A. M., which has its principles founded on loyalty to the nation. The erstwhile foreigner had pleaded ignorance of the English language when first summoned to the bar but had no difficulty in grasping the meaning of the magistrate's word that poured out in such a volume that Braick cowered back and changed his air of indifference to one of deepest concern. It was too late, however, and when the onrush of indignation finally ceased he was ordered to jail without any bail equivalent. As he was being led back to his cell Judge von Minden asked Braick what would happen to an American if he was in Vienna and did the same thing to an Austrian flag as the man himself had done.

"He would have been shot, I guess," said Braick.

"Yes, you are right," replied the Judge, "and you can thank your lucky stars that this country is not under martial law for by this time we would be helping your relatives make arrangements for your funeral instead of feeding you in jail."

A number of the prisoner's fellow-countrymen were in court when the justified denunciation took place and it is quite probable that no more such desecrations will take place in or about Dunellen. Hats off to you, Judge von Minden, we ratify every action of yours in this proceeding.

WALTER L. HETFIELD WILL BE LONG REMEMBERED.

Because he was a MAN—possessed of qualities that commanded the respect of his colleagues in the profession of law and all with whom he came in contact in public and private life—the name Walter L. Hetfield will be a long living one in Plainfield. The former local District Court judge; the idol of many a beginner in the study of Blackstone; a champion of the Democratic cause even through the "Dark Ages" of that party's history; and a man who fought with bulldog tenacity for what he believed to be right; has been called to his final resting place, but memories of him are writ in words immortal on pages that the ravages of time cannot efface.

Mr. Hetfield's early life was spent in a struggle for the best to be attained in the educational field of his day and his later years were devoted to an application of natural talent and acquired genius that built for him a practice of wide range. The poor came to him for advice as well as the rich; no case was too small or insignificant to command the best services he could render; and he was ever ready to hold out a helping hand to the oppressed regardless of race, color, nationality or creed.

His death has deprived Plainfield of a citizen who gave it occasion to swell with pride in more than one instance and his going to another world is mourned by the community as a whole. The sympathy of the municipality goes out to the bereaved ones of his immediate family.

All that concerned Plainfield, interested Mr. Hetfield. As a member of the famous "Big Six" in the local Common Council he campaigned for many important measures that have asserted their value in the upbuilding of the city. He was one of the prime movers in the program for the establishment of Plainfield's first trolley system, but this is only one of the many important features in the municipality's growth which Mr. Hetfield had a hand in moulding. Because he was born in Plainfield he held the city near to his heart but he was equally as interested in the welfare of his county, State and nation.

Y. M. C. A. SITE SHOULD BE CAREFULLY CONSIDERED.

That there are certain advantages as well as disadvantages in the proposed location of the new Y. M. C. A. is conceded but the association's Board of Directors owe it to the citizens of Plainfield to postpone their building operations until a committee of citizens have decided beyond all doubt that the Sycamore street site is the proper one. This action has been taken and before the contracts are awarded the matter should be gone into carefully and discussed from every angle.

A large amount of opposition has sprung up against the proposed corner, the contention in the main being that it is too far removed from the business section, and Mr. Besler's claim that a public building which will necessarily be a credit to the municipality should be in a more conspicuous place is a good one.

Plainfield is steadily acquiring its quota of creditable public and semi-public buildings and citizens who contributed so generously to the Y. M. C. A. fund naturally expect it to be in a position that will attract attention. Even with the opening of the new city hall it is doubtful if the Sycamore street corner will become more popular and the number of people who have occasion to pass it at the present time certainly will not warrant the placing of it on this spot.

Taken from all viewpoints the location of the present building could not be improved upon but if this tract is not available the directors or committee should see to it that a site is secured as near Front street and Watchung avenue as possible.

YOUNGER GENERATION SHOULD BE TRAINED.

Members of the Union County Manual Training Teachers' Association met here yesterday and discussed the problem, "How Can the Schools Help in the Present Crisis?" The importance of the subject is not fully carried in the name and the relationship of the teacher to the proper focusing of school help at this critical time in the world's history can probably be determined in no better way. The influence the instructor holds over the younger generation of today, if properly directed, will have its effect on moulding the type of citizen that will be needed in the not distant future. It is imperative that the boy or girl of school age be taught the seriousness of the situation and for this reason the teachers who have charge of other subjects besides manual training should be called into conference.

A definite program of class procedure should be agreed upon and this plan should be so designed as to educate the younger generation along lines that will prove advantageous both now and in the future. Manual training work has been developed in recent years to a point where its usefulness would be readily manifested in war time and the aid of juveniles would be of inestimable value.

• • • • •

SOMEONE MUST BE BROUGHT TO TERMS.

Residents of the section of the city which the Home Defense League members have selected for their outdoor training have been given just cause to complain against what appears to be flagrant recklessness on the part of the commanding personnel. Drills that take the men across private property should be prohibited and leaders who command their charges to crush hedges and destroy property should be invited to resign.

If the affair of last week is repeated damage suits are certain to result and the men who volunteered to become members of the league are going to be made defendants in the court action. There is absolutely no excuse for such acts of destruction and if the present squad leaders are not competent to drill their men in the roads or vacant lots new ones should be chosen. The special officer's badge does not give a man the right to trespass and commit deeds which a private citizen would be punished for.

• • • • •

TILL THE SOIL; GUARD AGAINST FAMINE.

Every effort is being made to interest Plainfielders in home agriculture during the coming summer months and the plan being fostered by the mayor and his co-workers should have the support of the community at large. Every foot of land should be put to use this spring and those persons owning tracts will be doing a patriotic turn by offering them to the city committee for tilling.

Plainfield will have plenty of need for every bushel of potatoes and every quart of vegetables that can be raised here this summer and not an acre of ground should be wasted. The President has called upon the people of the nation to till the soil and thus guard against the ravages of a famine in foodstuffs that seems inevitable unless we increase our cultivation. Our entry into the war places upon our shoulders the responsibility for replenishing the bare cupboards of our allies across the water and if we are going to ship great quantities of vegetables to them it behooves us to prepare for our own needs.

FOUR STREET CORNER LOAFERS NOW IN CUSTODY.

Proof of the Record's contention that the gang of street corner loafers who have made their appearance in the business section should be routed out once and for all is evidenced in the crime committed by four of this clique last Sunday night. The quartet involved in the assault in question are the ring leaders of a group of idlers who come out of hibernation every spring and who spend the summer months slurring women on the public thoroughfares.

They have been the source of much complaint in other years and a jail sentence for the offence of which they now stand guilty should be meted out. If they are put away for the summer months their followers will be easy to disperse and the city will probably not be troubled by the gang this year. These four have been particularly objectionable characters and the city is better off without them.

Two Plainfield boys are exhibiting their patriotic tendencies in a novel manner. Their activity centers around the collection of a $23,000 fund with which they intend to purchase a submarine chaser for war service. Both are "veterans" of the Mexican border campaign and both are at that point in life which the government deems best for active service. Their move is a commendable one and it is to be hoped that they will not be long in acquiring the needed funds.

The laying of the joint sewer line pipes has left some of the most important city streets in the worst shape they have been in for years. Several thoroughfares are practically unfit for vehicular traffic and there has been a general tendency to take round-about routes in order to avoid them. The reconstruction of these damaged roadbeds should be started at once. The undertaking is a big one and the city will do well by starting early.

If some of these Home Defense League members don't hurry up and "get their eye on the target" the population of the block on which police headquarters is holding down one corner will be a mighty slim one. Of course there's plenty of room for imagination and rumor but tales of long distance shots that have scaled the wall of the target range have come to our ears.

Local Lodge Affected

cils has held a meeting since the startling news first came from Massachusetts, as the regular sessions are not scheduled until Tuesday and Thursday of next week. Any action in this city will be held in abeyance pending the outcome of the Grand Lodge session at Asbury Park next Monday and Tuesday. Both councils will have delegates in attendance to draft suitable resolutions for course of procedure while the court's action is underway in Massachusetts. It is believed that in the mean time benefits cannot be paid and whether or not the Royal Arcanum continues in existence is conjecture at this time. The end of its career will result disastrously to the old members who have paid assessments for as many as 30 years and who will be deprived of policies insuring death payments to their families of amounts from $500 to $3,000. More than half of the Plainfield members were in standing for the $3,000 death claims and because of prohibitive rates on the age basis are practically barred from entering any other insurance organization.

Federal Judge Aldrich granted the receivership for the Royal Arcanum on the application of Arthur L. Hobart, of Braintree, Massachusetts, who claims that he was refused payment on a $500 funeral claim. Mr. Hobart alleged that the affairs of the council were being mismanaged. The issuance of the order last Saturday was followed at once by a statement from Samuel N. Hoag, of Mount Vernon, N. Y., supreme regent of the order, declaring the order absolutely without justification.

Henry L. Bierman, grand regent of the New Jersey district of the Royal Arcanum, with headquarters in Newark, has received the following letter from Mr. Hoag, relative to the appointment of a receiver for the Supreme Council of the order:

The action was taken without notice to us and is certainly without justification. Our order is both commercially and actuarily solvent, with all death claims promptly paid. Our cash surplus is $4,000,000 over and above all known obligations. Our general counsel and legal advisor was in Boston Monday to have the appointment of a receiver vacated.

Fireman Arthur Erber Enthusiastic Motorist

Arthur Erber, who is one of Plainfield's most enthusiastic motorcyclists when not on duty as fireman at No. 2 fire house on West Fourth street, accomplished a long distance trip last Sunday that establishes a local record for long going. He made a round trip of about 200 miles with Bridgeport, Conn., as the opposite terminal point to Plainfield, leaving this city exactly at 9:15 in the morning, and returning twelve hours later. A stop of four hours was made in the Connecticut city and deducting the time for crossing the New York ferry and brief rest periods the actual running was about six hours.

Erber was accompanied on the trip by a friend, A. C. Levay, of West Fourth street, who occupied the rear seat of the motorcycle. Both men were quite fatigued by the long stretch but declared the splendid Boston Post road with its many miles of smooth pavements and the beautiful scenery adjacent to Long Island Sound made them forget all their discomforts. The Sunday previous Erber made a trip to Asbury Park to see the ruins of the recent big fire and is now outlining a one-day trip to Washington, D. C., and back. He believes he can make it easily in fifteen hours, although other motorcyclists say it's too great a run for one day.

Local Man to Help Build "Edge System"

As State highway engineer of New Jersey, Robert A. Meeker, of this city, is to play an important part in the construction of the 600-mile "Edge system" of roads throughout the entire State. Nation-wide attention has been called to the plan advocated by Governor Edge by the securing of Major General Goethals, builder of the Panama Canal, as the direct head of the mammoth project that will give this State the best roads in the Union. General Goethals has already taken charge of his new duties, but just when actual work will be started is not known, because following the present trouble with Germany he has been called by the United States and may have to desert this new work for his country.

As State highway engineer, Mr. Meeker will be the right-hand man of General Goethals and to him will be entrusted the solving of many of the problems to be confronted. Mr. Meeker will have as his assistant W. G. Thompson, of Steelton, Pa., who helped General Goethals in constructing the Panama Canal.

Mr. Meeker has perhaps more first-hand knowledge of the roads of the State than any other man and will have a large part of the work entrusted to his care. It is possible that if General Goethals' attention is so occupied in helping the Government that Mr. Meeker will be placed in charge of the construction of the new roads.

Local G. A. R. Veterans Planning Celebration

Winfield Scott Post, No. 72, G. A. R., is busily at work completing all arrangements for the annual Memorial Day exercises which are to be on an unusually large scale this year. The customary parade in the morning will be augmented by several military organizations which have sprung into existence through the national crisis. For this same reason Company K will be unable to act as escort for the old veterans of the Rebellion as they are now and probably will be later on doing guard duty in another part of the country. The familiar faces of the Company K men will be supplanted by those of the Uniform Rank of the Jr. O. U. A. M., which is now a well drilled and highly efficient organization. The procession is to be led by Major William N. Pemberton as marshal of the day, mounted on late Captain William Hand's black charger, now owned by the latter's son, Recorder Fred W. Hand, of the borough. Captain Hand was always a conspicuous figure in the Memorial Day affairs and the noble animal who bore him at the head of the column is well remembered by all local residents.

The customary patriotic rally will be held in Reform Hall on West Second street in the afternoon following the parade and Assemblyman William N. Runyon has again consented to deliver the oration. Mr. Runyon made the speech of the day at the gathering last year and his remarks were so well chosen and so ably delivered that Winfield Scott Post felt that it should have a repetition.

Children from the Plainfield schools will sing patriotic songs and addresses will be made by members of the post. The complete program, including the route of the parade, will be announced in the Record in the near future.

Mrs. Joseph Harrigan, of South avenue, is confined to her home by illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Wieseman have removed from 51 Woodlake avenue to 322 East Third street.

Satisfaction To Everyone

It is an impressive fact that from the burial—during the last 12 years—of thousands of Norwalk Vaults in every section of the country, there is not on record nor do we know of a single instance of a family who has used the Norwalk ever resorting to wood, steel, brick, slate or any other kind of outside burial receptacle. The airtight, waterproof Norwalk is the most comforting feature that can be brought to the attention of the bereaved family. Your undertaker can give you the desired information.

again, in the resurrection of the murdered Man, the fulfillment of a Divine Promse and your allegiance grew with the realization.

"Today the call of authority summons us all to the defense of our National Honor. It is a call upon that spiritual strength revived at the foot of the Cross, for patriotism is a Christian virtue akin in responsibility to the Cardinal Virtues of our creed.

"I cannot better present my thought then in the sentiment, if not the actual word, of the great American cardinal, the Archbishop of Boston. 'There is but one sentiment permissible today; that sentiment is absolute unity. In the midst of the solemnities of Holy Week our Civil Government, speaking with the authority which alone rules the whole Nation, decreed that we are in war.

"'The President of the United States in recommending this action ended his historic plea by calling God to witness that 'he could do nothing else.' That these events of tremendous import to us and to the world happened while still we were on our knees around Golgoltha, only added to their tragic meaning.

"'Our country is at war—our Nation therefore needs us all, every man, woman and child of us, to strengthen her, to hearten her, and to stand faithfully by her until her hour of trial has passed and her hour of glorious triumph shall arrive.

"'So up from our knees! Our souls have gathered strength of sacrifice from the sight of Calvary. Our hearts are only the more deeply stirred to loyalty by the sight of Him who gave Himself to death for love of us.

"'God and our Nation! Let us lift us that cry to Heaven. Neither base hate nor sullen anger may dim the glory of our flag. But let the love of true freedom—blessed, God-given freedom—which above all other lands our country has cherished and defended, let that be the thrilling power that will quicken our pulses into a still greater love of America than we have ever known till now.

"'We are of all races; today we are one—Americans. Whatever we can do in honor and justice, that we must in conscience do to defeat our enemies and make our flag triumphant.

"'Christ is risen. He has triumphed over iniquity and death. Let us look to where He now sits in glory, and read anew from the story of His passion and His triumph the greatest of all lessons man can ever learn—that evil is conquered only by divine courage; that death has no terror for the man of faith, and that not all the riches of this world are worth a passing thought in comparison with the things which endure forever. Let us hasten now to act. We have spoken enough.

"'May God preserve and bless America.'"

National Guard News

Bugler Frank Osmun, of Company K, has returned to the company after recovering from an operation that has prevented his doing duty for the past two weeks. Osmun went to the hospital shortly after the local boys went on guard duty "somewhere in New Jersey and last Saturday was sent home by Captain Peterson to spend a few days.

A detail of Company K boys had a little excitement last week when they quelled what threatened to be a serious riot "somewhere in New Jersey." The trouble started in a camp of laborers employed on the construction of a new railroad bridge. They had been militant all day and were angered because they thought the store maintained by the company was charging them excessive prices. When the laborers, twenty-five strong, congregated around the company's office in a threatening attitude the officials appealed to the guardsmen. The sight of rifles and uniforms soon stopped all signs of fight the men might have had.

The result of the examinations of the enlisted men of the First Field Hospital Corps, headquarters Second Regiment, Elizabeth, was announced this week by the commanding officer, Major James T. Wyckoff. The promotions are as follows: From sergeants to sergeants first class, Joseph Fisch and Charles Linfonte; from privates to privates first class, Russell D. Brakely, Clinton Berrien, of this city; Stephen Beers, Arthur Bautsch, Leslie K. Donaly, Roy Glidenstin, Warren V. Gargan, Edwin H. Hillis, Harold P. Monahan, William A. Wylie and Augustus G. Young. Major Wyckoff has also announced that the corps has been recruited to its full strength of seventy-five men and is ready to take the field at a moment's notice.

Several recruits have been added to Troop D in the past few weeks, causing the ranks to be nearly filled. Some part of the troop is drilling nearly every night in the week and the organization is in better shape at present than it has been since the return from the border.

While the First New Jersey Cavalry has not yet been called out for service the scene at the home stations of the troops are none the less interesting. During last week there was much enthusiasm at the Roseville armory, where Troops A and C have their quarters. Major Hobart Brown and Captains Russell P. Freeman and Wilbur Kyle, of Troops A and C respectively, have attended to every detail in the matter of preparing the troops for a hurry call. Troops A and C are recruited to war strength, but Troops B and D are in need of more men. Rifle and revolver practice are indulged in at all the company headquarters. Major Brown is conducting a school for non-commissioned officers, which is being attended by several members of Troop D. The school is, in fact, a preliminary examination for many of the "non-coms" who have made application for commissions in the Officers' Reserve Corps.

According to a ruling made by the War Department during the past week it will be possible for the various States of the Union to raise the total number of their National Guard. This opens the door to expansion of the existing guard force of 125,000 to 400,000 at peace strength, or about 600,000 on war footing. The department has planned to draft into the Federal service only existing units of the guard, plus such auxiliary troops as may be needed. Twenty States have applied for permission to raise new regiments, but Secretary of War Baker has announced that the present forces should be raised to full strength before such a move is attempted. The ruling will now permit the formation of a battalion or possibly a regiment of engineers that will recruit members from all over the State.

Thirty-nine carloads of horses reached Jersey City Wednesday night for the various guard units in New Jersey. The horses were shipped from Indianapolis and were rushed by a special fast freight, allowing the train right of way over other traffic. One carload was consigned to Elizabeth, several to Trenton, a few to Paterson, four or five to Newark and the remainder scattered over the State. Troop D, of this city, will receive enough to allow every man a horse.

The various ranks of officers in the United States Army can be easily told by the following distinctions:

Colonels wear a silver eagle on their shoulder. Other marks of rank are: Lieutenant-colonel, silver maple leaf on shoulder; major, gold maple leaf; captain, two silver bars; first lieutenant, one silver bar; second lieutenant, gold and black hat cord and one stripe on sleeve; first sergeant, three chevrons with diamond underneath, on sleeve of coat; sergeants, three chevrons; quartermaster-sergeant, three chevrons and one bar; corporal, two chevrons.

The branches of the service are distinguished by the color of the cords on their hats. The infantry wears blue; artillery, red; cavalry, yellow; engineers corps, crimson and white; hospital corps, purple and white, and the service corps, tan.

Company K is in need of recruits and following permission from the Adjutant-General's office Captain Peterson has made arrangements for one of the members of the Veterans' Association to have charge at the armory on West Front street each night between 8 and 9 o'clock. A number of members of the company have been sent home either for illness or physical defects and there is quite a break in the ranks.

Al. Reeves' Beauty Show Includes Many Features

No show is more familiarly known from coast to coast than Al Reeves' "Big Beauty Show," which comes to the Plainfield Theatre next Monday, matinee and night. Mr. Reeves makes a specialty of assembling an unusually large chorus which he puts forward as the most attractive element in the show. The exhibition of living models with which the performance concludes has become familiar to burlesque patrons. It is said that in his present offering, Mr. Reeves has provided an entirely new production, including a two-act farce, "Slumming," showing two scenes in Chinatown and a banquet room in a Fifth avenue mansion. There is no better known or more attractive trademark in the burlesque business than Al Reeves, and this season, from all accounts, the popular comedian has excelled his best previous records for supplying all that goes to make a perfectly equipped burlesque organization. The reason for this is because this is the twenty-fifth anniversary of Mr. Reeves' theatrical career, which he is celebrating by giving the public a big jubilee. John K. Hawles and Al Green, two of America's best burlesque comedians, appear in the principal comedy roles, also as added attraction Sulzback & Miller, clever entertainers direct from the Keith circuit, first appearance in burlesque, who long ago won distinction from the high class B. F. Keith vaudeville theatres; Bernice Tabes and Edna Clair, the California beauties direct from the Golden West, also new to burlesque; Eddy & Early, sensational novelty whirlwind dancers; Pagana, the beautiful ragtime violinist; Francies Murphy, the Julian Eltinge of burlesque, and as the big extra added feature, Paynton and Green. In addition to the above Mr. Reeves' contribution of monologue and song. Thirty-six stunningly pretty girls are said to have been secured, and the musical numbers have been carefully selected.

Daring Acrobats at Amusement House

With May Ward & Co. remaining for the latter part of the week and with every number of the new program an excellent one, the offering at the Plainfield Theatre for the last three days of the week is one worthy of patronage. The musical comedy offering of Miss Ward's is a riot of fun and one of the best on the vaudeville stage. The "Three Cantons" is a trio that performs acrobatic novelties and daring feats of real worth and are billed as the best on the circuit.

Calvert, Shean & Brisbane, "the three boys in green," offer a novel little skit at the theatre, while the other two numbers that round out the bill include William McKee & Co. in a comedy sketch and the "Seedmans," a novel musical offering.

Hearst-Pathe latest releases of the war and Mutual comedies comprise the moving picture program that augments the vaudeville bill.

DO IT YOURSELF.

Now plowing has hit the skies. With the prospects of doing a host of ground spading while the "back to the soil" rush is on, owners of plows in this and other sections of the country are charging exorbitant prices for their work. In more than one case they are asking $1 or more an hour and in even more cases they are showing an independence such as would awaken some of the patriots of '76.

LOCAL MAN REMEMBERED.

The reading of the will of James Buchanan (Diamond Jim) Brady this week, following his death revealed the fact that the large part of his estate he left to hospitals and charitable institutions, but that his collection of jewelry, for which he was noted, he distributed among his friends. One of those thus remembered was William G. Besler, president of the C. R. R. of N. J., and a resident of this city, who received a diamond monogram pocketbook.

WHAT SOCIETY IS DOING DURING SPRING MONTHS

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

NEWS OF THE WEEK CONCERNING PLAINFIELD PEOPLE

Local Women's Patriotism Is Still Soaring Upward

Few activities were recorded in women's clubs circles in Plainfield during the past week aside from the continuing of the prepared-ness moves that have been progressing for some time. Although the National Special Aid Society has been earnestly occupied for a number of months, the first real tryout under conditions that might exist in war time was given Monday, when the motor squad was sent on a hurry call to Metuchen, and the excellent manner in which the feat was accomplished showed the months of work had not been employed to any disadvantage. The King's Daughters circles, the Y. W. C. A. and most of the other local organizations have answered the plea from Mrs. E. W. Goddard for a united work and are devoting all their energies to enlarging the scope of the National Special Aid Society.

The following "war time creed" has been distributed to all the members of the National Special Aid Society throughout the country and is part of the patriotic campaign to economize the Nation's resources:

War Time Creed.

Stop! Look and Think before you buy!

DIRECT. To increase the production of food and necessary supplies. To decrease the consumption of luxuries. Great quantities of food, money, and necessary articles will be needed to win the war.

Every waste jeopardizes the result. Food must be conserved with the closest care. Money must be husbanded. All useful things must be conserved from waste.

To save is to fight, to be patriotic. To waste is to help the enemy, to be unpatriotic.

Are you the one, or the other?

If you are patriotic and wish to help the country in the war you can best show your purpose by reducing your own consumption of food to the minimum. By conserving every needful articles that you use and by renting every unnecessary purchase. By avoiding extravagance and by display of luxury you will be rendering a distinctly patriotic service.

The nation will need its every ounce for the production of munitions, of food, and necessary supplies. Therefore pressure upon the luxury industries must be relieved at once.

Those nations which can best conserve their every resource are going to win and it is up to the American women to do their bit in this way by setting a countrywide example of economy.

A slight misunderstanding seems to be harbored by some concerning the connection the local branch of the National Special Aid Society has with the taking over of the fifty beds at Muhlenberg Hospital. The Government requested the hospital authorities to have the beds ready for instant use if necessary. The National Special Aid Society is to help supply the beds with coverings and other articles and act as trained helpers in case of need.

On Monday the motor squad of the society received the first drill it has had and gave an excellent exhibition. Each one who had volunteered the use of their automobile was notified by telephone to proceed to the Metuchen railroad station. Twenty minutes later they were drawn up at the depot ready for duty. Now that it is known the unit is prepared there will be no more calls unless there is actual need.

A class in diet cooking will start at 206 East Front street on April 24 under the direction of Miss Beatrice Gardner. The staring of the class was made possible by the interest of Mrs. Percy H. Stewart.

Women in the society are now knitting for the Naval Militia during their spare time.

A bridge party is being held this afternoon at the Park Club, the proceeds to be for the benefit of the National Special Aid Society.

The members of the motor unit met at the M. & L. Garage last night for instruction in the practical repair of automobiles.

Because the greater portion of the members are actively engaged in working for the National Special Aid Society or other organizations engaged in patriotic *preparedness, the di*rectors of the Young Women's Christian Association have decided to forego many of the social activities that had been planned for the early summer. Several events planned for the immediate future will, however, be held. One of these will be a ban*quet by the "gym" club to be held in* the association rooms next Tuesday night. Several speakers will be present and a program is being arranged.

The annual meeting of the North Plainfield Parent-Teacher Association will be held in the Somerset School next Thursday afternoon. The annual reports will be read and the election of officers will be held.

The Sesame Club met yesterday morning with Mrs. Vara, of Webster place.

Card Party for Home Defenders

Another plan to help raise funds for the maintenance of the Home Defense League has been devised by a number of Plainfield women, who are completing details for the holding of a bridge party in the auditorium of the Plainfield High School on Saturday night, May 5. Anyone wishing to donate tables or cards for the occasion should communicate with one of the committee.

The following women will act as patronesses: Mrs. Ernest R. Ackerman, Mrs. Thomas B. Aldrich, Mrs. Frank C. Ard, Mrs. E. Yarde Breese, Mrs. James R. Blake, Mrs. George L. Babcock, Mrs. Elliot T. Barrows, Mrs. Henry Butler, Mrs. Richard Boardman, Mrs. Lindsey Best, Mrs. Leighton Calking, Mrs. J. M. Charles, Mrs. Allen B. Cowperthwaite, Mrs. William G. Cooke, Mrs. John B. Dumont, Mrs. Edward Delafield, Mrs. Morris J. Dumont, Mrs. Harvey Fisk, Mrs. Howard Fleming, Mrs. Leslie R. Fort, Mrs. George H. Goddard, Mrs. Frederick W. Goddard, Mrs. R. F. R. Huntsman, Mrs. C. P. Local Musical Season Waning

The members of the Plainfield Musical Club will gather at the home of Mrs. John Stevens, of Hillside avenue, on Tuesday afternoon to enjoy one of the last musical programs of the season. The affair was originally planned for last Tuesday, but was postponed to the later date. Mrs. Harry McGee, pianist, will be assisted by Hubert Linscott, formerly of the Lilie Opera, France, in the rendition of a program that will consist mainly of the compositions of McDowell. Mr. Linscott will offer a group of selections for which he is especially fitted.

The last musical of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. George Megrew, of Central avenue, on the afternoon of May 15. It is possible that several more recitals by persons well known in the musical world will be held in the city under the auspices of the Musical Club before hot weather sets in in earnest, but as yet Miss Maude Van Boskerck, who has charge of the arranging for them, has no definite announcement to make.

For the second time this season, Miss Queena Tillotson, coloratura lyric singer with a national reputation, was greeted by a capacity audience when she appeared in the Plainfield High School Wednesday night and rendered a program of selections that for variety and excellence excelled any at her previous local appearances.

Many Plainfielders attended the Kneisel recital given in the auditorium of the Westfield High School last night. It was one of the last appearances together of the quartet that has attained nation-wide recognition by its excellence, as they will retire from the concert stage within the next few months after a quar*ter of a century. The program* was an excellent one and included compositions of the world's greatest masters as well as several of their own.

The regular monthly musical service at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will be held at the 4:45 service on April 29, at which time the choir will render selections from Haydn's "Season-flower."

Miss Kanenah Hansen, of East Second street, has returned home af*ter an all-winter stay with relatives* and friends in Winnipeg, Man., and other cities in Western Canada.

St. Joseph Fair Ends Tomorrow

With large attendances in evidence each evening, the fair and bazaar of St. Joseph's parish in St. Joseph's Hall has been successfully underway since last Saturday night. Every member of the congregation has been working hard to make the enterprise one of the best it has ever held and indications point to this end when the wind-up comes tomorrow night. At the opening last Saturday night North Plainfield's popular Mayor, William L. Smalley, delivered a welcome address in which he urged all present to bend every effort for the success of the fair and also paid a tribute to the memory of the late Rev. Father Miller, the beloved rector of St. Joseph's for many years. Rev. Father Hart, the present rector, also spoke in a congratulatory vein of the work of those in the undertaking. The hall is occupied with booths on which are displayed all manner of fancy and useful articles, cake, candy and flowers for sale at reasonable prices. Several entertaining features have also been rendered every evening. Tuesday night was given over to the members of St. Mary's T. A. B. Society, who attended in a large body. Wednesday night the Knights of Columbus thronged the hall and last night was in the nature of an "old home" gathering, for the members of the parish who had been in other cities for various periods being the guests of honor.

The booths are in charge of members of church societies as follows: Holy Name, Robert McCormick, chairman; senior Sunday school girls, Annamae McDonough, chairman; Bible Class and Chi Gamma Chi, William B. Mead, Jr., chairman; Boys' Club, Earle Moran, chairman; Women's League, Mrs. James E. Bailey, chairman; Children of Mary, Miss Mary Jacot, chairman. The refreshment booth is in charge of a committee of which Cormick McDonough is the chairman.

Nicholson, of this city and New York, the ceremony being performed in the First Methodist church by the pastor. Dr. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. The ceremony was performed at the clergyman's home and was witnessed only by a few intimate friends. The couple left last night for Montreal, where they will make their home in the future.

Mr. Plant is an expert machinist and has been employed for the past year at the Scott Press Works. He is a native of Montreal, but has traveled extensively in both North and South America. He has made many friends in Plainfield during his residence here, all of whom wish him success on his return to Canada.

ALLEN—GRAVES.

Miss Grace Emily Graves, daughter of Councilman Charles C. Graves, and John Leslie Allen, of West Fourth street, were married last Wednesday night at the home of the bride's father on South Second street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. W. Skellenger, pastor of Hope chapel, and was witnessed by a gathering of relatives and a few intimate friends, numbering fifty in all.

Miss Graves was attended by her cousin, Miss Marguerite L. Coward, of Camden, as bridesmaid. The former wore a gown of white voile trimmed with lace and carried a bouquet of bride roses and sweet peas. Miss Coward's gown was of blue voile and she carried pink carnations. Russell Allen, brother of the groom, acted as best man.

The ceremony was performed precisely at 7 o'clock, and previous to the entrance of the bridal party, "O Promise Me" was sung by Miss Grace Kinney, of Newark, accompanied by her sister, Miss Bessie Kinney. As the procession entered the room the wedding march from "Lohengrin" was played by Miss Alice Mallery, of this city. The parlor and dining-room were tastefully decorated with palms, plants and cut flowers arranged by Florist Charles L. Stanley.

A reception followed the nuptial event and after receiving congratulations Mr. and Mrs. Allen left for a wedding trip to Atlantic City. On returning they will make their home with the bride's father. The groom is employed at the Pond Tool Works and has a wide local acquaintance. Mrs. Allen has always been a resident of Plainfield and is exceedingly popular in her immediate circle of friends.

William Brown, of Watchung avenue, is able to be about again after several weeks' confinement to the house following an operation at Muhlenberg Hospital.

The annual session of the Parent-Teacher Association was held at the Lincoln School yesterday afternoon with members present from the Bryant, Lincoln and Emerson Schools. A report from each chairman was read and unpaid dues were handed in.

The meeting of the Plainfield Business Women's League will be held tonight at 6:30 in the association rooms of the Y. W. C. A. on East Front street. The session will start off with a dinner and afterward the members will listen to an address on the work of the local National Special Aid Society by either Mrs. Frederick W. Goddard or Mrs. Allan Cowperthwaite.

A large number of local women spent yesterday morning attending a meeting of the United States of America and Prince of Wales Relief Committee held in the parish house of the Grace Episcopal church. The time was taken up with sewing on bandages and other articles for use in this country, with England as a second consideration.

At the annual meeting of the Plainfield Mothers' Association held last week plans were discussed for extending the present lunch system to the Washington School. Reports of the various officers for the year were read and a resolution was adopted agreeing to help the local branch of the National Special Aid Society. The officers chosen at the election follow: President, Mrs. Chaplain L. Riley; vice president, Mrs. Henry M. Maxson; second vice president, Mrs. Stephen H. Voorhees; third vice president, Mrs. George B. Wean; treasurer, Mrs. Frank T. Ostrum; corresponding secretary, Mrs. F. H. Bucklin, and recording secretary, Mrs. Horace G. Phillips.

Plans for the holding of a big mass meeting in the auditorium of the Plainfield High School on May 8 are progressing rapidly under the guidance of the committee appointed by the Plainfield branch of the Belgian Relief Society. Over one hundred contributions, both large and small, have been made to the society's supplementary meal plan and it is expected that the mass meeting will bring in a great many more.

Miss Janet Richards will give the last of her series of two extra talks under the auspices of the Monday Afternoon Club in the auditorium of the Plainfield High School next Thursday afternoon at 3:30. Her lectures during the past winter and early spring have been better than ever before and her talks on the political questions of the day have interested many Plainfielders. Her coming lecture will be the last until next fall.

The annual meeting of the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield, at which the election of officers will take place, will be held in the association's headquarters in the State Trust Company building next Friday afternoon.

Although details for the event have not yet been completed, it has been announced by the local branch of the Belgian Relief Society that a "May fete" will be held on the afternoon of May 26 on the estate of Mrs. Pierre Mali, of East Front street, for the benefit of the supplementary meal fund the society is engaged in raising to keep the Belgian infants from starving. Miss Maude Van Boskerck is arranging the program for the affair and is planning several unique features, one of which will be the rendition of a number of selections by Belgian musicians. Further announcement of the fete will be made in these columns later.

An entertainment and dance will be held in the Evergreen Avenue School tomorrow night for the benefit of the local Public School Athletic League. The league has just been organized and includes all the grammar schools in the city. The money obtained will be for the maintenance of the organization during the coming summer.

An attractive program that will, it is expected, establish a precedent in the city for affairs of the kind has been arranged for and special preparations for the dance to follow have been made. Miss Dorothy Hall, of New York, who is a graduate of the Chalif School, will give a series of Greek interpretive dancing, something that has not been offered local people but a few times. Other features will follow.

STARTS IN BUSINESS.

Charles A. Kane, for the past eleven years connected with the Exide Battery Company as outside expert and for the past ten months located in A. B. Laing's Garage on Sycamore street, has opened a shop and office of his own at the Miller-Jackson Company's Garage at 323 West Front street. He will be located there until the new King building on Grove street, adjoining Green brook, is completed, at which time he will branch out in every detail of the battery business. Mr. Kane will be the local representative of the Exide battery, which is the recognized superior of all makes used on gas or electric machines for self-starters, lights and other purposes. The United States Navy uses Exide batteries in its submarines and the leading automobile manufacturers of the country have adopted it as their standard. Mr. Kane makes a specialty of re-charging and repairing batteries and guarantees a sastifactory job in every instance. All appurtenances used in automobile battery equipment will be on sale at his place of business.

Death of Local Jurist

ing and made rapid strides in the profession. At the age of thirty-five he had been victorious in several memorable legal cases that attracted the attention of Union, Essex, Middlesex and Somerset counties, as well as holding the tense interest of all Plainfield. From then on his career was one of successive achievements in civil and criminal courts and the name of Walter L. Hetfield in a case meant the lining up of a strong array of talent on the opposite side.

Mr. Hetfield continued the practice of law alone with the exception of several years when his eldest son, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., now assistant corporation counsel, held partnership with him. The son studied law in his mather's office and his career has been equally as rapidly successful. In 1912 Governor Woodrow Wilson appointed Mr. Hetfield judge of the District Court, succeeding William Newcorn, who was the first incumbent after the court was created in 1907. At the completion of his five-year term last month Judge Hetfield turned his gavel over to J. Henry Crane, the appointee of Governor Edge. The retirement of the former judge was received with deep regret by the legal profession of the district, as the magistrate had made every effort to dispense justice in a fair and impartial manner. From the time that he was able to cast his first vote Judge Hetfield was an ardent disciple of Jefferson in his political beliefs. He allied himself with the local Democratic party and remained one of its hardest and most conscientious workers through all its vicissitudes. It mattered not to him if he only had a handful of followers he stood by his convictions and opposed the Republicans when he knew he and his intrepid little band had not the slightest chance of electing a candidate. Year after year the faithful met in Judge Hetfield's office electing their committees and decided on a plan of campaign that was followed out until the last vote was counted. In recent years it was always said that if Walter L. Hetfield had been a Republican instead of a Democrat he would have held one of the highest offices in the State, but no amount of enticing or persuading could make him desert the party of his choice.

In 1882 Judge Hetfield served as city clerk and in 1890 he was elected to the Common Council, serving two years. He was elected for another two years' term in 1898, but it was during his first occupation of the office that he made the memorable record that is still fresh in the minds of Plainfield people. In 1890 he and five other councilmen, Republicans and Democrats, formed the combination known as the "Big Six."

His colleagues were Leonard Spangenberg, Dan Roberts, Seymour Smith, Vincent Frazee and Arthur Gallop. Of these Arthur Gallop is now the only one surviving. The "Big Six" stood for municipal progression, but the charry taxpayers, as in present times, could not look far enough ahead and saw only what they thought was tremendous expense. In consequence every move of the combine, which stood as firm as the Rock of Gibraltar, met with bitter opposition, yet it gave Plainfield more improvements in two years than it has had at any similar time since it became a city in 1869. The "Big Six" was responsible for installing the original of the present sewer system, the substitution of a paid fire department for the volunteer brigade, the introduction of the present Gamewell alarm system, the fire headquarters building on East Second street, the granting of a franchise for the first street railway system in Plainfield and several other undertakings that have since proved a blessing in disguise. Strong political pressure was brought to bear upon the six councilmen and they were defeated for a return to office in the fall election of 1891.

Some of the other improvements that the "Big Six" advocated were opposed by Judge Hetfield with subsequent success, but he threw his whole heart and soul into the plan for the city fire department and the proposition of the street railway. In one sense of the word he was the father of the local system, pointing out how it was needed to build up outlying sections of the city and would eventually be a source of revenue as well as filling an absolute necessity. As a result the Plainfield Street Railway Company was given a franchise to build a single line on Monroe avenue, West Fourth street, Grant avenue and West Front street. The first street car traversed the route just twenty-five years ago this coming summer and the crowd of hundreds that followed the small one-motor vehicle cheered enthusiastically for Walter L. Hetfield and the "Big Six" at every stopping point. From this small stretch of tracks the present extensive trolley facilities in Plainfield developed. Every provision in the original charter was so carefully planned out by Mr. Hetfield for the benefit of the people as well as the company that it was repeatedly used as a basis by other cities up to a few years ago.

Judge Hetfield was twice married, and beside his second wife he is survived by one daughter and three sons. These are Miss Ouida Hetfield and Andrew Murdock Hetfield, residing at the parental home on East Second street; Herbert Hetfield, of Worcester, Mass., and Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., of East Front street. There is also surviving one sister, Mrs. Aretta Manning, of Madison avenue. Mrs. Manning is now the only surviving member of the family of Levi Hetfield. The others who passed away previous to the demise of Judge Hetfield were John M. Hetfield and Mrs. Harold Serrill.

Truell Hall Is Soon To Be Torn Down

Provided the necessary order authorizing the deal can be secured from the Union County Court, Truell Hall, the big building which has occupied an eminence on Belvidere avenue and known as the Netherwood Hotel, may be sold to a "house wrecker" inside the next week or two. A three cornered combination of owners, who were originally the mortgagees and foreclosed several years ago, have been negotiating for a long time with several prospective buyers. The "house wrecker" offered the best figure and it was practically accepted yesterday, when several other men desiring to secure the big structure, asked for a chance to bid. They were taken under consideration, but it is probable that the original offer will be the one offered for court approval.

In the event of the hall being sold as planned, the structure, for years one of Plainfield's show places, will be entirely removed for the old materials. The surrounding grounds, of which there is a large area, can then be sold as residential lots. The hotel was built in about 1879 by the contracting firm of Johnson, Shepard & Godown and since its opening has had a varied career, most of the time being a losing proposition. The late Mrs. J. R. Truell, who gave it the name of Truell Hall, was the last to give it any prominence as a hostelry. Two of the bidders for the place who have been in conference with the owners are desirous of using the building as a hospital, but the price they have offered is below that of the "house wrecker's."

The necessity of securing the court's sanction to the sale is due to the fact that the Lattimer estate, which is still in the hands of executors, is one of the owners."

Record Street Work to Commense In Few Days

Within the course of the next two weeks contractors will begin the work of installing brick and concrete pavements in various parts of the city that will represent the largest outlay for permanent pavements that Plainfield has ever made. The total expenditure on the part of the city is to be $135,368.99. To this must be added an additional $25,000 which will be paid directly by the Public Service Corporation for work in and about its tracks on the streets where trolley lines are located. A large amount of storm sewer installation will be necessary at the present time to avoid disturbing the proposed pavements later on is now about completed and represents another outlay of $35,000, thus making a grand total of $235,000 for street and sewer improvements, a sum which has not been fully realized by the citizenry although every portion of it has the absolute approval of the taxpayers.

Eleven years ago, after exhaustive inquiry on the part of the Board of Trade, Business Men's Association, the city engineering department and road experts, the Common Council ordered the first brick paving Plainfield had experienced. The contract figure was about $40,000 and at the time was considered by a few chronic objectors as "too much money" to put out in "experimenting." C. Milton Meeker, a local contractor, received the award and began the job of installation in 1907. He gave Plainfield such a thorough job that the citizens have always congratulated themselves, and the manner in which the streets rebuilt have withstood the unusually heavy traffic has induced the present Council to expend the large sum quoted for a continuance of the improvement.

While brick and concrete have been designated as the material to be used in the coming work, there will, in reality, be another style of pavement. This will occur through the use of granite blocks by the Public Service Corporation on that part of the work which it is to pay for itself, although the laying will be done by the same contractors accepted by the city and supervised by City Engineer A. J. Gavett. On those streets to be improved where the trolley tracks run the granite block will be installed between the rails and extend eighteen inches on the outside. The very best Portland cement will be used in grouting and the remainder of the streets from the point where the blocks leave off will be of brick. In connection with this work

Bar Association Elect Officers

At a meeting of the Plainfield Bar Association held at the District Court rooms Wednesday morning, the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Charles A. Reed; vice president, William M. Stillman; secretary, Martin Stutsman; treasurer, Asa F. Randolph; trustees, Francis J. Blatz, William M. Stillman, George W. V. Moy.

Reports presented showed that the association has had a prosperous and busy year. The social events included two banquets, which had been largely attended. A special report by the library committee informed the members that arrangements had been made with the Plainfield Public Library to install books of decided benefit to the lawyers of this city as well as those who practice in New York.

On assuming his seat after election, President Reed made a lengthy address in which he urged the members of the association to continue the interest in the organization that has been shown recently. He stated that banquets were good things to bring the members together but that meetings should be held once a month and sessions of sorrow should follow the death of any associate. He introduced a subject of having a "grievance committee" to consider complaints made by any citizens against the unbecoming practices of lawyers and sifting them to the bottom, making certain to mete punishment to the offenders if the delegations are found correct. The idea was heartily commended and the appointment of this committee, together with the library and banquet and by-laws committee, will be made at the next meeting which is to convene at the call of the chair.

Elks To Stage Benefit Show

Believing that action is more to the point than words, Plainfield Lodge of Elks, at its meeting Wednesday night, decided to do its "little bit" in helping the fund being raised for the dependent families of Plainfielders who have, or will soon, enter Uncle Sam's service. Various methods for securing the Elks' share were discussed and it was finally decided to give a minstrel show, one of the kind that has made Plainfield Lodge famous for black-face entertainments. The High School auditorium has been secured for the performances and the date of presentation will be announced shortly. It is quite probable that this will be within three weeks.

One of the best things about the announcement is that Assemblyman William N. Runyon has consented to act as general director of the show. Anybody who knows anything about the Elks' minstrels in the past knows that the greater part of their success is due to the versatile efforts of this man. It mattered not if it was a case of needing someone to coach the raw talent, write a topical song, select the principals, lead the orchestra, or hold down one of the end men's seats, Pudge Runyon would assume the obligation. He has already set to work on the coming production and rehearsals will be well under way by next week. All the familiar Elk talent, together with a lot of the younger elements, will be in the circle of the big first part when the curtain rises. Some of the volunteers already enrolled are: Harry Blimm, "Banty" Bennett, "Johnny" Campbell, William G. Smith, "Joe" Martin, George Stevens, Edward Harding, Jr., Elmer Cutting, and Bert and Will Tallamy.

Exalted Ruler Blatz has appointed Dr. C. L. Crist, Elmer D. Cutting, Edward Harding, Jr., and Joseph C. Martin as a preliminary committee to assist Judge Runyon. More names will be added to the committee during the next few days.

"Bud" Synder On Long Tour

The Standard Aero Corporation's force of mechanical experts lost one of its most popular members this week when "Bud" Snyder, of East Fifth street, tendered his resignation to become mechanician for Deloyd Thompson, the widely known exhibition aviator. The two left yesterday by automobile for Washington, and where Thompson will make his first exhibition flight of the season. It will mark the tryout of the new and dangerous "stunt," that of flying around only 100 feet above the ground in competition with a racing auto. Flying low is difficult and hazardous but furnishes a succession of thrills for a crowd of spectators. From Washington, Thompson and his mechanician will continue a tour that will include numerous big exhibitions and fairs in all parts of the country.

Bud Snyder has been a resident of Plainfield for the past year, and his leaving the city is regretted by his scores of friends. In saying good-bye yesterday he asserted that he intended to return here late next fall. Snyder is no novice in the flying game as Sunday was at one time mechanician for Miss Ruth Law, the daring young woman pilot who attempted the no-stop flight from Chicago to New York last year.

Local Enlistment Stations Are Closed

Because applicants have become so rare that it is useless to maintain a recruiting station in this city, Private Frank Lane closed the enlistment station for the U. S. Army this week and moved on to Phillipsburg, where he hopes to secure numerous patriotic boys. Any local man wishing to enlist in the army or navy now will have to apply to Postmaster Alva A. Hoagland at the Postoffice and he will direct them to the proper station.

In a talk with a Record reporter just before he left the city, Private Lane said that since it became practically certain that the army would see active service the recruiting had fallen off to a minimum. He was first stationed in Plainfield last November and since that time has secured fifty-two new men for the army. Many gave applied but failed to pass the physical examination.

Plainfield Built Air Craft Breaks Ascending Time Record

Using a new assembled "Model J" machine, built at the North avenue plant of the Standard Aero Corporation and accompanied by George deSaules, of this city, as mechanician, Overton Bounds, one of America's youngest and most daring aviators, established a new time record this week for aeroplane ascension. In exactly one hour and fifty-four minutes, Bounds rose from the Mineola proving grounds to a height of 12,600 feet, topping many minutes off the previous United States mark registered a year or so ago. Bounds, who is only twenty-two years old and knows no fear when occupying the pilot's seat, sent his plane whizzing upward at top speed from the moment the signal was given, climbing steadily until the 10,000 foot mark was reached, after which the ascent was slower and more difficult because of atmospheric conditions. The last 1,000 feet required as much time as all the rest of the distance together.

Both Bounds and deSaules were highly complimented by governmental officials when the aeroplane returned to the ground in safety. It was nearly half an hour after the landing, however, before either man could appreciate what was said to him as they suffered intensely from cold experienced in the high altitude. Each was clad in an extra heavy aviation suit made of leather, lined with rabbit's skins, but they failed to take the extra leggings used when the two-mile mark is to be passed. As a result the feet of the pilot and mechanician alike were almost frozen and medical attention had to be given them in the emergency hospital. deSaules, who makes his home at the Queen City Hotel and who has been in town the past few days, has been compelled to make his daily trips to the North avenue factory by taxi-cab owing to the soreness still remaining in both pedal extremities. American aviators frequently fly higher than 15,000 feet, the best over reported in this country being 22,000 feet, but no machine has ever equalled the time or behaved as admirably in a climbing test as did the "Model J" in the performance mentioned. The craft is one of the "dual control" type which the Standard corporation is building for the government and which is used mostly by the army department for training young aviators.

Bounds and deSaules form a flying duo that is rapidly coming to the front in aero navigation. The former hails from Oklahoma and is in the employ of the Standard company to test out all of its machines. He has been flying for two years, holding the enviable record of never having had a smash-up or bad accident of any kind. deSaules is also a young man, being but twenty-four years old. He is a native of Perth Amboy, although most of his life has been spent on the Pacific coast. He is motor expert for the Hall-Scott Company of Oakland, Cal., which builds all the motors used in the Standard machines. It is Mr. deSaules' duty to make the rise in every new machine in order to see that the motive power is satisfactory, an occupation that is described by life insurance companies as "extremely hazardous." Bounds and deSaules flew one of the forty-seven machines which took part in the "Wake Up America" demonstration over in New York city last Thursday. Bounds did the piloting at a height of four thousand feet, while deSaules threw out copies of President Wilson's war proclamation with a facsimile enlistment blank. The 4,000 feet altitude was maintained in order to secure entire flight to safeguard the various crafts in the event of motor stoppage. If an accident occurred to any part of the motive machinery the plane could be glided to the East or North Rivers or to the grounds on Governor's Island with small chance of injury to the men in it.

Miss Ruth M. Gunton Bride of R. B. Woodbury

Miss Ruth Mildred Gunton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Gunton, of East Front street, was married on Wednesday to Robert R. Woodbury, of Pottsville, Pa., the Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie officiating, in the home of the bride's parents.

Attendants of the bride were Miss Martha E. Cole, of Pottsville; Mrs. Oscar Douglas, Jr., of New York; Mrs. Randolph Smith, of Brookline, Mass.; Miss Loraine Richards, of Pottsville; Miss Margery Hauser, of Honesdale, Pa.; Miss Margaret Payne, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Burnham Ball, of Bogota, N. J.; Mrs. Burnett Chapple, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y.; Miss Helen Williams and Miss Florence Jones, of Metuchen; Miss Gertrude Williams, of Morristown; Miss Rose Kessler, of Reading, Pa., and Miss Claire Britton, of Plainfield.

Roscoe S. Conkling, of New York, was best man and the ushers were R. Carr Wilson and Frank E. Powers, of Pittsville; Dr. John Gildersleeve, of Brooklyn, and Dwight E. Rogers, of Westerly, R. I.

ENGINEERS, ATTENTION!!

Lieutenant Kreilwitz, U. S. A., who has designated the Record office as a recruiting station to receive enlistments in the Quartermastery Reserve Corps, visited this paper yesterday in connection with the formation of an Engineers' Battalion in New Jersey. He left blanks and other data concerning enlistment and anyone applying will be given them.

The Engineers' Battalion is a new unit in the State's military personnel and bids fair to become the most important. Three companies; two to have headquarters in Newark and one in Elizabeth, are now being formed and there is an excellent chance for advancement.

Men having experience in any lines of engineering are wanted to fill the ranks, enlistment to be for three years unless, mustering out takes place before. Graduate engineers are sorely needed and will have an excellent chance to obtain commissions.

Veterans of Co. K. Working for Outfit

A meeting of the Veterans' Association of Company K will be held tonight in the armory on West Front street, at which time plans will be discussed for the new armory to be built on East Front street. The State has appropriated the $25,000 for the structure, the county has provided $20,000 for the buying of the land and the militia boys will buy the furnishings. The contents of the armory at present used will be moved to the new site in a short time. The Veterans' Association has taken charge of the arrangements for the new structure because Captain Charles Peterson has been called away with the company.

Plans will also be made at the meeting for the conducting of a recruiting campaign tomorrow night, one of the features of which will be a parade of the veterans through the principal streets of the city. The Independent Fife and Drum Corps will lead the demonstration. Afterward recruits will be examined at the armory and it is hoped that a large portion of the thirty men needed will offer their services to the country.

Frank Malanga Case Tomorrow

Frank Malanga, one of the three young men riding in the R. C. H. automobile which figured in a tragic accident at Grant avenue and Front street Sunday afternoon, costing the life of Charles Malanga, 25 years old, will be arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court tomorrow morning. He will answer to a charge of driving a car without a license as preferred by the State commissioner of motor vehicles. The defendant, who is a brother to the victim of the crash, and his cousin, Anthony Polzella, of 512 Cortland avenue, the Bronx, the third occupant of the R. C. H., were originally arraigned in court Monday morning and were held in $200 bail each. No charge was preferred against Polzella, the police holding him only as a material witness.

William Dwyer, of New York, driver of the Reo demonstration fire truck, which crashed into the Malanga machine, was arrested by the police immediately after the accident and taken to headquarters on a technical charge of manslaughter. Bail for this offense cannot be fixed by the local magistrate and Dwyer was sent to Elizabeth Monday afternoon in the custody of his counsel, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr. There he was arraigned before Judge James Connolly, who released him in $1,500 bail, the National Surety Company furnishing the bond. The charge against Dwyer will be considered by the coming Grand Jury.

While the local police have taken every precaution to collect all the evidence in the case, it seems to be the general opinion that the three men in the smaller car were responsible for the accident. Polzella came from New York to visit his cousin at their home at 941 West Third street, and the two brothers took him for a ride in their car. Charles, the dead man, had a license as driver, but after running the machine for a short time, turned the wheel over to Frank, who, the police say, is unlicensed. The party traversed various streets of the city before entering the borough, where the fast rate at which they were traveling was brought to the attention of Chief Marshal Weiss. An attempt was made to stop them on Grant avenue, but they ignored the signal, it is alleged, and the police officer hurried on his bicycle to West End avenue, surmising that the car would return to the city that way. Weiss reached the bridge over Green brook barely a minute ahead of Malanga and although he stood in the middle of the road with his hand upraised the car shot by him at a speed of perhaps thirty miles an hour. It was still going at a high rate at the West Front street corner when the Reo apparatus, returning from a demonstration at Watchung, turned into the fleeing vehicle. The latter was crumpled into

Monster Pole for "Old Glory"

Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, will shortly place in position in the yard fronting Columbus Hall, West Front street, one of the largest flag poles in the State of New Jersey. It is to be constructed of hollow steel and will rise from a concrete base to a sheer height of sixty-five feet.

The pole is already in this city and is now painted and ready for placing into position. This will be done next week and Watchung Council plans to have a monster flag-raising demonstration on Decoration Day. A beautiful American flag of the finest texture and suitable for the size of the pole has been ordered from the manufacturers. The details of the flag raising are being worked out by a committee of which J. J. Varley is the chairman. A special meeting will be held next Monday night after which the plans will be made public.

Roy Titsworth Weds Miss Helen A. Rogers

Miss Helen May Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Rogers, of Central avenue, was married to Roy Edward Titsworth, son of Mrs. David E. Titsworth, of Madison avenue, last evening in the Seventh-Day Baptist church, the Rev. Dr. L. H. Gardner, uncle of the bride, officiating. Mrs. Roland M. Davis, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and Miss Nancy Snyder was the bridesmaid. The best man was Charles Potter Titsworth, brother of the bridegroom, and the ushers were Dr. T. Laurence Saunders, of New York; Theodore G. Davis, George M. Clarke and Roland M. Davis, of Plainfield.

The ceremony was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents, after which the couple left for an extended wedding trip. On returning they will make their home in this city, although the bridegroom is at present employed at Lansdown, Pa. Mr. Titsworth was graduated from the Plainfield High School in the class of 1912 and is well known as a soloist. He is a grandson of the late Charles Potter, founder of the Potter Press Works.

Realty Deals Approach Quarter Million Mark

Three big real estate deals made in East and West Front streets during the past few days represent an exchange of property valued at $250,000 and will mean a decidedly noticeable change of business houses in the business district during the coming year. It will mean new addresses for at least three firms, possibly more, and the erection of two new buildings. Such an activity in the local realty field has not been known in many years and is taken by the community to mean that Plainfield merchants have great faith in the continuance of the present prosperity despite America's entrance *into the world war. The nearest ap*proach to the figure of a quarter of a million was made twelve years ago when the Plainfield Trust Company and Charles W. McCutchen purchased all the antiquated buildings on the west side of Park avenue, between Second street and North avenue. The purchased structures were demolished or moved away and the present handsome banking house and the Sterling building erected in their stead.

POWLSON & JONES BUILDING.

Structure at 149-151 East Front Str eet, which is to be occupied at completion of extensive alterations by A. E. Force Dry Goods' Co.

The properties concerned in the deals made known this week are the McCutchen building on West Front street, the Powlson & Jones building at 149-151 East Front street, and the MacDonald property at East Front street and Watchung avenue. The McCutchen building, occupied for the past eleven years by the A. E. Force dry goods company, passes into the hands of Tepper Brothers, at present occupying the Boehm building on West Front street, who propose to put up practically a new four-story structure on the site of their purchase. Charles W. McCutchen, who sold the Force premises, in turn purchased the Powlson & Jones building, which is to be occupied after complete alterations are made, by the Force Company. The third deal in the activity mentioned occurred when Dr. Albert Pittis and his brother, Bertram Pittis, purchased from J. Fred MacDonald the business and residence structures at the southwest corner of Front street and Watchung avenue. While the plans of the Pittis brothers have not been made known as yet it is understood that they will bring about a considerable change on this important corner.

The figure involved in the purchase of the McCutchen building was considerably over one hundred thousand dollars, while more than $60,000 was paid for the MacDonald place. What amount was concerned in the purchase of the Powlson & Jones building could not be learned with any certainty, but the price brought the three sales close to the $250,000 mark. The plans of Powlson & Jones, which is one of the oldest firms in the city, are incomplete at this time.

A. E. Force & Co. have been in business here since 1906, when they bought the business of Hill & Shupp, successors to Crosby & Hill. The latter firm bought the business from Edward White in about 1896.

The store to which A. E. Force & Co. are going was built by Powlson & Jones about eighteen years ago, as a furniture store, and has been occupied by them ever since. They moved from the single front store next to the present Proctor's Theatre, where Harry Werner is now located, after having conducted a successful business there for many years, and were the leaders of the movement for business on East Front street.

The friends of Mr. Force are congratulating him upon his acquirement of the Powlson & Jones building, as when the alterations planned are completed it will give the firm an up-to-date home for its dry goods business in all its branches, while still maintaining a location in the busiest part of the business district. The changes contemplated include the installation of an elevator, and an addition to the rear of the first floor, giving ample floor space. The show windows will be enlarged for all strict up-to-date display. The building will have three stories with modern basement and salesroom and the company will continue along the same lines as it has now, and will be there as soon after January first as these improvements can be made and move into the new quarters. The firm's present lease expires on April 1, 1918.

Traveling Has No Terror for Plainfield's "Young Old Man"

Ernest Streeter, Plainfield's hustling octogenarian who gave Dr. Osler's "Useless Man" theory the most violent body blow it ever had, returned to his home in this city this week after a flying trip to the Middle West that would have floored many men half his age. Despite the eighty-three years of life which sit lightly upon his shoulder, Mr. Streeter jumped from Plainfield to Detroit, from Detroit to Windsor, Ont., thence to Hamilton, Ont., from Hamilton to Niagara Falls, Tonawanda, Buffalo and other Lake Erie cities before starting back to New Jersey. It required less than a week to complete the journey yet the grizzled hustler found time to appraise the value of a big tract of land in Windsor, inspect the largest automobile factories in Detroit, renewed old acquaintances in Hamilton and traverse all the familiar scenes about Niagara Falls.

"The only inconvenience I had on the whole trip," said Mr. Streeter to a Record reporter yesterday, "was a slight lameness in one leg, but I don't care to dwell on that particularly. It ill becomes one of my age to bore people with complaints about aches and pains that everybody has. I am a retired commercial traveler and folks would think I had never served a proper apprenticeship if I had come back home saying I was tired after a little junket of a thousand miles."

Mr. Streeter was accompanied on his visit West by Dr. Nixon, of Raritan. The primary object was to permit the Plainfielder to place a valuation upon a strip of farm land nearly two miles in length which the Dodge Brothers have purchased near Windsor and where they propose to erect an immense automobile factory to supply their Canadian and foreign trade. Mr. Streeter is an expert in matters of this kind, having had a wide experience in the Middle West years ago. He is a native of Vermont, but as a traveling salesman for Arnold Constable & Co., and other well known firms, has visited practically every State in the Union, especially those adjacent to the Mississippi River. During the coming week he will make a trip to Toronto, Can., to again give his opinion on

Sam Sidman Will Pay Local Visit

Next Monday, matinee and night, at the Plainfield Theatre, Sam Sidman, will appear with his big show. Mr. Sidman has made a special effort to give the patrons of this theatre the best in burlesque, as he has surrounded himself with a most capable cast. He makes the audience laugh continuously while he occupies the stage, and with his original wit and humor never fails to please all who are fortunate enough to witness this production, entitled, "Welcome to Our City," in two acts. Beside Mr. Sidman, the company includes such shining performers as Jean S. Huler, James E. Rome, Fritzi Van, Frank Martin, Esther DeLaur, Eugene Smith, Addie Carlson, Gene Carlson and Margie Carlson.

Besides being one of the few remaining extravaganzas to appear at the Plainfield Theatre this season, the show is one of the best booked to amuse local theatregoers and will probably be greeted by a large audience. Specialty acts and extremely funny situations keep the interest keen from the start to finish and the large chorus of beauties will vie with any others that have been here during the winter.

Good Vaudeville Bill at Theatre

Vaudeville provides the entertaining feature of the bill at the Plainfield Theatre for the last part of the week and includes five all-star acts. The headliner is a novelty vehicle offered by Myrtle Boland and her ragtime entertainers. It is rather unique in its several features and is proving to be a drawing card better than the usual run of feature acts.

Jessie May Hall & Co. have also been well received in presenting a sketch entitled "Angelina's Burglar." Other acts that have been well received include "The Four Wanderers," who are a quartet of musicians; Howe & Hall, in a singing and dancing act, and Frank King, in "Sailors Beware." Moving pictures of the better kind augment the regular bill.

Ructions In Ranks of County Road Body

Announcement that Freeholders Krause and Wilbur, of Plainfield, would not be present because they had gone to Trenton to consult the Attorney-General's Department as to the validity of the disputed low bid of the McAvoy Company for the construction of the Mountainside road, was resented Tuesday at a meeting of the road committee of the Board of Freeholders in County Engineer Bauer's office.

The three members present—Freeholders McMane, Applegate and Darby—are understood to have taken exception to the action of their colleagues in consulting the Attorney-General without the knowledge or authority of the entire committee. Following the meeting Freeholder McMane is said to have declared that he would not stand for any such action as that taken by Wilbur and Krause.

Under the auspices of St. Mary's Social Club a card party and dance will be given in T. A. B. Hall, Tuesday night, June 5. The card playing will commence at 8:15. Music for the dancing will be furnished by Edward Mark's Jazz Orchestra.

The Bachelor Club gave another of the series of delightful dances in Deobold's Hall last night. As in the previous instances, the attendance was large and everyone thoroughly enjoyed the program. Music for the occasion was furnished by Bennet's orchestra.

Early Boom In State Politics

With the Legislature adjourned and things at Trenton unusually quiet, aside from the bustle of preparedness, political leaders and bosses are bestirring themselves in anticipation of the fall campaign. It will be an "off-year" as far as the filling of offices is concerned at the New Jersey November election and as a result the few jobs to be filled will be more closely contested.

The election next November will be confined to the selection of members of the legislature, county officers and various municipal officers. In 17 of the counties 27 county officials will be chosen, and 17 of the retiring officers are Republicans and 10 are Democrats. Eight State senators are to be elected and of the eight retiring senators, six are Republicans and two are Democrats.

The 60 members of the Assembly will all be elected. The campaign will gain some added significance from the fact that it will precede the election of a United States Senator to succeed Senator William Hughes. This will have no such effect, however, as in the old days when the United States Senators were elected by the Legislature.

The counties that will elect senators are Monmouth and Warren, now represented by Democratic senators; Camden, Salem, Gloucester and Union, now represented by Republican senators; Essex, where Senator Edmund B. Osborne, Republican, has just died, and Somerset, where Senator William W. Smalley, Republican, died several months ago. The death of Senators Osborne and Smalley will not affect the situation, as in each case the term ended this year. The present Legislature stands 52 Republicans to 22 Democrats, the Senate having 15 Republicans and six Democrats, and the Assembly 44 Republicans and 16 Democrats. It is too early to attempt to predict which party will win control of the new Legislature.

One of the features of the coming campaign will be the election of 17 sheriffs. All the counties will choose sheriffs but Bergen, Cape May, Passaic and Somerset. In Hudson, Hunterdon, Middlesex, Monmouth, Sussex and Warren the retiring sheriffs are Democrats, while the other 11 are Republicans. Essex, Gloucester, Mercer and Sussex will elect county clerks, the retiring clerks in Gloucester, Mercer and Sussex being Democrats and the one in Essex a Republican.

Surrogates will be chosen in Atlantic, Camden, Cape May, Salem and Union counties, now having Republican surrogates, and in Ocean, where the surrogate is a Democrat.

Planning Summer Course Of Value at Rutgers

As a result of a series of conferences held this week at the Rutgers Scientific School by Dr. Charles H. Elliott, the director of the summer session, and representatives of the New Jersey Experiment Station, of the New Brunswick Chapter of the American Red Cross, and Assistant Commissioner Lewis H. Carris, extensive plans have been launced for the offering of many courses for teachers and citizens of New Jersey which will assist materially in the food conservation movement inaugrated by Governor Edge and in the preparation for various duties which have been thrust upon New Jersey in the present crisis. Courses in first aid, nursing, domestic hygiene, dietetics, and the making of surgical dressings will be offered by registered Red Cross nurses and a corps of co-operating physicians. Regular certificates of the National Red Cross will be issued for the satisfactory completion of this work. It is planned also to offer courses in Red Cross French and Military French for such as desire to serve abroad.

DEATHS OF A WEEK

FRANCES V. AND GIFFORD JONES.

Mrs. Frances V. Jones, a resident of the city for many years, died at her home at 119 Park avenue Monday morning less than twenty-four hours after death had paid a previous visit to her home without her being informed of the fact. Mrs. Jones' son, Gifford Jones, aged 26 years, passed away Sunday afternoon after a brief illness with pneumonia. The mother's condition was so critical at the time that she was kept in ignorance of the son's demise. The double bereavement has occasioned an outpouring of sympathy for the relatives.

Mrs. Jones was sixty-two years old and was the widow of David Jones. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Chester A. Pope, of Park avenue, and two sons, William, of New Haven, and Edward, of this city.

Gifford Jones was employed for a long time by Mayor William L. Smalley at his Park avenue meat market. The young man's untimely death is keenly felt by the borough executive, who held the youth in the highest esteem. Gifford had lived in Plainfield practically all his life and enjoyed a wide acquaintance. To his friends he was familiarly known as "Hippy," a title which clung to him from his baseball and football days, being an ardent devotee of both of these sports.

The double funeral of mother and son was held at the late home on Park avenue Wednesday afternoon, and was attended by a gathering of relatives and friends that completely filled the residence. The service was conducted by Rev. John Sheridan Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, and was extremely simple, although the scripture reading and remarks referred to the sad bereavement suffered by the family. There were numerous floral tributes extended by friends and relatives. The interments were made in Hillside cemetery. The pall-bearers who carried both caskets were: Clark Mundy, Howard Sergeant, Oliver Peel., Merle Todd, Joseph Kreger and Richard Burke.

AARON LITTLE JIMERSON.

The funeral of Aaron Little Jimerson, one of Plainfield's oldest and best known residents, whose death occurred on Friday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. George W. Marsh, of Maple avenue, the borough, was held Sunday afternoon in the Baptist church at Scotch Plains, Rev. J. Madison Hare being in charge of the service and the attendance of relatives and friends was very large. During the service, Miss Etta Raybert, of this city, sang two selections, "Asleep in Jesus" and "Abide With Me." There were numerous beautiful floral tributes. Interment was in the Scotch Plains cemetery. Four grandsons acted as pall-bearers. They were Harvey and Clifford Marsh, of the borough; Chauncey Buckeley, of Rutherford, and Walter Ransome, of Philadelphia.

Mr. Jimerson was one of twelve children and was born at Bound Brook May 19, 1832. His parents, Hannah Little and Henry Jimerson, came of Scotch ancestry, which settled in Monmouth county early in the eighteenth century, and his grandfather, Nathaniel Little, served with honor during the War of the Revolution, losing a leg in the battle of Monmouth.

Mr. Jimerson's parents moved to Havana, Illinois, about sixty years ago, where a number of their descendants are living at present. The deceased was for many years the proprietor of the brick yard on Leland avenue, where the Fresh Air Home now is and which was known in more recent times as "Hand's brick yard."

Mr. Jimerson is survived by his widow, three children, twelve grandchildren and four great grandchildren; also one brother, Albert L. Jimerson, who is in the Middle West. Mr. Jimerson's children are Mrs. George N. Marsh, with whom he lived, W. S. Jimerson and Mrs. John T. Collins, the last named of Rutherford.

MRS. JOHN KELLEY.

Mrs. Mary Lyons Kelley, wife of John Kelley, died at her home, 662 West Fourth street, Monday afternoon, following a ten days' illness with paralysis. She rallied after the first stroke affected her and for a time her relatives were hopeful that she would recover but a second stroke came at the end of the week and she sank rapidly.

Mrs. Kelley was born in Ireland, but had made her home in this country for thirty-five years, practically all of that time being spent in Plainfield. She possessed an unusually genial disposition and had a host of friends throughout the city, especially, in the West End, where she always made her home. Beside her husband, Mrs. Kelley is survived by one brother, Patrick Lyons, of Ireland, and two sisters, Mrs. David Barry and Mrs. Peter Johnson, the former of Plainfield avenue, and the latter of the borough.

The funeral was held in St. Mary's church yesterday morning and was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends. A solemn high mass of requiem was offered by Rev. Father Hennessey, assisted by Rev. Fathers Bogan and Mahoney. Many beautiful floral tributes were extended by friends of the family and parishioners of St. Mary's church where Mrs. Kelley had been a faithful communicant during her local residence. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery. The pall-bearers were: John Watson, Andrew Heffren, Michael Cooney, Michael Griffen, John Maloney, Patrick Griffen.

For 200,000 Miles

The Mitchell standard in every vital part is 100 per cent over-strength. Our margins of safety have doubled in the past three years.

The object is, a lifetime car. We build the Mitchell for 200,000 miles of service.

Over 440 parts are built of toughened steel. All safety parts are oversize. And many parts are built of Chrome-Vanadium.

These standards are costly. No other car in the Mitchell class attempts them. But to you they mean too much to overlook.

All Exclusive

Mitchell cars have 31 distinct features which nearly all others omit. You never know a car so complete.

The bodies are our own designs, built in our shops. So no other styles are like them. Out of savings made in this new body plant, we add 24 per cent to the cost of finish, upholstery and trimming.

We spend on all these extras this year about $4,000,000. All to give you endurance, beauty and equipment not found in rival cars.

Due to John W. Bate

This extra value is due to factory savings. John W. Bate, the efficiency expert, built and equipped this mammoth plant. He has spent millions of dollars to minimize factory cost.

Come see the results. Under no other methods could cars like these be sold at Mitchell prices.

Now there are two sizes and prices. Now there are eight body styles. So the Mitchell line offers a vast variety.

See how these cars differ from others, then judge them for yourself.

WILL "SPEED MANIACS" CONTINUE RECKLESSNESS?

Automobilists in this city who are inoculated with the germ of "speed mania," may look upon the death of Charles Malanga, at Grant avenue and Front street Sunday afternoon, as a terrible warning of what might occur from the continuance of reckless driving through frequented thoroughfares. The tragic end of the young man in question came as the climax to absolute disregard of State and municipal laws, followed by mocking defiance of police intervention. Almost immediately after Malanga had turned the wheel of the little car over to his brother and the latter had ignored Chief Marshal Weiss' command to stop, the fatal crash took place. Witnesses agree that their machine was traveling at fully thirty miles an hour, a speed that has no rhyme or reason in a city street nor should be tolerated on a country road any longer than is necessary to catch the offender and lodge him in jail.

While deploring deeply the untimely death of young Malanga, it may truthfully be said that his demise was the result of his own and his brother's recklessness. Without any shadow of a doubt there would have been no fatal crash if they had approached West Front street in the sane and cautious manner that prudence prescribes. The Malangas, however, were not alone in the rash action Sunday. Other automobile drivers rushed along the public highways in much the same manner, the only difference being that no police officer called to them to stop. It is impossible for the traffic squad to keep a watch on every street in town and it seems as though certain drivers take keen delight in disregarding the city ordinance, which fixes twelve miles an hour as the maximum rate for an automobile within the municipal limits. Some of these same drivers have been warned repeatedly but warnings are of no avail. Repetitions of the collision at Grant avenue and Front street are apt to occur almost any day, the only wonder being that more have not happened before this. Perhaps the death of Charles Malanga may be a lesson to some of the most persistent speed maniacs but the chances are a majority of them will continue on the same as ever. What is really wanted is a tightening up of the police dragnet. Let Chief Kiely and his men get busy and lock up every man or woman who rushes a big automobile through an avenue with absolute indifference of pedestrians or slow moving vehicles. Let the city judge impose jail sentences instead of the money fines that are usually paid without the person muleted suffering any great inconvenience. To go further than this, let the State Commissioner of Motor Vehicles revoke the licenses of those apprehended more than a second time. Until measures like these are adopted fatal crashes may be expected and the thoroughfares of the city will continue to be highways of danger for the innocent and law abiding pedestrian.

CAN THE NEW POSTOFFICE CHANGE THE BUSINESS DISTRICT?

Within the next few days Plainfield's postoffice will undergo a change of address, leaving its present location in the Babcock building and settling down in commodious and up-to-date quarters in the new Federal structure on Watchung avenue. We extend congratulations to Postmaster Hoagland, the able and efficient postoffice staff and also to the people of the community. The moving will be of essential benefit to all and we believe that in the years to come the city will have mailing facilities second to none in the State. The new building has been a long time in coming but now that it is here everybody will forget the delay of the past and be glad that after all the waiting a structure has arisen that meets all expectations.

There is one question that has often been heard relative to the change and that is this: "Will the removal of the postoffice make any material difference in the business district of the city?"

The answers are as varied as opinions of the European War. Some people firmly believe that Watchung avenue is the coming shopping center, while others assert that the thoroughfare will only be a natural branch out that would eventually come about regardless of the Federal building. Personally, we believe that West Front street, between Park avenue and Madison avenue, will undergo no great shift as it has always been the center of Plainfield's business district. Where free delivery is in vogue and branch stations supply all mailing necessities, the locations of the postoffice is not such a great factor in making a district. This has been fully demonstrated in the case of Elizabeth. The Federal building is several blocks from the recognized shopping center and almost surrounded by residences. The department took possession a number of years ago yet Elizabeth merchants continue to build new stores in that portion of Broad street where buyers have always been wont to go. Other cities in the State have undergone the same experience.

It is true that a large amount of buying and selling of Watchung avenue real estate has been recorded since the postoffice site was selected by the Washington authorities. But land speculators cannot make districts to suit themselves any more than wheat speculators can designate where grain should be grown. Watchung avenue has been due for development for more than a decade.

It is now becoming a realization. The postoffice has had its share in bring this about, but so has the handsome new Elks club, the purchase of the city hall site and the desire of merchants to be on a street that is convenient to the shopping public. Watchung avenue will continue to grow and so will North avenue, Park avenue, and other adjacent thoroughfares. But Front street will continue to pursue the even tenor of its way despite the loss of the postoffice.

PUT THE PLAYGROUNDS TO GOOD USE THIS YEAR.

This is the time of the year when plans begin to formulate for summer playground work and which interest centers around the probable use to which Plainfield's five recreation centers will be put. There is every reason to believe that the Playground Commission this year will take into consideration the status of international affairs in arranging the season's program and it would not be a surprise to find that supervised playground work is to be temporarily abandoned.

Instead of closing up the school yards and the main recreation center on Randolph road, however, it would probably be better to devise some means by which they could be put to a service that will assert its benefits among the juvenile element in war time.

There are certain small but important duties that the younger generation is able to perform and under the guidance of capable instructors the youngsters may be taught much that will prove of value to the country. It would be a wise move to turn the playgrounds into summer instruction camps and give the children to understand that enrollment in these classes will fit them for their individual patriotic duties. The playgrounds would doubtlessly serve as an excellent preparing step for military service that will almost certainly be required of today's children in years to come.

THE CASE OF A "WEEKLY" NOT BEING A "WEAKLY."

Always on the alert to give its readers a full and complete account of any important happening, the Record issued a special real estate edition Wednesday noon detailing the big realty sales in the business section. The purchases of the McCutchen building, the Powlison & Jones building and the J. F. MacDonald tract form a combination in property exchange the magnitude of which has not been equalled since a complete block changed hands on Park avenue eleven years ago. From a newspaper point of view the "story" was a big feature and the Record was quick to see it. Within an hour after the deals were made public the special edition was on the street and the downtown merchants, who are always deeply interested in any Front street business move, were in possession of the full facts. The activity and enterprise of this paper have come in for warm commendation, scores of telephone and personal messages conveying the congratulations from the local public to the Record staff. The special edition was only one of many "scoops" which this paper has put "over" since its first issue. It is a great source of satisfaction to know that the citizens of this community appreciate a live, wide-awake publication and the Record is filling the bill. What has been done in the past will be continued and even surpassed in the future. Keep your eye on the Record if you wish to get news when it is news and presented in the manner that newspapers should present it.

PLAINFIELD BECOMING BUSINESS METROPOLIS.

Realty transactions involving hundreds of thousands of dollars during the past twenty years have transformed Plainfield's business section from a center designed merely to meet the needs of one community into a commercial metropolis catering to an influx of shoppers from all surrounding suburbs. The three big deals reported during the last week carry more than a passing importance to the city's mercantile interests and the resulting features of the purchases are certain to add emphasis to the belief that Plainfield is out-striding any other municipality of its size in the State.

Plainfield merchants as a class represent the type of business man who starts at the bottom of the ladder and makes a quick and successful ascent. A canvass of the stores along the business streets will reveal this fact to be true and the success attained may be attributed largely to the policy of fair dealing that is general.

When Plainfield merchants cry for home trade they are backed by all that should serve to attract home folk to patronize home interests.

Ten, fifteen or twenty years ago Front street was far from being the hustling thoroughfare it is today. There are hundreds living here today who can readily recall the time when they little dreamed of department stores closely resembling the metropolitan type. Transformation has been rapid and the city should feel sufficiently proud of its business men to patronize their interests without urging.

CIVIL SERVICE WILL MEAN EFFICIENT HANDLING.

It now seems certain that postmasters in cities of Plainfield's class will have to qualify under civil service tests in order to hold office. For a number of years agitation in the direction of placing all postoffice heads in cities of the first and second class under civil service regulations has been coming to a head and the new law will mean that appointment in the future will come only to those individuals who are able to qualify.

The breaking away from the custom of handing the "plum" down to a political favorite is a commendable one and should serve to place the office on a plane of efficiency such as has been noticeably lacking in some instances. The postmaster should be thoroughly competent to discharge the duties of the office but it has been too often the case that a legislator has elected to name a man who has had little or no experience in postal matters. Oftentimes it has been found that the postmaster has found it necessary to appeal to clerks in the department for an office education after receiving his appointment and the present system has been the cause of considerable hard feeling. Men in the service rightfully believe that they should be given an opportunity to rise to the postmastership but have found it impossible in the past unless they have been fortunate enough to command political influence.

NO LENIENCY FOR DESPICABLE WIFE-BEATER.

Judge William G. DeMeza again demonstrated in the city court yesterday morning that he has absolutely no use for a wife-beater. One of this ilk was brought before him on a charge of pounding his helpmate so badly that she had to wear a veil to keep her neighbors from seeing the mutilated condition of her face. Nevertheless she appeared before the magistrate and asked that clemency be shown the despicable brute who had so grossly mistreated her. Her words might have had some effect but for the inadvertant raising of the mesh cloth covering her features. It showed the judge what suffering she had undergone and she reluctantly admitted all the facts under pressure of judicial inquiry. In consequence the offender was sent to jail for sixty days with a warning in addition that his reappearance in court would mean a long term in State prison. The latter institution is the proper place for men who so far forget their civilization that they beat the faces of a helpless women to a pulp. It is gratifying to know that wife-beaters are not common in the city court and fear of Judge DeMeza's drastic action is what keeps most of them within bounds.

IT'S A SMALL THING BUT IT SOMETIMES MEANS MUCH.

Patrons of Union trolley cars both here and elsewhere have had cause to complain, especially during the winter months, of the manner in which the rear platform doors have been operated by conductors. The system of collecting a second fare makes it necessary for the conductor to go to the front of the car and leave the rear door locked. Hence, when a trolley slows up to take on passengers he oftentimes has to wend his way through a crowded car aisle to unlock the door and in the meantime the patrons are compelled to wait outside, weathering the cold, rain or wind as best they can.

Open cars will be in use before many more weeks pass by but it might be well to work on some formula that can be put to a test next fall with a view to relieving this condition. People who find it necessary to use the street cars for transportation purposes have many inconveniences to put up with and this minor one should be eliminated from the list.

HOME DEFENSE LEAGUE TRAINING A GOOD THING.

Whether or not we have war the program of work being conducted by the Home Defense League will prove itself profitable to those who participate in it. Not a night goes by these days but what a score or more of the leaguers visit police headquarters and use the pistols in range practice. A number of the men have become excellent shots and a majority of them have qualified with marks that are indicative of their dependableness in the time of trouble.

It was surprising to note the number of men who reported for the first time at the range with the confession that they had never before had occasion to handle a firearm. Faithful practice has made finished sharpshooters out of several in this group and before the range schedule ends Plainfield is bound to have more than one hundred expert shots to rely upon for home defense purposes.

Knowledge of firearms is a good thing for any man to have and even though the league performs no greater duties than it is now taking care of, the time spent in preparation will not be wasted.

Reports from "somewhere in Jersey," where the boys of Company K are doing guard duty, carry with them the highest commendation for Captain Peterson's charges. The trouble other cities have experienced at the hands of thoughtless National Guardsmen has not come to the towns in which the Company K men are scattered and townspeople on more than one occasion have sent official letters of compliment to the captain.

Plainfield may well feel proud of the unit for it is performing the duty assigned it in an admirable fashion. The men are putting a whole heart and soul into their work and are making a cheerful sacrifice of home comforts and business interests for patriotic service.

Two weeks from tomorrow Plainfield will entertain the "greatest show on earth." May 12 will be the official "kiddies' day" of the year and the attractively colored Barnum and Bailey billboard advertisements have already taken the red blooded youngster's mind off his class room duties. This show is now playing an engagement in New York and metropolitan critics have proclaimed it the "greatest ever." Whenever Barnum and Bailey has shown in Plainfield it has drawn crowds numbering well into the thousands and Plainfield merchants are certain to profit by the influx of folk from surrounding towns on that day.

Four Teams To Heph Pry Off City League Base Ball Lid Tomorrow

Local "fans" will get their first real taste of baseball this season tomorrow afternoon, when the City League resumes. With only four teams entered, namely, Hope Chapel, St. Joseph's, Netherwood and First Baptist, the race should be a close one. The majority of the city's best players were included in the roster of teams handed in to the secretary of the league Monday night, and a casual glance would indicate that each aggregation has a chance for the hunting.

Tomorrow's games should give a better line on the four teams that will race for the title. The First Baptists and Hope Chapels will get together in the West End, while the Netherwoods and St. Joseph's will try conclusions at the former's field.

the possibilities of certain property for speculation. As far as he is concerned, the objective point could be the Pacific coast and he would undertake it as readily as a youth of twenty, withstanding the fatigue even better than the latter.

Mr. Streeter's ability is not entirely confined to traveling and land valuation. He is an expert on automobiles, acting as local agent for several makes; is a judge of all kinds of cloth goods and can discuss the European War situation with the most confirmed newspaper reader, being himself a close peruser of the daily editions. In addition he is president of the North Avenue Checker Club and holds the tri-county championship of Union, Middlesex and Somerset. He wrested the medal from Tommy Timbo two weeks after the latter had taken it from Jodge Sullivan. Streeter and Timbo played a series of seven games which was watched by a gallery of experts from Plainfield, North Plainfield, Jamesburg, Point Pleasant and Scranton, Pa. Streeter won seven out of the eleven games despite the fact that Timbo took advantage of all the widows thrown on the board by the watchers and refused to remove his cuffs. The aged champion never plays with his cuffs on and pays no attention to suggestions made by William Breen, W. T. Morgan, Don Crane and other connoisseurs who are members of the club.

Plainfield Nurses at Philadelphia Convention

A delegation of Muhlenberg training school graduates will attend the annual convention of the American Nurses' Association, which commences today in Philadelphia and will continue in daily session for one week. Miss Elizabeth Wilson, of Lenox avenue, will act as delegate from the Alumnae Association of Muhlenberg Hospital, while Miss Ethel Humphrey, of Madison avenue, will act in the same capacity for the local Visiting Nurses' Association. They will remain the full week.

The convention meetings are to be held in the Bellevue-Stratford and will be attended by hundreds of delegates from all parts of the country. Following the regular business sessions matters pertaining to the nursing profession, especially that devolving upon the association in the present war crisis will be discussed. The most prominent persons in America are included in the speakers' list.

Codington to Retire as County Tax Board Head

John J. Collins, of Elizabeth, is slated for the presidency of the Union County Board of Taxation, when it reorganizes for the year on Tuesday, in place of William R. Codington, of this city, whose term has expired. In accordance with the custom of giving each member of the board a term as president, it is believed that Mr. Collins will be named. Lloyd Thompson and John W. Clift, of Summit, who was appointed as Mr. Codington's successor, are the other members of the board.

Several candidates are in the field for the position of secretary to the board, now held by John R. Connolly, of Elizabeth, who has said he will resign any attempt to replace him with the claim that he is a civil service employe. The principal candidates mentioned for the secretaryship are Sidney W. Eldridge, a former secretary; Peter J. Olde and George J. Stewart.

Youthful Calprit Used Cleverly Divised Scheme

Judge William G. DeMeza will have one of the most difficult cases to dispose of at tomorrow morning's session of the Juvenile Court that he has had to solve since he adopted the practice of trying children at a special session each Saturday. John Maglone, a nine-year-old Italian boy of Race street, North Plainfield, will be arraigned in court on a charge of tampering with the booth of the New York Telephone Company, located at the eastbound station of the Central Railroad.

Maglone has admitted taking money from the booth on numerous occasions and the manner in which he accomplished the embezzlement is a unique one in local police annals. The youth has been in the habit for months past of spending his leisure time around the station. Folding a slip of paper to the proper size he would place it in the slot of the telephone by means of which "central" returned money to persons. The passage was blocked up and after the booth became empty he would go and take out the paper and the money would drop into the box.

Civil War Veteran Is Observing His Birthday

H. Craig Smith, the veteran civil engineer and patriarch of Winfield Scott Post, is today receiving congratulations from his many friends on the occasion of his seventy-ninth birthday. The active old "war horse" neither looks his age or acts it and gives evidence of being one of the leaders of the Grand Army post for many years to come. He will be the guest of honor at a family dinner to be given tonight at the home of his son, Homer Smith, of Madison avenue, with whom he resides.

Mr. Smith is an Indiana man by birth but adopted New Jersey as his abiding-place more than forty years ago. He first came East in connection with the survey of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad division from Philadelphia to Bound Brook. He has since made his home in Plainfield and enjoys as wide an acquaintance as many a man born and brought up here.

Mr. Smith was delegate from this district to the national G. A. R. convention at Kansas City last August and gave a good showing for New Jersey. On the way home he stopped off at Youngstown, O., and inspected a big plant of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co., where his son, Irving Smith, formerly of Plainfield, holds a responsible position. The concern at the present time employs 13,000 hands and is working day and night on munition orders.

Klines' Minstrels Will Appear Here

Kline Brothers' All-Colored Minstrels, an aggregation of local talent gathered together by the inimitable William "Midge" Kline, will make their local debut at the Plainfield High School auditorium Thursday night, May 17. The show will be for the benefit of the Royal baseball team and will be the first of a series booked by the manager, Harry Allen, of this city. Westfield, Bound Brook, Somerville and Cranford are among the places the troop will visit.

Both Mr. Kline and Mr. Allen have had a wide experience in minstrel productions and they have arranged a program equal to that carried by many of the best road shows featuring this style of entertainment. The first part reveals a gorgeous scenic setting of silk and satin backed up by a special Colonial drop painted especially for Kline brothers. The costumes represent a large outlay of money and are unusually handsome. The numbers in the first part are all intended to depict the negro in his native element, the "Sunny South," and form a delightful representation with an air of refinement. William A. Kline will act as interlocutor and the fun-makers will include Fred Kline, Phil Piedra, "Babe" Saunders, June Smith, Eddie Ford, Con. Thornton, Jim Johnson and Joe Jackson. Kline Brothers' stringed orchestra will occupy a portion of the stage and will take part in the big olio which will form a second part of the show. This will include five specialty numbers. Dancing will be in order at the close of the performance.

Frank Malganga Case

a twisted mass of wreckage but the larger machine received only slight damage.

Charles Malanga was thrown fully 15 feet in the air by the terrific impact, landing in the hard roadway squarely on his head. His skull was fractured and he died in Muhlenberg Hospital almost as soon as received. Frank Malanga was rendered unconscious and was also taken to the hospital but was discharged five hours later. He sustained a partial dislocation of one knee, in addition to numerous cuts and bruises. Polzella escaped injury as did also Dwyer, the Reo driver. The fire apparatus was brought to this city by Edwin A. Craig, who was following it on West Front street in his own car. He had the injured men placed in his machine and drove at top speed to Muhlenberg.

The funeral of the unfortunate Charles was held at the parents' home on West Third street Wednesday morning at 8:30 and later in St. Mary's church. A requiem mass was offered by Rev. Father Mahoney and was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends, many of them coming from New York. The floral tributes included set pieces from several local fraternal organizations to which the young man belonged. Delegations from Central Camp, No. 54, Woodmen of the World, of Elizabeth, and the Tinners' Union, of Plainfield, escorted the casket from the home to the church and afterward to the grave in St. Mary's cemetery, where interment was made. Members of the family acted as pall-bearers. The surviving relatives include the young man's parents, his wife, to whom he was married on January first of this year, three brothers and a grandmother, who is in her ninetieth year.

Street Paving

Fourth street from Park avenue to Watchung avenue; East Front street from Watchung avenue to Richmond street, and West Fifth street from Park avenue to Central avenue.

the trolley company will double-track its present line on Watchung avenue from East Fourth street to East Fifth street and thence to the junction of the Union and Netherwood lines at South avenue and Richmond street. This feature is one in itself that will be appreciated by the Plainfield public, which has experienced delays in the operation of cars at these points during congestion hours.

The streets on which work is to commence before another week is past are divided in two portions, those to be of brick and those of concrete. The brick portions are as follows: West Front street from Madison avenue to Washington avenue; East Second street from Park avenue to Watchung avenue; North avenue from Park avenue to Watchung avenue; East Fifth street from Watchung avenue to Richmond street; Madison avenue from Front street to Second street, and Park avenue from Fourth street to Seventh street, and Watchung avenue from Fourth street to East Sixth street. The concrete sections will be these: Park avenue from Seventh to Ninth street; Watchung avenue from East Sixth street to East Seventh street; Crescent avenue from East Sixth street to East Seventh street; East Seventh street from Watchung avenue to Park avenue, and West Seventh street from Park avenue to Grant avenue.

All of the concrete work and the one piece of brick on Madison avenue from Front to Second street will be done by J. C. Bentley, of Elizabeth, at a contract figure of $68,948.15. All the remaining brick work will be done by the Newark Paving Company, whose price was $66,519.94. The total figure of $135,368.99 to be paid on these contracts is ten *thousand dollars lower than the near*est competitive figure submitted by any other contractor and the street department feels that it has secured a "good bargain." Both successful bidders have the very best of recommendations for work done in other cities. Mr. Bentley, who is a brother-in-law to County Registrar Frank H. Smith, was a member of the firm of Humphrey & Bentley, which built the stretch of amasite pavement for Union county on South avenue from Richmond street, this city, to the Fanwood line at Terrill road. It is considered by engineers to be one of the finest pieces of road in the Middle Atlantic States. Mr. Bentley only recently finished a large contract for concrete paving at Lakewood. The Newark Paving Company stands high in State circles and is a very large concern. It was this company which recently put down the wood-block pavement on Broad street, Newark, at a contract price over $400,000. All the brick to be used by both contractors will be what is known to engineers as the "Shawmut grade." It is reddish brown in color, making a decided contrast to the familiar yellow now in the business streets. The "Shawmut brick" comes from Pennsylvania and withstands the hardest kinds of tests.

Another improvement beside the installation of storm sewers which is resulting from the permanent pavement is the building of uniform concrete curbs wherever the new work is to be done. The old separate stone curbing, which at times is a decided nuisance because of its irregularity, is to be taken out and continuous concrete put in its place. This improvement is included in the contractors' figures. The curbing will have a steel corner-bar along its full length on the streets where the trolley lines run and on the other portions at the intersection of streets. The storm sewer work authorized by the Council to precede the permanent pavement has been practically completed and will take care of those streets in which they are laid without any additions for at least twenty-five years. The need of some of them is not pressing at this time but the outlay will more than pay for itself in the near future. The largest storm sewer contract was held by John M. Kelley, of Camden, who has finished everything but repairing streets after filling in. This work has been sub-contracted to Joseph Burke, of this city, who has it almost at an end. The other storm sewer contract is held by Charles A. Peterson and is now about finished. During Mr. Peterson's absence as captain of Company K, the job is in charge of his brother, Nelson Peterson, who is rushing it to completion. The job is all in the East End of town on Fourth, Washington and Front streets and Watchung avenue, having an outlet in Greenbrook.

In preparing plans for this year's paving, the street committee of the Common Council realize that many thoroughfares are in bad shape but of a necessity some of them have had to be left over for another year before anything can be done. Those where the need was absolutely pressing were selected first. The improvement is to go on until all the streets in the downtown section are of brick or concrete, doing away with the old style macadam. The committee has an agreement in writing from the Public Service Corporation stating that before the summer of 1918 it will rebuild its trolley tracks on West Front street from Liberty street to Grant avenue, thus making way for permanent pavement. The plans of the committee also include brick or concrete on West Second street from Park avenue to either Madison or Central avenues; East

It Cost Less---At First

TO bury in a wooden box, slate or brick cistern or even a cement vault with an unsealed lid costs less than the Norwalk. A heavy top lowered and sealed by hand is naturally more expensive. But once you have seen with your own eyes the workman cement the top and bottom of the Norwalk Vault together into one solid piece of masonry you are satisfied; and that comfort is worth any price you could pay. That's why every modern undertaker is glad to use the Norwalk—he can guarantee his work. You undertaker can give you the necessary information.

THE NORWALK VAULT CO.,
Plainfield, New Jersey

Organized for Patriotic Work

Plainfield is to Americanize its foreign population. That step will be assured next week at a meeting to be held in the Public Library of people from all over the city representing foreign societies or beneficial organizations. It was unanimously decided at the last meeting to have the body known as the Plainfield Americanization Committee and plans were laid for activities looking toward the enlightening of loyal foreigners as to better citizenship.

Mayor Leighton Calkins presided at the meeting and made a short address, after which a number of the others present spoke. Miss Ruth Crawford, who is in charge of the immigration work of the Young Women's Association, with offices in New York city, created considerable interest by her talk on the good accomplished. It was decided to put the work of the committee in charge of four minor committees, the chairman of each being as follows: Educational, Archibald Cox; patriotic, Judge William G. DeMeza; recreation, Arthur Jones, and agricultural, W. S. Tyler.

It is planned to hold forum meetings from time to time at which competent speakers will speak on various phases of Americanism. Other means will be found to reach the thousands of foreigners in this city, whose ranks have been greatly added to within the past year by the influx of labor to local factories, and the city and borough government will co-operate to the fullest extent.

MRS. HAYNES IMPROVING.

Mrs. Joseph A. Haynes, who recently underwent an operation in Muhlenberg Hospital for the amputation of a limb, recovered sufficiently the past week to be removed from the hospital to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Frank Palmer, of Franwood. Mrs. Haynes continues to gain her strength and has every prospect for complete recovery.

SPOKE AT MT. ST. MARY'S.

Joyce Kilmer, prominent journalist and associate editor of the New York Times, made an address before the members of Mt. St. Mary's College last Sunday on "Some Modern Manias." He described some of the fads and extremes gone to by the people of today as against those of past years.

"Dolph" Liebau Returns To Old Home In Canada

Adolphus Liebau, of West Third street, who has been a resident of Plainfield for the past thirty-five years, left today for his old home in Montreal, Can., where he will reside in the future. It is his intention to embark in business in the Quebec metropolis, forming partnership with an old friend from that city and opening up a carpenter's jobbing shop. Mr. Liebau has worked for nearly all of Plainfield's oldest building contractors, putting in a straight run of twenty years with John Abbott. He has always been considered an expert in interior finishing and specimens of his handiwork are to be found in scores of Plainfield's finest residences. One of his last big jobs was assisting in trimming the interior of the Elks' club house on Watchung avenue.

Mr. Liebau is a charter member of the West End Reminiscent Club and the members of this organization gave him a farewell reception last night. Charles Johnson presided as toastmaster and presented the guest of honor with a beautiful silk American flag to entwine with the British colors in his new home. Mr. Liebau declared that he would convey the feelings of good-will held toward the Canadians by the people of Plainfield and assured them of the earnest co-operation in the big struggle now going on in Europe. Mr. Liebau's son, William, who learned the machinist's trade at the Pond Tool Works, returned to Canada about ten years ago and is now a foreman in a big munition shop at Sorel, Que., which employs two thousand hands.

WHAT SOCIETY IS DOING DURING SPRING MONTHS

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

NEWS OF THE WEEK CONCERNING PLAINFIELD PEOPLE

irst Anniversary Of The N.S.A.S. Occurs Tomorrow

n the whole, Plainfield clubdom is suffering a relapse, but the e feature is that with a record of 1,000 members since April 28, Plainfield branch of the National Special Aid Society will ob- its first anniversary tomorrow. Daily tasks of a routine nature rgoing of no special program to mark the event, although the rters on East Front street will undoubtedly be crowded with ers and well wishers of the organization. The growth of the y has been little short of marvelous and has caused surprise ong those all over the East who have heard of it. Because of this the society is now one of the biggest in the country and em- every line of activity called for by the national headquarters New York. A review of the year's progress will give an excellent of the work accomplished.

From the time the local society was first organized on April 28 of last year until February of the present year the growth was normal. On January 15 the membership rolls totaled the names of 150 women, and double the original number, after starting with a campaign at that time that netted 250 members in one day, the present wide crisis has tended to keep up the recruiting until the total of 1,000 was reached this week. At first trouble was found in se- ing a suitable place to work, but March the headquarters on East Front street was opened. The mak- of hospital supplies has been the line of endeavor there and the ious classes that have been start- from time to time have been in ious parts of the city. Included the latter is the rifle club at Com- ry K armory, three emergency aid ses at Muhlenberg Hospital, a ge cooking class and canteen cook- s class in 706 East Front street, ss in garden instruction, one in ior instruction, one in poultry ising, two in home care of the sick, s in practical mercy and one in rgical dressing.

Cases where the society has put its ources to practical use have been ous. Troop D was met at the ation on its arrival from the Mexi- n border last summer with coffee d other refreshments, and while mpany K was at Elizabeth the rgency squad furnished tobacco, ttes and other articles to the en. Refreshments are now served se times each night to the mem- rs of the local Home Defense ard on duty.

Lectures have been frequent rea- s held under the society's aus- es. The last of these was held in h School last month, Ian Hay, British author and soldier, being e speaker. Henry West also spoke in the High School and lectures on home economics and other similar subjects have been almost weekly oc- currences.

Several times in the past few weeks the members of the society have demonstrated the quickness with which things can be accom- plished. At the time money for Com- pany K's uniforms was being raised $536 was collected in two hours by a corps of workers, on another occasion 100 tickets were sold for the Company K fair, and last week the motor squad responded to a test and traversed the distance between this city and Me- tuchen in twenty minutes.

A regular meeting of the Anti-Suf- frage League will be held at 10:30 Monday morning at the home of Mrs. Edgar F. Hyatt, of East Ninth street.

The annual membership banquet of the local Y. W. C. A. will be held in the association rooms on East Front street on the night of May 10. This year each member will be allow- ed to invite a guest, and several new features that are being planned will make the event one of the most successful ever held by the associa- tion. The committee on arrange- ments includes Miss Anna Campbell, Mrs. Charles P. Titsworth, Miss Lelia Hedges, Mrs. Nathan E. Lewis, Mrs. George A. Horne, Mrs. G. C. R. Gran- dy, Mrs. W. J. Leveridge, Miss Isa- belle Scarborouth, Miss Elsie Suffern and Miss Georgia Ricker. Miss Kath- erine Aller, formerly general secre- tary, will be the guest of honor and several speakers will be present.

The annual meeting of the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield is to be held this af- ternoon in the league's offices in the Monthly Church Musical Sunday

The monthly musical service at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will be held at 7:45 Sunday after- noon and will consist of Haydn's ora- torio, "Seasons," the selections being from "Spring." The service will start with a fifteen-minute organ recital by Prof. E. Mettler Davis. The remain- der of the service will be rendered by the church choir and will include a variety of selections. The services have become one of the few regular musical treats for Plainfield people and large numbers are taking advan- tage of the cordial invitation to the public and are present at each one.

The last meeting of the Musical Club for the present season will be held at the home of Mrs. George Meeker, of Central avenue, on the afternoon of May 22. The program has not yet been completed. The regular April meeting of the club was held at the home of Mrs. John Stevens, of Hillside avenue, on Tues- day afternoon, when Mrs. Harry Mc- Gee, pianist, and Hubert Linscott, bass, rendered a program of Eng- lish and French selections.

Partial plans were made this week by Miss Maude Van Boskerck for a musical to be held at the home of Mrs. Pierre Mali, of East Front street, on the afternoon of May 26. A number of prominent Belgian mu- sicians will be present and other fea- tures will be announced later. The proceeds will be added to the supple- mentary meal fund for Belgian chil- dren.

A musical for the benefit of the local branch of the Belgian Relief So- ciety will be held in this city on Fri- day, May 12, when the united musi- cal clubs of Lafayette College appear at the Plainfield High School. Tickets may be obtained from members of the society or at the High School on the night of the affair.

The Lafayette clubs are nearing the end of one of the most success- ful seasons yet experienced. Having a total membership of forty-four, the organization is composed of the Glee Club, the Ukelele Club and the Syncopated Seven. The Ukelele Club is the newest of the three and has replaced the mandolin club. A pro- gram of varied interest has been chosen for the occasion. Dancing will follow the rendition of the pro- gram.

One of the local members of the club is Daniel McNamee, of Central avenue, who is a Lafayette sopho- more.

Annual Senior Play at P. H. S.

The French play, "Monsieur Perer- chon's Journey," will be presented by the Senior class of the Plainfield High School in the auditorium of the school tomorrow night. Contrary to the custom adopted by other graduat- ing classes of the institution, it was decided not to attempt the production of a Shakespearean play and instead "Monsieur Pererchon's Journey" was translated into English by Prof. Hub- bard for the occasion. The decision seems to have been for the better, as the rehearsals have shown that the members of the cast have caught the spirit of the play better than in for- mer years, and under the tutelage of excellent coaches chosen from among the faculty of the school the students have become thoroughly familiar with the various characters and will undoubtedly give an excellent presen- tation of the play.

The cast is composed of a smaller number of students that has been necessary in other years and has al- lowed for a closer competition. The various characters will be impersonat- ed by the following: Raymond Caryl Dunavan; Daniel, Everett Case; Jo- seph, Fred Smith; the Major, Edward Crone; Mlle. Pererchon, Miss C. Hofer; Jeanne, Mildred Osterlin; inn- keeper, Miss Fannie Mann; guide, Miss Marion Landale.

Final rehearsals are to be held dur- ing the coming week in readiness for the presentation of the annual play of the Junior Class of the North Plainfield High School on Friday night, May 4. The production "this yeelen's end" entitled "Elopement of Ellen," a comedy playlet with excel- lent entertaining qualities.

The cast that will offer the pro- duction includes: Richard Ford, a devoted husband, Douglas Stewart; Molly, his wife, Elsie Kurzhals; Rob- ert, Molly's brother, Seymour Day; Mrs. VanEyck, Robert's chum, Stan- ley Burner; Dorothy March, engaged to Max, Adele Demarest; June Have- hill, a college girl, Florence Corn- wall, and John Hume, rector of St. Agnes, Nelson Kenworthy. Miss El- sie Campbell has been directing the rehearsals, and the affair promises to be the best effort of a third year class at the borough institution in a long time.

HOLY CROSS.

A regular meeting of the Women's Guild of the church will be held in the parish house of the church on Tuesday afternoon.

Urgent Appeal For Belgians

One of the most direct appeals yet made to Plainfield people to help re- lieve the stress of hunger-ridden Bel- gium and which will, it is hoped, re- veal in a vivid manner the actual con- ditions existing in that little coun- try, will be made on Wednesday night, when a meeting is held in the Hartridge Auditorium under the aus- pices of the Plainfield branch of, the Belgian Relief Society. As the re- sult of the meeting it is the hope of those working for the society that Plainfield will be able to bear its share in the providing of supplemen- tary meals to Belgian children.

Two of the most prominent work- ers in the Belgian relief work have secured as speaker for that occa- sion, Mrs. Vernon Kellogg, wife of Prof. Kellogg, of Leland-Stanford University, and the only woman to get past the German lines since the start of the war, will describe at length her experiences. George Barr Baker, head of the Hoover Commis- sion in this country, will explain the huge system adopted in the trans- porting of tons of food to Europe.

The meeting will start at 8:15, and a cordial invitation to every person in Plainfield has been extended by the committee in direct charge, of which Mrs. Richard Boardman is chairman.

Plan Mass Meeting for Relief of Stricken Poles

A meeting for the purpose of rais- ing funds to help the Polish people in the war ridden section of Russia and Germany is to be held in the Plainfield High School on the night of Tuesday, May 8, under the aus- pices of the Polish Victims' Relief Fund. Preparations for the meeting are being made by a local committee and all the proceeds will be added to the fund now being raised.

Ignacy J. Paderewski, founder of the movement, has signified her in- tention of being present and, besides selling Dresden dolls dressed up to represent the class of people to be helped, will probably make an ad- dress. Moving pictures taken in Eu- rope and showing conditions as they exist have been secured and will be shown during the course of the meet- ing.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Nathanson, of West Fifth street, announce the en- gagement of their daughter, Miss Rose Nathanson, to Sam Berger, of Newark. No date has been set for the wedding.

Announcement has been made of the approaching wedding of Miss Ida Isabelle Louden, daughter of Mrs. John Louden, of 216 Grove street, the borough, to Joseph W. Blake, son of Mrs. Matthewson, of Spooner ave- nue. The wedding will take place in the near future.

Cast of "Hoodoo" Enjoyed Social Time

Members of the cast of "The Hoo- doo," the comedy playlet given in St. Joseph's Hall on April 11, together with all those who had assisted in making the production a success, were entertained at a banquet in St. Joseph's Hall last night. The gath- ering numbered forty in all and was invited by the Chi Gamma Chi, the young women's organization which arranged and presented "The Hoo- doo." Rev. Father T. B. Campbell acted as toastmaster in a period of speechmaking which followed the serving of the last course of an ex- cellent menu. One of the principal speakers was Rev. Father P. J. Hart, rector of St. Joseph's, who took oc- casion to congratulate the young women on the financial and artistic success of their dramatic effort.

Miss Mary O'Connor, who acted as coach for those taking part in "The Hoodoo," received an agreeable sur- prise during the speechmaking. She was called to the front and Miss An- na McGinnis, in behalf of the Chi Gamma Chi, presented her with a handsome desk-set. Miss O'Connor responded in a fitting manner. There are prospects of the playlet being re- peated and Miss O'Connor assured the club of her earnest support in this event. A, social hour, during which an informal program of music was enjoyed, brought the evening to a close.

The committee which arranged and had charge of the banquet was composed of: Miss Marion Blimm, chairlady; Miss Madeline Blimm, Miss Theresa McCullough and Miss Helen A. Brynlarski.

Plans are already being laid by the association for the battle with the prohibition cam- paign in the city and at the next meeting the choosing of council- manic candidates who will be in fa- vor or no licenses will be picked ten- tatively.

TO ATTEND SERVICE.

The members of Watchung Assem- bly, Fourth Degree Knights of Co- lumbus, will attend vesper services to be given by Westfield Council, Knights of Columbus, in Holy Trin- ity church, Westfield, next Sunday night. The sermon on this occasion is to be delivered by Rev. Father B. M. Bogan, of St. Mary's church, who is chaplain of Watchung Assem- bly. The Plainfielders will make the trip by train, leaving the North Ave- nue station at 7:20 o'clock.

Ladies Auxiliaries A. O. H. Honored National Head

Members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians' Ladies' Auxiliaries from all parts of Union county gathered in this city Tuesday night to do honor to the National Ladies' Auxiliary president, Mrs. McWater, who left her home in the West recently for an eastern tour. She was the guest of the officers of auxiliaries in this city, Elizabeth, and Rahway at a banquet given in the Queen City Hotel pre- vious to the Union gathering in Co- lumbus Hall. The diners, of whom there were forty, sat down at 7 o'clock and partook of the most ex- cellent repast served under the per- sonal direction of Proprietor Stants and his capable staff.

The audience in Columbus Hall in- cluded delegations of ladies' aux- ilies in this city, North Plainfield, Rahway and Elizabeth. Members of A. O. H. Divisions in these places were also present. Rev. Father R. M. Bogan, of St. Mary's church, made an introductory address at the con- clusion of which he presented Mrs. McWater. The latter made a decid- ed interesting talk in which she gave an excellent account of the work of ladies' auxiliaries throughout the United States. On behalf of the local auxiliary, Mrs. McWater was present- ed with a beautiful bouquet which produced an address of thanks. Mrs. A. K. Brennan, of this city, who is State president, also received a re- membrance of flowers, the presenta- tion in each instance being made by Miss B. McCue. John Casey, presi- dent of Division No. 4, was numbered among the speakers who spoke of the good work done by the Ladies' Aux- iliary.

The musical portion of the pro- gram consisted of popular Irish airs sung by Patrick Powers, accompa- nied on the piano by Miss Margaret Powers, and solos by Miss Mary Don- nelly and Miss Eleanora McCarthy. Miss Betty Mara acted as accompa- nist for Miss Donnelly and Miss Mc- Carthy, whose singing was greatly appreciated and heartily encored. The gathering was brought to a close by the rendition of "The Star Spangled Banner" with Miss Mara acting as leader.

In the intermission between the playlets, a chorus number will be sung, Miss Helen Babcock will give a Dance Caprice and eight girls will present a drill. Those in it will be: Grace El- lis, Bessie Roberts, Rosalie Dunavan, Meryl Price, Dorothy Larmour, Doro- thy Lunavan, Ruth Price, Emily Chamberlain.

"The cast of characters in the "Two Ghosts in White" will be as follows: "Miss Praxis, principal of Young Ladies' Seminary," Miss Eva Chamberlain; "Mrs. Gushover, a Klattor," Miss Harriet Roberts; "Miss Sobtop, Matron," Miss Marian Ellis; school girls, "Belle," Miss Ma- bel Peck; "Julia," Miss Sadie Price; "Annie," Miss Claire Mallery; "Nettie," Miss Marian Quip; "Brid- get, a Maid," Miss Elsa Wickstrom.

The Young People's Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church present- ed "A Domestic Crisis" in the Sun- days-school room of the church Wed- nesday night. It was in the nature of a one-act comedy and had a host of laughs from beginning to end.

State Trust Company building, Mrs. E. F. Feickert presiding.

A large audience greeted Miss Janet Richards in the auditorium of the Plainfield High School yesterday afternoon, when she made her last local talk of the season. Following out the same subject as that of her other lectures, Miss Richards discussed the live topics of the day in a manner that proved interesting to all her hearers. The gathering marked one of the last lectures of the present season to be held under the auspices of the Monday Afternoon Club.

The Y. W. C. A. collected $1,202.55 as a result of its "tag day" campaign last Saturday.

The City Union of King's Daughters will hold its annual meeting next Wednesday morning at the Day Nursery on West Front street. One minute reports from each of the fourteen circles will be read and the election of officers will take place. Activities for the coming year will be discussed.

Headquarters were opened this week in the store at the corner of East Second street and Park avenue by the Food Commission appointed by Mayor Calkins and anyone wishing to join the ranks of the army on the way "back to the farm" or help by donating the use of land or agricultural implements has only to register.

The commission has now been fully organized, with Frank J. Hubbard as chairman, and is preparing to help along any line to relieve the danger of food shortage. These efforts will include the registering and organizing of volunteers for the Junior Industrial Army, the tilling of unused land in this city and the regulation of distribution. Already considerable progress has been made and every resident is helping.

The monthly meeting of the North Plainfield Parent-Teacher Association for April was held in the Somerset School yesterday afternoon. The association has decided to help the Food Commission recently appointed by Mayor William L. Smalley in the tilling of the fifteen-acre farm loaned by Charles W. McClutchen to the High School boys. The members of the association are also to take up the problem of canning and preservation of food.

Post Office Moves Over Next Sunday

With everything in readiness for the transfer, the Plainfield post office will be removed Sunday from the old quarters in the Babcock building to the new Federal building at Watchung avenue and East Second street. Postmaster Heegland and the members of his staff have all been working in a unit to bring about the change without the least interruption of mail facilities and the operation of the splendid new headquarters will be opened to the public at 7 o'clock Monday morning. An absolute change of fixtures has already been installed at the Federal building, making it necessary only to carry over the latest incoming mail, the stock of postals records and the stock of stamps, postal cards, stationery and other requisites now on hand. Even the big safe, which has done duty for so long a time, will be left behind for its owner, the Babcock estate, as the government has put in a modern safe and storage vaults, to take its place. No public reception is contemplated for the simple reason that Uncle Sam's letter carrying is too serious a proposition to be bothered by inquisitive sightseers. With perhaps a few exceptions, Plainfielders will have to be satisfied with inspecting the interior of the big structure from the public corridors.

After 6 o'clock tomorrow night all incoming pouches will be taken to Watchung avenue, although the Front street place will be open until 9:30 tomorrow night. Persons holding lock-boxes are requested to go to the old office Sunday morning, which will be opened for their benefit alone until the usual hour or 10:30. On Monday morning lock-box holders must turn in their old keys for which they will receive twenty cents in return. They will then have to purchase new keys at the same rate of twenty cents. So far as possible the same numbers held heretofore will be given out, but out of necessity a few changes will have to be made. All the city and rural carriers will start from the new postoffice Monday morning and because of the change of location a slight readjustment of some of the routes will have to be made. A difference of an hour or more to those at the old starting point will be brought about but this chance can be easily appreciated.

Removal to the Federal building and the consequent possession of up-to-date quarters will mean the discarding of some of the old methods of distribution and the taking up of others in their place. One very noticeable change will be the absence of the carrier's window which has been a hindrance to the department in the past without giving any great service to the public. Cases have been known where a single person called at the window every evening for two weeks without receiving a letter, although the inquiry compelled the clerk in charge to sort

Princeton Professor, Who Speaks Here Tonight

Prof. Paul Van Dyke, of Princeton University, will appear in the auditorium of the Plainfield High School tonight to lecture on the "World War." The affair has been arranged under the auspices of the Mt. St. Mary Alumnae Association of Plainfield and the proceeds will be for the benefit of the Women's Auxiliary to the Home Defense League.

Dr. Van Dyke is recognized as one of the authorities of the country on the war that has embroiled practically every civilized nation and is well qualified to discuss it in all its aspects and from every angle. A number of speakers have given talks to Plainfield audiences on various phases of the war, but Dr. VanDyke's visit will afford the first opportunity to hear the conflict discussed from a general viewpoint.

APPORTION ROAD MONEY.

The motor vehicle fund for the fiscal year ending October 31 next, and which is expected to total $1,500,000, has just been apportioned among the various counties. Union county stands well down on the list with the sum of $53,300, a sum somewhat larger than last year.

Little Interest In Tax Hearing

There was little interest shown by the public over the hearing held by the Councilmanic Finance Committee Tuesday night in the City Building on the tentative budget for this year. Only a handful of taxpayers appeared to complain against the increase of approximately $24,000 over last year. Reaching the sum of $224,622.50, the budget as presented at the hearing did not include the money to be raised for the schools, and in an address during the course of the meeting Mayor Calkins laid special emphasis on the fact that when the school budget was added to the city budget it would nearly double it. A public hearing will be held in the near future, when the details of the school money to be raised will be explained.

Mayor Calkins, at the start of the meeting, explained to what use the money called for in the city budget would be used for. In a number of the departments reductions have been made, while in others an increase was imperative. The entrance of the country into the war had caused the Council, he said, to withhold asking for money with which to make a number of desired improvements.

Among those that will be held up for this year at least is included the abolishing of the Gamewell system in the police department for a more modern improvement. A number of the streets which should be repaired permanently will only be patched, and several changes in the fire department will be forestalled. The Mayor explained that the policy of keeping the budget down as much as possible had caused the Council not to appropriate $10,000 toward the armory for Company K.

In giving the reasons for the advance of $24,000 in the budget, despite the attempts to reduce it, Mayor Calkins gave an outline of the work that is necessary to be done. The biggest item is caused by the road work that has just started. While it will mean a greater outlay at the present time, the laying of permanent pavement is in the end a saving and the start is being made now with a little more to be done each year.

Several improvements in the fire department are also imperative if its effectiveness is to be continued. These include the adding of a number of men to the various crews and the motorizing of the truck at No. 1 house.

During the period that the various Councilmanic committees were answering questions to taxpayers, a few protests over certain items mentioned were made. One of these came from David T. Kenney, who asked for an explanation of the high insurance rate here, when the sum of $64,000 was spent on the fire department. He also expressed the opinion that the sum expended on the Public Library was too much, but was not aware that a law allowed the use of more if the board of trustees wanted it.

On the whole, however, the majority of those present were satisfied with the explanation given by the Mayor and Councilmen.

Plainfield's municipal machinery is ready to begin enrolling every male resident of military age whenever the order may come, whether it is today or a month from now. Such was the gist of City Clerk John J. Carroll's answer to a question asked him by a Record reporter this morning. Election officers, the National Special Aid Society and the residents in general have co-operated with Mr. Carroll in preparing and it was done in such a way that he says the census could have been taken as early as Wednesday.

Plans for taking the military enrollment were first made at a meeting called by Sheriff Otto in Elizabeth on Sunday afternoon. Mr. Carroll returned to this city and immediately laid plans for mobolizing the men to help him. At a mass meeting held in Columbus Auditorium on Tuesday night every election officer in the city volunteered to help in the enrollment. Mr. Carroll has secured the polling places in each district in the city and when President Wilson designates the day on which the enrollment is to take place they will be opened for that purpose.

Every man affected by the order will have only that one day in which to visit the polling place and if he should fail to do so it will mean a penalty of one year in jail. There is no exception to the rule and placards and notices in the local papers will serve as sufficient to acquaint everyone that they must enroll.

Mr. Carrol was much pleased by the offer of the National Special Aid Society, to furnish as many women as are needed to tabulate the names of that is necessary. The men who have volunteered will not lose time from work and Mr. Carroll is trying to have them lose as little as possible.

P. H. S. Graduate Called to Colors

Pearce V. Herndricks, of Bound Brook, a graduate of the Plainfield High School, is one of the members of the Officers' Reserve Corps ordered into active service by direction of President Wilson. Mr. Hendricks is well known in this vicinity as an athlete and holds the rank of second lieutenant in the infantry division ordered to Fort Meyer.

The order was received on Governor's Island Sunday morning, and Sunday night the 340 line officers living in the Eastern Department were directed by letter and by telegraph to report for duty. All of them are ordered to officers' training camps, of which there are to be seven in the department. About one-seventh of the personnel affected by the order was directed to report to the commanding officer of each camp.

Orders sent to each of the reserve officers stated that, "By order of the President of the United States, you are hereby ordered to active duty." Some of the best-known young men in this part of the country are included in the call.

Former Councilman Robert H. Cox, of this city, holds the rank of captain in the cavalry division but was not included in the first call.

Ignacy Paderewski To Join In Appeal

Ignacy J. Paderewski, founder of the movement to raise money for the relief of the Polish people of Europe, will appear at a mass meeting to be held in the Plainfield High School on Tuesday night, when an effort to swell the amount already collected will be made. He will personally meet all those present and will sell dolls dressed in native costume, the proceeds to go into the fund.

Moving pictures of devastated Poland will be shown and several speakers will explain the sufferings endured by the thousands of homeless.

Temporary Change For Company K

While definite orders have not as yet been received it is practically certain that Company K, the local infantry unit now doing patrol duty at points between Atlantic Highlands and Barnegat Bay, will be moved sometime next week to the Second Regiment armory at New Brunswick and that the three Elizabeth companies now stationed at the latter place will be shifted in the spot of service now occupied by the Plainfielders. At the present time the local militiamen are distributed over a large territory and it has been impossible for Captain Peterson to bring the men together at any one time for drill purposes. The move to a station in Middlesex county will place the men in one small tented group and Captain Peterson intends to avail himself of the opportunity to hold frequent drills.

It is with regret that the enlisted personnel thinks of moving from the present patrol along the coast for the men have just gotten finely settled in their various quarters. The work has been so apportioned as to give the soldiers frequent liberty periods and on the whole they are enjoying the shore life.

During the week the Company K unit was spent under canvas at Red Bank, the headquarters unit being removed to a spot near Elsner's uniform factory. The manufacturer has just completed installing wooden floors in the tents and electric light fixtures have replaced the army lanterns.

The armory of Troop B, First Squadron New Jersey Cavalry, is located at Red Bank and up to last Saturday the headquarters staff of Company K had been occupying quarters in the drill shed. The thirty horses of the troop have been placed at the disposal of the militiamen of Plainfield and those at Red Bank have been practicing up in horsemanship.

Last Saturday night the people of Red Bank conducted a preparedness parade and Captain Peterson and a detail of men took part in the demonstration on horseback.

Next Sunday Lieutenant Corporal Charles Banman and his squad which is stationed at Little Silver, will participate in a flag raising demonstration. Buglers Sharp and Osmun have been ordered to assist Corporal Baumans' squad in the program.

Several recruits have reported for duty during the past few days and all of the new men are rounding into fine fettle. Applications for the discharge of several married men who have needy dependents in Plainfield have been made by the captain and they are expected to come through before the move to New Brunswick is made.

Second Lieut. James Conkling and First Sergeant George Apgar were detailed to muster in the men at the Barnegat end for pay last Saturday afternoon and Captain Peterson and First Lieut. A. R. Phillips went over the same route on Sunday.

Many Plainfielders have visited the soldiers since they arrived at the present station and find the men in excellent spirits and in the best of health. The motor truck, which was purchased by the citizens of Plainfield, is rendering valuable service.

P. H. S. Boys Enter The Naval Reserve

Following the example of other High School students all over the country, a number of P. H. S. boys have joined some branch of the service. Lorenzo Brower, captain of the swimming team and one of the best tank men turned out at the Ninth street institution, has taken the examination for the Naval Reserve. Robert Vail, a member of the football and track squads, has also applied for entrance into the same branch.

David Fitch, a student at the High School last year and end on the football team, has already joined the Reserve and a number of others are about to do so.

BID ADDITION AT STANDARD AERO WORKS.

The Standard Aero Corporation, of this city, has awarded Alexander Milne the contract for the erection of a large addition to its factory at North avenue and Berckman streets. The new structure will be built onto the south side of the main building and will be one story in height. Of wooden construction, it will be 126 feet wide and 175 feet deep. When completed it will be used as a workshop and is to cost $14,000.

The building or the addition to the Berckman street plant will make the second to be made to the concern's factories since the output was diverted for government use. The other was constructed by Milne onto the North avenue plant at a cost of $5,000. The two additions will increase the capacity of the concern to double its original output.

Decoration Day Custom Changed

For the first time in many years, the customary G. A. R. exercises will not take place in Reform Hall the coming Decoration Day. Instead they will be held at Columbus Hall in connection with the flag-raising which Watchung Council is planning to dedicate the massive sixty-five foot steel flag pole soon to be erected in front of the hall. J. J. Varley is chairman of the committee completing arrangements.

One of the features of the exercises will be the singing of patriotic songs by hundreds of school children. Rehearsals are soon to be underway under the direction of Mrs. John Manley. Assemblyman William N. Runyon will make the principal address.

Numerous flag-raisings have been held in various parts of Plainfield in the past week or two and the coming one at Columbus Hall will be the greatest yet. Decoration Day will make the gathering unusually appropriate, as beside the local military organizations to be on hand, numerous delegations of fraternal and patriotic bodies in other cities will join in the parade as the magnificent flag secured for the occasion is raised to the top of the pole.

New Buildings At MacDonald Corner

Dr. Albert Pittis and his brother, Bertram Pittis, who recently purchased the MacDonald property at Front street and Watchung avenue, are already making preparations to begin building operations. It is probable that the house directly on the corner will be extended forward to the recognized building line of Front street and the front door of the building lowered to give it a proper sidewalk level, although this part of the plans is not yet complete. There is a considerable open space on the Watchung avenue side of the lot and several one-story brick structures for stores will be built on that portion. The property is within the fire zone and all new constructions must be either of brick, corrugated iron or other fire-proof material.

The MacDonald property has a frontage of seventy-six feet on East Front street and one hundred feet on Watchung avenue. The business building occupied by the MacDonald grocery for many years and at present the location of one of the Butler stores, was included in the deal but will undergo no changes at present. J. Fred MacDonald, who sold the corner to the Messrs. Pittis, is still occupying the residence, the same in which he was born. He intends to remove within the next week or two.

Elks In Readiness For Trip To Dover

A delegation of perhaps fifty or more members of Plainfield Lodge of Elks will attend the annual minstrel show of Dover Lodge, No. 782, in the Baker Theatre, Dover, next Monday night. The local contingent will make the trip by automobiles leaving the Watchung avenue clubhouse at about 5 o'clock. On arriving at the Morris county metropolis a short parade of the Dover and Plainfield Elks will be held through the principal streets, after which supper will be served at the Mansion House on Blackwell street. This popular hotel is conducted by Gerald Horgan, a former Plainfield who is extremely popular in Dover.

The committee handling the trip for Plainfield Lodge is composed of V. W. Nash, Jr., chairman; William C. Mulvey and Roy Woodhull. All members wishing to enjoy the evening's entertainment, which will conclude with a reception at the Elks' clubhouse in Dover, are requested to hand their names to any of the three committeemen named as soon as possible.

Biederwolf Workers Wed in Philadelphia

Friends in this city have received announcements of the marriage of Miss Mabelle Osgood Cronk to Paul Lynch Roberts, both of whom were members of the Biederwolf party during the campaign in this city last April and May. The ceremony took place in Philadelphia on Wednesday, April 25, and the couple will be at home at 128 South Fiftieth street, Philadelphia, after May 15.

Mr. Roberts acted as press representative for Dr. Biederwolf and was also the bass singer in the campaign quartet. He made friends readily and when he left Plainfield he left a large circle of acquaintances behind him. He is at present bass soloist in one of Philadelphia's leading churches, having resigned from the Biederwolf party at the close of the local visit. Mrs. Roberts was one of the pianists with Dr. Biederwolf and also made many friends during her stay in Plainfield.

Court In Favor Of Hotel Sale

Judge James J. Connolly, in the Union County Court at Elizabeth today, will sanction the offer of $29,500 made by the Netherwood Residents' Association for the disused Netherwood Hotel, this figure being the best that has been submitted to the owner. Three estates, those of John T. Lindsay, Henry Lattimer and Charles L. Hyde at present hold title to the property and as the Lindsay and Lattimer interests are still in the hands of executors, a sale could not take place without judicial action. All the parties concerned are fully satisfied that the figure mentioned is the best that can be obtained, and under the circumstances should be accepted. The Netherwood residents who subscribed the necessary money for the purchase are: S. W. Rushmore, E. P. Thomas, W. L. Lockwood, C. P. Hamilton, Henry E. Butler and Harry K. Tetsuka. They have been represented by Tax Collector William R. Townsend, who stands ready to give a check for the $29,500 as soon as title is taken.

The group of citizens mentioned have handsome homes adjacent to the once popular hotel and the purpose of their buying it in is to protect their own property. All ground in that exclusive section of the city is restricted to the erection of houses costing not less than $8,000. They purpose to raze the big structure, which has stood as a detriment through its liabilities to be an orphan asylum, hospital or home for the aged. The land thus cleared, more than a city block in size, can be divided up into desirable lots with the same $8,000 residence restriction as applies to all other plots along Belvidere avenue.

The work of tearing down the building will begin as soon as contracts can be signed with an established house wrecking company. While it is conceded that a large sum will be received from the sale of the second hand material obtained, most of this income will be spent in the employment of labor, which at this time is unusually high. A structure such as the Netherwood is difficult to raze because of its great height and the solidity of the walls. Practically all of the interior woodwork is of white pine, now commanding from $80 to $100 a thousand feet at the lumber yards, while the plumbing fixtures will produce many tons of lead pipe and copper fittings, the plumbing work was done in the days when roof tanks furnished the water supply and lead

Miss Kling Bride Of Harry Thompson

The marriage of Miss Mary Kling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Kling, of Fourth avenue, to Harry Gilbert Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron D. Thompson, of 1046 Hillside avenue, took place at 7 o'clock Saturday evening, at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. Ernest Thompson, pastor of the Ardenna Baptist church, near Freehold, and uncle of the bride, groom, performed the ceremony.

The bridesmaids were Miss Rosalie Kling and Miss Viola Krouskoff, of New Rochelle, sister and cousin of the bride. The best man was Harry Field Smith, of New York, and the ushers were George and Herman Kling, brother of the bride. The wedding march was played by Herman Krouskoff, cousin of the bride, and Miss Hazel Hodge, of Somerville. Pink and white were the prevailing colors in the decorative scheme arranged by Charles L. Stanley, the florist.

Following a wedding trip to a destination not made known, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will make their home in this city. Mr. Thompson was graduated from the Plainfield High School and is manager for the R. G. Bush Co., the local concrete concern.

One Dead, Two Missing Is War's Toll Of Local Quartet Serving In Allied Lines

In these days of great happenings unique things are getting to be almost a daily occurrence, but a rather strange coincidence was brought to mind several days ago when Thomas Weller, of Scotch Plains, received word of the death of his brother, Alfred Weller, who was a sergeant in the Canadian contingent "somewhere in France." Of the four local men who have gone to Europe since the outbreak of war to fight only one has passed through unscathed thus far and is still "doing his bit."

Shortly after the outbreak of war Frank Kenny, a resident of the West End and an English reservist, returned to fight with his regiment. Several times letters were received in this city from him but for the past six months no word has come and his friends have about given up hope.

Another who left at about the same time was Edward Forgerson, of the borough. He went north to Canada and enlisted in a regiment sent to France last spring. Several months ago his father received word that the boy was missing and the Canadian War Office has placed his name on the roll of those who died for their country.

Lyman Hibbard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Hibbard, of East Seventh street, is still driving an ambulance on the Allied front. He left this city last fall and on several occasions his picturesque letters have appeared in the columns of the Record. He alone remains as representing Plainfield in the huge struggle, although relatives and friends of both Kenny and Forgerson have not yet given up hope of their returning after peace has been restored.

Weller, the only one of the quartet that is known to be dead, passed away in an English hospital several weeks ago from wounds received in battle. He had lived in Scotch Plains and this city for several years before the war started. At one time he served eight years in the English army and in 1915 enlisted in the Canadian Ninety-seventh Battalion. He was a member of Primrose Lodge, Sons of St. George, this city, and at the last meeting resolutions of sorrow were passed.

Offer Prizes To Promote Food Raising

Taking the initiative to promote home gardening on the part of juveniles, the Netherwood Residents' Association, at a largely attended meeting in St. Stephen's parish house, last night, appropriated twenty dollars to be divided into prizes for the best garden or garden products exhibited by any boy or girl under seventeen years of age. The decision to make these awards came after a most interesting talk on "home gardening" given by H. H. Groninger, of Washington, D. C., representing the National Emergency Food Commission. The details of the competition will be announced later.

Another appropriation of twenty dollars was made by the association to establish a bird sanctuary for native wild birds. More than 2,000 acres of ground near Plainfield have been offered for this purpose. Major John S. Strauss, of Fanwood, gave a talk on "Local Rifle Clubs" and steps will be taken to organize a club of this kind. Other matters taken up at the meeting, the first held since January, were a suggestion to widen Belvidere avenue at the South avenue corner, the matter of appointing committee from the association to help effect a joint committee of the civic bodies of Plainfield and the sale of the Netherwood Hotel, which was brought about by the Netherwood organizations.

President A. C. Wilmerding announced the following chairmen for committees appointed: Home gardening, E. P. Thomas; bird sanctuary, H. M. Canoune; rifle club, H. H. Weir; representative to civic associations, A. C. Wilmerding. Refreshments, cigars and music were enjoyed at the close of the meeting.

One Way To Break Railroad Embargo

One of the simplest methods yet devised by local business men for breaking the embargo declared by western railroads on automobile shipments because of the government's orders to rush food stuffs East, emanates from R. C. McIntosh, of the M. & L. Auto Co., of West Front street. This firm has received orders for two Maxwell trucks with the proviso that they be delivered immediately. This condition was hard to meet because of the freight congestion so Mr. McIntosh hit upon a plan. In company with C. V. Lindsley, of Scotch Plains, he left yesterday for the Maxwell factory at Detroit, where the desired trucks will be picked out and driven overland to Plainfield.

Mr. McIntosh's way of "Cutting the Cordian knot" may seem going to extremes but it is not such a great proposition after all. The trip will require not more than a week and will give the Plainfielders a chance to look over the big automobile factories which centre about Detroit. The beautiful country to be traveled through on the way home will be compensation in itself for all the trouble incurred and at the same time the M. & L. Company will be enabled to demonstrate to customers that no obstacle can keep them from delivering a machine.

"PATRIOTIC" DANCE.

Plainfield Lodge of Elks has arranged to give a "Patriotic" dance at the clubhouse on Thursday night, May 24. The committee promises elaborate decorations and several big entertaining surprises.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

Plainfield women who have been engaged in patriotic war relief work for the past year received a tribute this week from the headquarters of the National Special Aid Society in the form of a telegram to the local branch of the society that did much to recompense them for the activities that have been recognized all over the country. The message of congratulation was sent in return to a telegram sent from the local society on the occasion of the first anniversary of the local branch last Saturday and was high in its praise of the things that have been accomplished. It reads as follows:

To the members of the National Special Aid Society of Plainfield and North Plainfield:

On behalf of the National Special Aid Societies permit me to compliment you on the splendid work you have accomplished during your first year. It is a record to be proud of and precisely the kind of work that might be expected of such a representative membership. It is most gratifying to all of us to know of the practical patriotism displayed by you and we feel sure that your example will serve to stimulate others to like endeavors.

(Signed) MRS. F. D. WHITING, Chairman of Chapters.

No doubt there are many that will not realize the full import of a telegram coming from such a source, but to the 1,200 odd members of the society it means a whole lot that is not openly expressed. It means that the national headquarters of the society in New York is holding up the Plainfield branch as an example for every branch in the country and when the activities of women in some of the larger cities is taken into consideration some idea ought to be gained of the high standing enjoyed by the women of Plainfield.

During the past week there has been an extraordinary growth of members. One week from today the number was slightly below the thousand mark, but today there are over 1,200. One of the largest separate bodies that has yet affiliated with the society was the daughters of Isabella. That organization decided to work with the National Special Aid Society at a meeting held this week and already seventy-five women have commenced. Several other women's clubs are about to vote on the question of whether or not they will join, and a number of women who have heretofore held aloft from any relief work have become members.

Mrs. J. B. Patton, who has charge of the women of the society knitting for the men in the army, announced that she will be at 207 Park avenue each Wednesday between 9 and 2 to distribute wool with which to make the garments. The Government requires that sweaters and other articles be made of a certain grade and kind of material and is furnishing it to the society.

The first class in gardening started this week with an enrollment of twenty members. Another class will commence instruction on June 1. Mrs. Paul Brooks and Mrs. VanBuren are in charge.

A class in elementory hygiene home care of the sick starts today.

SUFFRAGISTS ELECTED.

The annual meeting of the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield was held in the headquarters of the state association in the State Trust Company building Friday afternoon. Mrs. Harriman Simons, president of the Elizabeth league, made the principal address of the meeting and gave an account of the work done in that city toward securing the ballot. The choosing of officers resulted in the election of Mrs. Henry Crofoot as president for another year. The choice of the other officers resulted as follows: Vice presidents, Mrs. H. C. McMillan, Mrs. C. E. Ryder, Mrs. Champlin Ryder, Mrs. Clara Krans, Mrs. Isaac Schwed and Mrs. S. S. Carvalho. For recording secretary, Mrs. Howard Canoune; for corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. S. Marder, and for treasurer, Mrs. C. E. Lipscomb, were elected.

RASORES ELECTED.

At the regular meeting of the Rasores held Tuesday morning at the home of Mrs. William D. Murray, of West Ninth street, officers were elected for the ensuing year, resulting as follows: President, Mrs. Israel C. Pierson; vice president, Mrs. Henry E. Bowen; second vice president, Mrs. Leander N. Lovell; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Henry R. Halloway.

Women Convene At The Seashore

The twenty-third convention of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs opened in Atlantic City yesterday afternoon and, with sessions continuing today, will close tomorrow afternoon with the installation of officers. Led by Mrs. Harold D. Corbusier, president of the Monday Afternoon Club, delegates from that organization, the Musical Club, the College Club and the Rosalie Clubs, the four local societies belonging to the Federation, are attending the convention. Women representing 117,000 club members from all over the State have gathered for their annual spring session and both today and tomorrow will enjoy a specially arranged program.

The opening conference of the convention was held yesterday afternoon with Mrs. Charles W. Stockton presiding. The evening session was devoted to the rendering of a program arranged by the Eve Club. Dr. George Earl Raiguel also made an address on the Steel Pier.

The polls will open tomorrow morning for the balloting for officers and will remain open until 11 o'clock. While there are no local candidates for office, the interest in the outcome is keen.

KNITTING UNIT FORMED.

Under the auspices of the United States of America and Prince of Wales Relief Society a knitting unit has been formed to make sweaters and other articles for the men in the American Navy. Meetings are held in the parish house of Grace Episcopal church every Thursday and anyone is welcome as a member.

MONDAY AFTERNOON CLUB.

The members of the Monday Afternoon Club enjoyed the annual entertainment of the organization in the auditorium of the Hartridge School on Monday afternoon. The program consisted of a series of joint readings by Edith Wayne Matchison and her husband, Charles Rann Kennedy. Mr. Kennedy is well known as an actor and is the author of several successful plays and books. Included in the program was a talk on the Holy Land, a dialogue from "The Two Bishops" and other entertaining readings.

Y. M. C. A. AUXILIARY.

The annual meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. was held in the association building on Tuesday morning, at which time the reports for the year were made and officers for the coming twelve months elected. The present membership is 290 and during the year $614.01 was raised. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Samuel P. Case; first vice president, Mrs. Philip Suffern; second vice president, Mrs. James E. Kimball; third vice president, Mrs. Carman Parse; treasurer, Mrs. Charles C. Randolph; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Thomas Hyslan, and recording secretary, Miss Edith B. Little. The auxiliary is planning to hold a rummage sale in the association building next Thursday, the proceeds to be diverted to the treasury.

P.-T. RUMMAGE SALE.

The second and last day of a rummage sale conducted under the auspices of the North Plainfield Parent-Teacher Association occurs today in one of the Pittis stores on East Front street. Mrs. D. R. Douglas is chairman of the committee in charge. The sale is part of the plan to furnish financial aid to the borough Food Commission.

ANNUAL BANQUET.

The annual membership banquet of the local Y. W. C. A. will be held next Thursday night in the association rooms on East Front street. An excellent dinner and program is being arranged for the hundred girls expected.

"Very Good Eddie" Popular As A Musical Comedy, Here Tomorrow

Direct from a wonderful year's run at the Princess Theatre, New York city, the Marbury-Comstock Company announce they will send "Very Good Eddie," the smartest and brightest musical comedy success of the season, to the Plainfield Theatre tomorrow, matinee and night.

The phenomenal success of this charming musical play still remains quite as much of a mystery to the Marbury-Comstock Company, its producers, as to the many thousands of seasoned theatregoers who have enjoyed it.

"Very Good Eddie" is pre-eminently a production characterized by beauty, charm and good taste, not only of its libretto, lyrics and music, but of the personnel of its cast and method of presentment. But, as many a producer has learned to his sorrow, beauty, charm and good taste do not always spell success.

Perhaps the best explanation, however, of "Very Good Eddie's" well-deserved success is to be found in the comment made by one of New York's best-known critics the morning after its first metropolitan presentation, which comment the Marbury-Comstock Company carries in its advertising matter—"It is a musical play that is different."

The chorus of "Very Good Eddie" is one of the big features, and the gowns to be worn are the very latest thing in up-to-date dresses.

One Musical on Week's Program

Another college glee club will entertain Plainfield folk, when the united musical organizations of Lafayette College give a concert in the auditorium of the Plainfield High School next Friday night for the benefit of the local Belgian Relief Society. Consisting of forty-four members, the organization is composed of the Syncopated Seven, the Ukelele Club and Mandolin Club. Daniel MacNamee is a member of the first of the three and it was through him that the concert was arranged.

The program to be rendered will consist of a variety of numbers of both popular and classical composition. Following the completion of the program dancing will be enjoyed.

CHANGES AT FIRST M. E.

An important change in the singing at the First M. E. church goes into effect Sunday, when the present choir retires and is succeeded by a solo-precentor, who will be Miss Alice C. Berning. Miss Berning was formerly contralto soloist at the Fort Washington Baptist church and will sing hereafter at each service. Clifford Braider, organist and musical director, will continue in his present position.

COMMUNITY CHORUS CONCERT.

Fifty members of the Community Chorus have been rehearsing for several weeks under the direction of Clifford Braider and sometime during the latter part of the present month will give a concert in the Evergreen Avenue School.

Off Week for Amateur Actors

The coming week will be one of the quietest for amateur thespians in this city that has occurred at any time during the last winter. But one play, the annual production of the Junior class of North Plainfield High School, has been announced, although several others are planned for the near future.

"The Elopement of Ellen," a comedy playlet, will be produced by the members of the third year class of the borough institution tonight in the Park Club auditorium. The cast is composed or seven of the class, all of whom fill their parts in an excellent manner. Dancing will follow the presentation.

LOCAL PRIVATE THEATRE.

When a cast of local people presented the comedy playlet, "The Rightful Heirs," in the private theatre of Mrs. Maxwell Perkins last Friday night, the public got its first glimpse at what is really a minor edition of New York's famous "Band-box" theatre. Following out plans formulated by Mrs. Perkins, carpenters recently completed the little theatre on the second floor of the garage. It has accommodations for nearly 200 people and is equipped with every device for the successful staging of amateur productions. Mrs. Perkins is an ardent devotee of the stage and is planning to present other plays from time to time.

"Oklahoma Jack" Todd Talks About Land Selling and War

Fresh from numerous conquests as a salesman of government land of Oklahoma, "Jack" Todd, one of Plainfield's best known young men and prominent as a local Elk, blew into town the forepart of the week for a few days' vacation. It is the first lay-off he has had since going away with the missionary car last February and he was chuck full of interesting chatter about his travel. Despite the fact that he was born at Westfield and never knew anything about farm land except that of Piscataway township, Jack has been very successful disposing of the virgin soil of Oklahoma. He intends to remain with the touring outfit which sends settlers to the Western States, rejoining his companions at Atlantic City, Wednesday night. Between now and the coming fall the car will tour to the Pacific coast, stopping at many of the principal cities between New York and San Francisco.

The Oklahoma land car was in Plainfield for a week the last of January. When it pulled out for Perth Amboy on February 1, Jack Todd went with it and he has since so fully demonstrated his ability to sell Oklahoma farms of 1,000 acres or more that he has been made assistant manager of the company of eight salesmen. After leaving Perth Amboy, the car visited Newburg, Poughkeepsie and Ogdensburg, New York, also Rutland, Vermont, before making a three weeks' stop at Montreal, Canada. After this last stand another stop of three weeks was made at Toronto, from which place a big jump was taken to Atlantic City. Business was good excepting in the two Canadian towns, where the people feel that the wheatlands in the western part of their own country offer even better opportunities for settlers than Oklahoma.

In telling of his experiences to a group of friends at the Elks' Club, Jack spoke of the sad sights to be witnessed in Canada because of the dominion's participation in the European War. Wounded men are in evidence at every turn but the enthusiasm of the people has not diminished and enlisting still goes on. The Plainfielder was in Montreal when a train-load of two hundred soldiers who had been returned because of their injuries following the battles in Northern France, were brought direct from a transport landing at Halifax. It was a harrowing sights to witness, but the sufferers themselves were even more enthusiastic than the populace. Those who were able to attend were given a dinner at one of the leading hotels to which Mr. Todd and his colleagues on the car were invited. One young lieutenant, the sole survivor of his regiment, after a charge on a German trench, declared that his sight and hearing had been affected by poisonous gases but that he would return to the firing-line as soon as he had fully recovered. Another young man who was one of four out of an entire battalion to escape a Prussian artillery bombardment, asserted that he had undergone more experiences than he believed humans could endure, yet after once experiencing the thrill of taking part in a charge, he was ready to go back to the trenches, a spirit that pervaded every fibre of his comrades' frames.

The feeling of the Canadians towards Americans, Mr. Todd said, was not the least bit cordial previous to President Wilson's declaration of war but after Congress had ratified his determination to join the Allies, the change of sentiment was remarkable. Instead of having the remark "too proud fight" being made to them in an insulting way, the carcrew was cheered lustily wherever its nationality became known. The Stars and Stripes are now displayed everywhere alongside the British colors, and the Canadians entertain the belief, the Plainfielder said, that the entrance of the United States to hostilities will mean but a short period more of fighting.

The aggregation gathered together at the Standard Aeroplane plant, promises to be a strong contender for first honors, even though the first game was lost to St. Joseph's. Hope Chapel defeated the First Baptist outfit in a well played game and tomorrow's contests should decide the tie existing between Hope Chapel and St. Joseph's.

THE INCONSISTENCY OF THE TAXPAYER.

The finance committee of the Common Council gave a public hearing in the municipal chambers, Tuesday night, for the purpose of discussing the tentative tax budget for the coming year. Due notice of the fact was given previously with every effort to secure a large attendance of those who have to supply money for the city's bills. Barely more than a dozen persons responded. The gathering was a keen disappointment to the committee in particular, and the Mayor and Common Council in general. In his opening address President Francis J. Blatz expressed his regret at not seeing more public-spirited citizens in the lobby when the proceedings began, adding that more than ever before was the committee desirous of securing the co-operation of property owners in allotting the various sums needed for municipal departments within the coming fiscal year.

"If any objections are to be made," continued the executive, "the present meeting is designated for that purpose, but it seems as though the taxpayers prefer to wait until their bills are sent out and then register protests which cannot be considered. After the budget is once made up and the tax rate fixed there is no turning back."

The words of President Blatz hit the proverbial nail squarely upon the head. Opportunity after opportunity has been given the local public to say whether or not the finance committee's temporary appropriations are too high or too low and yet the same faithful few are the only ones who respond. Nobody seems to know about the public hearing and nobody seems to care much about personal attendance. In October, however, when each individual receives his or her annual statement of taxation with the appropriation set forth, the vigorous protests arising aggregate a denunciation that is anything but comforting to the city fathers. The assessors, the tax collector, the heads of various departments and other officials come in for their share of the acrimonious comment, ill deserved as it is. There is no rectifying apportionments in October and what has been fixed upon for improvements must be spent. State and country levies have already been assumed and all that is left for the irate taxpayer to do is to pay his bill with the best grace possible.

What happened Tuesday night was only a repetition of what happened other Tuesday nights. Year after year it has been the same old story. The busy councilmen would give up the entire evening to talk over the coming budget in a careful and considerate manner, yet when the gavel sounded for the opening of the session Mr. Property Owner was conspicuous by his absence. Later on he would be equally conspicuous in person telling sympathetic listeners what he thought of the solons who spent too much of the people's money for the police, fire or street departments. This inconsistency of the taxpayer has been a thorn in the side of every Common Council since public hearings were designated. It frequently makes men holding an executive position wish they were out. When will the taxpayers wake up?

DO YOUR LITTLE BIT FOR "MOTHERS' DAY."

"Mothers' Day," one of the most recent of all national celebrations authorized by Congress, will take place one week from the coming Sunday, on May 13. It will be of more significance than ever before this year, and every Plainfielder is asked to do his or her little bit in making it a success. It was intended to promote the honor and well-being of the home and only by sincere observance of the purpose is the day to become what was intended for it. Through some distinct act of kindness, visit, letter, gift or tribute, show remembrance of the Mother and Father, to whom grateful affection is due. "Mothers' Day" is equally a "Fathers' Day," and is designed to deepen and perpetuate all family ties. The day is so-called because in most countries no national celebration is in special honor of the home and noble motherhood.

In honor of "The Best Mother Who Ever Lived," the mother of your heart, the badge is white carnation. The time of observance is the second Sunday in May by churches of all creeds, and beliefs. Schools celebrate on Friday, and business and other organizations on Saturday preceding second Sunday in May.

Mothers' Day International Association was organized to promote and protect the celebration "Mothers' Day" and its work in the United States and foreign countries. Any son or daughter of any country is eligible to membership in the "Mother Day" Association. Its president is Miss Anna Jarvis, the founder of the movement.

PAVING THE WAY, FOR CIVIC BETTERMENT.

It is currently rumored that the Common Council at one of its early sessions, possibly that of next Monday night, will take up the question of certain street "widenings." The proposed action does not mean that the thoroughfares in contemplation will be improved as Madison avenue is to be but to create a permanent building line. Although the fact is known but to few citizens, this imaginary line has no legal status on any Plainfield street and it has been a matter of serious objection at frequent intervals. Once a man decides to extend a building out to what is known as the "side-line," nobody can stop him no matter how much his action lowers the value of surrounding property. Such extensions have been quite common in recent years and it is to correct this evil that public spirited citizens have brought the matter to the Council's attention.

One instance of what the establishment of the building line would have done for a corner is to be seen at Front and Somerset streets. By simply ordering in the customary legislative manner that Somerset street be widened, from its present dimensions to those required, the United Drug Store building could not have come out nearly as far to the side-line as it was built. By keeping it back when the opportunity was ripe through the tearing down of the old frame structure which preceded it, only one other small building stood in the way of giving pedestrians a fine, broad sidewalk such as Front street has between Madison avenue and Grove street on the north side. The one obstructing building left is only a very small affair that could be altered with little expense. Nevertheless, the chance was allowed to slip by and the day will come when Plainfielders will hold deep regret that their previous officials did not take time by the forelock. An extension of the side line without doing any actual work would have done the trick. Other points where future widening has been held back is Park avenue and Front street, where the former Corey building leaves but a narrow margin for pedestrians of the Park avenue side, and on both sides of Park avenue at Second street. On the east side of the thoroughfare the Queen City building has been shoved out to Second street and on the west side of the street the Codington and other buildings stand well ahead of the Plainfield Theatre. These irregular line conditions are anything but desirable and if the present Council can do anything to benefit the conditions in the future they will be conferring a lasting favor upon the city at large.

A FOOD DICTATORSHIP. WELCOME TO PLAINFIELD.

Out of the myriad of suggestions that has arisen for the conservation of America's food supply the best that has come to the service in the past week is the agitation of certain officials for the appointment of a "food dictator." The name of Secretary Houston, of the Department of Agriculture, has been suggestive for the place and from present indications the proposition will be carried out with this very able gentleman at the head.

Every man, woman and child in Plainfield will welcome such a dictatorship in common with every other inhabitant of the United States. The people of this city have felt the pinch of high prices that are daily becoming higher. War on Germany was declared less than a month ago and we are now paying even more exorbitant sums for ordinary commodities than are the people of England and France, who have been in the thick of martial strife for nearly three years. One of the most glaring examples of what Plainfielders are contending with is the bread question. Flour in barrel lots has soared so high in mill quotations that bakers in self-defense have had to make new prices for their output as well as reduce the scale of weight. The old six-cent loaf, which was a big help to a small family in keeping down waste, has been given up entirely. From now on only ten cent and fifteen cent loaves are to be purchased. This is only one item in the dozens that sorely perplex the woman who has a working man's wage to spend. England and France tell us we should profit by their mistakes and if this is so no time should be lost in bringing the food dictatorship about. The countries mentoned woke up to the fact that food conservation was necessary months after the war began and are sorry now that it was not done with the beginning of hostilities.

With powers of handling situations coming under its jurisdiction in the same manner as the War and Navy department control matters under theirs, the Agriculture Department would be able immediately to cope with such developments as the sudden boosting of bread prices, officials say.

"Placing the department on a war footing would be the solution of the whole question of high prices on foodstuffs," Assistant Secretary Vrooman, of the department, said yesterday. "It would assure the planting of vastly more acreage, for one thing. Armies can be raised at any season of the year, but wheat has its planting season, and that a very short one. We have to wait a whole year before another comes around. Meanwhile our people may be starving."

The unusually big bread rise in New York, which surpasses that of the Plainfield bakeries, will not be followed in other parts of the country, officials believe.

It is to be hoped the local police will catch the miscreant who on Wednesday night of this week turned in a false alarm of fire from box 45 at Spooner avenue and South Second street. Once this dangerous law-breaker is in the toils and given the punishment his act deserves this sort of maliciousness will come to a stop.

Draft Bill Recalls Stirring Days Of '63 In Plainfield

The passing of a selective draft bill this week by Congress and the probability that the work of gathering men to the colors will begin not later than May 15 has caused older residents of the city to recall the later day of the Civil War, when drafting was resorted to in order to fill the empty ranks of the Union army.

Because Plainfield had practically at all times her full quota of men in the field, much of the excitement prevalent in other parts of the country was missing here, but there are many residents who recall the stirring scenes enacted about the drafting office on Morris avenue, just above the station of the Jersey Central Railroad's station at Elizabeth—the escapes of maddened men as they were dragged, protesting, to the office, to be examined and sent to the exhausted Federal armies in '63; the women and children crying as their fathers, husbands and sons were forcibly taken from their arms; the bold rushes of the arresting provost marshals or his duty, which took them into angry crowds of the friends of the man to be drafted; the line of men leaving daily for the front under force of the conscription act that was necessary to preserve the Union.

John M. Morris, of 380 Morris avenue, was a towering figure in those small riots that accompanied the drafting, as the deputy provost marshal of the Elizabeth district, which included Plainfield and vicinity, as well as Middlesex, Monmouth, Hunterdon and Somerset counties, his duty was to round up the delinquents by persuasion or force, and bring them to the drafting office. That many resisted Mr. Morris, even inflicting severe wounds in their desperate attempts at escape, gives an idea of the task he had. Many a man he chased all over the State, the hunt often leading through this section. One favorite hiding spot was in the canal boats along the Raritan River and many a fight took place along its banks.

Mr. Morris, when he is in a talkative mood, can relate many stirring experiences he had while roaming over five counties following out the orders of the drafting officers. In recalling this was the members of the board in '63, Mr. Morris brought to mind a rather peculiar coincidence. Dr. Frank W. Wescott, of Fanwood, at that time a young man but recently started on his career as a physician, was one of the members of the board and Mr. Morris, a lapse of over fifty years, will sit at one of the drafting board during the present crisis. Though prevented from entering the army through physical disability, Dr. Wescott was intensely patriotic and was an important figure in the county. Still active despite his years, he is now ready to take his place again on the drafting board as county physician. He seldom likes to talk of those days when men were torn from their homes so that the Union armies might still keep up the conflict, but at times he has described the numerous thrilling positions he was frequently in while carrying out his duty.

Although there were few occasions in this city where force was necessary to draft or even where drafting was necessary at all, several instances have been recalled that as they are looked back upon have a humorous aspect. One such case was related by former Fire Chief Doane to a Record reporter in his office in the City Building yesterday.

At the outbreak of the war the Chief was not yet sixteen and when he applied for enlistment two days after the first gun of the war had been fired on Fort Sumter he was rejected. Later, however, he says the army was glad enough to get him and he enrolled in Company B, Eleventh New Jersey Volunteers. After he had been in the army for nearly two years, he received one morning while his regiment was camped before Gettysburg, a summons to appear before the drafting board at Elizabeth. He went to the captain and explained to him, but was not allowed to respond to the call and as a result the provost marshal spent days looking for him.

Such was the case on more than one occasion, because nearly every Plainfield man of military age had joined the army before drafting was resorted to.

Another story is told about John Goodwin, of North Plainfield. Mr. Goodwin was but fifteen years of age when the Civil War started. As soon as drafting came into vogue it became the custom among men who were financially able to send substitutes and Mr. Goodwin was one of those who replaced an older man. Only a youth and a raw recruit, he was assigned to the Eleventh Regiment and soon became a hardened veteran, going through several engagements unscathed until fighting around Gettysburg started.

One night he was sent out on advanced picket duty and for shelter located in a hole in the ground directly in front of the Confederate trenches. According to Chief Doane, as the wee small hours of morning rolled around Mr. Goodwin became extremely sleepy and after trying to stay awake for sometime, at last fell into a restful slumber.

The enemy had been ordered by their commander to return to the Federal lines just before dawn, but daylight found Goodwin sleeping peacefully in a shell crater. Waking to find his predicament a troublesome one, he at last decided to turn his back on the enemy and crawl back to his comrades. Everything went well and he was just beginning to smell the cooking breakfast in his nostrils when a keen-eyed "Johnny Reb" discovered him and by a well aimed shot left his trademark on the local man.

Chief Doane, and in fact all the other local veterans, remember many instances that happened during the Rebellion, but all seem to be of the opinion that the larger part of it will be absent during the present war, because most men realize the seriousness of the occasion.

Post Office Moves

over more than two hundred pieces of mail matter before saying "nothing here." The opening of the carrier's window at 5:30 also gave an excuse for juveniles to use the office as a trysting place and complaints of the incumbrance have been recorded regularly. The call boxes will be discontinued also.

At the new office, the stamp sale and general delivery departments will have windows by themselves. They have been located in the most convenient position, while the registry window will be by itself to the right of the corridor. The parcels post, insurance and C. O. D. divisions will be grouped under a separate window, something they have not had before. The money-order and postal savings department will also be at the extreme right of the corridor. The interior fittings and furniture equipment of the building are of oak, those in the private office of Postmaster Hoagland being unusually ornate. One of the greatly desired improvements in the dispatching of outgoing pouches is a new service East and West at night. In the future letter collected in the evening from 5:30 on will be forwarded immediately. Those for the West and South will leave on the 1:20 train and those for New York and the East will be placed on the 2 o'clock train. This means that mail for New York city will be taken out by the carriers on their first trip in the morning. The afternoon delivery of parcels post matter for the business district of Plainfield is another innovation. As soon as possible Postmaster Hoagland will have the new hours of collection from mail boxes during the day by carrier placed on the designating card and within the near future will make public certain improvements which the Federal authorities have sanctioned.

Andrew Winrow, who has carried the mail bags from the ..orth avenue station to the quarters in the Babcock building, will automatically lose his position when the removal to Watchung avenue is made. His work was done under contract and by the new order of things the New Jersey Central must transport the pouches at its own expense to and from the depot. Winrow's successor has not yet been named.

Journeymen Barbers And Bosses At Odds

Protesting against the increasing cost of living and meagre wages received for their work put in, the journeymen barbers all over the city have demanded better pay and working conditions from the bosses. The general opinion prevails that if the demands are granted it will mean the forcing up of the prices of hair cuts and shaves. A committee appointed by the journeymen barbers will hold a conference with the bosses on Sunday and at that time some decision between the two factions will be reached.

Among the demands made by the barbers are: A minimum wage of $16 a week, closing of shops at 11:30 on Saturday nights, and on 8 o'clock all other nights, and opening at 7:30 each morning. The journeymen are determined to secure better conditions and will undoubtedly strike if conditions are not bettered. The bosses are willing to make the change but declare that it will necessitate a raise in the present prices charged to patrons.

Borough Mass Meeting to Discuss Food Control

A mass meeting will be held tonight in Debele's Hall under the direction of the North Plainfield Food Commission. Its prime purpose will be to acquaint the residents of the borough with the real seriousness of the food question facing the country.

Rev. Dr. Charles Eaton, of Watchung, borough officials and other prominent men will discuss the situation, and a record of all waste land that can be utilized and the names of those who will cultivate it will be recorded.

ELKS' MINSTRELS JUNE 4.

Manager Michael Shannon has donated the use of the Plainfield Theatre for the minstrel show to be given by Plainfield Lodge of Elks for the benefit of dependents of soldiers. The performance will take place on Monday, June 4, and rehearsals will commence tonight under the direction of William N. Runyon.

"Keyhole" Jokes Deal Death Blow to Six-Cent Bread Loaf

Rapid rises in the price of flour and the staple commodities used by bakers were responsible this week for the absolute disappearance of the familiar six-cent loaf of bread which took the place of the five-cent loaf a year ago. Hereafter the delivery wagons will have only the new size variety of ten and fifteen-cent loaves to take the places of those which previously held popularity. The change went into effect Tuesday and was general throughout the city and borough.

A succession of jokes about the six-cent loaf, which was facetiously referred to as the "keyhole" size, the inference being that it could be pushed through the small opening beneath the doornob, was a big factor in bringing the bakers to the decision of discarding it. The real reason, however, was the impossibility to maintain any saleable loaf for a nickle and a penny that would command respect. When the prices of everything used in the production of bread took such a sudden lean upward as they did last month, more money had to be obtained for the output of the bakeries and the ten and fifteen-cent loaves were hit upon as the best solution of the problem.

Breakfast rolls were also advanced from twelve cents to fifteen and eighteen cents per dozen, while all forms of pastry and confectionery have advanced about one-third over the old price. One local baker who does a large wholesale business has given up the making of pies and cakes entirely as even with the new scale of prices the percentage of profit was not worth the outlay.

The baking trade is always one of the first to feel the effects of advanced rates on foodstuffs purchased at wholesale. Ordinary bread flour is now quoted at more than double the figures of a year ago. Butter, lard-compounds, eggs, extracts, sugar and even salt have climbed so high in cost that the harrassed baker hardly knows from one day to the next what to do. Their product goes direct to the homes of the poor as well as the rich and any raise in price means criticism, yet the baker himself is generally worse off than before. The present high cost of everything is, of course, unprecedented and the makers of bread, rools and pastry will be only too glad to see commodity values reach a normal stage. In order that all prices and standards can be returned

Declaring of War May Save Life of Fanwood Man

While people generally agree that war is a terrible thing, even when it is necessary to uphold the honor of a nation, the declaring of war by the United States against Germany and the subsequent raising of the British "blacklist" will probably mean the complete recovery to health of Leon P. Manetty, of Fanwood. Shortly after Mr. Manetty was placed on the "blacklist" last fall on a charge of trading with Germany he was taken sick and ever since has been desperately ill and under the constant watch of physicians and nurses.

Manetty's trouble grew out of a consignment of coffee he undertook to ship to Germany from South America for Philip Neider, another Fanwood resident. When officers boarded the ship the bags of coffee were found to contain contraband and as a result Manetty was placed on the "blacklist" and practically put out of business. He started suit against Neider for $50,000 and the worry of the affair resulted in his present sickness.

When told several days ago that England had decided to lift the "blacklist" now America has entered the war it cheered him greatly and may prove to be the means of his recovery.

Jersey City Journal Has An Anniversary

The Jersey City Journal, listed among New Jersey's leading publications, completed its fiftieth year last Saturday, and in celebration of the anniversary the management gave a dinner at one of Jersey City's leading clubs. The guests included the present employes and members of the executive staff and editorial department of previous days. Walter M. Dear, who is business manager of the Journal, was toastmaster, and addresses were made by Henry A. Wise Wood, of New York; Joseph A. Dear, managing editor; Commissioner Hugh H. Mara, of Bayonne; George McAneny, of the New York Times; Postmaster Matthias Ely, and former State Senator William Johnson, of Hackensack. Secretary of State Thomas Martin and owner of the Hudson Dispatch, and Chief Magistrate McAdoo, of New York, were unable to be present, but sent a message.

Herbert Martin, a former well known Plainfielder, was for many years a member of the Journal reportorial staff, and G. Archibald Brakeley, formerly of Dunellen, was on the editorial staff of the paper before joining the staff of the New York Sun, where he is now located. Both Mr. Martin and Mr. Brakeley began their newspaper careers in Plainfield, the former as a reporter for the Courier-News and the latter as Dunellen correspondent for the Daily Press.

A. G. Belknap Opens A New Ford Agency

A. G. Belknap, formerly manager of the wholesale department of the Ford automobile agency at Newark, has opened a local Ford agency in a part of the Laing garage at 417 Sycamore street. All models of Ford cars will be handled at this new station and Mr. Belknap has secured men direct from the Ford shops at Detroit to take charge of all repair work. The advantage of such experience as these mechanics possess can be appreciated by the Plainfield owners of Ford machines who want their work done in a satisfactory manner. The men will be used exclusively for work on these cars.

Mr. Belknap is an automobile man of wide experience and believes that the local public will take advantage of the opportunity offered by his concern. An invitation is extended to all interested to inspect the newest Ford models just in from the factory. The business is to be conducted under the firm name of A. G. Belknap, Inc., and plans are now under way for the erection of an exclusive building when the firm hopes to occupy by the coming August.

Muhlenberg Graduates Home from Convention

The annual convention of the American Nurses Association closed at the Bellevue-Stratford in Philadelphia yesterday after one of the most successful sessions the organization has ever held. The Plainfield graduate nurses who were among the four thousand members attending were the Misses Ruth Kenney, Clara Charlton, Kathryn Knox, Ethel E. Humphrey and Elizabeth Wilson. Miss Humphrey acted as delegate for the local Nursing Bureau and Miss Wilson represented the Muhlenberg Hospital Alumnae Association. Miss Sophia Scherpelz, who was graduated from Muhlenberg Hospital in 1910 and is now assistant superintendent of the General Hospital at Jacksonville, Ill., represented that institution and Miss Josephine Hughes, formerly superintendent of Muhlenberg Hospital served as delegate from the New York Post Graduate Hospital.

The convention lasted a full week during which numerous lectures and addresses were given by prominent physicians. The social features included a visit to Valley Forge, the four thousand attendants being the guests of the W. B. Saunders Co., of Philadelphia.

Boy Scouts Are to Cultivate Big Farm

Following the donation of a thirty acre farm at Holly Park for the use of the Boy Scouts of Union county to cultivate this summer, plans are being made for accommodating several hundred youngsters in a large camp that will start within the next two weeks. Practically all Plainfield's Boy Scouts will enter the camp and Elizabeth is making preparations to send many more. Applications for enrollment are now being taken by P. Robert Schmalz, Boy Scout Commissioner in that city.

The majority of the land to be put under cultivation has already been plowed and details of the camp are now being worked out. Any healthy boy over fourteen is eligible for enrollment and will receive a $1 week for spending money during his time at camp. At the end of the season the profits will be divided among the boys. John Duffy, local Scout Commissioner, is arranging the details for the local youngsters. Competent instructors will have charge of the camp and daily routine will be followed out.

High Class Vaudeville at Local Play House

Manager Shannon has another of his famous variety vaudeville bills booked as the attraction at the Plainfield Theatre for the last part of the present week and it should prove satisfactory to practically everyone. The program starts off with "The Great Tyler" in a juggling acrobatic act of the highest order. He is well known on all the big time circuits as one of the best in his line.

One dramatic playlet, "The Concession," is presented by Dena Cooper & Co., and Yates & Wheeler are the principals in a short vehicle, being billed as "the nut and the maid." Rose Bottl, the Broadway prima donna, assisted by George De Long, offers a number of her latest song successes, and the last number on the bill is "The Three Charlottes," in a singing and dancing act. The usual moving pictures of the last releases will be shown.

DONATED MEDALS.

Arthur Hazeltine has increased interest in target practice among the members of the city police force by donating four medals to be shot for. The one showing the greatest improvement in marksmanship will receive first award and the others in order.

CAPSTICK NAMED.

Congressman Capstick, representative from the Fifth Congressional District, has been named as a member of the committee on banking and currency.

Court Favors Sale

piping was the popular material. The introduction of city water brought iron pipe into vogue, but there is very little of this in the old hotel. The purchasers are not counting upon any return from the sale of materials, although a 10% return on an investment of this kind is quite common. It is quite probable that when the old building is a thing of the past the purchase price for the bare ground will cover the outlay made.

With the exception of the Lattimer relatives, most of the heirs to the estates figuring in the deal, lived in this city. Mrs. John Ludlum, widow of the deceased legator, has a home on East Seventh Street while the members of the Hyde family live in or about Plainfield. The descendants of Henry Lattimer are mostly in Tennessee. The Lattimer estate amounted to about one million dollars and was handled by three executives, J. Fred McDonald, William Shotwell and the late Nelson Runyon, whose death occurred June 29, 1915. A large number of investments were made by the executors and the hotel property is the only one that did not give a full return or profit.

Standing on one of the highest elevations between New York and the Sourland Mountain at Whitehouse, the Netherwood Hotel has remained a stately structure since its erection in 1877. The broad veranda commands a magnificent view of Plainfield and the adjacent low land that disappears in gradual and graceful undulations as far as the Raritan in one direction and the fertile fields of Piscataway township in another. The origin of the immense edifice dates back to more than forty years ago when a group of wealthy Plainfielders, firm in the belief that Netherwood heights had great possibilities as a Metropolitan suburb, formed a company which made the hotel a reality. This concern was originally known as the Belvidere Land Improvement Company and purchased from the New Jersey Central Railroad all the ground extending from the present Netherwood station as far south as Prospect avenue lying between what is now known as Leland avenue and Woodland avenue. The leading figures in this corporation were John F. Plummer and W. S. Darling, trading in New York as wholesale clothiers; C. A. Pamorey, F. J. Schutter, and James Anthoney. After building a number of fine homes which still stand on Belvidere avenue, one of them being best known as the Reinhart house put up by Mr. Plummer for his own occupancy, a subsidiary company was organized to be known as the Netherwood Hotel Association. It was quite the fashion for New York's elite at that time to spend the summer at some nearby hotel, far enough removed from the seashore to escape the two-week vacationers and "Shoe-boxers," as the one day excursionists were called. The Netherwood promontory was ideal in every respect and the projectors had dreams of establishing one of the most famous summer hostelries in this vicinity.

It was not until 1877 that everything was in readiness for putting up the great building that is now to be razed for the value of the material it contains. The architect was Charles Stevens, father of F. Richard Stevens, of Crescent avenue, and the contract for the work was let to Johnson, Sheppard & Godown, an old Plainfield concern that put up many of the finest residences of the day. Labor was cheap at that time, because of a financial panic that had depressed the country for several months previous and the company considered that it had secured a mighty reasonable figure for the erection. Most of the time while the job was under way masons were paid only $1.50 per day, practically the same scale standing for carpenters and other mechanics. All the brick, numbering many hundreds of thousands, was baked at the late Aaron L. Jimerson's yard on Leland avenue, and the interior finishings were made at the planing mill of Kaufman & Company on upper North avenue, the Jersey Central freight station now occupying the site. At the completion of the hotel ready for the reception of guests, it represented a total outlay for land, building and furnishings of exactly $326,000, a sum that would be staggering even in these days of high finance and ready investment. A large number of people were shareholders in the association, as the members of the Belvidere Land Improvement Company floated great quantities of stock that was quickly bought up by confident Plainfielders. The City National Bank handled most of the financial obligation, furnishing the ready cash and paying the few dividends that were declared.

The grand opening of the mammoth hotel was an occasion never to be forgotten by expectant Plainfield. Hundreds of the leaders of New York, Boston and Philadelphia society came out for the affair. Naturally enough, many of them made the trip in pleblan New Jersey Central trains, but a very noticeable portion drove out from the two nearest cities in stylish four-in-hands, stick and span barouches with livered drivers and footman. Natty runabouts drawn by matchless trotters and many other handsome equipages taxed the big stables built to care for the turnouts. A brass band played on the lawn fronting the structure and a stringed orchestra imported from New York for the occasion played indoors for dancing. The beauty and chivalry of Manhattan was extant during the day, men and women of international prominence shedding their lustre upon the lesser lights, of whom there were more than 2,000. It is an undeniable fact that Plainfield never before or since has witnessed such a gathering as marked the beginning of this structure's career as a gathering place for the wealth of the day. In after years there were numerous other levees that collected distinguished folk but nothing like that which marked the memorable day in 1877 and which attendants assert rivaled the famous Peacock alley of the Waldorf-Astoria, as frequently referred to by newspapers of the present time.

The first manager of the Hostelry was James Breslin, the widely known hotel man who established the Hotel Breslin in New York, and after whom the exclusive "Breslin" of Lake Hopatcong fame is named. The two years that he presided over its destinies were the only two prosperous seasons the building had. Mr. Breslin had charge of the big opening and conducted such an extensive advertising campaign that the Netherwood Hotel was given columns of space in scores of newspapers adjacent to Manhattan. At the end of the second season Mr. Breslin and the controlling association were unable to agree on terms for a new contract. He had originally signed up on a "fifty-fifty" vision of profits. By some it is said that the projectors believed they were not getting enough return for their investment and attempted to get the manager to take a straight salary of $10,000 a year instead of sharing in the net proceeds. In the end Mr. Breslin left Plainfield in a heated frame of mind, declaring that the Netherwood Association would regret not coming to his terms. Time has proved that he was absolutely correct.

The second manager of the Netherwood was Frank Miller, who is now one of the leading hotel men of St. Louis. Mr. Miller ran the big place with mediocre success for several seasons and although he was confident that business would eventually become better he left to take up a more promising proposition. He succeeded by George B. DeRevere, who retired in a very short time, when Mr. Miller came back. The second time the latter took hold of things he entered the doors as owner of the hotel, having purchased the structure on a contract proposition, paying a certain amount down as binder and letting the remainder go on mortgage to the original owners. This was the first time the hotel was sold. Mr. Miller did not do as well as he expected and eventually the property went back to the association. As soon as the venturesome young proprietor-manager had straightened out all his legal obligations he took his departure to the West, where he has since remained and where he has been very successful. From the time he left Plainfield until the late Mrs. J. R. Truell took the place about twelve years ago, the hotel has had a dozen or more managers and a gradually diminishing popularity. Local people can easily recall the time in the late 80's, when C. W. Woodruff, father of Henry Woodruff, the prominent young actor of "Brown of Harvard" fame, was the director of affairs and later on, about 1900, when Major Coleman took charge. The latter's regime was one of the last brilliant ones the hotel had. Major Coleman assumed the management for Dr. Robert Hunter, owner of a successful sanitarium in New York, who purchased the Netherwood with the idea of making it a branch of his city institution. The proposition fell through when Dr. Hunter conceived the idea of opening up the hotel again to get some return on his money. Major Coleman did yeoman service in giving the famous old place some of its early popularity, but he eventually gave up the task of making it pay, hieing himself off to devote his entire time to the Coleman House at Asbury Park. Many of New York's wealthiest residents of twenty years ago were guests at the hotel and old-timers had visions of the lobby with all its gayety of 1872-1878, those palmy seasons when Jay Gould, Sirus W. Field, "Jim" Fisk and other celebrities were always to be seen surrounded by the coterie of rising Wall street financiers. All Plainfield was glad when Major Coleman came to town and all Plainfield was sad when he went away, for there were real good times for the pleasure-seekers and business for the merchants while he stayed.

The last purchaser under contract was Mrs. Truell, who had been very successful as proprietress of Truell Court and Truell Inn. She had great faith in the possibilities of the hotel and decided to make it an all-year resort instead of keeping it open only for the summer months. She installed heat in all the rooms, a necessity they had never had before, and made other improvements that cost her many thousands of dollars. She assumed personal charge for a period of three years, at the conclusion of which she realized she had undertaken too great a task and allowed the property to revert back to the mortgagees. It was she who gave the place the name of "Truell Hall," which it has since more or less retained, although the great majority of Plainfielders will never refer to the place by any other title than the "Netherwood Hotel." Only once since Mrs. Truell gave up has any one made another attempt to do business at the old stand and this is hardly worth mentioning. A New York man came out to open the doors about two years ago and was obliged to close up almost before he had started. That was the end of the Netherwood Hotel as a business place and now, after an existence of forty years, the beautiful structure that drew millionaires to its portals and made all New Jersey gape with astonishment and expectation, is to be pulled to the ground and sold for so much lumber, bricks and other material.

OBITUARY

Personal Mention of Plainfielders and Others Who Have Heeded the Summons of Death During the Past Week.

MRS. ALICE V. DENNIS.

Mrs. Alice Van Deventer Dennis, widow of Chester B. Dennis, died Tuesday morning in Muhlenberg Hospital, where she had been under treatment for eleven weeks with a complication of troubles. Her illness began with rheumatism which gradually reached the heart, causing death. Through the long ordeal Mrs. Dennis was a patient sufferer, bearing everything with a fortitude that was a great comfort to her relatives and friends.

The deceased was a native of Hunterdon county, where she was born forty-eight years ago. Her maiden name was Alice V. Sutphen. She came to Plainfield in 1886 and had made her home here since that time. Mr. Dennis, who was a valued employe at the Scott Press Works and was widely known, died just nine months ago after an illness of more than a year. Mrs. Dennis was a member of Trinity Reformed church, where she was an active worker in several departments.

Mrs. Dennis is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Ada I. Hummer, formerly of Plainfield, but now residing in Ohio; one grandson, Elmer Hummer, her father, Peter Sutphen, of Somerville; also five sisters and two brothers. These are: Mrs. Corra Ryno and Mrs. Gilbert Martin, of the borough; Mrs. Richard Hornby, of Dunellen; Mrs. Roy Boiles, of Somerville, and Mrs. Anna Mitchell, of Vermont; William Sutphen, of Newark, and Joseph Sutphen, of Raritan.

The funeral was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ryno, of Codington avenue, and was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends. Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, was the officiating clergyman. The many beautiful floral tributes extended by friends of the family included several handsome set pieces. Burial was in Hillside cemetery.

DR. FRANK W. FRENCH.

Dr. Frank Whitney French, a native of this city and for many years one of the borough's leading dentists, died suddenly Monday night in a New York sanitorium where he had been under treatment for two weeks. Dr. French had been a sufferer from heart trouble and complications for two years but at times had seemed to be on the road to recovery. Recently he suffered a relapse and entered the New York institution in the hope of obtaining lasting benefit. His family and friends were totally unprepared for the sudden demise and the news of his death came as a great shock.

Dr. French was born in Plainfield forty-three years ago. After completing his studies in the local schools he entered the New York Military Academy at Cornwall-on-Hudson, where he was graduated with full honors. Later he studied dentistry at the New York Dental College and on receiving his diploma took up the practice of his profession in the borough. He continued business for seventeen years, during which time he established a large practice, but was compelled to discontinue it fifteen months ago because of illness. His office and home were last located on Mercer avenue. Dr. French possessed a genial disposition which won him many friends and at the same time had a capacity for work which knew no limit. Outside of his business his principal activities were at the First Methodist church, where he was an enthusiastic worker for many years. At the time of his death he held the position of steward. He was also a member of Anchor Lodge, No. 159, F. and A. M.; Jerusalem Chapter, R. A. M., and Plainfield Lodge of Elks.

Dr. French is survived by his widow and one son, James R. French; also his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. French, of Crane place, and two sisters, Mrs. Harlan Snodgrass, of Summit, and Miss Edna French, of the borough.

MILTON COMFORT JUDSON.

Milton Comfort Judson, the nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Judson, of John street, died Wednesday morning in the contagious ward, Muhlenberg Hospital, following a brief illness with diphtheria. The little fellow was a pupil at the Washington school and was a member of the "Puney-ean" song number in the Elks' musical comedy at the Plainfield Theatre a few weeks ago. The funeral was held at the parents' home Wednesday night and was in charge of Rev. John Y. Broek. Burial was in the North Plainfield cemetery.

MRS. LAURA LARKIN.

Mrs. Laura Larkin, a former resident of this city, died Saturday at her home in Newark, where she had been living in recent years. She was the daughter of Nathan and Caroline E. Harned, of the Harned Academy, now the Cedercroft, on Park avenue. The funeral was held at the undertaking parlor of R. M. Pearce, in Newark, Tuesday night, and burial was in Hillside cemetery, this city.

Lester Mellick, of Prospect avenue, returned home a few days ago after a business trip to South America, which lasted several months. Most of the time was spent in Rio de Janiero and other large cities in Brazil.

MRS. CATHERINE DAY.

Mrs. Catherine Day, widow of John Day, died Monday morning following a short illness from a complication of troubles due to her advanced age. She was born in Ireland seventy-six years ago but had made her home in Plainfield since a young girl. Mrs. Day's husband was a widely-known resident at the time of his death a few years ago. The family resided for a long time on East Fourth street, near Church street, and later on Somerset street, the borough, but for the past two years Mrs. Day had been living on East Fifth street, where her death occurred.

The deceased is survived by four daughtrs. These are: Mrs. Charles Johnson, of Spooner avenue; Mrs. Joseph Shelly, of Brooklyn; and the Misses Julia and Elizabeth Day, of East Fifth street. There is also one sister surviving, Mrs. John Kane, of Monroe avenue.

The funeral was held in St. Mary's church Wednesday morning, where a solemn high mass of requiem was offered by Rev. Father Mahoney. Rev. Father B. M. Bogan acted as deacon and Rev. Father Hennessey as sub-deacon. The offertory solo was sung by Albert P. LaRock. The attendance of relatives and friends was very large and there were numerous floral tributes in evidence.

Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, the pall-bearers being: William Flatley, Richard Birmingham, John Walsh, Jone Kane, Frank Connors, Gilbert Johnson.

JOHN B. HARRSEL.

John B. Harrsel, a resident of Plainfield for more than twenty years, died early Monday morning at his home in Brookwood avenue, East Orange, where he had been living since 1915. He had been ill but a few days with pneumonia. Mr. Harrsel was forty-one years old and was a painter by trade. He is survived only by his wife, who was Miss Anna Martin, sister of Councilman Theodore Martin and Patrolman Roy Martin. Mr. Harrsel's home was originally in Cherryville, Hunterdon county, from which place he came to this city with his parents when a boy. He was a member of Somerset Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., and Freedom Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, both organizations being represented at the funeral service which took place at the late home in East Orange, Wednesday afternoon. Burial was in the family plot in Evergreen cemetery, this city.

WILLIAM NESTER.

William Nester, a resident of Scotch Plains for many years and well known in Plainfield, died at his home at the former place Wednesday morning. He had been ill for about two months. Mr. Nester was sixty-five years old and is survived by his wife, two sons, Joseph, of Elizabeth, and William, of Plainfield; one brother, David, of Newark, and a sister, Miss Katherine Nester, of Murray Hill.

The funeral was held at the late home this afternoon in charge of Rev. J. Madison Hare, of the Scotch Plains Baptist church and was private. Burial was in the Scotch Plains cemetery.

JOHN EMERY.

John Emery, aged eighty-one years, died Saturday at the home of his brother, Jacob Emery, of 221 Grant avenue. He was a native of Clinton and had resided in Plainfield for a long time. He was a painter by trade. The funeral was held at the brother's residence Monday night and was in charge of Rev. D. W. Shellenger, master of Hope chapel. Burial was in the family plot in the Newstone cemetery at Grandin, Hunterdon county.

JAMES SCOTT.

James Scott, one of the oldest and best known colored residents of the city, died suddenly Wednesday morning from heart failure as he was stricken as he was about to begin his work as janitor of a North avenue business building. The funeral was held at the undertaking parlors of J. J. & C. A. Higgins on West Fourth street, this afternoon and was conducted by Rev. C. H. Mallery. Burial was in Hillside cemetery.

"Jim" Scott, as he was always known, was born in Plainfield and lived here all his life with the exception of four years when he was in the service of the United States Navy. He had a large bootblack parlor on North avenue for a long time and as a young man was the leader in local colored Republican circles. In the days of the volunteer fire department "Jim" always marched in the firemen's parade bearing the "target" of Gazelle Engine Company. His home for many years has been in Fairchild's alley, where his mother died a short time ago in her ninety-fourth year. He was a member of Josephus Lodge, K. of P. His only surviving relative is a wife.

Rev. and Mrs. Birney S. Hudson, of East Ninth street, are spending a week at Atlantic City previous to their departure for Portland, Me., following Dr. Hudson's resignation as pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church.

New Epoch For Plainfield's Post Office Recalls History Of The Service Since Humble Beginning In 1800

Leaving the present quarters in the Babcock building, where it has been located for the past twenty-three years, Plainfield's post office will remove the coming Sunday to the new and commodious Federal building at Watchung avenue and East Second street. The change will mark an epoch in the history of local mail service, as this is the first time in the one hundred and seventeen years of existence that the office has been conducted in a Government owned structure. The new headquarters are rounded upon to make Watchung avenue a more important business center than ever before, as the selection of the site by the Washington authorities has already given great impetus to realty values in that section. The new post office building represents an outlay of about $150,000, and stands in decided contrast to the first post office which Plainfield had at the corner of what is now Front and Somerset streets. For this reason the Record is indebted to give the following history of mail service for the local public from the time of its humble beginning to the modern facilities for the reception and distribution of correspondence intercommunication:

On April 1st, 1800, the post office was established at Plainfield, which before that time had been known by the name of Millwyn, being a part of West Jersey, and included in Essex county; before the establishment of the post office here the few inhabitants had received their letters at the post office at the nearby village of Scotch Plains.

In The Plainfield Herald, published October 22nd, 1835, the following facts regarding the town, as it was in the early days, are given:

"In the year 1800 there were 155 persons and only 20 houses in the village; in 1820 there were 420 persons and 68 houses; in 1830 there were 740 persons and 102 houses; in 1835 there were 1050 persons and 158 houses. There were 10 hat manufactories making $30,000 worth of hats annually; 6 tailoring establishments making garments for the southern and other trade; the cost of labor alone amounting to $12,000 annually; 1 tailoring establishment having a capital of $5,000. Six dry goods stores employing $21,000 capital; 1 grocery store with $1,000 capital; 6 shoe stores making yearly $6,000 worth of boots and shoes; 4 wheelwright shops; 4 blacksmith shops; 2 drug stores; 2 public houses; 1 coppersmith and tinsmith; 1 saddle and harness maker; 1 watchmaker; 1 tan yard; 2 cabinetmakers; 2 grist mills; 1 saw mill; 1 millinery store; 2 master masons, 2 master carpenters; 2 butchers; 1 stone cutter; 1 printing office; 1 bakery and confectionery; a fire insurance company with a capital of $18,000; 2 fire engines; 5 places of public worship; 1 Baptist, 1 Presbyterian, 1 Methodist, and 2 Quakers.

"There were two seminaries, the Plainfield Seminary and the Plainfield Classical Institute.

"There were three physicians and one lawyer.

"There was a hat factory within a mile of the village making $40,000 worth of hat bodies a year.

"In 1800 there was one store kept by Thomas Nesbit, and one school house on the edge of the forest near where Richmond street enters Front street, and there was only the Quaker meeting house."

As late as 1820 there were slaves owned in the town, and these were doubtless counted in the enumeration of the persons dwelling in the village.

The central figure in the town was the old mill, around which clustered the log houses and frame dwellings, the store and one or two shops. The old mill was first built in 1705 and at first stood under the dam; but was moved in 1732 to the site known as French's Mill, now owned by A. M. Griffen Co.

The original old mill still serves as a barn, its timbers being in very good condition, although 160 years old.

The road from Quibbletown (now New Market) to Scotch Plains, the Mountain road, now Somerset street, and a road to Rahway, beginning at Watchung avenue, constituted the travelled roads of the village of Plainfield, in 1800.

There was no bridge over the brook, and the course of the road over the mountain turned from the present course of Somerset street at the mill towards the dam where it crossed the stream at a ford located between the dam and where the bridge now is; the road then turned to the east and followed the course of what is now Somerset street to the mountain. In 1818 there was a stone arch bridge built over the brook at the place where are present bridges is located, and with a deep view through the brook at the side of the bridge, and with the date of building the bridge cut in the stone work, as recalled by living persons.

There was no newspaper published in this vicinity, other than The Commercial Advertiser, of New York, and The Pennsylvania Packet, probably published at Philadelphia, which last named paper, in 1800, became a daily paper, the first daily paper in the United States. In 1800 there were something like 200 papers published in the United States; but many of them were issued at long intervals, and the sending of papers through the mails was not common even as late as 1840, and the sending of letters was not as common, as compared with the population, as it is at the present time. Consequently, the post office was a small affair, having mails only once or twice a week for many years, and persons now living can recollect the post office as consisting of simply a case three feet square provided with pigeon holes for the letters, and placed upon a desk within reach of those who might wish to reach for the letters and look them over, without troubling the postmaster to make the search.

The pay of the second postmaster, who held office from 1805 to 1817, is said to have been as small as five dollars a year, and that during his term of office mails were sent and received but twice each week.

There were no postage stamps until 1847 and for some time after they were not in common use. There were no envelopes used in the early days; the letter was written upon a square sheet, folded so that the writing was entirely enclosed, and as thus folded they were sealed with a wafer, or sealing wax. The writing was done with a pen made from a goose quill; there was no blotting paper, and sand was poured over the moist ink to absorb it, and then the sand was poured back into a sand box. A sand box and a box of wafers were a part of a complete equipment for letter writing as late as 1840.

The postmaster wrote the name of the place from which a letter was sent, upon the upper left hand corner, together with the date of sending, and upon the right hand corner was written paid, if the postage had been prepaid, for it was possibe to send letters "postage due" until 1855, and have the postage collected from the person receiving the same.

The postmaster made a record of each letter sent and received, and a written way bill went with each letter sent for many years, and as late as the days of Lincoln's administration, a written way bill accompanied each package of letters, and a record of the packages was kept and forwarded to the department at Washington, quarterly or annually. Even now a printed slip, post marked, goes with each package.

The mails were carried by the stages before the railroad was completed. In 1820 there was a stage line running daily from the town of Flemington to Elizabethtown, as Elizabeth was then called. This line passed through Somerville, Bridgewater, Plainfield, and Springfield, and connected with boats at Elizabethtown, the boats leaving at a point on the river near the court house and being towed by horses to what is now Elizabethport, but which was then called Elizabethtown Point; from thence it sailed to New York, making the trip in a day if winds were favorable.

In later years two steamboats, the "Waterwitch" and "Cinderella," plied between Elizabethtown Point and New York, and still later the "Red Jacket," a superior boat, was put on, and continued to run until chartered by the Government for use in the war of the rebellion. The stage lines also connected at Elizabethtown with stages for Jersey City, via Newark.

The stage horses were changed at Plainfield, and in later years the property was largely owned by Plainfield men. The coaches were large and mounted upon wide leather straps, giving an easy swinging motion to the body of the moving vehicle and making a ride enjoyable.

The mails were carried by the stage lines until 1838, when the railroad was finished to Plainfield; but as the road was not extended beyond Plainfield for several years, it is likely that the mails for places west of here continued to be carried by the stage.

Although the stages ran daily until the railroad was completed, the mails did not go and come daily, as the population and business remained small; persons now living can recall the time when all the letters comprising a mail brought by a stage could be readily held in one hand. With the completion of the railway the population has grown until in 1895, there were 13,573 Plainfield, and 1,875 in North Plainfield, making a total population of 18,508 depending upon Plainfield's post office; and the growth of the postal system in its connection with Plainfield has been such that there is twice as much mail received now as there was twelve years ago, as estimated by competent persons.

The following is a list of the postmasters who have served the people of Plainfield, with the date of the appointment of each:

John F. Randolph, the first postmaster, was appointed to the office April 1st, 1800, and held the office until December 16, 1805. He is said to have lived in a house that was located at or near what is at present the corner of Front and Somerset streets; but which were then, known, according to old deeds, as "the road from Quibbletown to Scotch Plains," and the "Mountain Road"; New Market being now the name for what was then called Quibbletown.

It is the tradition that the post office was kept in the house in which the postmaster lived, which would make its location about on the corner of Front and Somerset streets.

Mr. Randolph served under the administration of both Presidents Adams and Jefferson. The former being what was termed a Federalist, and the last named being a Democrat-Republican, as the Democratic party was then called.

Samuel Manning, the second postmaster, entered upon the duties of the office December 16, 1805; his term of office was twelve years.

His term of office was under the administration of Jefferson and two terms of Madison, until December 3, 1817. He is said to have died in office, and that his son, Jacob Manning, afterwards postmaster, and then a mere youth, performed the duties of the office during his death and until a successor was duly appointed.

Samuel Manning was a one-third owner in the historic mill now owned by A. M. Griffen Co., in its early form, having made the purchase of a one-third right in the same at the close of 1797. He also was the proprietor of the tavern which was located where No. 144 West Front street now is.

The post office was in the bar-room of this tavern, according to tradition.

During Mr. Manning's term of office, in 1816, the rate of postage was changed from 8 cents for 40 miles, to 10 cents for 80 miles.

Aaron M. Osborn, the third postmaster, entered upon the duties of the office December 3, 1817, serving during the two terms of President Monroe, and nearly two years under the administration of John Quincy Adams or until July 6, 1827, a period of ten years.

Mr. Osborn owned a stage line, and kept a country store at what is now No. 125 West Front street. Mr. Osborn lived over the store.

Jacob Manning, the fourth postmaster, was a son of Samuel Manning, of whom mention has been made. He entered upon the duties of the office July 6, 1827, and served until December 30, 1840, thirteen years, holding the office under the administrations of John Quincy Adams, Andrew Jackson and Martin Van Buren.

The post office was for a time in the tavern where his father had previously kept it; but afterwards it was removed to a small addition, to a house standing where No. 224 West Front street now is, and which later on became the office of Dr. Stillman.

During Mr. Manning's term of office in 1835, the first newspaper, The Plainfield Herald, was published in Plainfield, by Isaac Cole, and, in 1838, the railroad was completed to Plainfield, and the mail was carried by cars instead of by stage as heretofore. Letters were advertised in the newspapers for the first time in September, 1835.

John W. Craig, the fifth postmaster, was a physician, living in North Plainfield, opposite the present residence of Charles P. Sebring, and where the block owned by Mr. Alex Thorn, now stands.

Dr. Craig had a drug store on the corner of Main and Cherry streets, as Front street and Park avenue were then called; commonly known as Stelle's corner. The post office was in this store, and consisted of a case, with pigeon holes for the letters, placed upon a desk.

Dr. Craig held the office under the administration of Harrison and Tyler, during the years from December 30, 1840, to July 3, 1845.

Elias Kirkpatrick, the sixth postmaster, entered upon the duties of his office July 3, 1845, having the office in the store where now stands the Van Arsdale building, No. 125 East Front street; from there he moved the office to a small store located where is now the entrance to F. C. Lansbornе's photograph gallery, No. 107 East Front street, where Mr. Kirkpatrick established a book store, with Enos W. Runyon as clerk, and assistant in the post office.

ALVIN E. HOAGLAND

Plainfield's Present Postmaster.

He held the office four years under President Polk, from July 3, 1845, to May 3, 1849.

During his term of office the rate of postage on letters was reduced from 10 cents for a distance of 300 miles, to 5 cents for any distance under 300 miles.

Dr. Lewis Craig, the seventh postmaster, was a brother of John W. Craig, and he placed the post office in the drug store where his brother had formerly had it at what is now the corner of Front street and Park avenue. He was assisted by Mr. Alex Shotwell, then a clerk in the drug store. Dr. Lewis Craig held the office four years under the administration of Taylor and of Millard Fillmore, from May 3, 1840, until February 19, 1853.

During his term of office the postage on a single letter that weighed one-half an ounce, was made 3 cents, if prepaid, but was 5 cents if not prepaid; drop letters were rated at 1 cent, and weekly newspapers were allowed to be sent anywhere in the county where they were published, free of postage. Stamped envelopes were first introduced during his term of office in 1861, and in 1851 the rate at which letters could be sent 3,000 miles was 3 cents, if the postage was prepaid.

Jacob Dunham, the eighth postmaster, became the eighth postmaster, entering upon his term of service February 19, 1853, and serving until May 28, 1861, eight years, being under the administrations of Franklin Pierce and of James Buchanan.

He removed the post office to the corner of Front street and Park avenue, where John J. Kenney now has a store. His son, Samuel Manning, and Andrew Dewey assisted him in the office, and the mail was carried between the post office and the depot by Frazee Whitehead.

During his term of office, it is remembered that rented call boxes had become a feature in the post office.

During this term of Mr. Manning's office holding, in 1855, the rate of postage for a letter of one-half ounce weight, going any distance under 3,000 miles, was made 3 cents, with all letters prepaid.

The mails had now increased to two mails each way every day, and newspapers and pooks were so common among the contents of mail bags.

Elston M. Dunn, the ninth postmaster, who was appointed May 28, 1861, and served eight years, until April 1, 1869, under the administrations of Lincoln and of Johnson, kept the post office at first in a small frame building at No. 126 West Front street, and to which place Mr. Manning had but recently moved the office.

Mr. C. K. Compton was employed by Mr. Dunn, doing most of the retail work of the office, as Mr. Dunn was acting as assistant to the collector of Internal Revenue.

There were now two mails each way daily, and the opening of the evening mail was the occasion of a general gathering of the youth of both sexes at the post office during the continuance of the war period.

The office was open from 7 a. m. until 9:30 p. m., and the packages of letters at the time were accompanied by a written way bill, and a record of letters kept, requiring considerable time for the opening of mails.

The business of the office had so increased that there were something like 200 rented call boxes in use during the first four years of Mr. Dunn's term of office.

In 1864, the postal money order system was introduced in the United States, and very soon Plainfield became a money order post office.

During the last four years that Mr. Dunn held the office Mr. Wm. H. Williams devoted a part of his time to the duties of assistant, and Marvin M. Dunham, Walter Elliott and Edward Nelson were employed successively in the office, which had now been moved to the store now No. 126 Park avenue; this removal is said to have taken place after the office had been kept for a time at what is now No. 109 East Front street, where Schwed Brothers' store now is.

Wallace Vail, the tenth postmaster, was appointed April 21, 1869, and served until February 13, 1882, thirteen years, being in office under the administrations of Grant, Hayes and a portion of that of Garfield.

The post office was located at where 132 Park avenue now is. Afterwards the office was removed to a small building where 207 West Front street now is.

Mrs. Vail, wife of the postmaster, has the distinction of being the only lady acting as an assistant in Plainfield's post office, serving during the entire thirteen years, and doing the work of the office in an acceptable manner.

The following named persons were employed successively during the time that Mr. Vail held the office, as helpers in the increasing business: Mulford Estil, Edward Nelson, Barton Kline, Stephen Vail, E. A. Gregg, Donaldson Randolph and John Wallace.

In 1874 the rate of registered letters was reduced from 15 cents to 8 cents, and again, in June, 1875, raised to 10 cents.

The number of rented call boxes had increased to something like 500 and 100 lock boxes, and there were now three mails each way daily.

Jeremy Blair, the colored porter, carried the mail between the post office and the depot on his shoulder, during Mr. Vail's term of office.

Elias R. Pope, the eleventh postmaster, accepted the appointment upon the urgent solicitation of Senator William J. Sewell, having made no application for the place until after his appointment had been made, when the application was filed as a required formality.

When Mr. Pope entered upon the duties of the office, he removed it from a small building on West Front street, to what is now No. 115 East Front street, in 1882, and at his own expense fitted up the office, putting in 1,200 rented call boxes, and 500 lock boxes, besides many other improvements, among which was the addition of a cart for conveying the mails between the post office and the depot that had heretofore been carried upon the back of a person employed for the purpose.

In 1883, Mr. Pope visited Washington, and brought about a new arrangement which placed the post office upon a thoroughly business basis by the system which he was enabled to inaugurate, through the potent influence of United States Senator Sewell, with the post office department, at Washington. Previously the postmasters had received a salary, and had been left to pay all incidental expenses; but Mr. Pope made an arrangement by which the rent, light and fuel was paid for by the Government, as was also the hire of the clerks, and employed persons. This transfer of the expenses from the individual to the Government, resulted in the improvement of the service, and, brought the post office in Plainfield fully up to the post offices of other cities of like size as Plainfield.

Mr. Pope held the office until May 1, 1886, under the administration of President Arthur, being in office four years.

During his term of service the foreign money-order system was instituted in Plainfield, under his direction, and the reduction of postage on letters from 2 cents to 2 cents, and on newspapers from 2 cents to 1 cent a pound, occurred.

The persons employed in the post office during this term were:

F. A. Pope, assistant postmaster; Ira D. Shaw, money order clerk; Geo. C. Godown, Albert Runyon, James Blair, Frank Van Winckle, clerks; Edward G. Pope, stamp clerk; Jacob Dunham, mail carrier.

William L. Force, the twelfth postmaster, was appointed May 1, 1886, and held the office under the administration of President Cleveland for four years, until February 25, 1890.

The office was in the building No. 115 East Front street, known as the Schorb building.

During his term of service street letter boxes, to the number of about thirty, were placed about the streets, and the important addition of the free delivery system by letter carriers, was instituted, and the post office in Plainfield became a full-fledged office. By the introduction of the carrier system the number of rented boxes and lock boxes was considerably diminished.

The following named persons were employed:

J. L. Force, assistant postmaster; E. C. Pope, money order clerk; Albert Runyon, general delivery; A. C. Rodgers, J. H. Whitenack, Charles Pratt, clerks; R. V. Stryker, stamp clerk; succeeded by Joel D. Hedden as stamp clerk. Edward Martin and Nixon Morris carried the mails between the office and the depot.

The carriers were: 1st, Solomon Flack; 2nd, E. T. Van Winkle; 3rd, Joseph Sheperd; 4th, Peter Flynn; 5th, William Demarest; 6th, John Mackey; 7th, Edward Hann.

Elias R. Pope, the thirteenth postmaster by a second appointment made February 25, 1890, served under the administration of President Benjamin Harrison for four years, until June 1, 1894.

He removed the post office from the Schorb building, No. 115 East Front street, to the Van Arsdale building, No. 127 East Front street.

The following named persons were employed:

Staff—F. A. Pope, assistant postmaster and superintendent of carriers; John H. Whitenack, registry and stamp clerk; George C. Godown, money order clerk; Joel D. Hedden, mailing clerk.

Carriers—1st, John A. Neighbor; 2nd, R. H. Loughlin; 3rd, Peter V. Weaver; 4th, Charles B. Stephens; 5th, William Demarest; 6th, J. W. H. Bauersachs; 7th, Edward T. Hann; 8th, Edward T. Dunn; 9th, Edward T. Van Winkle.

On May 11, 1894, John M. Hetfield was appointed as the fourteenth postmaster, by President Cleveland.

The post office was removed from the Van Arsdale building to the Babcock building, and refitted, being a well arranged office in all of its furnishings, and having 200 rented call boxes, and 250 of the lock boxes.

Seventeen new street boxes were added, making sixty-five in all, with three large boxes for papers and packages, as the conveniences that existed for the public in the matter of mailing facilities. Two sub-stations were established for the further convenience of the people, one at Clinton avenue, and the other at Netherwood, and a second vehicle added to the delivering system.

Mr. George C. Godown, superintendent of carriers, died December 8, 1895.

The service given was not surpassed by any mail post office in a city of the population of Plainfield, which is true for the last two decades.

The following named persons comprised the assistants and letters carriers at that time:

Staff—John H. Whitenack, assistant postmaster and superintendent of carriers; William B. Sharp, money order clerk; E. C. Clawson, registry and stamp clerk; Joel D. Hedden, mailing clerk.

Carriers—1st, John A. Neighbor; 2nd, R. H. Loughlin; 3rd, Charles B. Stephens; 4th, William Demarest; 5th, O. L. Shea; 6th, J. W. A. Bauersachs; 7th, Edward E. Hann; 8th, Edward T. Dunn; 9th, Edward T. Van Winkle; 10th, P. J. Revelle.

John M. Hetfield served until June 30th, 1898, at which date Mr. Elias R. Bird was made postmaster. He served for sixteen years until June 30th, 1914, during the terms of McKinley, Roosevelt, two terms, Taft and Wilson. During the term of his office Plainfield passed from second class to first class office. During his administration fifty street letter boxes were placed, making 116 now in use. The two sub-stations in Clinton avenue and Netherwood were discontinued and new sub-stations were established, at Debele & Stahl's, 111 Somerset street; W. T. Banks Netherwood avenue and Second street, and W. W. Galaway's, Grant avenue and South Second street. Eleven additional clerks were added and sixteen additional carriers and three R. F. D. routes. The special delivery system was established and also the parcel post. During Mr. Bird's administration he installed the Flier Cancelling Machine and an adding machine, and two typewriters. Mr. Bird was a most efficient and courteous postmaster and very highly esteemed. He is now a Common Councilman.

On June 30th, 1914, Mr. Alvin E. Hoagland, the present incumbent, was made postmaster at once. During his administration one additional station has been established at the corner of Fourth street and Watchung avenue, two additional clerks and one carrier has been appointed, and an electric parcel post delivery wagon has been added.

A count of mail delivered in Plainfield during the week of April 3rd to April 8th, 1916, showed 123,024 pieces of first class mail delivered and 36,500 papers and periodicals.

During the year 1915, 21,394 special deliveries were made; 152,514 pieces of parcel post were delivered.

From December 23rd to May 8th, 1,724,900 pieces of first class mail were sent out, and from September, 1915, to May 8th, 1916, the total number of pieces of first class mail sent out was 21,724,900.

There are eighteen incoming mails and seventeen outgoing mails.

During 1915 there were 23,582 money orders issued averaging about $6.50 to an order issued, and money orders paid were 20,324. Also in addition 3,543 international money orders were issued.

15,545 pieces of mail were registered. There were also 1,147 depositors in the postal savings department.

The approximate income of the post office for 1915 was $100,000.

The present office force consists of Alvin E. Hoagland, postmaster; William B. Sharp, assistant postmaster; Edward T. Van Winkle, chief mail clerk; A. E. La Porte, assistant mail clerk; James B. Conkling, money order clerk; E. K. Squire, assistant money order clerk; D. T. Clawson, registry clerk; Daniel J. Shea and William H. Thorn, stamp clerks; Ernest A. Mayor Calkins Gives Views of Public Hearings on Taxes

Believing that questions relating to tax matters, city appropriations and public hearings on tentative budgets are especially appropriate at this time, inasmuch as municipal bodies are wrestling with the problem of advanced prices in every department, a representative of the Record sought an interview yesterday with Mayor Leighton Calkins. The newspaper man found the city's chief executive in a receptive frame of mind and ready to talk at length on the vital question of taxation and what the Councilmanic finance committee has had to contend with in preparing Plainfield's budget for 1917. "It is now quite certain that the tax rate over last year's figure of $1.81 will be increased from fifteen to fifteen points, consequently a dissertation on the subject will be appreciated by the property owners," Mayor Calkins said in part:

"The public hearings on the budgets for city purposes, and for schools, have been held; and about twenty citizens attended the one, and three the other. Of hand this might mean the failure of the public hearing as an instrument of good government, I think a moment's reflection will show quite the opposite to be the fact. I have myself come to think that it is no strain on the theory of public hearings to hold them successful in proportion to the meagerness of attendance; provided, of course, that the purpose of the hearing is duly advertised and the whole subject clearly and concisely set forth in the announcement.

"It is hardly fair to say that the taxpayer is not interested because he does not attend a hearing on an advertised budget. Taxpayers have no more leisure time than others. It would be very nice to have several hundred of them attend our annual tax party and assurance (through a chosen spokesman, of course, in order to save time) that they had come just to show interest in the way it was proposed to spend their money and not because they wished to suggest any other way of spending it, or to request that less be spent, or more. But the fact is that the average citizen is pretty well occupied with his private affairs. Unless his public duties are made simple, and easy to perform, he either will not attend to them at all or else he will perform their indifferently or blindly. That is the argument for the short ballot and for simplified government generally.

"What the voter and the taxpayer want, and has the right to expect, is advance information. This should be set before him with brevity, clearness and frankness. He is entitled to know the precise plan and to have opportunity to appear and oppose it. He is not to be criticised if he fails to come along and pat you on the back because you have hit on a plan to which he has no serious objection.

"On occasions people are aroused to a high pitch of enthusiasm. But it requires a special issue and usually one involving a basic moral principle, the like is substantially true of elections, and voters. Taxpayers are not built on different lines. They expect to be treated right, but do not feel called upon to show wild enthusiasm if they are. They are prepared to furnish the excitement if they are not.

"When a budget has been carefully prepared, and is published in such a form that citizens may compare the proposed expenditures, item by item, with those of the two previous years, it is fair to assume that the city's financial program meets with their approval, if they do not appear to oppose it. At the recent budget hearing two citizens asked to have the budget increased, each being interested in a project not provided for; and one other suggested that perhaps more was being appropriated for the library than its importance, compared with other activities, would seem to justify. In the latter case the State law fixes the maximum levy, so that the budget estimate (which as a matter of fact was considerably less than the maximum (could not be changed. There is, therefore, as the result of the public hearing, not a taxpayer in the city who after studying the estimates as submitted in advance, has objected to the outlay for the coming year on the ground that it is excessive, although it probably means a six to eight point increase in the tax rate. The only criticism was that additional appropriations were not made which would have added at least four points more to the tax rate.

"At the school budget hearing only three taxpayers appeared and two of them were there only to ask for some provision for public recreation. They had no criticism to urge against other items in the budget, although it may add as much again to the tax rate as in ordinary years; probably eight points, in addition to a six-point increase on the city budget.

"It is apparent that excessive appropriations, or an advertised budget lacking in clear statement, would bring out a representative body of citizens in search of information. But where the people are told what it is proposed to do, in terms which they can understand, their concurrence may fairly be assumed from their silence.

"The recent hearing on the city budget brought out, however, the opportunity which citizens have on such an occasion to discuss problems with city officials. Mr. David T. Kenney, while not opposing the appropriation to maintain the fire department, argued that an up-to-date fire fighting force ought to reduce the risk and enable property owners to secure favorable rates; and that while with such rates they would save more than their proportion of the cost of maintaining the department, they are otherwise actually paying twice for the same protection. While insurance rates are not subject to municipal control, the city authorities should co-operate with citizens and civic bodies in securing from the companies, and from the Legislature, whatever relief can be had if we are being discriminated against. A more general attendance at the public hearings, and at Council meetings, would no doubt lead to other discussions of value. People like pleasant surroundings and personal comfort. Perhaps when we are able to invite the voters and taxpayers into an attractive building and Council chamber, they will find it a diversion to drop in on occasions and 'swap' opinions.

"The advertised budget this year was accompanied by an explanatory statement showing that the estimates had been held to bare requirements for maintenance, eliminating at least for one year all proposals for contemplated betterments or new construction other than those already under way. In addition, a number of activities are temporarily discontinued in view of the war and the need of economy in public as well as in personal affairs. The total tax rate increase of perhaps twelve to fifteen points, as nearly as can be estimated, is something which, notwithstanding such strict economy, must be faced in these days of high costs. It simply cannot be avoided, unless we party close our schools and are satisfied with poorer service in our other departments. If they are to be at least as well maintained as in previous years, we have got to pay present-day prices for the service."

Issue No Citizenship Papers on Friday Night

The county clerk's office at Elizabeth will not be open Friday nights hereafter for the receipt of citizenship applications. Since February 1, when the German Imperial Government's threat of unrestrained submarine warfare resulted in a phenomenal increase of applications, the office has been open Friday nights for the accommodation of applicants, but it was announced this morning that there will be no more Friday night sessions.

This night work has been performed gratis by the clerks in the office, but, as during County Clerk Morris' term, it was expected that extra remuneration would be given. While County Clerk Martin has been willing to continue past custom of extra pay for the clerks, he has not been able to bring this about, and the night sessions will be discontinued.

In the past three months there have been 284 applications for petitions, or second papers, and 1,180 applications for declarations of intention, or first papers. The total is 2,316, of which one-half, or $1,158, will go to the county.

Plainfield's Airdome Will Open on May 30

In the presence of 150 relatives and friends, Miss Lillian A. Force, daughter of the late Albert L. Force, and Will F. Williams, of this city, were married Wednesday night at the bride's home on Duer street. Rev. John Y. Brook, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, where bride and bridegroom have been active for many years, performed the ceremony. The only other members of the bridal party were two ribbon-bearers, Miss Marjorie Van Emburgh, of this city, and Elmer E. Walling, Jr., of Philadelphia.

Following a reception, Mr. and Mrs. Williams left for a southern automobile trip. At their return they will reside at 82 Duer street, which has been the bride's home since the death of her father three years ago. Mr. Williams succeeded the late Mulford Estil in the stationery business on Park avenue and has a wide local acquaintance. Mrs. Williams' father was one of the founders of the Daily Press, which he sold to former Governor J. Franklin Fort in 1911.

Rehearsing for Elk's Big Show

The first rehearsal for the monster minstrel show which Plainfield Lodge of Elks is to put on at the Plainfield Theatre June 4 in conjunction with the Volunteer Auxiliary of Plainfield and North Plainfield, was held at the Elks' club house on Watchung avenue Tuesday night. Fifty male singers were present but Judge William N. Runyon, who is to do the coaching, wants three times this number. The second rehearsal will take place at the clubhouse tonight and a personal invitation is extended to any one who can help to swell the chorus.

It is Judge Runyon's idea to make the coming show the biggest thing of the kind the local Elks have ever undertaken. The entire proceeds are to be added to the fund being raised by the Volunteer Auxiliary for the dependents of Plainfield soldier boys answering the call for the colors and this worthy purpose coupled with the splendid array of talent should make the effort a financial and artistic success. Professional and amateur producers are lending their aid to make up a splendid program and Manager Michael Shannon has already displayed his usual generosity by leasing the theatre absolutely free of charge on the date mentioned. When the curtain rolls up on the magnificent first part it will reveal a setting beyond ordinary conception. The details of costuming, electrical effects, orchestral number and specialities are already nearing completion.

Benjamin W. Evans, who has so ably acted as interlocutor in local minstrel shows of the past, has been selected to serve in this capacity for the big show. The endmen already picked are Harry Blimm, "Banty" Bennett, "Tommy" Muir and "Johnny" Campbell. None of them need any introduction to the local public. They have been the entertainment field for many years and were the choice of the committee from a dozen or more candidates. Two others are to be named later. The soloists will include Bertram and William Tallamy, William G. Smith, Elmer D. Cutting, Charles Kreszar, and several others. Fifteen professional musicians will make up the orchestra. Other arrangements for the show will be announced in the Record during succeeding weeks, but it goes without saying that Judge Runyon is leaving no stone unturned to have the show spell "success" in capital letters.

Judge William Newcorn heads the minstrel committee from the Volunteer Auxiliary and the Elks' committee directly assisting Judge Runyon is composed of Joseph C. Martin, chairman; Dr. Chalmers L. Crist, Elmer D. Cutting, Chauncey F. Stout, LeRoy Woodhull, Joseph E. Lane and Edward E. Harding, Jr.

Co. K Will Make Move Tomorrow

After a month's stay on patrol duty along the New Jersey coast, Company K will pack up tomorrow and move to New Brunswick, where the headquarters of the Second Regiment have been since it took the field on active service in March. The Elizabeth companies that have been stationed at New Brunswick all along will replace the local militia boys.

How long the change is for none of the members of the Plainfield company know, and Captain Charles Peterson is going to take advantage of the move. It will be the first time he has had the entire company together since it was mobilized and he intends to have considerable drill. On the whole, the boys would just as soon remain at their present stations as to go to New Brunswick. They have become acquainted with the residents and the details in the various towns have been treated handsomely. In Red Bank they were allowed the use of Troop B's horses and in several cases a part was taken in flag raising.

The boys were considerably disappointed last week when Captain Peterson returned to his command after a hasty visit to Plainfield and announced that he had failed to secure an appropriation from the Common Council for the armory. No change in plans that had been made for the structure and might possibly hold up the building of it. There is not a single case of serious illness in the company at present and the boys are now becoming accustomed to camp life. Several recruits have been added to the roster in the past week, but men are still needed.

High School Honor Pupils Are Selected

Announcement was made at the chapel exercises in the Plainfield and North Plainfield High Schools this morning of the honor pupils of the senior classes of the two institutions. Plans for the annual class day and graddation exercises were made public at the same time.

At the Plainfield High School, Percy M. Stelle was named as valedictorian and Miss Fannie Mann as salutatorian. Stelle has completed his four years' course with an excellent record as a member of the classical department, and although his exact average is not known, it is said to be one of the best of any graduate of the school. Miss Mann has also made an enviable record during her course in the commercial department and closely pressed Stelle for first honors.

In announcing the names of the two this morning, Principal Lindsey first complimented Stelle and Miss Mann for their success and urged both to continue their studies in higher institutions. The valedictorian, Stelle has been a member of the Oracle board for several years and this year has been editor-in-chief. He was assistant manager of the baseball team last year, but interest in the school publication and pressure of studies forced him to resign this year. He has also played basketball on her class teams for the entire four years and was a member of the school team during the past year. She has been alternate of the school debating team of this year, being the only girl to represent the school in that line, and took part in the junior play and other theatrical productions of the school.

Principal Albert Early's address this morning, when he made public the names of Miss Margaret Smith as valedictorian, and John Doughty as salutatorian, created considerable surprise as the contest was a close one and the student body had no idea of the succesful run Miss Smith is a member of the classical department and has had a high standing ever since becoming a student of the school, while Doughty is in the commercial department. Both were very close when the records of each were figured out. Miss Smith having finished her course with a per cent and Doughty of 94 per cent. and a fraction.

Neither Miss Smith or Doughty have taken any active part in the athletic life of the borough school, although they have been popular with the entire student body. They both expect to continue through college.

Because final examinations have not yet been held, it is not yet definitely known just how many there will be in the graduating class of either the city or borough High Schools. There are about eighty students in the fourth year class of P. H. S. and between thirty and forty in the borough, which makes the classes about the same as last year in size.

Following the custom adhered to for the past few years, the graduating exercises of both schools will be held in the auditorium of the Plainfield High Schools. The senior class of the Ninth street institution will hold its exercises on Thursday night, June 14, and the borough graduation will take place the following night, June 22. Prof. Bond, of Yale University, has been secured as the speaker at the P. H. S. graduation and Rev. Dr. Charles Eaton, of Watchung, will speak at the North Plainfield exercises. Programs are now being arranged, but will not be completed for several weeks.

The class day exercises of the graduating class of the city school will be held in the auditorium on June 19 and elaborate arrangements for the annual event are being completed. The class day services for P. H. S. will take place in the borough High School on the night of June 15.

PLAINFIELD MAN DIES IN BELLEVUE HOSPITAL.
Bror Leveau, of 243 East Fifth street, died yesterday in Bellevue Hospital, New York, following a short illness. He was a native of Sweden and had lived in Plainfield about three years, working at his trade of machinist in one of the local shops. He was an active worker in the Swedish Lutheran Gethsemane church of East Seventh street. Mr. Leveau's relatives are in Sweden, where he leaves his mother and wife.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at the funeral chapel of Cole & Hirn on West Second street at 2:30 o'clock, and in the Swedish Lutheran Gethsemane church at 3 o'clock. Rev. C. A. Anderson will be in charge and burial is to be in Hillside cemetery.

Local Accident Cases in Court

Two local accidents figured in motions which were made before Justice James J. Bergen at the county courthouse last Saturday morning. The motion of David S. Feinswog to strike out the counter claim of Joseph H. Ramsey, of Lebanon, in the suit brought against the latter by Morris Taich, of this city, to recover for damages received from Mr. Ramsey's automobile was denied by the Justice. In denying the motion he gave George H. Lodge, counsel for Ramsey, until May 25 in which to file a counter-claim.

Taich brought suit for $3,000 against Ramsey following a collision on South avenue, between Leland and Belvidere avenues, in which the latter's automobile smashed into the plaintiff's wagon from the rear. In return, the defendant brought a counter-claim of $3,000 on the ground that there had been no light on the wagon. The accident happened on February 21 last.

Justice Bergen granted the application of Leonard J. Tynam, counsel for the Public Service Corporation, that Dr. F. G. T. Bergmeyer, of Bayonne, make a physical examination of Julian Polensky, of Dunellen, to determine whether or not Tynan's claim that he has a leaf ear is true. Polensky has entered a suit against the trolley company for damages resulting from an accident in the West End of this city last November.

Captain Vogel Active Again

Captain Frederick W. Vogel, of this city, returned to "somewhere in New York State" yesterday to resume the command of Company H, Seventy-five Regiment, N. Y. N. G., after spending the past week at his home on sick leave. When seen by a Record reporter just before he left, Captain Vogel was enthusiastic over the condition of his command and said he was ready to start work again after his short rest.

The headquarters of the company is located in one of the National Guard armories and the command is stretched out over a territory of ninety miles guarding railroad property. Captain Vogel said that the residents of places wherever a detail was stationed treated them royally, inviting the men to dinners, parties and entertainments. So far, he added, there has been no occasion to shoot or arrest anyone. The company numbers 108 men and as soon as the order comes there are enough men on the waiting list to bring the unit to war strength.

Regarding the present outlook, the Captain had little to say, beyond the fact that war was ready to do anything called upon for. He has been in the Seventy-first for nineteen years, entering as a private in the Spanish-American War.

Five Hundred Workers For Hospital "Tag Day"

Plans have been nearly completed for the holding of a Red, White and Blue "Tag Day" on May 26, the proceeds to be devoted to the maintenance of the poor who need medical assistance. Beginning at 7:30, the 500 workers will tag everyone in sight until 10:30, and in that time expect to collect a large sum.

The campaign to raise money is under the direction of the Women's Auxiliary of Muhlenberg Hospital, a body organized to help the Board of Governors of the institution. The city and borough have been divided into districts with fifty workers to each one. The women will be dressed as nurses and will make a systematic canvass.

Judgment Against Daley Bros. Asked

An attempt to straighten out the bookkeeping disputes of two Elizabeth wholesale grocery firms and Daley Brothers, grocers, of this city, was started in the circuit court yesterday morning, when Potts & Kaufman, Inc., and L. F. Hersh & Bro., brought suit against James, John and Charles Daley to recover on book accounts. Both parties to the suit admit that the goods were delivered and received, but the defendant Cahoone, the former president, will go on nursing with the hospital unit organized by the Presbyterian Hospital and Columbia University, of New York.

Several others have announced their intention of offering their services and arrangements will be made so that their work may be taken care of.

Two Guardsmen Held on Charges Made By Girls

William Barnett and Charles Olson, two guardsmen attached to Company K, Fourth Regiment, sent here from recruiting headquarters at Bound Brook for guard duty at the Standard Aero plant, were taken into custody by the local police yesterday after Chief Kiely had investigated serious charges preferred by Elsie Thompson, a thirteen-year-old colored girl, and Florence Williams, a sixteen year-old white girl. The accusers picked the men from a line of soldiers without any hesitancy, and they were then stripped of their accoutrements and marched to headquarters by a detail.

According to the customary procedure under martial circumstances the Plainfield authorities could do nothing to the accused privates and this morning they were turned over to their superior officer, Captain Gordon. It is probable that they will be taken to Governor's Island for court martial proceedings. The girls were held in $200 bail as material witnesses, but up to noon the amount had not been secured. Both complainants reside in the East End, and the Williams girl is said to be mentally deficient.

Stories about the wrong-doings of the guardsmen located about local munition plants have been reaching Chief Kiely at frequent intervals during the past few weeks, but nothing definite could be learned until the case of yesterday was first reported. The Chief and Miss Mabelle Phillips, of the Charity Organization Society, questioned the two girls and after learning their stories decided upon drastic action. Neither of the men appeared to be concerned over their incarceration and refused to give their names when questioned. They were afterward learned from other sources, but attempts were made to keep the facts of the case from the newspapers. After being placed in cells Barnett and Olson spent the time singing with all the power of their lusty lungs and poking jibes at all who came near them.

The Fourth Regiment personnel is made up mostly of young men living in Hudson county. The homes of the two men accused is said to be in Jersey City, although the police have first given the address as Hoboken. About 200 militiamen are in camp at Bound Brook and the details on guard in Plainfield are sent from that place, the men being changed every few days.

Holy Name Society to Hold Ladies' Day

A flying squadron of automobiles starting from this city and growing in numbers by additions from Westfield, Cranford, Aldene, Roselle and El Mora, until it joins its Elizabeth escort at the Elks' Club, will parade along Broad street to Elizabeth avenue, to swell the crowd at the Hippodrome on Sunday, when the Union County Federation of the Holy Name Society is to hold its ladies' day.

The Plainfield unit, headed by James McCann, automobile license agent for Union county, and followed by George Tobin, John Varley, James Doyle and Wilbur Schafer, will leave promptly at 1:45 p. m., and continue through South avenue to Westfield. The Westfield unit will be assembled at the railroad station in charge of Captain Thomas, who will lose no time in swinging them into line, his car leading those of John Kelly, George H. Riley, Jr., Thomas Moore and Daniel Gilmartin.

The Cranford contingent, in charge of Charles Doyle and Edward Doyle and John J. Neary; the Linden section, headed by Stanley McIntosh, and the Roselle delegation, commanded by J. Walsh, Joseph McDevitt and William Gandorff, will fall into line in the order named.

At El Mora, where a small addition to the group will be waiting, headed by M. J. O'Hanlon and Frank Israel, there will be a stop for a few minutes to arrange alignment before the squadron proceeds along Westfield avenue to the Elks' Club. Here its escort of cars, in charge of John Martin, John Brennan and Martin Hartnet, will meet them. They are scheduled to reach the Hippodrome at 2:30 p. m., in time for the opening of the concert by St. Rita's Band.

The automobiles will be tastefully decorated with American flags and the flags of the Allies. Rev. Dr. Hughes, president of the federation, is not yet certain how many cars will be in line, but it is expected that not less than thirty-five will participate.

The officers of the Holy Name Federation wish it to be understood that the affair is not limited to Catholics. Non-Catholics will be welcome, and a number have already asked for tickets. While admission will be by ticket in order to avoid crowding, these can be obtained from the officers of the local Holy Name societies or members.

Number of Hospital Staff to Volunteer

Plans are being made at Muhlenberg Hospital for the rearranging of the staff of physicians and nurses so that a number who wish to become members of military hospitals may do so. Dr. Frank C. Ard and Dr. Peter J. Zeglio have been chosen as a committee to work out the change.

A number included on the staff have already expressed their intention of going. Dr. George A. Gracey, assistant to Dr. Ard, and Dr. F. W. Cornwall are to become members of a corps of physicians to go to France, and Miss Edith M. McClay and Miss Helen Cahoone, former residents, will go as nurses with the hospital unit organized by the Presbyterian Hospital and Columbia University, of New York.

Lafayette Clubs to Play Here Tonight

What is expected to be the last musical of the present season will be offered to Plainfield music lovers in the auditorium of the Plainfield High School tonight, when the united musical clubs of Lafayette College present a widely varied program of both popular and classical selections for the benefit of the local Belgian Relief Society. Many women prominent in the social life of the city have volunteered to act as patronesses for the affair and already the majority of the seats have been sold.

The concert tonight will be for the aid of the supplementary meal fund now being raised. Daniel McNamee, of this city, is a member of the Syncopated Seven.

Following the concert there will be a dance, music being furnished by the Mellet Jazz Boys.

The musical program follows:

Part I—Male Chorus, "The Sword of Farrara," Bullard. Glee Club; Syncopated Orchestra, Selected; vocal solo, "Ah Moon of My Delight," L. Lehman, C. J. Hopf; mandolin solo, selected, J. Z. FIREMEN DO GOOD WORK AT FRONT STREET BLAZE.

Damage to the extent of $5,000 was caused by fire at Skinew's Enterprise dry-goods store at 223 West Front street at about 9:30 Wednesday night. The flames originated in a room back of the main store and prompt work on the part of the firemen kept the blaze to that particular section, practically no damage from either smoke or water occurring in the front section. The origin of the fire is not known but is supposed to have been caused by a gas stove.

The flames were discovered by a passerby in the alley adjoining the building and an alarm was turned in from box 2. Captain Fehring, of Hook and Ladder No. 1, who was the first to reach the scene, located the blaze quickly and by so doing was enabled to get water to the proper spot inside of a minute. He had a line of hose placed through a side door and another through a window, thus keeping out of the main store with its great assortment of goods on shelves and counter. Both Captain Fehring and his men did splendid work, getting inside despite the intense heat and smoke and killing the worst part of the blaze in about five minutes. The damage to the building and stock of Peter Polyzer, is placed at $1,000 and to Skinew's stock about $4,000. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

HELD FOR BOROUGH.

WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

N. S. A. S. APPEALS TO ALL FOR RENEWED EFFORT.

Because it has been noticed during the past few days that the work of the local branch of the National Special Aid Society has lost its interest to some of the members at least, Mrs. Frederick W. Goddard, the president, has made an appeal for an added effort. The work of the society has grown to such important proportions that a falling off of work, especially at this time, when it is of such prime importance, is noticeable.

Those members who have been active from the start of the organization last year continue to give their time and energy, but some who have lent their time are no longer doing so. To these Mrs. Goddard has made her appeal and hopes it will result in a renewed interest. If everyone of the 1,200 odd members "do their bit" things will progress at the right pace and the local society will continue to remain one of the leaders in the preparedness movement of the women of the country.

As a means of increasing the funds on which the activities of the society depend, a number of the members are planning to give a Cafe Chantant at the Park Club on Friday night, June 1. The program is now in the course of formation and from advance information it can be given that Plainfielders will have a chance to witness an excellent entertainment. Well known artists, both local and professional, will contribute to the success of the affairs. Tables for the affair may be reserved at the National Special Aid headquarters.

Under the direction of Miss Beatrice Gardner, a class composed of members of the society started this week in wartime cooking. It includes the making of soups and other commodities on the soldier's menu in bulk. Classes are now being conducted in seven different branches, there being several in one branch in several cases, and include first aid, diet and canteen cooking, gardening, motoring and other activities.

MONDAY AFTERNOON CLUB.

The last meeting of the Monday Afternoon Club for the present season was held Monday afternoon. There will be no more meetings of the organization until next October.

HIGH SCHOOL P.-T. MEET.

The last meeting of the Plainfield High School Parent-Teacher Association was held in the auditorium of the school on Wednesday afternoon, when a demonstration of the canning and preservation of food was given by Anna Hauser, of Rutgers College. Meetings have been discontinued until October.

KING'S DAUGHTERS PLAN THEIR SPRING ACTIVITIES.

The approach of warmer weather and the subsequent need of taking proper care of the city's children has caused the Plainfield Union of King's Daughters to make preparations at the Day Nursery for the reception of many babies. The gift of a house alongside of the present structure has allowed the organization to double the facilities of the nursery. Work is now underway to put the residence in use. It is to be connected with the nursery by a runway and will be used as a free medical clinic. The rooms are being redecorated and in some cases enlarged to permit of their use, and changes are also being made in the main building.

At the next meeting of the fourteen circles comprising the City Union of King's Daughters, Mrs. John A. Peterkin, who was re-elected president at the annual meeting last week, will appoint the chairmen of her various committees. They will select their assistants.

At a recent meeting of the Loyal Daughters' Circle it was voted to contribute $24 towards the support of two Belgian children for one year.

The end of cold weather has marked the last of the musicals and entertainments that have featured the activities of the Union during the winter. Plans are now being laid for engaging in relief work and the caring for the city's children, which, together, are expected to keep the organization busy through the summer months.

Y. W. C. A. BANQUET.

The annual membership banquet of the Y. W. C. A. was held in the association rooms last night and was one of the most successful social events ever enjoyed by the local branch of the organization. Each member was allowed to bring one guest and over seventy-five sat down to a bounteous repast. Miss Catherine Aller, formerly general secretary of the national association, was the guest of honor and made the principal address. The committee which arranged the affair included: Miss Anna Campbell, Mrs. Charles P. Titsworth, Miss Lelia Hedges, Mrs. Nathan E. Lewis, Mrs. George A. Horne, Mrs. G. C. R. Grandy, Mrs. W. J. Leveridge, Miss Isabelle Scarborough, Miss Elsie Suffern and Miss Georgia Ricker.

P.-T. MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Washington School will be held Wednesday afternoon, at which time officers will be elected and reports submitted.

Many Visitors View Barnard's New Bakery

More than 600 people from Plainfield and vicinity visited the new home of R. H. Barnard, baker and caterer, on East Front street Tuesday afternoon, on the occasion of the first public inspection since the concern took possession of the quarters a week ago. The visitors were rewarded by seeing one of the most improved and commodious sanitary bakeries in the State. They left in a highly satisfied mood after extending congratulations and wishes for continued success to Mr. Barnard and his colleagues.

During the inspection, Mr. Barnard was presented with a beautiful floral horseshoe, the gift of the Crandall-Petree Co., of New York, an old-established supply house. Another gift was a large bouquet which came from the Barnard employes.

The new building is located in the rear of the Woodhull-Martin department store and was erected especially for Mr. Barnard. It is a two-story and basement affair of concrete block construction and having dimensions of twenty-two by sixty-two feet. It is practically fireproof, the only wood used being for the floors or doors.

Those attending the reception Tuesday were shown through every department, most of them witnessing for the first time how bread is made with practically no human hand coming in contact with it. Everything is done by machinery from the time the flour is dumped into the troughs until the finished product is wrapped up ready for delivery, thus insuring absolute sanitation.

The first floor of the building is taken up by the baking room, which has a steam oven with a capacity of 5,000 loaves a day, a shipping room and offices. On the second floor are a cake room and a mixing room, where all the bread dough is prepared, before being sent to the bakery on conveyors. The machinery equipment includes a loaf-moulder, bun-rounder, bread-mixer and cake-machine, all operated by electricity.

Mr. Barnard came to Plainfield from Binghamton, N. Y., thirteen years ago, establishing his bakery in the Woodhull-Martin building. This business has grown so steadily that the new building has been necessity for the past year to meet the requirements of patrons in Plainfield and surrounding towns as far as Cranford one way and High Bridge the other. The deliveries are made every morning to both wholesale and retail customers by automobile. The retail store will continue to be in the Woodhull-Martin building as before.

May Locate New Prison Farm Near Bonnie Burn

The selection of a prison farm site for Union county has narrowed down considerably as the result of a second trip of the freeholders' jail committee, Sheriff George C. Otto and Warden Augustus H. Hughson, of the county jail, which was made Monday afternoon. While these men have no authority to decide upon the final choice, it can be gleaned from their opinions which sites will be favorably considered.

The site adjoining Bonnie Burn, together with the Fred Taggart farm, at Mountainside, may be said to be the two tracts which are presenting themselves to the freeholders as suitable properties for such a farm. The reason advanced for the site near Bonnie Burn is that the produce of the farm can be conveyed to the sanatorium without any great cost, and with no loss of time; for it is the purpose of the freeholders to use the farm products at the various county institutions, as is done in other counties.

Americanization of Foreigners Under Way

The recently organized Americanization committee, composed of local people who have at their prime object the educating of the local foreign population in the duties of citizenship, has started its activities by opening a bureau of information. It will be held at the Lincoln School every night until May 14, and then it will be held in the Washington School until May 21.

The purpose of the bureau is to give information to foreigners regarding the taking out of citizenship papers, the studying of the English language and other matters that would tend to make them better Americans. The committee is representative of all the foreign and educational societies in the city and is heartily endorsed by the city officials.

NURSES TO GRADUATE.

The annual graduation exercises of the training school for nurses at Muhlenberg Hospital will be held on Thursday night, May 24, at the Hartridge Auditorium. The class to be graduated this year is composed of six young women, as follows: Miss Harriet C. Knox, of this city; Miss Esther M. Powell, of Metuchen; Miss Henrietta Beuschell, of Perth Amboy; Susan E. Middleton, of Syracuse, N. Y.; Miss Minnie A. Haug, of New York city, and Miss Mary M. Conley, of Hampton, a prominent physician is to be the speaker.

Active Golfing Season Started

The golfing season at the Plainfield Country Club got fairly underway last Saturday, when competition for the selected score cup was started. Although the new nine-hole course being laid out on the Meltck farm has not yet been completed, play will be confined to the old course until contractors have completed improvements.

One of the features of the season will be the contest for the annual spring cup. The first round started Saturday and will continue until July 4. The selected score cup will be played for until November 3, and play for the fall cup will start on October 5 and continue until October 20. Arrangements for special holiday events have been made as follows by the committee in charge:

May 30, Decoration Day, 36 holes, best selected 18 holes, two-thirds handicap; July 4, 18 holes, best net score of the day; September 3, Labor Day, 36 holes, medal play handicap; October 12, Columbus Day, 36 holes, match play against par. November 6, team match, East Side vs. West Side and Reading line, Park avenue; November 29, Thanksgiving Day, 18 holes handicap against par.

The committee has also planned thus far for two team matches with outside clubs, one on June 2 at Cranford and the other September 8, with Cranford at Plainfield. Other matches will undoubtedly be arranged and there will be additional events during the season on the course. The golf committee comprises W. Lester Glenney, chairman; J. Whitney Baker, Dudley H. Barrows and Morris J. Dumont.

William Bintliff Now at Auto-Electric Shop

Wilbert T. Bintliff, for the past five years electrical expert at the Laing Auto Company's garage on Sycamore street, has resigned his position to enter into partnership with Charles A. Kane, who has been conducting the Auto-Electric Shop at 323 West Front street. The change has already gone into effect. The Auto-Electric Shop is now fully prepared to handle all magneto starting devices and other automobile electric work, besides renewing and repairing all makes of batteries or lighting arrangements. This concern holds the local agency for the Exide Battery. Mr. Kane, who handles the battery work exclusively, was for eleven years the service station expert for the Exide Company and is a "past master" in any kind of battery problem. The new partner will confine himself to the electric work exclusively. The Auto-Electric Shop is at present occupying quarters with the Miller-Jackson Company, but will remove to a fine, new salesroom and shop as soon as the King building at 14-16 Grove street is completed.

Mr. Bintliff is well known throughout Plainfield and vicinity as an expert on all automobiles' electrical appliances, in which he has had nineteen years' experience. He is the inventor of several motor vehicle devices, one of which is the "Brasco" signal horn on Ford machines. When the Ford Company first adopted the "Brasco" as a part of its standard equipment in 1915 it ordered 500,000 horns. Last year the number used was more than 800,000, while the 1917 orders will be in excess of 700,000. Mr. Bintliff is conversant with all magnetos but has made a special study of the Bosch and is in readiness to undertake any repair work on these appliances.

Allen Fulmer Takes Over Carburator Sales

Allen Fulmer, of this city, who for the past five years has been general manager of the Newcomb Carburetor Sales Company, has closed a deal whereby he becomes the sole owner of the sales company. The change will place him in control of the entire output of Newcomb Carburetors, which in 1916 were more than 14,000. The device has recently been put through exhaustive tests and with a few minor changes resulting therefrom it is now the most economical carburetor on the market. Mr. Fulmer spent the greater part of the winter in Florida keeping a close watch on the trials given the Newcomb by the best known automobile and aeroplane men in the country and a satisfactory conclusion prompted him to handle the output.

The Newcomb factory is at present located in Boston, but a new shop is now in course of erection in Detroit. By its completion the concern hopes to turn out fifty thousand carburetors before January 1, 1918. The sales company already has branch offices at Baltimore, Atlanta, Jacksonville, Daytona, Havana and New York and more are to be added as soon as possible. The new ones will be located in the Middle West in order to be near the big automobile plants, as several of the concerns in that section have adopted the Newcomb for their respective machines. The government has also adopted the Newcomb for many of its aeroplanes, finding that it is not the least bit affected by changes of altitude. Mr. Fulmer will establish executive offices in Plainfield, this being his home and convenient to all the automobile trade in the east.

Nuggets of Church News

On Sunday, May 20, a special service will be held at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church as an expression of the interest in the departure of the many men from this community already enrolled or about to enlist. The Session of the church has extended an invitation to Troop D to be present and it has been accepted. Invitations have also been sent to the young men who have lately enlisted in various arms of the service, or who have made application to enlist, and also to those who have volunteered as nurses to go to France.

The church will be appropriately decorated in patriotic colors and Troop D will attend in uniform. Rev. John Sheridan Zelie will preach a sermon of timely importance. The general public is cordially invited and it is hoped the citizens will show its patriotism by their attendance.

PARK AVENUE BAPTIST.

Rev. Dr. Gabriel Reed Maguire, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church previous to Dr. Birney S. Hudson, but who is now pastor of a church in Boston, will occupy the pulpit of the church at both preaching services on Sunday. It will be one of the few times he has returned to this city after leaving several years ago and it is hoped a large congregation will greet him.

Dr. and Mrs. Birney S. Hudson have been resting at Atlantic City for several weeks and now Dr. Hudson is closing up his affairs in this city preparatory to removing to Portland, Maine, in a few weeks. He will become pastor of the First Baptist church of that place on June 1.

ASSIGNED TO PANAMA.

Rev. Raymond E. Marshal, pastor of the Scotch Plains Methodist church until recently and well known in this city, where he has preached on numerous occasions, has been appointed pastor of the Union church, conducted by the Methodist Episcopal denomination at Gatun, Panama. Mr. Marshal is a resident of Milburn and although thirty years of age has established a high standing in the Methodist field. The appointment was made by Rev. Dr. George A. Miller, superintendent of the churches of the Canal zone.

SEVENTH-DAY BAPTIST.

On Saturday morning the pulpit of the church will be occupied by Rev. Theodore L. Gardner. A special program will be rendered by the Sunday-school in observance of Mother's Day.

Several calls have been issued to pastors to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Rev. Edwin Shaw, but as yet they have not been accepted.

FIRST M. E.

The Epworth League of the church will hold a social in Vincent chapel tonight. A program of both musical and vocal selections will be rendered and refreshments will be served.

The members of the Joy Men's Bible Class will attend the morning services on Sunday in a body and will listen to a sermon by Rev. F. W. Harmann, of the Drew Theological Seminary. Mother's Day will be observed at the meeting of the Sunday-school, and Dr. Charles E. Anderson will preach in the evening.

HEAVENLY REST.

The Women's Guild held a monthly business meeting followed by a social period in the parish house of the church yesterday.

Rev. Cortlandt H. Mallery will conduct the usual services at the church on Sunday and at both preaching services will take Mother's Day as the topic of his sermon.

The weekly meeting of the Men's Club was held in the parish house last night, when a social time was enjoyed.

HEAVENLY REST.

Rev. Cortlandt Mallery will observe "Mother's Day" in conducting the services at the church of the Heavenly Rest Sunday.

HOPE CHAPEL.

Rev. D. W. Skellenger, who has been occupying the pulpit of the church for the past year, will be installed as pastor next Friday night, when appropriate services will be held.

The summer schedule of services at the church will be observed beginning with June 3. Sunday-school will be discontinued and the hours of the preaching services will be changed.

Preparations are being made for the holding of a special patriotic service on Sunday night, May 27, at which the members of the G. A. R., Jr. O. U. A. M., and others organizations will attend in a body.

Thomas N. Jones is arranging to give an organ recital at the Friday night service on May 25.

CLEANUP CAMPAIGN ON.

Last year's experience during the outbreak of the infantile paralysis epidemic has emphasized the need for cleanliness, and the Board of Health is now in the midst of a campaign that will, it is hoped, make the city spotless. Every bit of property is being inspected and if the requests of the Board are not complied with in a reasonable length of time arrests will be made.

STILL ISSUING LICENSES.

Miss Harriet Mattison, registrar of the bureau of vital statistics, has been troubled considerably during the past few days by the numerous inquiries of persons that were laboring under the impression that marriage licenses were not to be issued. The belief is that, to prevent slackers from evading military service the Government has stopped all license issuing. Miss Mattison has received no word of any such action and it is improbable that such a step would be taken.

"ALL SOULS".

Rev. Mr. Baltzly's subject at the morning service Sunday in All Souls' church will be "Love is Dutiful."

PARK AVENUE BAPTIST.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the church held an all-day sewing meeting in the parlors of the church yesterday. A luncheon was served at noon and a business meeting of the Missionary Society was held at 2 o'clock. Mrs. W. H. Freeman was in charge of the program and the topic discussed was "Mission Work in Latin America."

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

There will be a meeting of the Home Department visitors in the chapel of the church starting at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The Pastor's Aid Society of the church has inaugurated a campaign for the collection of old papers and rubbers. The Boy Scouts of the church will make the collection on a day to be set for the near future.

Dr. Charles Herring, who has been to fill for several weeks, expects to occupy the pulpit at both services on Sunday.

WATCHUNG AVE. PRESBYTERIAN.

Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey, pastor of the Watchung Avenue Presbyterian church, and who is moderator of the Presbytery of the Elizabeth district, was in charge of services held at Elizabeth last night, when Rev. C. A. Campbell was installed as pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

The pastor will conduct the usual services on Sunday and will preach at the morning service.

TRINITY REFORMED.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church is planning to hold a patriotic social in the church parlors on the night of May 25. A party will be held on the mountain on June 4.

Rev. John Y. Brock will conduct the usual services in the church on Sunday, taking as the subject of the morning sermon, "Your Country Needs You," and in the evening, "Religious Enthusiasm."

HOLY CROSS.

The members of St. Agnes' Guild are holding a meeting in the parish house of the church today.

CRESCENT AVENUE.

Dr. John Sheridan Zelie will conduct the weekly prayer meeting in the church next Wednesday night, taking the fourth chapter of the book "The Meaning of Prayer," as his subject. The topic will be "Prayer and the Goodness of God."

The pastor will preach at the morning service Sunday. The other services will be as usual.

The next musical service of Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will be held on May 27 at 8:00 to 4:45 service. The program is now being arranged by Organist E. Metller Davis and will consist entirely of ancient Hebrew melodies.

TEMPLE BAPTIST.

"Mother's Day" will be generally observed at the Temple Baptist church on Sunday. Rev. H. C. Conover will preach an appropriate sermon on "Mother" at the morning service, and in the evening there will be a story and song service.

HOLY CROSS.

A dance will be given by the Young Women's Bible Class of the Church of the Holy Cross on Thursday night, in the parish house. Tickets may be obtained from members of the class or the choir.

HOLY CROSS.

The Women's Auxiliary of the church will meet in the parish house of the church Tuesday afternoon.

Holy Communion will be celebrated in the church at 9:30 Thursday morning.

Rev. H. St. G. Burrill will conduct the regular services on Sunday.

ELECTION BOARD EXAMS.

Following the opinion of the Attorney-General to the Civil Service Commission that it must continue the examination of the candidates for election officers, notwithstanding the failure of the Legislature to make an appropriation for the work, the commission is now preparing for the tests, and announces the schedule under which they will be conducted. The first examination will be held in Elizabeth on Thursday, May 17, and they will close at Atlantic City on Tuesday, June 26. As already announced by the Civil Service Commission, the tests this year will be oral instead of written, to save expense, and the five members of the commission will assist in conducting them.

CAPTICK BETTER.

Congressman John A. Capstick, representing the Fifth New Jersey District, and who has been seriously ill at the Morristown hospital for the past month, is reported as being slightly improved.

The Krause Carnival Shows, newer, bigger and better than ever, will come to Plainfield next Monday for one week under the auspices of Franklin Council, Jr. O. U. A. M. The shows will be located at Somerset street and Codington avenue, which has already been prepared for the coming of this well-known road attraction. A contest is now underway to decide upon the most popular young woman in the city or borough who will be crowned "Carnival Queen." Twenty entries have been received by the committee. Another contest is being held for boys, the winner to receive a completely equipped bicycle.

The Krause Shows, which have been seen in Plainfield several times under the auspices of various organizations, have added several features to their big list of concessions and attractions. The committee from Franklin Council which will have charge of the carnival is composed of G. M. Smith, general chairman; W. J. Hartpence, C. I. Sheets, George Townley and J. J. Kilner.

"The Three Wynns" Head Theatre Bill

"The Three Wynns," a trio of singers and dancers direct from Shanley's in New York, made a great hit in their initial appearance of a three days' engagement at the Plainfield Theatre yesterday. Their metropolitan method of entertaining proved rather novel in spots and pleased because of that fact. The remainder of the vaudeville program is fully up to the standard set by "The Three Wynns" as it includes the following numbers:

Al. Hawthorn & Co., in a comedy playlet, entitled, "Nearly a Detective;" "The Two Singing Belles," two girls presenting a dancing vehicle; Busse's Toy Terriers, an aggregation of intelligent canines, and Griffith & White, comedy and singing artists. Moving pictures complete the bill.

Hazel White, of Griffith & White, in Vaudeville at The Plainfield Theatre Today and Tomorrow.

VAN MATER NAMED.

In making nominations for the various athletic positions at Rutgers College for next year, the name of P. D. Van Mater, of this city, has been mentioned for the berth of track manager. He is a sophomore and one of the most popular of his class.

Numerous Features In Kline Brothers' Show

Manager Harry Allen has completed all arrangements for the presentation of Kline Brothers' all-colored minstrel show at the Plainfield High School auditorium next Thursday night, May 17. From present indications it will be the biggest thing of the kind ever seen in the city, every moment of the two hours and a half of entertainment being taken up with features new to the Plainfield public.

The gorgeous "Silk and Satin" first part will include thirty colored singers, dancers and comedians, backed up by the Kline Brothers' stringed orchestra of eight pieces. The special scenic setting typical of a southern colonial mansion has been especially painted for this occasion and will include numerous electrical surprises. William Kline will be in the centre as interlocutor to parry the up-to-date "gags" of the funny endmen. A lot of good local "hits" are promised.

In the second part, which is made up entirely of specialty numbers, one of the headline attractions is Wilbur Williams, "The Human Ball Frog," the only colored contortionist in the world who performs the most amazing features with his pliable body.

Davis, Vaughn, Hooper and Henry, vaudeville's best colored musical act, will present a new number, and Fred and William Kline will offer their laugh-producing burlesque of a professional baseball game. The Klines are experts in pantomime and this latest is said to be the best they have ever gotten together. A patriotic display, "Capturing Villa," has been selected as a finale to bring the curtain down on a colored minstrel show calculated to live long in the memories of Plainfield people.

Reserve seats are now selling for the performance and can be had from any member of the troupe.

CLEANUP WEATHER.

With the advent of spring and the returning of warm weather, the Board of Health has started its annual crusade against filth and dirt. A careful inspection of backyards and all other places is being made and where it is necessary the owners of the property are asked to tidy the grounds. Inspections of food and milk supplies have been made and pamphlets urging every resident to help in the general cleanup have been distributed over the city.

MORE GUARDSMEN OUTRAGING DECENCY.

Once again it becomes the province of this newspaper to call the attention of the proper authorities to the lawless conduct of certain guardsmen assigned to Plainfield who have been disgracing the uniform of an American soldier. On a previous occasion we referred to two militiamen who entered a local restaurant in a grossly intoxicated condition, terrifying the helpless women in the place and then leaving after refusing to pay for the food consumed. So far as we know the culprits were not apprehended and the circumstance was still fresh in the minds of indignant citizens when reports of more serious occurrences were received from the East End of the city, where most of the guardsmen are located about munition factories. In one instance a private automobile was deliberately purloined from in front of a factory where the owner had left it and the aid of the police had to be enlisted to get it back. The full extent of this affair could not be learned as every precaution was taken to hush it up. Next came a circumstance at the regular Saturday night dance at the Washington School, where two privates plainly under the influence of liquor demanded admittance free of charge and openly insulted the women attendants when told to go away. To the credit of respectable men of the company to which the offenders belonged and who were inside, it may be said that other guardsmen warned the offenders away before complications ensued. The police were afterward given the facts.

Now comes the happenings of the past few days which supersede all other offenses and which outraged the decency of all respectable citizens. Two members of the Fourth Regiment, sent here with a detail from the headquarters of Captain Gerkin at Bound Brook, were taken in custody by Chief Kiely after he had listened to harrowing stories related by a thirteen-year-old colored girl and a mentally deficient sixteen-year-old white girl. The accusers picked their debasers from a long line of militiamen but when the despicable miscreants had been placed in a cell they were not in the least perturbed. Instead they took the proceedings as a huge joke, defying the police to learn their identity and making the air hideous with maudlin songs after they had been placed in cells. They made no secret of their belief that Uncle Sam's uniform would keep the law's clutches away, never once giving a thought of the heinousness of their offense or displaying regret at the irreparable wrong visited upon the innocent juveniles

We are cognizant of the fact that members of the National Guard have certain rights under Federal jurisdiction but there is no power in this country which permits them to continually outrage morality and the laws of decency. If this sort of thing is to be kept up all the patriotic teachings of a lifetime could not command respect for the uniform that represents the highest authority in the land—the great American army which stands ready to shed its blood in defense of life and honor. We have read with horror of the ravishments in stricken Belgium but they begin to pale when similar doings are brought to our own doors. The two men apprehended are not alone in this misconduct, as there have been repeated whisperings of other offenses of a similar nature in the East End of the city, and it is high time that something was done. It is only fair to the other privates of the Fourth Regiment that the names of these contemptible and unprincipled wrongdoers be made known and punishment inflicted as severely as the crime demands. Plainfield has no place for such as they and the sooner measures are taken to impress this fact upon all guardsmen sent here the better it will be for all concerned.

THE TRUTH ABOUT A MISLEADING STORY.

In justice to Chairman Cose and his fellow members of the fire board, it may be said that the Courier News' report of the Council meeting Monday night was decidedly misleading as far as that part relating to the investigation of insurance rates and the appointment of a fire department clerk was concerned. The opening part of the article in question read that "a demand on the part of Councilman Thomas Hylan for an investigation of insurance rates in the city and the fire department was the outcome of a debate in Council last night." A perusal of City Clerk Carroll's minutes of the session fails to show that Mr. Hylan's resolution made any reference to "an investigation of the fire department. It did ask for an investigation of insurance rates in the city and this will be done. While it may have been a slip in grammatical construction, the reference to a fire department inquiry was taken at its face value by many citizens who have magnified the idea conveyed. For the benefit of these, the Record makes a statement that no fire department investigation was called for or is in contemplation. This branch of the city's service is in the hands of competent men who are eminently qualified to conduct it in the best interest of the taxpayers.

It was unfortunate that Mr. Cose was not at the meeting Monday night, as the resolution for appointing a clerk for the fire department would have been more clearly explained, according to his views. The idea of the committee is to secure a suitable person at a monthly salary of $60 to care for all the clerical work now incumbent upon the Chief and his men. This has grown in great detail through following out the recommendations of Mr. Driscoll, head of the City Survey Commission, for which the Protective Association paid $1,450. Beside the ordinary correspondence pertaining to a department the size of Plainfield's, an exhaustive account is kept of every fire, and filed for reference. These details include the time and nature of the calls, what apparatus and how many men responded, the loss to the tenant, the loss to the owner, the probable cause of the blaze, the number of feet of hose used, the number of chemical tanks used and numerous other items which require time and deftness to put in proper shape for future reference. When it is made known that the department has already answered one hundred and ten alarms this year it is easy to understand where the services of a clerk are an absolute necessity.

The suggestion that the regular firemen take care of this work is not worthy of consideration. It has been the aim of the fire board to select their fire fighters from the ranks of the mechanic or house trades. They want probationers who understand the complicated machinery of auto apparatus, who understand the layout of stores and dwellings that they may get about better in blinding smoke, and who can climb about the outside of a building because of actual experience. It is seldom that a man needing these qualifications is versed in typewriting or clerical duties, consequently a special appointment had to be made. By doing this the city is really saved money instead of undergoing further expense. A regular fireman enters the department at a salary of seventy-five dollars a month for the first year and the second year gets an automatic increase to eighty-two and a half a month. At the end of five years he is paid approximately twelve hundred dollars per annum, and is protected by laws which prohibit his dismissal except after proof of charges preferred to the Council. The clerk to be appointed is not classed as a fireman. His salary is not increased automatically and his services can be dispensed with any time the fire board believes it is desirable. The department is at present getting along with three men short of the full quota, two men having resigned recently and one being called to the colors. Therefore, the selection of any one of the regulars to confine himself to office duties would be further hampering the efficiency of the personnal which is so frequently drawn upon for its full strength.

*The department this year has asked for an appropria*tion of $64,000. Out of this amount $43,000 must go for salaries and $6,000 for hydrant rentals. When other fixed charges are cared for the fire board is left with about $8,000 with which to care for the up-keep of apparatus, repairs to building, stationery and supplies and numerous other incidentals which quickly mount up. This means that the councilmen entrusted with the management of the fire department have to figure economy three hundred and sixty-five days in the year and if they did not find that a department clerk was an absolute necessity it is a foregone conclusion that they would not ask for his appointment.

THE POSSIBILITIES OF INSURANCE RATE INQUIRY.

Any investigation that would give Plainfielders a lower fire insurance rate would meet with the hearty approval of every property owner, but it is doubtful if any such reductions can be brought about through the recommendation as made by Mr. Hyland at the last session of the Common Council. Insurance rates for the entire State of New Jersey are fixed by Attlee Brown, who takes all things into consideration and apportions districts. He has given Plainfield a rate of 19.5 per hundred on buildings, only one-half a cent more than is paid by the citizens of Newark. The difference on contents between the rate in Plainfield and the rate in Newark is one cent, despite the fact that the latter city has this year appropriated $372,000 for the maintenance of its completely equipped fire department. Practically every other city in New Jersey has the nineteen cent rate and this community has not been discriminated against any more than numerous other municipalities, if the term "discriminate" can be used. If Plainfield has the right to object to Somerville property owners paying nineteen cents on the hundred because the town's fire department is the old sytle volunteer, Newark would be justified in asking that there be a wider difference between itself and Plainfield. In other words, "it is a poor rule that won't work both ways." The insurance companies work in combination and they have placed Plainfield's fire department in the "C" class. To meet the conditions demanded to put it in class "B" sixteen more men would have to be added to the working force, additional hydrants placed and more costly apparatus purchased. This would incur an expense that would bring a protest from the taxpayers, who would much prefer to pay nineteen and a half cents in class "C" than perhaps nineteen cents in class "B." The subject of low insurance rates was brought up at the tax meeting by David T. Kenney, who in the course of his remarks asserted that the maintenance of an expensive fire department makes money for the insurance companies by saving "their property." This is pretty far fetched as Mr. Kenney will appreciate by taking a closer study of the subject. Many property owners carry only partial insurance, while others carry none at all, believing that Plainfield's reliable fire department apparatus will reach their business house or homes quick enough to prevent any expensive blaze, the damage resulting being much *below what it would cost to keep up an insurance pre*mium. Beside this, all insurance policies are subject to the 80 per cent. clause and the firemen are saving citizens' property as well as that of the companies. Nevertheless, if an investigation would bring about a reduction of rates we give it unstinted endorsement, but somehow we possess that characteristic born in every native Missourian.

A WIDE AWAKE CIVIC ASSOCIATION.

For an organization which discarded routine monthly meetings in favor of quarterly sessions, or whenever any pressing matter requires a call from the chair, congratulations must be extended the Netherwood Residents' Association. A resume of what it has done demonstrates that action, not meetings, is what counts in the long run. The association was formed originally for the purpose of deciding what could be done with Netherwood's big "white elephant," the Netherwood Hotel. The building has been standing unoccupied for many years and a menace to the exclusive development of that particular section of Belvidere avenue, with its abundance of beautiful homes. The residents knew what it would mean to have this structure turned into an orphan asylum or hospital for incurables. They set about ridding themselves of the forlorn hotel and they have succeeded. Enough money has been subscribed to purchase the building and tear it down, opening the way for residences on the site. If the organization accomplished nothing more than this it will have conferred a benefit on the community but this is not the extent of its activity.

Less than a year or two ago the need of better sidewalks and better mail facilities was apparent at Netherwood. The Residents' Association made both matters a particular purpose and both have been secured. Numerous other details of community interest were brought before the organization with resultant success, principally from the fact that the members conferred with the city officials at the proper time and in the proper manner. Now the association has gone further.

Branching out from neighborhood needs it has taken up the international problem of food supply and conservation and now seeks to encourage the younger generation in home gardening. The association offers twenty dollars in prizes for the best vegetable patch or vegetable product much the same as the directors of the county fairs award premiums for the largest pumpkin or the most delicious jar of preserves put up by some house-wife in the district. The prize idea has already given more stimulus to the boys of the neighborhood than all the columns of newspaper suggestions put together and Netherwood bids fair to be a succession of gardens before the season is over. What has been done by the Residents' Association can be done by other local civic clubs. Why not follow up the prize idea, varying the plan to suit the views of the respective organizations? President Wilmerding, of the Residents' Association, will readily furnish all the information at his command and co-operate with any one interested.

SENATORIAL HONORS FOR W. L. SMALLEY.

The undercurrent in favor of Mayor William L. Smalley, of North Plainfield, as Republican candidate for State Senator to fill the vacancy caused by the death of W. W. Smalley, has now reached such proportions that there seems to be no doubt but what the borough's chief executive will be the standard bearer at the polls next fall. Mr. Smalley has not taken any active part in the preliminaries but his political constituents, and that means practically every G. O. P. advocate in the rock-ribbed hills of Somerset, are paving the way. He is the only logical candidate mentioned by his party and we predict that when the upper house of the State Legislature convenes next winter the genial face of "Mayor Bill" will be numbered among the newer solons. William L. Smalley has been prominent in Somerset county politics for many years, representing his party at all important conventions. For years he was one of the borough's move active and progressive workers and his selection as mayor for that municipality came in recognition of what he had done for the citizens. His record since taking office has been highly creditable. He is a "dyed in the wool advocate" of local option and "home rule," standing ready to present his views in a clear and concise manner whenever they are desired. Once William L. Smalley makes up his mind that he has a right idea on matters of public intrest, he "hews to the line, letting the chips fall where they may." He is a supporter of clean government without the petty prejudices of the professional officeholder and the same methods he has applied in discharging his duties to North Plainfield will be followed out when he moves on to Trenton. It is fitting that North Plainfield should be given the honor of furnishing the Republican senatorial candidate and the mantle of W. W. Smalley could fall on no more deserving shoulders than those of his name-sake, W. L. Smalley.

A TAXI CAB EVIL NOT YET RECTIFIED.

Acting under instructions issued from police headquarters, the North avenue taxi-cab men have given up the old line which faced the sidewalk from a distance of about ten feet and now back their vehicles directly against the curb. This plan facilitates the picking up of passengers and getting started on North avenue with much less danger of collision than before. The plan seems to be working satisfactorily and both patrons and taxi-cab men have gotten used to the new idea, although it was a big change from the old custom of many years' standing.

The police have made the North avenue vehicle problem a close study and are always ready to rectify the evils of congestion. In backing up public and private conveyances up to the curb they have accomplished a step in the right direction, but there is a matter that seems to have escaped the observant patrolmen's attention. This is the practice which the taxi-cab men have of placing their machines on the north side of North avenue, blocking the curb in front of business places. Complaints have been made repeatedly without any permanent result. Day after day the same drivers ignore the allotted space in front of the depot to place their taxi-cabs where the car of customers of nearby stores are wont to occupy. Telling the men seems to be of no avail and it remains for police interference to put a stop to the nuisance.

Zion Movement Enthuses Jews

One of the most successful Jewish public mass meetings ever held in this city took place Tuesday afternoon in the newly acquired Y. M. H. A. building on West Front street.

Every seat was occupied by the most active Jewish men and women of the community. Judge William Newcorn, who presided, declared in his opening remarks that this is a time when it seems that the prophecy of Isaiah may be fulfilled and once again a Jewish republic may be in the making and the Jewish people will be again established with the other republics of the world.

The meeting was very enthusiastic, and it started with singing the "Star Spangled Banner," which stirred the audience to great emotion and enthusiasm. A very appropriate poem on this epoch in history, by Emma Lazarus, was very well rendered by M. J. Mendelsohn, and then the speaker of the day, Robert J. Kesselman, made an eloquent appeal for the revival of Jewish idealism and to establish a Jewish homeland.

The next speaker was Harvey Rothberg, who made a stirring appeal in which he pointed out that every mother should be ready to give up her boy for the good of the country and the cause of humanity, which stirred the audience with emotion, especially the mothers, as it brought realizations of war, in which we are now engaged.

A resolution was introduced by Mr. Hubbard and was unanimously adopted as follows: "Whereas it is credibly reported that it is the intention of a number of governments *to give recognition and a public sta*tus to the Jewish nationality in Palestine, and whereas, it appears that this recognition is to be made with the full co-operation of the American Government; therefore, be it resolved, that we Jews, in public assembly, declare our allegiance to the fundamental ideal of the Zionist movement which is: That the Jewish people require, for the solution of the Jewish problem, 'a publicly secured and legally recognized home in Palestine.' We renew our allegiance to this ideal and in view of the recent democratic developments in the world, of which the Russian revolution is the most significant, we express our confidence that all the Allies will be eager to recognize the justice of the Zionist program." The meeting closed with the singing of "America" and "Hatikvah."

Charles Sheelen In Limelight Again As Tax Collector

Next week Charles Sheelen, of Fanwood, enters upon his nineteenth year as tax collector of that borough, nothing so unusual in itself, but when it is added that he has had 100 per cent. for every one of those nineteen years the feat takes on an added significance. While not boasting of his record, Sheelen lays claim to having a higher standard than any other collector in the State.

Although there has been a delinquent tax sale practically every year, at no time has the list of those who were behind ran over five, and nearly every year Collector Sheelen has turned his books over to the County Board ahead of any of the collectors in the county.

Each time Sheelen adds a year to his record he is the recipient of letters from various parts of this and other States wanting information as to just how he was able to attain it. To them he has no answer other than that he tends to his business when it should be done. It should not be forgotten that he is also fire chief, recorder and commissioner of deeds.

"DAN" GREW RELIEFS.

Daniel Grew, of West Fifth street, who has been employed at the Mercer plant in South Plainfield, is one of the latest local men to enlist in the United States Navy. He was accepted at the Brooklyn Navy Yard yesterday as a second class engineer and will be assigned to duty on one of the big battleships. He will leave tomorrow for his former home in Potsdam, N. Y., for a visit with his parents previous to beginning actual service.

OBITUARY

Personal Mention of Plainfielders and Others Who Have Heeded the Summons of Death During the Past Week.

DAVID IRWIN GARRETSON.

David Irwin Garretson, a resident of the borough for the past seven years and widely known locally, died Wednesday night after a short illness from complications. He had only recently returned from Palm Beach, Florida, where he spent the winter in company with his mother. The funeral will be held at his late home, 10, Rockview terrace, this evening at 7:30 o'clock, in charge of Rev. Dr. Philip B. Stronz. Interment will be private.

Mr. Garretson was born at Millstone forty-four years ago, and was graduated from Cornell University as a civil engineer. He was the inventor of numerous labor-saving devices used in large manufacturing plants. Besides his parents, Mr. Garretson is survived by one sister, Mrs. Fred Tag, of Rockview terrace, and a brother, Percy Garretson, living in the West.

MRS. PHILIP BACH.

Mrs. Mary Eva Bach, wife of Philip Bach, died Sunday afternoon at the home of her son, Francis E. Bach, of 232 Somerset street. She was sixty-nine years old and had been a resident of the borough for a long time, coming to this vicinity from Martinsville, to which her parents removed when she was a child. She was the daughter of John and Dorotheo Leis and was born in New York city. For many years Mrs. Bach held membership in the German Reformed church of the borough, and previous to the commencement of her last illness was president of the Ladies' Aid Society.

Beside her husband, Mrs. Bach is survived by a son and daughter, Francis E. Bach and Miss Anna Bach; also a sister, Mrs. John Martin, and four grandsons, Earl, Walter, Harold and Willard Bach.

The funeral was held at the German Reformed church Tuesday afternoon and was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends. The service was in charge of Rev. George Hauser, pastor of the German Reformed church, assisted by Rev. J. Y. Brock, of Trinity Reformed church. The numerous tributes included set pieces from various departments of the German Reformed congregation. During the service Miss Etta Raybert sang two solos, "Crossing the Bar" and "Face to Face." Burial was in Evergreen cemetery, six nephews of the deceased acting as pall-bearers. They were: John L., Louis A., George P., Joseph J., and Theodore J. Martin, and Edward Leis.

MRS. BERTHA MEEKER.

Mrs. Bertha Meeker, wife of James W. Meeker, of East Front street, died Friday in Muhlenberg Hospital, where she had been received the previous day for medical treatment. The funeral was held at her late home Saturday night in charge of Rev. D. W. Skellenger and burial was in Fairmount cemetery, Newark. Beside her husband, Mrs. Meeker is survived by two daughter, Mrs. Theresa Smith, of Newark; Mrs. Lena Vogel, of New York; four sons, George Reiboldt, of Baltusrol; William P. Reiboldt, of Irvington; Frederick Reiboldt, of this city; Thomas Meeker, of Metuchen, and Henry Meeker, at home; two step-daughters, Mrs. James Haggerty and Mrs. Harry Forrester, of this city; also a sister, Mrs. August Stock, of Newark

Local Wireless Operator's Tales of Ocean Life Enthuse Youngsters

Harry Brower, son of Lorenzo D Brower, of East Fifth street, was a recent visitor in the city and his tales of experiences as wireless operator on one of Uncle Sam's fighting ships have so interested a number of local boys that they are going to enlist in the navy. While Brower was under orders not to give out what ship he was on or any other information that could possibly be used to advantage by an enemy, he described some of the details of his latest voyage.

When the ship that bore Marshal Joffre and the rest of the French mission reached our shores several weeks ago it was consorted by several American destroyers to protect it from marauding U-boats. One of those destroyers made the trip from this country purposely to act as escort and had Brower as its wireless operator. Operators in the navy are getting as high as four dollars a day when on active service and, according to Brower, have more excitement than any other class of seamen. He became a wireless enthusiast shortly after its invention and erected his own station. Several years ago he passed the government examination and since then has become a first-class operator.

In describing life on a destroyer, Brower said that the first thing that bothered a new recruit was the intense noise concentrated on so small a spot. There is work and plenty of it on the ship, but there are plenty times, good food, excellent pay and a chance to see the world.

Introduction of a More Modern Patrol System in the Police Department

Considerable comment has been caused about the city in the last few weeks, following closely the announcement by Mayor Leighton Calking of several municipal improvements that are to be held up for the time being, because of the effort to keep the tax budget as low as possible. One that has caused the greatest discussion and which will tend to bring the police department to the highest state of efficiency when pushed is the new patrol system which may displace the Gamewell alarm now in vogue.

It may not be found feasible to make the change next year or the one following, but the Mayor and Council have gone over the situation thoroughly and will introduce the more modern method of protecting the city as soon as possible.

The present call box system, where a patrolman has a large territory to cover, permits the passing of a given post at only two or three times in a night. The new method of policing outlying districts, conditions in both the West End and East End being especially favorable to the system, calls for a somewhat larger police force and an expense in installing booths. The stations will be placed at given points and a patrolman will be stationed at each with direct telephone communication to headquarters. A third officer will patrol the beat between the two stations and when one or the other of them is called away will take their place. One of the values of the scheme is that headquarters knows where to reach a man in any one section at any time of the night if there is need, whereas now they have to wait until each officer rings in.

The idea has already been put to a practical test in nearby cities and in Brooklyn it is entirely used in the Flushing and other outlying sections. It has been found to be a better method of protection, except in thickly populated sections.

Woe to All Garden Trespassers; Chief Kiely Is On Their Trail

There will be no clemency for anyone who steals vegetables or fruit or otherwise disturbs farms or gardens in Plainfield during the coming summer. This much has been made clear by both Chief of Police Kiely and City Judge DeMeza, who are to co-operate in preventing any such occurrence. Chief Kiely, with the assistance of the patrolmen, will catch the offenders and bring them in court, where Judge DeMeza will fine them heavily.

The police will be unusually vigilant and every person caught trespassing in gardens or on farms will be arrested, but to keep a close watch on the hundreds of patches scattered throughout the city is a difficult task and may be made much easier through the co-operation of the citizens.

In years past numerous cases have come up in police court where fruit or vegetables have been stolen. In many cases those arraigned were children, but this year the customary "second chance" will not be given and every offender will be punished. Arrests can be made under two charges, Larceny if vegetables are stolen, or malicious mischief if only damage was done. Even the summer sport of "antiching" indulged in by the youngsters cannot be done this summer in safety. This forewarning is intended to acquaint the public with the manner in which the problem will be dealt with and will, it is hoped, prevent much of the trouble of other years when an offense of this kind was not considered as serious as it is now.

Extensive Improvements Planned for Pond Plant May Possibly Aggregate Quarter Million Dollars

While the full plans for the Niles-Bement-Pond Company's improvement to the Pond shop in this city seem to be pond made public, the have not yet been made public, the extensive work now under way is assuming such proportions that Plainfielders are beginning to realize that the activities will take precedence over anything of the kind reported heretofore. It is quite probable that new buildings and additions to the old plant, together with the cost of land and the equipment will represent an outlay of more than a quarter of a million dollars. The addition of 8 new buildings will make Pond's total floor space will make. Pond's the city largest industrial concern and will mean much for local development as several hundred more men will be added to the working force. It also means that the management contemplates a long period of prosperity despite problematical conditions produced by the war crisis.

Contractors are now engaged in putting up a steel and concrete extension to the new wing put up at the east end of the yard last year that alone represents an outlay of $75,000. The next step after this is to be the construction of a fire-proof office building at South Second street and Prescott place, which will cost $50,000. Later on there will be a new blacksmith shop, an addition to the foundry and a completely new big part of the main shop on the property near the Grant avenue station purchased from the Burke-Brown estate. It is possible that portions of the Niles-Bement-Pond work done in Philadelphia will be transferred here, but this has not been stated publicly as yet.

The new office building, which is to be on the opposite side of South Second street from the main plant, will be two stories in height. According to the prints as filed in the assessor's application to Building Inspector Doane before the usual permit is granted, the structure will be of reinforced concrete with an ornamental front. It will have a frontage width of 125 feet and a depth of seventy-three feet eight inches. The lower floor is to be given over to the exclusive use of the office staff and the second floor may possibly be equipped as a draughting department. A tunnel under South Second street, which the Common Council has given permission to build, will connect the new office with the main plant's supply of heat, light and power.

The machine shop addition for which the piers are already in place will conform in architecture with the big extension of last year. It will be 104 feet long and seventy-two feet wide. It will represent the "last word" in factory construction, and will embodies an abundance of light and ventilation with easily made changes for the varying atmospheric conditions of winter and summer.

The Burke Brown property, which the company acquired, has a frontage of about 204 feet and extends back to the New Jersey Central side line. The purchase price, which is said to have been close to $10,000, included a three-story store and residence building and an old farm house built before the Revolution. The former building has been moved away and the century and a half old structure is to be torn down, removing one of the familiar land marks in the Grant avenue section. On the ground thus cleared another modern factory will go up, although the drawings for this are not yet complete, and no dimensions have been announced. A few house such as large corporations in other cities have provided their employes is not a remote possibility. The men in the shop have formed an organization known as the "Pond Athletic Association" and the company officials have given it their support, appreciating that clean, healthy division means the type of mechanic that proves an asset for the big concern. Young blood has been recently injected into the executive staff of the Pond management and innovations of a marked character may be expected at any time, the project of a clubhouse for employes being one of many in process of formation.

The improvements which the Niles-Bement-Pond Company has in contemplation or underway serve as a comparison to the original Pond Company's entrance to Plainfield in 1887, just thirty years ago. The coming, with all its promises of industrial and residential development for the West End of the city, was eagerly awaited by the expectant citizens and a retrospective shows that the concern more than "made good" in its declaration that the erection of an up-to-date machine shop would add scores of trained mechanics to the local populace. Everybody talked about Pond's pro and con but the majority believed that the municipality was due for an awakening such as it had never had before.

The Pond Machine Tool Company, now a part of the big combination which controls the output of heavy machine tools in the United States, was established at Worcester, Mass., in 1860 by L. W. Pond. At the founder's demise his interests went to his son, David W. Pond, who afterward sold the controlling stock to Albert C. Stebbins, a comparatively young man who had entered the employ of the elder Pond at the age of sixteen. The company's machine tools were in great demand, so much so that the firm found it difficult to fill the orders poured in by Manning, Maxwell & Moore, the New York selling agents. Later, in 1886, it became apparent that development was absolutely necessary if the Pond Company was to cope with its tremendous growth of business. Manning, Maxwell & Moore saw the possibilities of the concern and provided the necessary finances for the enlarging of the latter firm, keeping a large part of the stock for themselves. After new and larger factory buildings had been decided upon it was agreed that another location should be secured nearer Pennsylvania coke and iron centres and Plainfield was finally given the preference because of its shipping facilities.

Early in 1887, Thomas Lee, the superintendent of Pond's, and Charles Foster, erecting foreman, were sent to this city to look over a plot of ground on which Manning, Maxwell & Moore had secured an option. This plot was originally a portion of the James Compton farm, divided by the building of the New Jersey Central Railroad, and the part picked out fronted on South Second street. It was leased by Frank Cowan, a farmer who resided at the old house still standing near the Grant avenue station, and whose apple orchard flourished on the identical acres where the original machine shop stands. There are many Plainfielders of today who thought it no crime to steal apples or rob birds' nests in that same orchard.

Messrs. Lee and Foster made a careful scrutiny of the Cowan tract and also studied Plainfield's advantages. It was done in a quiet but thorough manner and when they returned to Worcester it was with enthusiastic approbation of the new location of the Pond Tool Works. Then came the award of the contract to the Flint Construction Company, of Palmer, Mass., for the erection of buildings to cost more than fifty thousand dollars. When the actual work commenced it was watched by big crowds who wondered at the systematized manner in which laborers, bricklayers, carpenters and others speeded up the construction. There was a main machine shop 500 feet long, a large foundry, blacksmith shop, pattern shops and smaller structures, all of which were finished and completely equipped early in 1888. Many of the Flint men remained in Plainfield to aid in building workmen's houses, promoted by local contractors, some of them still being residents of Plainfield. The Pond business and mechanics came down from Worcester in delays. When the moving was all over, 150 families from the Massachusetts town had been located here with fathers and sons working in the new plant. It seems as though the entire West End from Plainfield avenue to Clinton avenue had sprung up over night. Previous to 1887, the number of dwellings in that section was barely more than thirty, while today it is in the many hundreds.

The Central New Jersey Land Improvement Company was an important factor in opening up the new streets and putting blocks of houses on one contract. The thoroughfares that these investors laid out included Lee place, Stebbins place, Prescott place, Pond place, Monroe avenue, Manson place and McDowell street. Other houses went up on South Second street, West Third street, Grant avenue, Muhlenberg place and West Front street. Every branch of trade in town was busy. Business was good and the Pond boom was on.

The coming of all these families and all these houses naturally meant the introduction of community institutions. Hope chapel was one of the first to meet the district's social and religious needs and the Monroe Avenue Methodist church soon followed. The New Jersey Central decided that a station should be built for the accommodation of the Pondvillites, as they were known down town, and the Grant avenue station was established. The children of the Pond workmen had to go to school, and as the old Washington building at Fifth and Liberty streets was the only one nearest at hand, the Irving School was ordered built. The chronic "kickers" who always opposed municipal development declared it was too much money to put in such a fine building so far out, but the Board of Education said: "It won't be long before the Irving School is filled to its capacity." This prediction came true.

Of the 150 Worcester men who retained their positions when the Pond Company came to Plainfield, only five are with the concern today. These are Andrew McCardell, superintendent of the foundry; George H. Batchelor, chief engineer; Charles A. Lindmark, assistant superintendent of the machine shop; Theiophore Parent and Charles A. Leland, machinists. All the others have left to take other positions or have died. Charles Foster, who has been mentioned as erecting foreman, tendered his resignation last month after thirty-six years of continuous service. His last post was as traveling supervisor of erection, a position which carried him to all parts of the United States and Canada, but which proved very arduous for a man of his age. He quit active work in order to enjoy a much needed rest. Robert Gow, for twenty-seven years foreman of the tool room, came from Florida to enter the Pond shop shortly after it opened and is listed as one of the oldest employes, as is also Isaac Hauston. The latter took a position in the shop when it opened and still remains one of the skilled mechanics in the machine shop. Albert C. Stebbins, the general manager for the company from the time it entered Plainfield, died several months ago at the age of seventy-three, while James T. MacMurray, who was manager for a long time, resigned last year to became the head of a large munitions factory at Bloomfield, although he is now located in New York.

The present general manager of the plant is Henry M. Cleaver, of East Seventh street, who was assigned to the Plainfield division after years of service with the Niles-Bement-Pond Company. Henry E. R. Stacy is general superintendent, and Frederick Lynn has charge of the machine shop.

The first main building erected for the home of the machine shop was 500 feet long. A few years later another 200 feet was added and still later an additional 200 feet, making a continuous building 1,000 feet long facing South Second street. Last year it became apparent that still more factory room was needed and another addition was made on the north side of the eastern end, paralelling the center portion for 350 feet. This latter was the first of steel and concrete construction to be used, all the other work being of old style brick. One end of this last addition has been torn out the past few weeks and the present extension of 350 feet is underway. The other buildings contemplated in the extensive improvements planned will be started as soon as all preliminary arrangements can be cared for.

An interesting phase of development at the Pond shop is revealed in the study of the original number of hands and machine equipment of 1888. The first complement of men was about 500, the largest in the city at that time. Today more than 800 are on the payroll, which aggregates about $25,000 a week. Were it not for the rapid advancement in machine shop improvements, the number of mechanics required would be more than 1,200. In the early days of the shop everything had to be done by hand. Brawny men lifted heavy castings with painful slowness and difficulty that today are picked up and carried from one end of the shop to the other in a moment or two. Out in the yards every piece of coke or pig-iron that arrived on cars had to be unloaded by a gang of labobers. In these days an electric crane with a powerful magnet picks up a half a ton of metal at a time and drops it wherever needed, while a system of chutes carries coke direct from the car to the foundry cupolas. The machine tools have also kept pace with other forms of progress and the Pond management has always been equipped to introduce any invention that would aid in rapid output. What this means to the concern can best be appreciated by a talk in the building of a boring mill, of which the Pond plant makes a specialty. Twenty years ago it required from eight to ten weeks to construct one of these machines. Today the same identical boring mill can be started and finished in two weeks. Improved machinery is the answer.

Some of the heaviest machine tool equipment in America has been turned out at the Pond plant, notably the mammoth planers built for government and railroad shops. Pond planers, boring mills and car-wheel lathes form part of the equipment in factories all over the world, especially those of Russia and Japan, where the product of Plainfield workmen has been a standard for many years. It was at the Pond shop that the famous disappearing gun-carriages adopted by the United States army coast defense department twenty-five years ago were built. Several of the largest were sent direct from Plainfield to the Chicago World's Fair for exhibition purposes before being installed at board points. They attracted world-wide attention everywhere and were given columns of space in newspapers. When the Williamsburg bridge spanning the East River was constructed the Pond Company assumed a contract to make the steel "saddles" placed on top of the immense towers to support the giant cables and also the heavy steel "anchors" buried deep in the ground at either end of the structure. This job brought the local plant into prominence throughout the country as every detail of the Williamsburg bridge was written up because of its being the first big suspension to follow the famous Brooklyn bridge.

Since the European war created a demand for munitions, the Pond plant has been turning out shell lathes above every thing else, but when hostilities are over there will be great changes in the output. General Manager Cleaver is one of the most progressive men in his particular line of business and his capabilities will mean the development of the Pond shop as never before. He has been schooled in the modern business world which recognizes the need of co-operation with the workmen if an industrial plant is to reach a proper percentage of efficiency. What the Pond shop has meant to Plainfield in the past will be more than double in the near future and the concern will take its place with the largest manufacturies in New Jersey.

High School Pupils Visit Record Plant

The Plainfield High School class in third year bookkeeping visited the printing plant of the Record Tuesday afternoon. The class is studying cost accounting in school. The visit was for the purpose of observing presses, folding machines, make-up and printing. Another object was to observe how the terms used in a printing cost accounting seem applied to the processes and machines in the printing shop.

Albert F. LaRock, manager of the Central Publishing Company, which publishes the Record, showed the class each process and explained their method of keeping records and costs of a job from the time it was received until completed and delivered. It was quite a satisfaction for the class to observe how nearly the methods in actual practice conformed to the plans they are studying in school. The visit was enjoyed by the members of the class who thanked Mr. LaRock for his courtesy and the pains he took to show them everything in detail.

Arrangements are now being made for the annual Monmouth County Horse Show to be held from July 25-28, one of the features of which will be the awarding of prizes representing an aggregate of $6,000.

Captured the Nation in Thirty Days

The Multi-Powered Car has been hailed as a revolution in light car performance. After our first announcement a spontaneous call came for it from all sections of the country. Notwithstanding, our enlarged factories are making immediate deliveries.

What we offer is the new power sensation of 1917. It takes its place with the notable achievements in motor car performance of past years. Motorists have been quick to realize the advantage of this new kind of power for all conditions of travel and for all service expected of a motor car.

Crowns Success of 9-Year Chassis

The 9-Year Chassis on which is mounted The Multi-Powered Car, is the life work of Martin E. Crow.

For almost the entire lifetime of the industry he has worked on this one chassis while watching Crow-Elkhart Cars in their millions of miles of service. And this chassis is today the basis of the silklike power of the Multi-Powered Car.

In the 9-Year Chassis is developed what was probably the first "L" head motor—now the accepted standard. Successively he introduced such features as larger bearings, crankshafts and camshafts—valve cover plates—helical cut gears—large size valves—detachable cylinder heads—piston oil ports preventing smoking, and other important advancements. So that Crow-Elkhart Car are full of new ideas—created by great 150,000 to 200,000 mile individual service records.

Bate-Built Cars

Mitchell cars are built under John W. Bate, the great efficiency engineer. They are built in a factory which he designed and equipped. In a plant on which he spent millions of dollars to produce a fine car economically.

They embody 700 improvements which he has worked out. They are built to his standard of 100 per cent over-strength in every vital part.

They are Unique

They are unique in the margins of safety which make them lifetime cars. They have 31 features which nearly all cars omit. These extras cost us on this year's output about $4,000,000.

They are unique in their beauty and luxury. We spend at least one-fourth more than other like-class cars on finish, upholstery and trimming.

For 200,000 Miles

These cars are built for 200,000 miles of service, which makes them lifetime cars. Yet all this extra value costs you no extra price. No comparable cars are sold so low. The reason lies in our factory savings. Mr. Bate's efficiency methods have cut our factory cost in two. Even the bodies are now built here, under his up-to-date methods.

See the results. See the extras which they bring you in strength, beauty and equipment. There are two sizes and eight styles of bodies, so you can get any type you want.

Nowhere else in the world could cars like these be built at the Mitchell cost.

Registration Questions to Be Answered

Below is given the list of questions with provisional answers which will serve as a guide to everyone who must be registered under the provisions of the draft bill which it is expected will soon become a law. The age limit, as already announced, is between 21 and 30, inclusive, and affects every male inhabitant in the county within the age limit set. No evasive replies will be received and no power is given to excuse anyone from registration when the day is set.

The questions and the answers given are contained in a pamphlet setting forth the rules and regulations which must be observed by the county and city officials in charge of the draft and were received yesterday at the office of City Clerk John J. Carroll. They are as follows:

INFORMATION.

How to Answer Questions on Registration Cards.

Read carefully before you go to the registration table.

Here you see what will be asked. Study the questions. Prepare the answers in your mind.

Questions will be asked for you to answer in the order in which they appear on this paper. These questions are set out below with detailed information to help you in answering them.

Do not write on, mark, or otherwise mutilate these instructions. Do not remove them. They should be carefully read, so that you will have your answer ready when you go before the registrar.

All answers will be written on the registration card in ink by the registrar, who should be careful to spell all names correctly and to write legibly.

1. Name in full. Age in years.

This means your name as you ordinarily sign it. If you sign only initials, as "S. L. Brown," give that as your name. If you sign "Samuel L. Brown," give your name in that way, or if "S. Lawrence Brown," give it that way.

State your age today in years only. Disregard additional months or days. Be prepared to say "19," or "25," not "19 yrs. 3 mos.," or the like.

2. Home address.

This means the place where you have your permanent home, not the place where you work. Be prepared to give the address in this way: "232 Main street, Chicago, Cook county, Illinois;" that is, give number and name of street first, then town, then county and State.

3. Date of birth.

Start to answer as you would if some one asked you your birthday.

Patriotic Service on Sunday as Godspeed to Volunteers

A service that will live long in the memories of local citizens who are fortunate enough to be present on the occasion will be held in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church at 10:30 on Sunday morning and will be in the nature of a patriotic Godspeed to those from Plainfield who have volunteered to do their part in this great war or who have declared their intention to enlist in some branch of the service in the near future. The services will be conducted by the rector, Rev. John Sheridan Zelie, and beside an intensely patriotic sermon will include a musical program appropriate to the occasion.

The Session of the church, desiring to express the feeling of the community toward those who have shown their willingness to lay down their life for their country, has invited Troop D, and so far as names and addresses were obtainable, all those who, either at college or in this city, have enlisted in any branch of the service. Invitations have also been sent to those soon to depart for service as nurses or doctors in any medical corps. Those who have enrolled for farmwork, a part of the preparedness campaign nearly as important as any other, have also been asked to be present.

Troop D has accepted the invitation and will attend in a body. The members of the unit will mobilize at the headquarters on Putnam street and will march from there to the church, where a portion of the church will be set aside. Arrangements have been made to seat all those for whom the service is being held together and any person who wishes to secure a seat in that portion of the church will do so by telling one of the ushers. A cordial invitation has been extended to the general public to attend what is intended to be an opportunity for all to show their patriotism.

Popular "Pop" Raymond Is Three Score and Ten Today

Historians who compile chronological records specify nothing of exceptional importance occurring on May 18 of any year in the past century but that it because they have not exerted themselves to any extent. Today's day and date marks the seventieth anniversary of the birth of Albert T. Raymond, one of the most congenial, whole-souled and likeable residents of Plainfield, and if the fellow who wasn't a lot of time telling about the birthdays of somebody born B. C. reflected the wishes of the community they would substitute Albert T. Raymond's natal event for some of the old fossil's nobody ever knew or cares about. Just the same, hundreds of Plainfielders know how important this date is and congratulations have been pouring in since early this morning on the East Second street resident, who has the best wishes of the entire city. Members of Plainfield Lodge of Elks, who number brother Raymond as one of the best assets of their organization, are making special recognition of the birthday and are according him all the honor he deserves.

Albert T. Raymond, or as he is better known to all his acquaintance, "Pop" Raymond, was born at Salem, Mass., on May 18, 1847. Millton is only ten miles out of Boston and naturally "Pop" Raymond benefitted by the proximity of America's "seat of learning." As the "hub" was known to New Englanders, the learned to be a gentleman at all times, a good all-round fellow and how to make and keep friends. At one time when he left his native State to take up civil engineering in Oklahoma, he carried that same learning to the far Western State and it made him so popular that he had great difficulty in getting away when the serious illness of a relative prompted him to return home. All sorts of inducements were offered young Raymond to become a favorite son of Oklahoma, but he waved them aside to do what he thought was his duty.

Perhaps if the Massachusetts lad had remained in the fast developing section country he might have become a wealthy ranch-owner, perhaps a railroad magnet or even a United States Senator. All these things would have been a possibility but his own personal loss was Plainfield's gain and there are hundreds of citizens who are mighty glad he came back. "Pop" Raymond has been a resident here for the past seventeen years, a brief period in a life of three score and ten, yet it has been long enough for the genial old chap to make as many friends as is possessed by lots of Plainfielders born and brought up locally. Since coming to this city he has devoted himself to the manufacturing of "Paymond's Pectoral Plasters," a production that carries the sympathy and personal help of the producer to physical sufferers all over the world. A personal visit from "Pop" Raymond is one of the best panaceas a sick person could ask for inasmuch as his time is limited a Raymond plaster is the next best thing.

When "Pop" Raymond joined Plainfield Lodge of Elks, the presiding exalted ruler picked him out for chairman of the sick and relief committee. It was plain to be seen that he had all the qualifications to fit the job and appearance were not deceiving. Every succeeding head of the lodge has kept "Pop" Raymond in the same chairmanship and there is never a meeting but what he is making a report about disabled brothers or their families. "Pop" Raymond has a heart as big as a wash-tub and his generosity radiates in every direction. Little "blue glooms" flee at his approach and when he leaves the place where they have been holding forth there is absolutely no chance of their ever getting back again. That's one reason why Plainfield Lodge makes it certain that "Pop" Raymond is reappointed chairman of the sick and relief committee every year. The Record joins in wishing him many happy returns of his natal day, adding the wish of scores of friends that he be permitted to remain with us at least as far as the one hundredth milestone in his altruistic, pleasure-bringing life.

Physicians at the Hospital to Join Unit

Officials of the Muhlenberg Hospital have just completed making changes in the management of the institution that will allow at least two-thirds of the medical staff to volunteer for service in hospital units accompanying the United States armies in Europe. Although the new arrangements allow for a large number of the nurses, as well as the doctors to go if necessary, none on the staff have yet left and will probably not do so for at least a few weeks.

The medical staff of the hospital has a personnel at the present time of about thirty doctors, thirty-five graduate nurses and thirty-five or forty training students. The pupil nurses would not be able to go until they had served three years in the hospital, and the graduate nurses include those from all over the city that are subject to duty if necessary. Routine affairs have now been so arranged that a staff of about ten doctors and fifteen or twenty nurses could cope with the situation.

Five doctors on the staff have already announced their intention to join some medical unit. Dr. Norman W. Currie, Dr. George D. Gracey, Dr. Thomas M. Morris and Dr. W. Wilson Sisserson are those who will be the first to leave, although the latter two will not have completed their terms as house physicians until July 1. Others are now arranging their affairs with a view of being able to leave whenever necessary.

Most of the graduate nurses about the city have already gone on active service or are about to do so. Many of them are enrolled as members of the American Red Cross, while others have expressed a willingness to enroll. Three local women sailed this week for Europe with units. Miss E. Elizabeth Maclay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Maclay, of West Eighth street, and Miss Helen May Cahoone, daughter of the late Stephen Cahoone, left as members of the unit sent by the New York Presbyterian Hospital. Miss Cahoone for a number of years was directress of nurses at the Presbyterian Hospital and both are well known here.

Miss Louise Bettman, niece of J. M. Bettman, of Putnam avenue, also left this week as a member of the Presbyterian Hospital unit of Philadelphia.

Miss Timpson a Spring Bride

In the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends, Miss Ruth Waring Timpson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis G. Timpson, of Hillside avenue, was married yesterday in Grace Episcopal church to Stanley W. Burke, son of Charles C. Burke, of Ravine road. The ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock by Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of the church.

Miss Timpson wore a gown of white satin trimmed with point lace and also wore her mother's wedding veil and lace. Her bouquet was of lilacs and lilies-of-the-valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Hamilton Timpson, as maid of honor, who wore a gown of ecru lace and carried spring flowers. May Waring Humphrey, daughter of Major and Mrs. Chauncey Humphrey, and George Phelps Mellick, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hartley Mellick, cousins of the bride, were flower girl and page.

George M. Murray, of this city, was the best man and the ushers were Henry Eugene Coe, Jr., of New York; Stuart H. Clement, of Buffalo; Samuel W. Meek, Jr., of Richmond, Va.; William N. Wallace, of Indianapolis; Roger D. Mellick and Frederick H. Burke, the last named a brother of the bridegroom. The wedding march was played by the church organist, S. Frederick Smith.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, which was attended by 150 relatives and near friends. Later Mr. and Mrs. Burke left for a brief trip, as the former is a member of the United States Marine Corps and must report for duty at one of the naval bases for training next Monday. He was a senior at Yale and on the recommendation of President Hadley, received a lieutenant's commission. Mrs. Burke is the granddaughter of O. T. Waring, of Park avenue, for many years connected with the Standard Oil Company.

TENNIS SEASON AT THE COUNTRY CLUB TO OPEN.

Arrangements are being made by the tennis committee of the Plainfield Country Club for the holding of a patriotic tournament that will take the place of the annual open championship and be for the residents of Union, Middlesex and Somerset counties. Although definite announcement has not yet been made, it is expected that the tournament will be held from June 30 to July 7.

RED BANK POLICE CHIEF COMMENDS CO. K BOYS.

In a letter received yesterday by Captain Charles A. Peterson, of Company K, of the city, Chief of Police Harry Clayton, of Red Bank, pays an unstinted compliment to the Plainfield boys on their general conduct while attached to the Red Bank Post of coast patrol. The commendation came after a talk between Captain Peterson and Chief Clayton following the recent misconduct in this city on the part of guardsmen attached to out of town companies. Plainfielders will be more than delighted to hear of the commendation placed upon the soldier boys of whom they are so proud and who are establishing a record for discipline along the shore from Navesink Highlands to Barnegat Bay. Chief Clayton's letter as given in full is as follows:

Captain Charles A. Peterson,
Commanding Officer Co. K,
Second Inf., N. G. N. J.

My dear Captain:

Your favor under date of May 16, 1917, received and its contents noted.

In reply to your question touching upon the conduct of the men of your command now located at this Post, it is my great pleasure to convey to you the fact, that without any exception, their conduct has been A-1. They have conducted themselves like good soldiers and gentlemen, and it must say that I could not compliment them more highly than they deserve.

I feel that you should be congratulated upon having in your command such an efficient body, as a unit of New Jersey National Guard.

Yours very truly,
HARRY H. CLAYTON,
Chief of Police.

Patriotic Order Convened Here

The annual convention of the New Jersey Daughters of 1812 was held yesterday in the Park Club, on Washington avenue, and was attended by one hundred delegates from all over the State. The session started off at 11 o'clock with a business session and lasted until late in the afternoon, ending with a social program.

At the business meeting the year's affairs were cleared up and women chosen to fill the positions as librarian, color-bearer and second and third vice presidents for the ensuing year. All the other officers held over.

Shortly after the business session started one of the delegates proposed that a French baby, made parentless by the great war, be adopted and the idea was unanimously sponsored. It was also voted to appropriate sufficient money for the purchasing of a bronze vase as a memorial to be placed in the Washington chapel, Valley Forge. The sum of $25 was given to be used as a prize each year for the student at Rutgers College who writes the best historical essay.

At noon a dainty luncheon was served in the dining room of the club, the decorations and favors being all patriotic in nature. There were four-minute speeches by guests present, all of whom made impromptu after-dinner speeches. The principal address was made by Rev. H. St. G. Burrill, rector of Holy Cross, who made an earnest appeal that the "Liberty Loan" be universally supported. He described its mean features and how the loan should be subscribed to. Others who gave short talks were: Mrs. W. G. Libby, of Princeton, president of the Colonial Dames of New Jersey; Mrs. Duley, president of the Women's Clubs of Elizabeth; Mrs. Maxwell, president of the Women's Clubs of Trenton; Mrs. Streuck, of Jersey City, president of the Daughters of the Revolution.

After the luncheon the remainder of the afternoon was spent in enjoying a social program. Mrs. Margaret Williams, well known as a clever and interesting lecturer, gave an illustrated lecture on "Our Flag—Its Origin and Development." She supplemented her talk with fifty views of the American flag in its various stages. Miss Waller, of Elizabeth, contributed several vocal solos and Miss Mary Dunellen, rendered violin selections.

Arrangements for the convention were made by a committee of the local society composed of the following women: Mrs. Charles R. Banks, chairman; Mrs. Alfred Wallace, Mrs. Fred Waldron, Mrs. Ralph B. Morris, Mrs. A. W. Shotwell and Miss Anna Todd.

TO SELL FLOWERS.

The local Y. W. H. A. has volunteered to sell flowers on Sunday for the benefit of the Jewish fund being raised to redeem the land of Palestine. Those who will take an active part include: The Misses Sadie Rothberg, Rose Davidson, Ethel Davidson, Addia and Pauline Nathanson, Rose Enstein, Rose Gould, Sadie Epstein, Bertha Morgovitz, Dorothy Augenblick, Fannie Rosenthal, Clara Reese, Rose Rosenbaum and Esther Rosenthal.

Co. K "Vets" Will Urge Enlistments

With the idea of stimulating interest in enlistment, Company K, Second Regiment, veterans in this city will hold a street parade about town tomorrow night. Something like thirty of the "vets" will be in line headed by Captain Charles A. Peterson and Sergeant George L. Apgar, the latter at present having charge of the recruiting office at 322 West Front street. The Independent Fife and Drum Corp will furnish music. At the conclusion of the parade Assemblyman William N. Runyon will speak on "Enlistment" at Madison avenue and Front street.

Company K, which is now doing coast patrol duty, is short eighteen men of its full complement. It seeks desirable men between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years, although the conscription age limit is from twenty-one to thirty-one years. By an act of Congress passed yesterday the pay of all soldiers has been increased, privates receiving $30 a month and noncommissioned officers getting better money in proportion. It is highly desirable that volunteers be secured as they make the best soldiers and besides 200,000 noncommissioned officers are to be drawn from the National Guard ranks to take charge of the conscription of privates.

The showing of Plainfielders in enlisting stands in bad contrast to the Westfield men. Out of a population of 8,000 more than 150 volunteers have offered their services. This number is double the quota that is required from the town through conscription. One of the volunteers from Westfield is George W. Osborn, who has joined Company K in this city and who furnishes an example of a real patriot. Mr. Osborn, who is forty-three years old, gave up a splendid executive position on the Pacific coast to answer the call. His family had already given its share of service, as one brother, three nephews and two sisters were already enlisted. The brother is Irving Osborn, who is in Company K, Third Regiment. The others are: George Osborn, 10th Regiment; C. B. Wilcox enlisted for service; R. T. Wilcox, waiting orders to go to Plattsburg; Hamilton Buck, driver, and t wo sisters, actively engaged in Red Cross work, one of them at present in France.

During the past week four members of Company K were discharged from service under the "dependent family" clause of the United States Army regulations. These men are: Edward Weaver, James Tanison, Philip Millwater and Robert Laing. All the members of the company were inoculated the past week to guard against smallpox and typhus inoculation will take place within a day or two. Lieutenant A. R. Paul, of the company, is doing detached recruiting service for the battalion at Elizabeth. Sergeant George L. Apgar has eleven applicants for service at the present time and these he will take to Elizabeth tonight for final examination.

Induction Service for Dr. Skellenger

Special services have been arranged for the regular weekly prayer meeting at Hope chapel tonight, at which time Rev. D. W. Skellenger, who has been in charge of the parish for the past year, will be officially inducted as pastor. The services will be conducted by Rev. John Sheridan Zelie, as presiding officer, and others who will take part include Rev. Howard E. Clarke, of the First Congregational church, and Dr. Charles E. Deering, of the First Presbyterian church.

A committee composed of members of the congregation and headed by George T. Leighs has had charge of the arrangements for a special musical program, which will be rendered by the choir. The church has been decorated for the occasion, and following the ceremony a reception will be held in the Sunday-school room of the church.

Dr. Skellenger has been in charge of affairs at Hope chapel for nearly a year, coming here from Richmond Hill, L. I. He took the place left unoccupied by Rev. Frederic Greene, who resigned. He has been an active worker during the time he has been here and has already done a great deal of work for the betterment of the parish.

CHILDREN'S MOVIE PROGRAM.

A new program in local moving picture circles will be given at Proctor's Theatre on Saturday, June 2, which will be especially for children. The experiment was planned following a recent conference held between the management of the moving picture house, the Plainfield Mothers' Association and the Parent-Teacher Association.

St. Mary's T. A. B. S. Members In Readiness For 45th Anniversary

St. Mary's Total Abstinence Benevolent Society, organized on May 19, 1872, and today enjoying the distinction of being one of the most influential organizations of the kind in the county, will on Sunday next celebrate the forty-fifth anniversary of its formation. A committee appointed for the purpose has been busy for several weeks completing all the details, which are to include religious services in St. Mary's church and a "birthday" banquet in the society's club house on West Fourth street Monday night. To this latter affair a large number of local 'and out of town men, prominent in religious, official and business fields, have been invited. The list of speakers embraces a most representative body, of orators such as has never been gathered in T. A. B. Hall before. It is expected that fully 250 persons will be in attendance.

The anniversary program opens at St. Mary's church Sunday morning at the 7:30 Mass, when the T. A. B. Society and St. Mary's Holy Name Society will attend in a body to receive Holy Communion in a body.

In the evening at 8 o'clock the T. A. B.'s will again assemble in the church for a solemn vesper service, which is announced as the principal anniversary devotionals. The society members will be joined by delegations representing Washington Council, Knights of Columbus; Division No. 4, Ancient Order of Hiberians, and St. Mary's Holy Name Society, all of this city; the Elizabeth T. A. B. Society and the Holy Name Societies of South Plainfield, Dunellen and North Plainfield. At these vespers, the leading speaker will be the Rev. Monsignor Patrick Cody, the venerable priest of St. James' parish, Newark, who observed the original pledge to the nineteen chapter members of St. Mary's T. A. B. Society in 1872. The anniversary committee congratulates itself upon his acceptance of its invitation as it is very seldom that he goes away from Newark because of his advanced age. Monsignor Cody's address will be on the subject: "The Value of Temperance."

With the church services completed, the members of the society will turn to lighter things Monday evening by giving an elaborate banquet in the commodious clubhouse on West Fourth street, the scene of that memorable gathering in 1872 when nineteen young men pledged themselves to totally abstain from the use of intoxicating liquors. The building was originally the worshipping place of St. Mary's parish and until recently was an unpretentious frame structure. Three years ago it was greatly enlarged and completely equipped, at the present time being one of the most switing club homes in the city. It seems fitting that the society should have such a building to welcome those attending the forty-fifth anniversary.

Joseph T. McCue, who has been president of the T. A. B.'s for the past few years and who was reelected at the annual meeting last Monday night, is chairman of the banquet committee. He announces the following splendid array of speakers for the after-dinner addresses: Honorable William L. Saunders, chairman of the Naval Consult-

Many Plainfield Men in Service of Their Country

With two National Guard regiments already in existence, Plainfield has been doing her share during the past few weeks to prepare the country and after the draft takes its share of men there will be approximately 500 men from this city in the nation's service. While Company K is still in need of recruits, Troop D has filled its ranks to peace strength and has a waiting list of about seventy-five. During the past week many local young men have left for training camps and a number more have gone to recruiting stations and enlisted.

Excluding the rosters of the two militia companies, the Record has compiled a list as nearly as possible correct of local men who are under arms, including those who joined recently or have been in for some time. The names of others who enroll will be added to the list as they are obtained:

Plainfield Man Possesses Document Written in 1751

Stephen Townsend, of Clinton avenue, this city, has in his possession a most unique and interesting document which came into his hands a few days ago. It is an old style legal conveyance of land and bears the date of July 10, 1751, together with the assumed autograph of John Adams, the second president of the United States, as one of the witnesses. Experts who have examined the document assert that it has exceptional value as an historical relic of pre-revolutionary days.

The history of New Jersey history will recall that the title to East and West Jersey came through Berkeley and Carteret on grants from the Duke of York. It afterward passed to the twelve original land "proprietors" of the State of whom William Penn was one, and all parcels of land thereafter were made by "metes and bounds," the old method of description, which told how the ground would mete at a certain corner or was bounded by certain tracts.

The document which Mr. Townsend has measures 2 feet 6 inches by 3 feet, is engrossed on sheep-skin, and bears the arms of Great Britain and the Order of the Garter. It conveys by virtue of a deed of trust under certain bankruptcy proceedings in the time of George II, property in East Jersey to James Alexander of the City of New York, and Robert Hunter Morris, then of London. John Ashley, of Northampton, England, was the grantor. James Alexander was the leading New York lawyer of the time and also practiced in New Jersey. He was a large owner of real estate in the Raritan Bay section. As stated before, the conveyance is dated July 10, 1751, and beside the signature of John Adams bears another, that of "Sam" Harris. It conveys "one twenty-fourth part of lands in East New Jersey with one equal-half part of quit rent and arrearages." The place of record is indistinct but it was either in Perth Amboy for East New Jersey or Burlington for West New Jersey.

ATTEND JEWISH CONVENTION.

Twelve delegates from as many local Jewish organizations will go to New Brunswick on Sunday to attend a district convention of the Jews of the State of New Jersey. An election of officers will be held, several Plainfielders being named as candidates. Those making the trip will be: Henry Rosenbaum, Jehuda Halvati, Camp 67; William Augenblick, Y. M. H. A.; Miss Minnie Solomon, Y. W. H. A.; Louis Shiff, Congregation Children of Israel; Jacob Mendelsohn, Plainfield Hebrew School; Louis Rosenthal, Plainfield Congress Committee, and Nathan Meyers, Congregated Seekers of Justice.

WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

The past week has seen many of the local women's organizations discontinue their meetings until fall and during the month to come more will follow the same example. Hot weather will cause a cessation of practically all activities with the exception of relief work and that promises to go on with greater zest than before. Prominent among the organizations that will continue right through the summer are the National Special Aid Society and the Belgian Relief Society. Both have set a precedent among similar bodies all over the country that it is practically imperative the work be kept up.

NATIONAL SPECIAL AID SOCIETY PLANS WORK.

Plans for the summer work of the National Special Aid Society were made during the past week and call for even more than has been accomplished during the past winter. One of the most important changes will be in connection with the junior branch of the society, which is composed of young girls. Hereafter they will meet on Friday afternoons in the parish house of Grace Episcopal church and will work under the direction of members of the society. The membership has grown so large that the headquarters was growing too small for both the senior and junior branches.

Arrangements are being made for the conducting of a day camp during the warm weather for the purpose of instructing members of the junior branch in outdoor activities. The classes will meet at the Housekeeping Center, on East Front street, twice a week beginning the latter part of June, and will be under the tutelage of Miss Addie Jackson, Miss Winifred Mann and Miss MacClay. The rudiments of military drill, camp cooking, hygiene, first aid and other activities will be taught and on rainy days inside work will be resorted to.

Work in the various classes being conducted by the society is progressing at a rapid pace and one or more classes are completing their schedule every week and new ones are starting. The first aid classes have by far the largest enrollment, although those in diet cooking, gardening and other branches are creating great interest.

PLAINFIELD COLLEGE CLUB.

Only a few more meetings of the Plainfield College Club will be held this season, as with the approach of summer and the consequent closing of the schools a large number of members will be leaving the city for several months. The club is preparing to again give a silver loving cup to the girl in the graduating class at P. H. S. who has created the best record in studies and athletics.

P.-T. ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Evergreen Avenue School was held yesterday afternoon, at which time reports of the year were made and plans discussed for the ensuing year. Meetings will be discontinued during the summer.

CHILDREN'S HOME ASSOCIATION.

The Children's Home Association of Plainfield has elected these officers for the coming year: president, Mrs. Martin J. Cooley; vice presidents, Mrs. F. E. Myratt, Mrs. E. E. Parvin and Mrs. J. P. Stevens; secretary, Mrs. Frank W. Rowley; corresponding secretary, Mrs. H. G. Philips; treasurer, Miss Ella Serrill, and assistant treasurer, Mrs. Edward J. Patterson.

BELGIAN RELIEF SOCIETY.

It has been decided by the Belgian Relief Society that the collection of paper scheduled for tomorrow will be postponed until sometime next month, when it is expected that a better price will be obtained from the concerns to whom it will be sold. The exact date will be announced later and the society has asked everyone to keep on saving old papers and magazines as before.

JUNIOR COUNCILS NOW CERTAIN OF COMBINING.

The proposition to combine Plainfield and Benevolent Councils of the Jr. O. U. A. M. has been gotten into composite form by committees appointed for the purpose and the Plainfield Council will vote on the resolution next Monday night. It seems quite probable that a large majority will favor the move as the members have agreed to accept the committee's report, which recommends the consolidation. The next step after Monday's vote will be a second vote on the part of Benevolent Council, which is to be done the latter part of the month. A suggestion has been made that the organization formed by the combination be known as "Plainfield Benevolent Council, No. 256," the number having been held by Benevolent Council since receiving its charter many years before Plainfield Council was formed.

The combined Junior order membership in Plainfield is about 800, making it the largest fraternal representation in the city. This membership is at present divided between four councils: Somerset, which is the oldest; Franklin, Benevolent and Plainfield. The combination as planned by the latter two will decrease the cost of maintenance but will allow greater opportunities for increased activities through co-operative work. Several previous efforts have been made to bring about a consolidation of two or more councils, but they failed through various petty disagreements.

COMMUNITY CHORUS TO PRESENT CONCERT.

For the benefit of "the boys out there," the Community Chorus, under the direction of Clifford Braider, will give a concert in the auditorium of the Plainfield High School on Thursday night, May 24. The proceeds of the affair will be turned over to the Volunteer Auxiliary to be used in helping the local soldiers and their families.

Mr. Braider has arranged for a program of excellent worth and has secured a number of talented artists for the occasion. The chorus will be composed of seventy voices, assisted by Miss Aubrey Eaton, pianist, and Miss Dorothy Cashen, violinist. Following the rendition of the program a period of dancing will be enjoyed, music being furnished by Van Eps orchestra.

YSAYE TO PLAY AT BELGIAN MUSICAL.

As plans for the recital to be held on June 2 at the home of Mrs. Pierre Mali, of East Front street, materialize every indication points toward the success of the affair and a resultant swelling of the "milk fund" being raised by the local Belgian Relief Society. Of the many benefits that have been held for the benefit of the war stricken people of Europe, it promises to be the most unique. Miss Maude Van Boskerck is arranging the program.

The outstanding feature of the affair will be that Belgians will contribute largely to the program. Ysaye, considered one of the greatest of Belgium's artists, will make his first appearance in this city, when he contributes to the program, and will be assisted by his son, Gabrielle, who is rapidly gaining his place in the musical world. Ysaye is coming here and giving his services for the success of the recital. Other features for the concert are being arranged and will be announced shortly. Tea will be served.

Mr. Mali, who is Belgian consul at New York, has taken a big interest in the coming affair and doing all he can to insure its success. Tickets may be obtained from Miss Alice Corey, 930 Hillside avenue.

MISS HELEN E. WHITNEY GAVE PLEASING RECITAL.

Friends of Miss Helen E. Whitney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart H. Whitney, of this city, will doubtless be interested to learn that she gave a most interesting song recital on Friday, May 11, in the auditorium of the Combs Conservatory of Music, Philadelphia. This recital was her graduation recital and on May 23 she will receive the diploma in voice at the Thirty-second annual commencement exercises of the Conservatory which will be held in the Academy of Music.

Following is her program: These Are They (The Holy City), Gaul; O Bimba Bimbetta, O Bocca Dolorosa, Sibella; Love and Music (Tosca), Puccini; Romance, Debussy; Les Papillons, Chaussons; Ouvre tes Yeux bleus, Massenet; Prelude, Down In the Forest, Love, I Have Won You, (Cycle of Life), Ronald; Liabestreu, Brahms; Allerseelen, Strauss; Waldeinsamkeit, Reger; The Cry of Rachael, Salter.

PLAINFIELD MUSICAL CLUB TO HOLD LAST MEETING.

The last meeting of the Plainfield Musical Club until fall will be held Tuesday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. George Mecrew, of Central avenue. The program for the musical has not yet been completed, but it will be the best of the entire season and include rendition by local and professional talent. The club is to discontinue meetings until next September.

ANNA CASE TO SING.

Miss Anna Case, former local resident, and who has sang here on numerous occasions since attracting wide attention in the musical field, will render a portion of the program at a benefit concert to be given in Palace Hall, Newark, on May 28. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the Newark chapter of the American Red Cross.

WORK OF AMERICANIZATION COMMITTEE PROGRESSING.

The foreign population of the city displayed considerable interest in the opening of the headquarters of the Americanization Committee in the Lincoln School last week and until the office was removed on Monday many Italians made inquiries. For the most part they either wished to take out their first or second papers and were intensely patriotic.

The committee opened quarters in the Washington School on Monday night and will continue until next Monday. Applications will be received each night and Sunday afternoon. Interpreters will be present and any information wanted will be supplied. It is expected that the larger part of the applicants will be Jews and Russians.

Lawrence Mead Now a Benedict

Miss Eleanor Whitman Machado, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jose Machado, of Ottawa, Ontario, and Lawrence Myers Mead, son of Mrs. Frederick Goodhue Mead, of East Front street, were married in the West End Presbyterian church, New York, Wednesday afternoon. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a large gathering of friends and relatives, by Rev. Dr. Henry E. Cobb, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. Thomas Speers, a seminary friend of the bridegroom.

Miss Machado was attended by Miss Marjorie Benson, of Flushing, L. I., as maid of honor, while her bridesmaids were her three sisters, the Misses Aucela, Cecelia and Theresa Machado, of Ottawa, and also Miss Gertrude Benson, of Flushing, L. I.; Miss Frederica Mead, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Charlotte McCarthy, of Chicago.

William Speers, of Montclair, acted as best man and the ushers were Jose Machado, Jr., of Ottawa; Arnold Knauth, of New York; John L. Mott, of Montclair; John P. Meyers, of Plattsburg; Perry Dunlap Smith, of Chicago, and John Hayes, of Princeton. The wedding march was played by the church organist and the church choir rendered an appropriate program.

Mr. Mead has been a life long resident of Plainfield, although being absent from the city at frequent intervals. He was graduated from Leal's School and later from the Hill's School at Pottstown, Pa., previous to entering Princeton University, completing his studies at the latter institution in the class of 1910. Afterward he was a student at Union Theological Seminary for a time.

In 1913 he went to China, where for three years he was engaged in Y. M. C. A. work at Hang Chow. He has for some time been with the Y. M. C. A. at Hartford, Conn., in further preparation for his work in Peking, China, where he and his bride will go next fall. Mrs. Machado has resided with her parents in this city about fourteen years. Her father is the head of the American Bank Note Company's branch at Ottawa and the family is prominent socially. Miss Machado was a student of Vassar College, leaving there last June after completing her junior year. She is very much interested in the Christian work in which Mr. Mead is engaged.

Y. W. C. A. Plans A Summer Camp

A new line of summer activity at the local branch of the Young Women's Christian Association was announced yesterday afternoon, when it became known that the association is to maintain a camp on the Watchung Mountains this year for the benefit of members of the organization. In conjunction with an exhibit of the work of various classes which closes at the association building tonight, a sale of basketry and pottery is being held, the proceeds to go toward defraying expenses. Already the plan has been enthusiastically received by the members and is certain to be a success.

The site picked out for the camp is at a spot on the first mountain where a bungalow is already located. A number of repairs and changes are to be made about the property so that there will be accommodations for twelve girls. It is expected that everything will be ready for the initial opening on June 15.

The camp will be primarily for week-end parties chaperoned by a matron, who will keep the place in order, but from the first opening it is expected that a few girls will be there all the time. A large house party will probably be arranged to mark the grand opening of the camp.

DR. EATON PREDICTS FOOD FAMINE INSIDE OF YEAR.

Another year and the world will be face to face with famine, declared the Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, of Watchung, at a recent sermon at the Madison Avenue Baptist church, New York. His subject was "Arm or Farm."

The farmer is the man behind the guns, said the pastor, and he should have every chance to do his bit. Give him credit, labor and a reasonable certainty that his product will be purchased on fair terms, urged the speaker.

Dr. Eaton pointed out that if Germany can cajole Russia into submission and at the same time continue her destruction of shipping with submarines she will exhaust the utmost endeavors of the free nations before she is beaten.

"A world ruled as Belgium has been ruled by its Prussian conquerors would be worse than Hell."

EXHIBIT OF ETCHINGS OF M. ANDRE AT "ROOKERY."

An exhibition has been held at the "Rookery," on Sycamore street, for the past week of monotypes and etchings by Monsieur Andre Artigue, the well known French artist. Before the war Mr. Andre was but little known in America, but since then his works have attracted considerable attention. The present exhibit has been the first time that local art devotees have had a chance to view his work.

FIRST SQUADRON MAY BE INCREASED TO REGIMENT.

Whether the First Cavalry Squadron will get government permission to increase its strength to a regiment is still problematical, but the officers have not given up hope. Major Hobart B. Brown and Adjutant Edwin C. Fetherston had long talks with Major General Scott, chief of staff, and other army officials in Washington recently, and while nothing definite was promised, the New Jersey soldiers got some insight into the monumental work before the army officials is preparing to place the country on a war footing, and the necessity of moving carefully so that the plans will not be further complicated.

In case permission is granted for the formation of a regiment of cavalry Troop D, of this city, would become a part of it, and owing to the large waiting list a second local company might be formed.

City Scholastic Title at Stake

The baseball teams of Plainfield and North Plainfield High Schools will meet on Hyde Field tomorrow afternoon to play the first game of the annual series to decide the scholastic championship of the city. The contest will start at 2:30 and with large crowds on hand from both schools a fracas such as in the olden days will probably ensue.

As far as choosing a favorite in advance is concerned there is little prospects of doing so with any definite success. Although the Ninth street institution has probably suffered the most, both teams have lost several players by students leaving to go on farms or enlist in the army or navy. Both aggregations played several times during the past week and are at present in condition to play the best game of the season. Both P. H. S. and the borough high school have had indifferent success this year, having lost as frequently as they have won. The city boys have the advantage of having the most veterans. The probable lineup follows:

P. H. S.	N. P. H. S.
Wilmerding	La Porte
	left field
Snyder	McDonough
	catcher
Vall	Scarborough
	right field
Brandt	Ahern

Journeymen Barbers Will Probably Strike

Since the start of the European war the word "polu" has become an adjective descriptive of the French soldier and has been used by Americans who have no idea of what the meaning is. Plainfielders may have reason to know its definition in the near future, however, unless the local situation is cleared up and the barber shops kept open. The French meaning of "polu" is "the hairy one" and could fittingly be appended to local citizens after two weeks of a barberless town.

A conference between a committee representing the journeymen barbers in the shops throughout the city and the bosses was held last night and resulted in getting no nearer a settlement than one held on Monday night. The journeymen demand a standard $16 wage and the closing of the shops at certain hours. The bosses contend that they cannot grant the requests and maintain the same prices for haircuts and shaves and admit that if they charge patrons more it will eventually drive them out of business.

As the matter now stands the journeymen vow they will strike unless they obtain the acceptance of their new conditions. The bosses are in the midst of a decision to determine whether or not to raise ten cents on haircuts and shaves or fight the union and upon their opinion rests the fate of the word "polu" as far as Plainfield is concerned.

Coal Situation Stays Same Here

"Unsettled" is the word that best describes conditions in both the wholesale and retail coal markets here today, according to several of the largest dealers this morning. The conditions cannot be called abnormal, except in comparison with normal times, for the dealers anticipate no great increase in prices. A rise of perhaps fifty cents for coal ordered in May is anticipated shortly, but dealers can give no prices or prophecy as to June and July conditions.

The increased pay for anthracite workers, and the threatened increase of freight rates east of Pittsburgh, are factors that must be considered in estimating future conditions. The fact of May or June quotations from the wholesale companies makes it impossible for local dealers to fix their prices.

One dealer said that an advance of forty-five cents on stove, nut and egg coal had been listed by the wholesalers, and one of thirty-five cents on pea coal. Except for this statement, followed by one that would sell May-ordered coal at about $8, no indications of an immediate increase were given.

Several of the local dealers will not fill orders for more than a ton at a time, while some frankly admit they haven't got enough to fill orders. The statement of the Federal Commission that coal is plentiful is accepted by the dealers, but they blame the wholesalers and not the retailers for bleeding the public.

In the lines of small-size coal, such as nut and pea, there has been a severe shortage for more than two weeks. One dealer had not received any of this size for all of two weeks, while another ordered sixteen cars for April delivery, but received only three. In order to make up his losses from selling at May price of $7.50 coal, which he would have to buy at a wholesale increase of forty-five cents, he said it would be necessary to increase future prices.

One of the big coal shippers, the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Company, announced yesterday that there would be the usual reduction on summer coal.

SOURCE OF TROUBLE IN TAX ASSESSMENTS.

The annual valuation of Plainfield property, upon which the tax levies are apportioned, will commence next Monday, at which time the Board of Assessors begin their round. This brings to mind the eternal question of equitable assessments and nothing is more apropos than the words of Governor Edge in his address at the State Tax Board conference in Trenton a few days ago. The executive said: "We have almost as many styles of tax assessments in this State as there are styles of women's hats."

The Governor meant by the statement that each individual community assesses property according to a rule of its own. Valuations are kept down in communities with the idea in mind of their just share of the burden of taxation levied for county or State purposes.

Governor Edge might finally have added that within the different communities differences in assessments are likely to be made to satisfy individual property-owners. The individual who has political influence is often able to lead the assessors to decide that the valuation of his property should be lowered. It is not likely that many communities are blessed with a board of assessors whose honesty and judgment is of the quality of Plainfield's and is necessary in levying assessments in a strictly equitable manner.

There is, of course, only one plan that can be fairly and honorably pursued in levying property assessments for purposes of taxation. All property should be assessed on a basis of equality. No favoritism should be shown. It would be best, without doubt, to assess all property at full value.

The Newark Call reaches a fair conclusion when it says the difficulty that arises in securing a fair and equitable assessment of property lies in the method by which boards of assessment are chosen. As long, it declares, as the tenure of office of these officials outside the larger cities of the State depends upon their retaining the good-will of the voters there will be no equality in assessments. The method of selecting assessors must be changed before the best results may be had. Moreover, there must be larger co-operation between county and State bodies and community bodies. The Pierce tax law has done much to correct the law in this latter particular, but more remains to be done before a fairly satisfactory conclusio nis reached. In past years Plainfield's assessors have made every effort to do the right thing and by fixing assessments close to real valuation the city has paid a large amount of the State and county tax. Some people who have made a study of the matter insist that this city's proportion is above that of other municipalities in comparison and there is where the inequality comes in. If Elizabeth, Rahway, Summit, Westfield and other places hold the same standard of valuation as is done in Plainfield the State and county apportionment is distributed more evenly. We trust this fact will be kept in mind by neighboring assessors who also begin their work next Monday.

MR. FORT DISCUSSES THE COAL SITUATION.

The Record reproduces herewith an open letter from Leslie R. Fort, former managing editor of the Daily Press, written in reply to a published query from George H. Goddard regarding the prevailing price of coal in Plainfield. Mr. Fort has evidently taken great pains to thoroughly acquaint himself with facts in the matter and for that reason his pertinent epistle is given in full, leaving the reader to make his own deductions:

Editor, Plainfield Record:

In his letter published in a local paper on Tuesday night, Mr. George H. Goddard called attention to an inexcusable condition which exists in this city. The present price of coal is out of all keeping with that in places nearby, and shows a tendency on the part of the local dealers to bleed the public as has probably never been done before. I have been advised by a member of the Frederal Trade Commission not to buy my coal at the present Plainfield price as it is exorbitant. It is possible that legal action may be taken to break up what is undoubtedly a combine to force up unnecessarily the price of a necessity of life.

As Mr. Goddard pointed out, the May price for chestnut coal at the mines is $3.93 a ton. The freight rate to Plainfield from the Pennsylvania fields, I have been informed at the freight office, is $1.45 a ton, a net cost on the trestle here of $5.38 a ton. And the public is asked to pay $8.50, less 25 cents for prompt payment! In other words the local dealers are making on chestnut, the highest price coal they sell, a gross profit of 58 per cent., and more than that on the other sizes, when a purchaser takes thirty days for payment.

In a nearby community, much like Plainfield in character, the retail price, I am told, is $7.00 a ton, and in April it was $6.75 in New York city. Many coal dealers feel that they are doing very well when they can get 50 cents a ton for cartage and a gross profit above that of $1, which seems like a very fair figure for any reasonable dealer to expect. That would make the price in this city $6.88 a ton, and no one would have much cause to complain were $7 asked. But when another $1.25 to $1.50, according to terms of payment, is added it is time for local people to protest.

Plainfielders have suffered in the past as a result of a combination of the coal dealers. It was not so long ago that they held prices up, and then had a break and began to cut rates until for a while there was real competition. After a while they got together again, apparently, although it probably would be hard to prove, unless Federal agents get busy on the matter, and now they are trying to gouge the public to the tune of thousands of dollars annually.

The coal operators have agreed to keep their mines working six days a week all summer, and as a result stocks which are now short will be replenished. The Federal Trade Commission believes that coal will be cheaper, but it will not be cheaper in Plainfield until local people combine and tell the dealers that they expect a better price or the consumers will buy in carload lots. The Federal Trade Commission has pointed the way. It is up to Plainfielders to see that the gouging is stopped.

Very truly yours,
LESLIE R. FORT.

A SOCIETY WITH AN ENVIABLE RECORD.

Well deserved congratulations are due St. Mary's Total Abstinence Benevolent Society on the completion of its forty-fifth year as an organization. Such a record as is held by this popular and energetic society is not possessed by any other organization of the kind in Plainfield. Starting in 1872, when Father Matthews' idea of total abstinence clubs spread over the country it has grown from nineteen members to a present roster of 225. In the forty-five years it has continued to flourish and an incalculable amount of good has been done for the community, as young men with natural tendency and beset by the temptations of drink have been brought under proper influence at the critical moment.

They have had a splendid club house to gather in nightly and participate in the healthful recreation that does their mind and bodies so much good and make of them the right sort of citizens. What St. Mary's Total Abstinence, Benevolent Society has been doing quietly for nearly half a century is that which is advocated by fanfaroning revivals and other temporate speakers. A representative body of local officials will be the guests of honor at a dinner to be given by the society next Monday night and all the good things the speakers can say about St. Mary's T. A. B's will be commendation in the right direction. Congratulations are also due John Walsh and David Barry, the two remaining charter members, who have remained faithful to the pledge of forty-five years ago, and who have meant much to the younger element as it came within the fold in later days.

JUSTIFIABLE REVOLT IN HOME DEFENSE RANKS.

The action of the Plainfield-Union Water Co. in discharging the paid watchmen at the North avenue pumping station because Home Defense guards were doing the work is not one that will receive the sympathy or support of the people. In fact, it may lead to open revolt on the part of the citizens who have been giving up their time and undergoing severe elemental conditions to protect the wells from possible enemy aliens. Four watchmen in the employ of the company have been on duty day and night, their work representing an expenditure of about $400 per month. The Plainfield-Union officials said they believe this was sufficient protection and, whatever was done in addition was a matter of opinion on the part of the volunteer soldiery. The Home Defensers make no complaint about what they have done in the way of guarding, yet they feel that if their services had not been volunteered the four watchmen would still be on the pay-roll. They had no idea that their patriotism or desire to insure safety for the city water supply would put anyone out of a job and for that reason the action of the company has come in for severe criticism. They argue that the concern makes enough money out of local consumers to at least exhibit concern as to its continuance and the $400 or more would make but little difference in the annual dividends. One of the Home Defense members has already refused to continue his guard duty although he was one of the first detachments to take up the work, and it is not to be wondered at if many others follow suit in a few days. Let the Home Defensers continue the arduous task they have undertaken and also let the Water Company share a part of the burden.

Rumors that have been current for the past few weeks have come to a head within a day or two with the startling intelligence that the Nott pumping engine at Fire Headquarters is useless and practically worthless. Experts declare it will cost almost as much to rebuilt it as would purchase a new machine, and even if the former were done there would be no guarantee of future dependency. The members of the Fire Board are wrestling with the problem of what to do, fully realizing the contract they have on their hands. Taxpayers are grumbling and justly so, but in this case blame cannot be attached. It narrows down to the hard and cold fact that the city was handed an $8,000 lemon. The Nott company has gone out of business and the only thing left for the Councilmanic committee to do is to full out of the hole with the easiest grace possible. But one thing is certain, a reliable pumping engine is needed and must be secured.

Registration Questione to be Answered

as "August 5th." Then say "on my birthday this year I will be (or was) ..... yrs. old." The registrar will then fill in the year of birth. Many people do not carry in mind the year they were born. This may be obtained by the registrar by subtracting the age in years on this year's birthday from 1917.

4. Are you (1) a natural born citizen; (2) a naturalized citizen; (3) an alien; (4) or have you declared your intention to become a citizen? (Specify which.)

(1) If you were born in the United States, including Alaska and Hawaii, you are a natural-born citizen, no matter what may have been the citizenship or nationality of your parents.

If you were born in Porto Rico, you are a citizen of the United States, unless you were born of alien parents. If you were born abroad, you are still a citizen of the United States if your father was a citizen of the United States at the time you were born, unless you have expatriated yourself.

2(1) You are a naturalized citizen if you have completed your naturalization; that is, if you have "taken final papers." But you are not a citizen if you have only declared your intention to become a citizen (that is, if you have only "taken out first papers"); in the latter case you are only a "declarant."

You are also a naturalized citizen if, although foreign born, your father or surviving parent became fully naturalized while you were under 21 years of age, and if you came to the United States under 21.

(3) You are a declarant if, although a citizen or subject of some foreign country, you have declared on path before a naturalization court your intention to become a citizen of the United States. Receipt from the clerk of the court of the certified copy of such declaration is often called "taking out first papers." You are not a declarant if your first paper was taken out after September 26, 1906, and is more than 7 years old.

(4) You are an alien if you do not fall within one of the three classes above mentioned.

5. Where were you born?

First name of the town, then the State, then the country, as "Columbus, Ohio;" "Vienna, Austria;" "Paris, France;" "Sofia, Bulgaria."

6. If not a citizen, of what country are you a citizen or subject?

This need be answered only by aliens and declarants. Remember that a "declarant" is not yet a citizen of the United States. If an alien or declarant, state the name of your country, as "France," "Japan," "China."

7. What is your present trade, occupation, or office?

This does not ask what you once did, nor what you have done most of the time, nor what you are best fitted to do. It asks what your job is right now. State briefly, as "Farmer," "Miner," "Student," "Laborer on farm, in rolling mill, in automobile, wagon, or other factory;" "Machinist in automobile factory," etc. If you hold an office under State or Federal government, name the office you hold. If you are in the military or the naval service of the United States, state "Army of the United States" or "Navy of the United States." If you are in one of the following offices or employments, state one of the names hereinafter mentioned:

"Customhouse clerk," "employed in the transmission of the mails," "or "employed in an armory, arsenal, or navy yard;" "Mariner, actually employed in the sea service of citizen or merchant within the United States."

8. By whom employed? Where employed?

If you are working for an individual, firm, corporation, or association, state its name. If in business, trade, profession, or employment for yourself, so state. If you are an officer of the State or Federal Government, say whether your office is under the United States, the State, the county, or a municipality. In answer to the question as to where you are employed, give the town, county, and State where you work.

9. Have you a father, mother, wife, child under 12, or a sister or brother under 12 solely dependent upon you for support (specify which)?

Consider your answer thoughtfully. If it is true that there is another mouth that your own which you alone have a duty to feed, do not let your military ardor interfere with the wish of the Nation to reduce war's misery to a minimum. On the other hand, unless the person you have in mind is solely dependent on you, do not hide behind petticoats or children. Remember that this answer alone will not exempt you from liability to service.

10. Married or single (which)? Race (specify which)?

This does not ask whether you were once married, but whether you are married now. In answer to the question as to your race, state briefly whether "Caucasian," "Mongolian," "Negro," "Malayan," or "Indian."

11. What military service have you had? Rank? Branch? Years? Nation or State?

No matter what country you served, you must give complete information. In answering these questions, first name your rank, using one of the following words: "Commissioned officer," "Noncommissioned officer," "Private." Next, state branch in which you served. Use one of the following words: "Infantry," "Cavalry," "Artillery," "Medical," "Signal," "Aviation," "Supply," "Marine," "Navy." Next, state the number of years' service, not counting time spent in the reserve. Finally, name the Nation or State you served. If you served under the United States or one of the States of the United States, name your service in one of the following terms: "National Guard (of such and such a State)," "Militia (of such and such a State)," "Volunteers of United States," or "Regular Army (Navy) of United States."

12. Do you claim exemption from draft? Specify grounds.

Because you claim exemption from draft, it by no means follows that you are exempt. For the information of the War Department you should make a claim now if you intend to prosecute it. Some persons will be exempted on account of their occupations or offices, some on account of the fact that they have relatives dependent upon them for support. Your answer touching these things will be important in supporting the claim you now intend to make in your answer to the present questions. Be sure, therefore, that the grounds you now state are in conformity with your answers to questions 7 and 8. If stating grounds of claim as exempting you, use one of the following terms: If you claim to be an executive, legislative, or judicial officer of the State or Nation, name your office and say whether it is an office of the State or Nation. If you are in the military or naval service and this is your ground, simply say "Military service of the United States" or "Naval service of the United States." If you claim to be a member of a religious sect whose creed forbids its members to participate in war in any form, simply name the sect. If you are employed in the transmission of United States mails or as an artificer or mariner in an armory, arsenal, or navy yard of the United States, or if you are a mariner employed in the sea service of any citizen or merchant within the United States, so state. If you are a felon or otherwise morally deficient and desire to claim exemption on that ground, state your ground briefly. If you claim physical disability, state that briefly.

Assessors Commence Work Next Monday

Plainfield's board of assessors will sally out next Monday morning to begin their annual scrutiny of real estate and personal property for the purpose of fixing the assessed valuation for 1917. May 20 is fixed by law as the beginning of the annual inspection, but as this date falls on Sunday postponement for one day becomes necessary. The intelligent work the members of the board will complete their rounds within a month after which the tax rate for the coming year can be figured out.

The assessors for the various wards are as follows: First ward, Thomas C. Hughes; second ward, Harry C. Runyon; Third ward, John G. McLoughlin; Fourth ward, Henry Liefke.

More than ordinary precaution is to be taken this year to secure a fair and equitable assessment of property in every section of the city. The citizens' committee, appointed by former Mayor Percy H. Stewart to aid the assessors in arriving at satisfactory figures on disputed valuations, will extend their help again. Because of the numerous forms of taxation that will come about shortly through the war situation the finance committee of the Common Council believes that absolute justice should be shown every resident, making certain that no one pays more than his share of the city expense or that some one else is getting off too lightly. The solving of this problem is what led to the designation of the citizens' committee.

The total valuation of Plainfield property last year, both real and personal, was $31,000,000 in round figures. The average increase every twelve months is about 10 per cent., but the belief exists that it will be more than that the present time. A little short of $1,000,000 worth of building permits were granted by inspector Doane in 1916, the largest aggregate amount ever recorded in his office. Two of them were for factory buildings, which means the installation of valuable machinery, and several were for large business or residential structures. In addition scores of new families have come to the city through the prosperity at the local manufactories, all of which have a tendency to enlarge the assessment figures. The increase will materially aid in keeping down the coming tax rate, although it seems quite certain now that there will be an increase of thirteen or fourteen points over last year's figure of $1.91 on each valuation of $100.

St. Mary's T. A. B. Anniversary

ing Board; Hon. Mark A. Sullivan, Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, of Hudson county; John J. Fitzgerald, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, of Paterson, N. J.; Francis J. Blatz, president of the Plainfield Common Council; William L. Smalley, mayor of North Plainfield; Rev. Peter J. O'Callaghan, of Washington, D. C., former president of the C. T. A. U. of A.; Rev. Monsignor P atrick Cody, of Newark; Rev. Bro. M. Hogan, chaplain and spiritual director of the society, and President Joseph T. McCue. The musical portion of the program will include solos by Miss Mary Donnelly and Albert F. LaRock.

Standing out prominently in the big gathering will be John Walsh and John Barry, the only two remaining members of the original nineteen. The two "deans" have not been allotted set subjects for an address, but it is a certainty they will be called upon to speak. The probabilities are that brief remarks will be made by Michael D. O'Keefe, John J. Hines, Alfred E. LaPorte and several other of the most active workers who have helped place the organization on the footing it enjoys at the present time. The decorating committee has been busy for the past week with the result that the hall is a symphony in red, white and blue and other colors giving a patriotic and artistic effect.

The anniversary committee appointed to take entire charge of the two days' program is composed of: Joseph McCue, chairman; Alfred E. LaPorte, secretary; Jeremiah Callaman, Michael D. O'Keefe, Michael B. Caffery, John J. Hines, James P. O'Keefe, Thomas Hines, Daniel Guinee.

The history of St. Mary's T. A. B. Society furnishes a most striking example of what can be accomplished by "stick-to-itiveness." he humble beginning in 1872 was almost entirely due to the late Rev. Father Morrin, then rector of St. Mary's church. He was heartily in accord with the idea of temperance as propounded by Bishop Matthews in Ireland more than half a century ago and induced the young men of the parish to take the matter up. The result was the formation of St. Mary's T. A. B. as a society, beginning with nineteen members and maintaining a steady growth until today it has a personnel of 225. Every young man who joins the organization pledges himself to absolute abstinence from liquor and following out Bishop Matthews' plan, helps to sustain his willpower by frequent attendance at The sacrament of Holy Communion. The value of this pledge reverts to the especial good of the member and the general betterment of the entire community.

During the first year of the T. A. B. existence $1,000 was raised by subscription. With this amount, an American flag, an Irish flag and a banner were purchased. These flags still adorn the wall of the society's club house, bidding all members to fight for temperance, home and country.

The late Peter Flynn, father of Peter Flynn, of Watching avenue, and Mrs. George McCusker, of Berckman street, was the first president of the society. He remained faithful to his vow until his death a few years ago and was instrumental in much of the early progress of the little band. In the forty-five years more than $90,000 has been raised by the organization and distributed among the members in sick benefits of $3 a week and death benefits of $60. This large amount is remarkable in a way when it is made known that the membership initiation fee is but $1 and the dues only 25 cents a month. The club house on West Fourth street is the society's property having been purchased from St. Mary's parish and remodeled at considerable expense. It has always been gratifying to the officers to know that they have the full support of the community in their work and financial assistance was readily given by men of all denominations whenever requested. The officers also feel especially thankful to Rev. Father Bernard M. Bogan for his kindly advice and assistance during the thirteen years he has been chaplain of the society.

During the society's forty-five years of activity but nineteen members have died. This fact alone is a strong proof of the physical value of total abstinence. The members attribute much of their success to the active part always taken in church affairs. Every year a gold medal is given to the parochial school, and in the field of athletic sports the T. A. B's have been well represented in baseball and basketball. These teams have always rendered a good account of themselves and are enthusiastically supported. Those who recall the memorable city league series of 1903 will remember that St. Mary's T. A. B. line was well to the fore, drawing thousands to every one of its contests. A fife and drum corps composed entirely of T. A. B. members has been in existence for a number of years and is often heard on the streets of Plainfield and has paraded in every large city in the State.

An adjunct of the society is the St. Mary's Social Club organized recently and composed of the young ladies of the parish. The social club takes part in all entertainments, such as fairs, dances, euchres and theatricals.

The club house, where the anniversary banquet is to take place, is equipped to meet all the needs of an active and energetic gathering of young men. It has bowling alleys, pool table, dance hall, basketball court, card rooms, stage, dressing room, shower baths, and a well appointed kitchen.

At the annual meeting of the society last Monday night the following officers were elected: President, Joseph T. McCue; vice president, Raymond Cahill; recording secretary, Timothy J. Lyons; financial secretary, Charles Schuck; treasurer, John J. Hines, and sergeant-at-arms, Daniel Guinee. The trustees are John Walsh, Michael D O'Keefe and Joseph Roach. It is a noteworthy fact that Trustee Walsh has been an officer in the society during the entire forty-five years of the society's existence.

Rev. Father B. M. Bogan attended the meeting as chaplain and made an address during which he urged all members to be present at the prayer service Sunday night. He also spoke about the value of the work of the society in the community, and complimented the members on their voluntary restraint and practice of willpower.

Federal Details of Registration

Two sacks containing blanks to be used for military registration that is to be taken soon after Congress passes the conscription bill now before it, were delivered to City Clerk Carroll. They came from the Federal Government of Washington and on the outside were printed instructions that their context should not be made public until after Congress acts finally on the draft measure. Accordingly the city clerk put the sacks aside without breaking the seals on them.

Circulars instructing the authorities as to the details for conducting the registration also were received by Mr. Carroll. These tell the officials how to estimate on the probable registration, calculating that the ratio will be one per cent. of the total population for each year of the ages fixed by the draft bill. Thus if the draft age be from 21 to 30 years, inclusive, as provided in the bill now before Congress, it will call for ten different ages, or ten per cent. of the population. According to the Government percentage, the Plainfield registration would be approximately 2,000 men between 21 to 30 years old.

While this number would have to be registered, it would not follow that all will be drafted for the army because many will be subject to exemption, and in addition this city will only have to furnish its proportion of the total draft.

Mr. Carroll has called attention to the fact that every male inhabitant between the draft ages fixed by Congress must register on the day to be set aside by President Wilson, whether or not he thinks he is exempt. All male residents within the prescribed ages, whether citizens, aliens or alien enemies, must register in the polling districts in which they live, and failure to do so is punishable by imprisonment. To impress this necessity on the foreign-speaking people here, Mr. Carroll will probably have circulars printed in various languages and distributed to every dwelling in the city.

BIG TIME PROMISED AT ELKS' PATRIOTIC DANCE.

What promises to be one of the greatest social events Plainfield Lodge of Elks has given in several years will take place at the Watching avenue clubhouse next Thursday night, May 24, in the former's patriotic dance. The committee making the arrangements has already decided upon several novel features and more are being worked out. The patriotic idea will be in the forefront in the decorative scheme, the present prevalence of the national spirit offering great possibilities for the appropriate blending of red, white and blue hunting, flags, Elk colors and colored lights. Edward Marks' Jass Band will provide a suitable program of national airs embodying the right kind of steps for dancing.

As one of the committee describes it, the dance "will be strictly informal; the ladies will not have to stay home because they have no new gowns to wear as the committee will frown upon any such action. This dance is not to be an Easter parade on Fifth avenue, but just an evening of sociability."

The committee in charge of the arrangements is composed of Frank Emmons, chairman; Hillaire Blatz, Herman Kling, Thomas A. Moore and Herbert L. Hatfield.

DRUM CORPS COMING TO T. A. B.'S ANNUAL BALL.

In connection with the elaborate observance of St. Mary's T. A. B. Society's forty-fifth anniversary next week, the T. A. B. Fife, Drum and Bugle Corps will hold its fifth annual military and civic ball. The affair will take place in T. A. B. Hall on West Fourth street, next Friday night, May 25, and the committee in charge is already assured of a large out of town attendance. Drum corps at Elizabeth, Rahway, Newark and other parts of the State have promised to send big delegations headed by their respective musicians. A special feature will be an exhibition of baton swinging by experts in this "art."

The committee in charge of the arrangements is composed of: Daniel Kregar, J. L. O'Keefe, Frank Donnolly, William Mohaney and Timothy J. Lyons.

What we offer is the new power sensation of 1917. It takes its place with the notable achievements in motor car performance of past years. Motorists have been quick to realize the advantage of this new kind of power for all conditions of travel and for all service expected of a motor car.

Crowns Success of 9-Year Chassis

The 9-Year Chassis on which is mounted The Multi-Powered Car, is the life work of Marin E. Crow.

For almost the entire lifetime of the industry he has worked on this one chassis while watching Crow-Elkhart Cars in their millions of miles of service. And this chassis is today the basis of the silklike power of the Multi-Powered Car.

In the 9-Year Chassis is developed what was probably the first "L" head motor—now the accepted standard. Successively he introduced such features as larger bearings, crank shafts and camshafts—valve cover plates—helical cut gears—large size valves—detachable cylinder heads—piston oil ports preventing smoking, and other important advancements. So that Crow-Elkhart Cars are full of new ideas—created by great 150,000 to 200,000 mile individual service records.

H. M. Canoune Gives Explanation of Netherwood Plan for Bird Sanctuary

So much interest has been aroused by the Netherwood Residents' Association's efforts to establish a bird sanctuary in the southeastern section of the city that a representative of the Record yesterday sought an interview with H. M. Canoune, of Denmark road, chairman of the committee from the association to take charge of the undertaking. Mr. Canoune has made a special study of the conservation of bird life and he elucidated numerous details of the movement which is now spreading over the country. The Netherwood residents have appropriated $20 as a nucleus of a fund to further the plan and the earnest cooperation of all local citizens is sought to make the proposition a success. In part Mr. Canoune spoke as follows:

"Although bird sanctuaries seem remote from the measures of public defense and protection which are engaging attention at the present moment, it doesn't require much thought to see that exactly the reverse is the fact, that the bird is not merely our best soldier, but in the deadly war which the insect creation wages constantly upon man's world, our only soldier. No fend can be more bitter, no hostility more intense than the issue between man and the insect creation and that is true notwithstanding that there are a few good insect species such as bees and the beautiful and harmless fireflies, the mirthful crickets, katydids, etc., just as there are good fungi which we call mushrooms. The fact remains that taken in its entirety, the insect creation is man's deadliest enemy. Anyone who knows the tropics will tell you that and any northerner will admit it in summer. And 99 per cent. of this enemy's deadliness lies in his inaccessibility and man's utter helplessness to cope with him. Even if sprays were not expensive and the labor of spraying more costly still, one might as well try to irrigate the State of New Jersey with garden hose as handle the insect attack upon the summer's foliage, the summer's crop, with a spray.

"But the world's one and sufficient answer to the insect canker, is the bird. How splendidly one might say, he fills the bill! Chester A. Reed, a well known ornithologist, figures that 21,000 bushels of insects are required to feed the birds of Massachusetts for one day. Imagine what Massachusetts would be like without birds. And what an ornament he is in the beauteous Earth and what an entertaining companion! So the bird is one of the vital defenses of our realm. In spite of some stealing of seed and raiding of grain fields and cherry trees and in spite of the fact that orioles and tanagers would be more desirable in your street than starlings and sparrows, the bird is man's friend and man will abuse the bird at h is peril.

"And man has abused this friend and the peril has drawn near, and that is where the sanctuary movement comes in. Intoxicated so to speak, with the seemingly boundless resources of this vast and isolated continent, our people have squandered their economic assets—their timber, coal, oil, wild game, disfigured the beauty of their land, and the bird has gone down with the rest. In the last 40 or 50 years several species have become extinct. The Great Auk was completely wiped out on its breeding grounds being used by thousands for fat and fishing bait. Hundreds of our water birds are without protection, doomed to the same fate, not to speak of an equal number of land birds. The beautiful Labrador or Pied Duck utterly disappeared toward the latter part of the last century; and the Passenger Pigeon, which in the days of Audubon was numbered by millions, has passed irrevocably from Earth's scenes. Millions upon millions of them were slaughtered at their regular roosting-places where untold thousands of them were allowed to rot on the ground. Often herds of hogs were turned in upon the dead and dying birds to devour them. Dr. D. W. Shufeldt, Fellow of the American Ornithologists' Union, writes in the American Forestry Magazine for April, 1917: 'At New Canaan, Conn., in 1872, I witnessed the tremendous flight of these big, blue pigeons. I short only comparatively few of them, while hundreds of gunners were shooting them for the mere sport of seeing them fall. My old teacher of taxidermy, James Jenkins, remembered the countless millions of these pigeons. In the nights in New York. He described their alighting by thousands upon thousands on the upper part of Manhattan island, and on houses in Newark, Harlem and in the outskirts of New York city and Brooklyn. A number of these birds were kept a few years ago, at the Zoological Gardens of Cincinnati, Ohio; and the very last Passenger Pigeon in the world, a female—'Martha'—died there early in September, 1915. So today is the day of insecticides and sprays to kill this blight and that. Meanwhile the chief blight, namely the blight on common sense, flourishes and hell enlarges itself and opens its mouth without measure. But some of our people have seen the light and conservation has come in. So we have the sanctuary as the product of wastease of wild life and the agency of conservation in the work of saving and restoring what remains. Similarly it is the product of bad hunting habits and the agency of conservation in the work of saving and augmenting the game and building it up to a point where it can stand the shooting of the open season.

The sanctuary which conservationists claim is the greatest single agency which their movement possesses in the work of bringing back the wild bird life so recklessly decimated, is any sufficiently large tract, say 3 to 5 thousand acres of suitable bird cover where the wild species are always safe, and can therefore breed freely. It is emphatically not a private game preserve. Nobody can shoot or hunt in a sanctuary. Even the owner pledges himself to abstain from his hunting rights. Only the sanctuary management has control of the work of ridding the tract of bird enemies such as cats and a very few wild species of bird destroyers. The subject of natural feeds between the bird tribes themselves is best left for nature to work out in her own way. The function of a sanctuary is that of a reservoir so to speak of bird life which is designed to irrigate the surrounding terrain where the hunter in his proper season can enjoy better sport than formerly—better because more plentiful and because accompanied by a better conscience, knowing that what he is taking with one hand, he has provided and safe-guarded with the other. Thus the sanctuary is a paradox, being the instrument both of the hunter and the conservationist, the gun club and the Audubon Society. It claims and is entitled to the active support of both.

The tract available for sanctuary work in Plainfield lies between the Rahway and Terrill roads from the Central Railroad to Cooper street or Lover's Lane. Perhaps in the future it can be enlarged so as to extend to the Lehigh tracks on the southeast; on the northeast to the Panwood road, including Shackamaxon, on the southwest to the Raritan road, including the Plainfield Country Club and join the city along the Woodland road. It is an ideal tract in extent, in the character of its coverts and its supply of water and bird foods. Let it not be overlooked that the city of Plainfield itself is a bird sanctuary of maximum possibilities. Shooting for obvious reasons is out of the question. The water and food supply is of the best and the pleasure of bird companionship and study can be enjoyed on the largest possible scale. All that is needed is to coordinate and standardize methods of feeding and protection especially in winter and in the breeding season and organize a simple course of public instruction. This can be done through the public schools, the Parent-Teacher Associations, the Boy Scouts and local bird chapters.

"The Netherwood Bird Sanctuary received its first impulse from the public spirit of several owners of large tracts in the above mentioned lands, among whom are W. P. Smith and S. A. Cruikshank, of Belvidere avenue; the Arens Estate and Adolf Hagadorn, of Rahway road; Henry E. Butler, of Cushing road; O. W. Smith, of Prescott Hill; Arthur L. Otterson, Louis K. Hyde and A. Clinton Wilmerding, president of the Netherwood Residents' Association. Through the encouragement and intelligent co-operation of these gentlemen and others, the matter was taken up at the last regular meeting of the Netherwood Residents' Association, when a committee was appointed and a sum of money appropriated to organize and lay out the sanctuary and post it before the open season in November.

"In its work the sanctuary committee relies most upon the sympathy and co-operation of the people of Plainfield, who are its beneficiaries; hoping that they will deal with the bird in a spirit of live and let live."

RINGLING BROTHERS COMING THIS WAY.

WORLD'S BIGGEST CIRCUS AND SPECTACLE "CINDERELLA" ANNOUNCED FOR EARLY DATE.

Announcement is made that Ringling Brothers' circus will give afternoon and night performance at Newark, Wednesday, May 23; Jersey City, Thursday, May 24, and Paterson, Friday, May 25.

The famous showmen are this season presenting an all new and wonderful program. The tremendous fairyland spectacle, "Cinderella," will appeal to both young and old. More than 1,000 persons take part in it. It is easily the biggest spectacle Ringling Brothers have ever staged and its glorious "Ballet of the Fairies," with 300 dancing girls, is in itself worth going many miles to see. Following "Cinderella" 400 arenic artists appear in the main tent program. The Ringlings have secured scores of circus performers never before seen in America. An entire trained animal show has been made a part of the main tent program this season. The menagerie now numbers 1,000 wild animals. The elephant herd, including "Big Bingo," the earth's largest pachyderm, have been increased to 41 and almost 800 horses are carried. There will be 60 clowns and a big free three-mile street parade show day morning.

Entertaining Bill at Local Playhouse

Manager Shannon, determined to give patrons of the Plainfield Theatre the best there is in vaudeville during the few remaining weeks of the season, has secured another excellent bill for the Second street playhouse the last part of the week. A singing and dancing act by Paddon, Marks & Co. is the headliner.

The four other numbers on the program are all good ones and include the following: Lambert & Bisco, comedians; the Millmans, a novelty offering; Lanigan & Foster, comedians, and Ivy & Ivy, singers and dancers. First run photo-plays, including Hearst-Pathe News and Mutual comedies are added to the usual bill.

"Her Unborn Child" at Local Theatre

At the Plainfield Theatre, for three days, beginning Thursday, May 24, with matinees for ladies only daily, will be an excellent company in support of Richard Buhler in "Her Unborn Child," a drama dealing with a common happening in every day life.

This latest dramatic sensation, "Her Unborn Child," is a capital story in which neither an overpowering spectacle nor a tiresome sermon is permitted to dull the keen edge of human interest. It shocks into a realization of the most tremendous facts in every day life, but in doing so it does not affront the sensibilities or insult the intelligence. It discloses truths about sex relations with an audacity that is equalled only by the action of the play. It is mightiest in the serene refinement of its honesty, and its appeal is direct and instant to the best and most purifying instincts of genuine love.

The qualities of this remarkable play are reflected and carried out by the unusual cast which the producers have given it. Richard Butler, he of the kingly countenance the mobile features, the thoughtful eyes, and the mighty physique, has never done a finer piece of acting.

In Mr. Buhler's supporting company will be found Miss Ann Sutherland, late with "Cheating Cheaters" company, at the Eltinge Theatre all last season; Levinna Shannon, Rosamond Carpenter, Marguerite McNulty, Little Ida Maye, R. Thomas Holden, and Max Von Mitzel.

ILLUSTRATED LECTURE.

An illustrated lecture will be given on Monday night at the Park Club, to which the public is cordially invited.

Under Sea Picture Booked at Proctor's

Jules Verne died a disappointed man because people of his time refused to take him seriously. But he might not have been disappointed had he lived to see his prophecies fulfilled or had he lived to see his book, "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea," put into moving pictures. Nothing like this picture has ever been shown on the screen; the under-water pictures are amazing and the whole film is one of unusual beauty and interest. This production appears at Proctor's local theatre on Monday and Tuesday, May 21st and 22nd, coming here directly from the Broadway Theatre, New York, where it created a furore and enjoyed an extremely successful run. The patrons will be held spellbound by views of life under the sea, where fishes of strange shapes, sharks, live coral and other aquatic creatures flash before the eye in rapid succession. The bed of the ocean is shown during one part of these pictures and the scenes are so beautiful that they are beyond description. These under-water pictures were taken by a process patented by Williamson Brothers, who sunk a diving bell far under the surface of the sea with moving picture operators inside. The patrons see actual fights between men and sharks and in one part of the picture a diver is shown battling with a giant octopus. No seats will be reserved, and there will be a continuous performance daily from 2 until 11 p. m.

"TWILIGHT SLEEP" FILM TO BE SHOWN AT PROCTOR'S

By special arrangement with the local board of censors and with the Modern Motherhood League, the management of Proctor's Theatre will present the much discussed motion picture, "Twilight Sleep," at the local playhouse on Thursday, Friday and Saturday mornings, May 24, 25, 26th, at 10 a. m. These performances are for women only. This unique series of pictures appeared at the Shubert Theatre, New York city, for a run of three months and was witnessed by thousands of women. It is a wonderful photoplay story showing the modern method of painless childbirth through the use of "Twilight Sleep." In connection with the presentation of these pictures, Mrs. Dr. Fralegh will lecture on the subject. The prices for the presentation of these pictures are as usual.

CITY LEAGUE CONTESTS.

Two baseball games that promise to be warmly contested are on tap in the City League tomorrow. St. Joseph's will lineup against Hope Chapel and the Acroplane team will try conclusions with the First Baptist aggregation.

All of State's Resources Ready

The military preparedness plans of Plainfield and other cities and towns in the State have been gathered together by Governor Edge into a report, which has been forwarded to the War Department.

The essential difference between the plan followed in this State and elsewhere is that in New Jersey the Executive heads of the municipalities have been selected to direct the work of mobilization, with all the powers and resources at their command, instead of general committees of citizens. Every municipality in the State forms a part of this machinery, from the state government down to the smallest township or borough. At the same time committees of citizens are given every opportunity to work and aid in the movement.

Suggestions and offers of service of all private citizens and organizations are being utilized to the utmost extent possible. Every practical suggestion coming to the Governor from any private citizen or organization is immediately issued to the head of every municipality through the employment by the Governor of the adjutant general's office as a distributing agent. In this way every single unit of the State receives the benefit of every useful suggestion or plan or offer of assistance. Such suggestions before being promulgated are discussed by the Governor and the adjutant general and if considered of sufficient importance are forwarded to Mayors, to be passed along to sub-divisions of the defense organization within the municipalities.

"All home guards are given," said Governor Edge, "the fullest encouragement through the Executive head of the municipality where they are organized. I am glad that the plan permits us to do this, for I realize the importance of these home guard organizations. They would admirably fill the bill for the soldiers of the second or third line of defense in case the war be prolonged and the necessity present itself."

The only exception to the rule of carrying out all the defense plans through the municipal Executives is found in the proposition to mobilize schoolboys to assist farmers to solve the problem of farm labor and thereby increase the agricultural output. In this instance, the co-operation of city and county superintendents of schools has been urged and directed by the commissioner of education working directly with the Governor, rather than the municipal Executives.

The effectiveness of the New Jersey plan has been demonstrated already by the fact that each municipality in the State is working along concentrated lines in exactly the same way and for identical purposes that every other municipality is working. In addition to the plan of operation through municipal units, Governor Edge has the active co-operation of the State grange, the State Department of Agriculture, the Department of Labor and the Department of Conservation and Development.

APPLICATIONS FOR PENSIONS.

Judge James J. Connolly has set aside next Monday morning beginning at 10 o'clock for the hearing of applications for widows' pensions in Union county. Francis J. Blatz, of this city, county attorney, will represent the Board of Freeholders during the session.

HELPING SWELL LOAN.

Plainfield has responded excellently to the "Liberty Loan" and already upward of $100,000 has been subscribed. A number of local residents have subscribed to the loan through New York banks, but the State Trust Company, following a telegram from Secretary McAdoo, raised $50,000 and is now busy collecting a like amount.

Elk's Show Sure to be a Hummer

Judge William N. Runyon, director of the mammoth minstrel production which Plainfield Lodge of Elks is to give in conjunction with the Volunteer Auxiliary league at the Plainfield Theatre on June 4, has made excellent progress during the past week. Three rehearsals have been held for the big chorus, each of which was attended by nearly one hundred trained singers. They have taken hold of the catchy song choruses with a vim surpassing all previous efforts and everything will be in apple-pie shape many days before the performance.

Charles Kregar, of this city, and "Doc" Dodwell, of Dunellen, have been added to the list of endmen. Both of these young artists have had experience in other shows and are counted upon to make good in the Elks' production. Of the solo numbers, "Herb" Tallamy has one of the best in the "Long, Long Trail." It is one of the season's catchiest compositions and Judge Runyon has arranged the chorus effect that makes it a "hummer." "Phil" Smith has a "deep sea" bass song under way certain to get him a half a dozen curtain calls, and "Ed." Harding has gotten a tenor song to sing that was recommended to him by Irving Berlin, the composer, who has given vaudeville more than 200 distinct hits. William Tallamy and Elmer Cutting are also down for tenor solos, the names of which have not been given out. Judge Runyon is busy working out the topical song which will be sung by "Tom" Muir. It will have one of those catchy airs which made the Judge "Thinks Are Different Now," "In the Sweet Bye and Bye," "Everybody Is Hoping for a Change," "If the Mayor Would Only Give His Job to Me," and other jingling tunes the standard for local compositions and, of course, each verse will be an absolute hit on a timely subject, while the Judge is making no promises at this particular moment. Those who have heard his topicals before can come to the Plainfield Theatre on June 4 prepared for something absolutely and unqualifiedly good.

No Elks' show would be complete without "Banty" Bennett and Harry Blimm holding down an end seat and they will be on deck this year. "Banty" is now struggling with the reigning comic song hit, "Oh Johnny." When he gets it down to the point where he is ready to pass it over the footlights there will be many a busted chair in the Second street playhouse due to the writhings of convulsive listeners. "Blimmie" has one of Franz Laher's master pieces bearing the title, "Hold the Candle, Mother, While I Shave the Chicken's Lip." A select audience permitted to hear him try it out has not finished laughing yet.

In the olio following the first part, the program will include four big feature acts now being arranged by the committee. The finale will be a "rip-roaring" patriotic tableau with a red fire finish calculated to rouse up the most calloused citizen who ever joined in singing a national anthem. The full proceeds from the show are to be placed in a fund for aiding the dependents of Plainfield boys called to the colors and this purpose alone should result in a packed house on the night of the performance.

Seals Above The Ground

The famous Norwalk Cement Burial Vault is now sealed above the ground in plain sight of the family. Any burial receptacle, however waterproof and durable, is worthless unless its seal is a perfect one. The Norwalk Vault with its 3 inch depth of seal is tried and proven 100% efficient. The proof of which we say is 10 years of steadily increasing business—the burial of between 250,000 and 300,000 vaults in every section of the United States. OBITUARY

Personal Mention of Plainfielders and Others Who Have Heeded the Summons of Death During the Past Week.

EDWARD J. SULLIVAN.

Following an illness of nearly three years, death came early Sunday morning to Edward J. Sullivan, brother of John J. Sullivan, proprietor of the Hotel Kensington, where the demise occurred. While it was known that Mr. Sullivan's condition was serious, the immediate end was unexpected and resulted rather suddenly after only two days' confinement to his bed. Throughout his long invalidism the deceased bore his suffering with patient fortitude, at no time making any complaint or indicating in any way that he was in physical pain.

Edward Sullivan was born in London, England, in 1846, but came to this country with his parents when he was three years old. The family located at Jamesburg, Monmouth country, and remained in that section of the State until a few years ago. Mr. Sullivan was in the laundry business for a long time but gave up in 1903 to enter another line. He was extremely popular in Jamesburg, where he was one time chief of the fire department, but was also well known in Freehold, Spotswood and Point Pleasant. Coming to Plainfield about three years ago, Mr. Sullivan made friends rapidly and at the time of his death his local acquaintances were numbered by the hundred. He was a ready talker and his fund of Monmouth county anecdotes furnished many hours' amusement for his eager listeners. To all of these "Ed" Sullivan's end came all too soon.

Beside his brother, John Sullivan, the deceased is survived by his aged mother, and one sister, Mrs. Julia Breen, who reside at the Hotel Kensington; three nieces and a nephew, the latter being William Breen, of the hotel. The funeral was held in St. Mary's church Tuesday morning with relatives and friends in attendance. Rev. Father Hennessey said the mass and a special offertory solo was sung by Albert F. LaRock. The large number of floral tributes included set pieces from Plainfield Lodge of Elks, of which John J. Sullivan is a member; permanent guests of the Hotel Kensington and Edward Sullivan's closest coterie of friends. Burial was in the family plot in St. James' cemetery, Jamesburg. The pall-bearers were: J. Howard Dyke, Don Fralick, Thomas Healy, Joseph Freed, Knight I. Faucett and Gustav Fredericks.

MICHAEL GEARITY.

Michael Gearity, a former well-known resident of this city, died Sunday at his home in Augusta, Me. The body was brought to Plainfield and the funeral was held yesterday morning in the undertaking parlors of Casey & Son, at Park and North avenues. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mr. Gearity was the son of Peter Gearity, of Somerville, and came to Plainfield with his parents when he was a young man. The family lived for a long time at West Sixth and Liberty streets until about ten years ago, after which the deceased went to Maine. His only surviving relative is Mrs. Mary Reed, of Newark.

ALOYSIUS E. HEROLD.

Aloysius E. Herold, until ten years ago a resident of this city, died last week at his home in Brooklyn, following a long illness with heart trouble. Although he had been detained from work for some time he was confined to his bed only a few days. The funeral was held at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Herold, on Fifth avenue, Brooklyn, Saturday morning, and later in St. Augustine's church, that city. The body was brought to Plainfield on the 11:10 train for burial in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mr. Herold was forty-two years old and was employed for a number of years in the foundry department at the Pond Tool Works. His father, Godfrey Herold, was at one time proprietor of a cafe on Somerset street, opposite French's mill, but in recent years had been living in Brooklyn. The deceased had a wide local acquaintance and news of the death was received with deep regret. Beside his parents, Mr. Herold is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Henry Windham, wife of the proprietor of the Hotel Waldorf, and Miss Clara Herold, living in Brooklyn.

MRS. WARREN H. MARSH.

Mrs. Marion Frances Marsh, wife of Warren H. Marsh, of Union street, died Friday night in Muhlenberg Hospital, following an operation performed a week previous. The funeral services was held at her late home Monday afternoon and was private. Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, was the officiating clergyman. Interment was in Hillside cemetery.

Mrs. Marsh was a native of Natchez, Miss., but had resided in Plainfield practically all the time since her marriage to Mr. Marsh twenty-seven years ago. She was a member of the Church of the Holy Cross, where she was active in the religious work of the women's departments for a long time. Besides her husband Mrs. Marsh is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Robert Bellows, of this city; one brother, James B. Packard, of San Francisco, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. O. T. Waring, of Park avenue.

RIFLE CLUB MEETING.

A meeting of the Plainfield Rifle Club has been called for tonight by D. G. Atwood, the president of the organization, and will be held in the Company K armory on West Front street. Several matters pertaining to the activities of the club will be taken up, including the selecting of the site for a range, the choosing of a headquarters and the electing of a secretary. A full attendance is asked.

STREET IMPROVEMENTS.

Because work on the permanent paving is to be started within the next few days, the street department of the city notified all property owners on the various streets affected to lay any piping necessary at the present time, as the thoroughfares would not be dug up after they had once been laid.

HYDEWOOD OPENING.

The summer activities at the Hydewood Golf Club will commence on Saturday, May 26, and will continue until after Labor Day. Weekly competition for the Hydewood and President's cup will be a feature, and on Decoration Day, Fourth of July and other holidays special cards will be arranged.

"Perhaps" Bob Fitzsimmons Is Getting $1,000 "Per" Week

Tiring of the evangelistic campaign which he entered only a short time ago and of which he was making a great success, Robert J. Fitzsimmons, erstwhile Plainfielder and former champion heavyweight pugilist of the world, is soon to become a circus favorite. Dispatches from Kansas City a few days ago announced that "Lanky Bob," and his son, Robert, Jr., have been signed up by the management of the Sells-Floto Shows for an arena act at the magnificent salary of $1,000 per week. The insertion of "per week" in the telegrams is taken by local friends to mean that "perhaps" Bob will get the one thousand, and "perhaps" he will not, but nevertheless, the belief exists that some of the amount mentioned will be in real money.

Just what the pugilist and his young hopeful are to do is not made known by the Kansas City informers. It is quite probable, however, that their contribution to the circus program will be a sparring match on the center stage between the first and second rings under the grouping: Display No. 6—An aggregation of the world's greatest and most ancient institutions, revealing the Herculean athlete of other days, fresh from his triumphal defeat of John Barleycorn, and the hypnotizing of all followers of Billy Sunday's carbon copies, assisted by his counter-part, the coming pugilistic champion of all continents. Spectators will please remain seated while Mr. Fitzsimmons demonstrates how he knocked the "h" out of whiskey. The Sells-Floto circus is one of the largest in the country, making its headquarters in Kansas City and showing only in the Western States. It never comes further East than Michigan, therefore "Bob's" Plainfield friends will be denied the privilege of seeing him in his new undertaking. This is regretted by many of his admirers who contend that the freckled Cornishman is still as handy with his fists as ever and if given only half a chance could put Jess Willard over the ropes.

Bob has tried numerous schemes to keep going since the New York Boxing Commission denied him the right to take part in any more bouts in the Empire State, but all of them failed of success until the popularity acquired by Billy Sunday and Dr. Bolderwolf gave him a new idea. Early last winter the old king of the prize ring coached himself up on Biblical lore and branched out as an evangelist, one of the few who had a past and was not afraid to tell about it. He opened up his circuit at Camden, where he made thousands weep by his stories of the "horrible effects of rum," and exhortations for young men to lead a better life. From Camden Bob made a visit to numerous cities throughout the Middle Atlantic and North Atlantic States, and the last Plainfielders heard of him previous to the latest news from Kansas City was that he was "knockin' 'em out of their seats" up around Boston. His desertion of the evangelistic field is a mystery to his intimate acquaintances but it may be that the revival platform gave him no opportunity to prove his assertion that he never was or never will be a "has-been" when it comes to the manly art of self-defense.

"House Wreckers" Bid $7,000 For Hotel Costing $300,000

Representatives of several New York and Chicago "house wrecking" companies have looked over the Netherwood Hotel during the past week and several offers for the building have been made to the association of residents which recently purchased the entire property in order to get the structure away from the neighborhood. The best proposition made came from one of the concerns which agrees to pay the new owners $7,000 cash and take away every bit of material in the big building. This offer will undoubtedly be accepted and with the amount secured from the sale of the land will more than cover the figure of $29,500 paid the estates of Charles Hyde, J. T. Lodtum, and Henry L. Lattimer, which held the building for many years.

One of the difficulties met by the executors of the three estates in disposing of the property was the uncertain expense of tearing the old building down. It is built very high and with quite extra precautions for the protection of workmen. Beside this the cost of ordinary labor has increased to such an extent that it will mean a large outlay for this alone. The association of buyers assumed all the chances when they bought the property and the offer from the house wrecking company will now relieve them of everything. It is estimated by several local contractors that it will cost fully $3,000 to do the rasing, but that after the expenses are all paid the wrecking concern stands in a position to make about $5,000 from the sale of materials, such as bricks, lead-pipe, copper and bronze fixtures and lumber. When the hotel was built in 1877 it cost all told about $300,000.

CIVIL SERVICE HEARING.

The State Civil Service Commission will hold a hearing at Trenton next Tuesday to discuss the petitions of fifteen members of the State Inheritance Tax Department asking that they be retained in office. One of them is from John P. Owens, tax collector for this district. A law was recently passed putting the positions under civil service regulations, thus putting the present incumbents out of office.

Get This Guarantee

The makers of Quaker Tires do more than make "the finest tires made"—they guarantee them to be, at least, 1500 miles better than the tires you likely use.

Tempering the rubber adds "the finishing touch" to tires that are as sturdily built as your car itself. Tempered rubber is marvelously tough, it does not cut easily nor will it crack, chip or pick out.

Certainly you are not fair to yourself if you continue to use tires adjusted on a 3500-mile basis when you can get the Quaker adjustment of 5000 miles.

One Quaker Tire on your car will sell you three more. Come in and see us.

G. A. R. "Vets" Ready for the Fiftieth Memorial Day

With the entire country in a fervor of patriotism because of President Wilson's martial declaration against Prussianism on April 6, the coming observance of Memorial Day promises to be the greatest since the conception of the plan to revere the memories of departed soldiers once each year as a national holiday. The event this year is all the more auspicious for the Memorial celebration as it marks the fiftieth anniversary as it marks the fiftieth anniversary of Commander-in-Chief General John A. Logan's order to revere the men who have given up their lives in defense of the country. Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., takes charge of the observance in Plainfield and has prepared a most patriotic and interesting program, including church services next Sunday, school details to address pupils in the various local schools, decorating squads for the cemeteries, the G. A. R. parade Decoration Day morning and public services in Columbus Hall beginning at 1:30 on Decoration Day afternoon. This will be the first time in many years that the exercises have been held away from Reform Hall but the commodious hall affords the old soldiers an opportunity to take part in the monster flag-raising which Watchung Council, K. of C., is to conduct on its grounds.

At the public meeting, Assemblyman William N. Runyon will make the principal address. Mr. Runyon spoke last year, giving such an eloquent oration that the veterans insisted that he talk to them again on the fiftieth anniversary of Decoration Day. School children in charge of Mrs. John Manley will sing patriotic songs and members of Winfield Scott Post will speak briefly. A cordial invitation is extended to all interested to attend.

Until the celebration of a year ago, the veterans' parade on Memorial Day morning was always led by the late Captain William Hand as marshal. He rode a handsome black horse at the head of the procession that is still in the possession of his son, Recorder Fred W. Hand, of the borough, who has kindly loaned the use of the animal to Winfield Scott Post for next Wednesday. The horse will be ridden by William N. Pangborn, an intimate friend of Captain Hand's, who is an expert rider and has been named as marshal.

In addition to the veterans of the Civil War, of whom there are comparatively few remaining in this city, the parade will include the veterans of the Spanish War, Troop D, First Squadron, N. J. Cavalry; vet-

C. Ames Brooks to Become An Ambulancier in France

Plainfield is to have another representative on the battlefields of France. C. Ames Brooks, of East Seventh street, will leave for Europe sometime during the forepart of June, where he will join the Paris branch of the American ambulance service. The full particulars of Mr. Brooks' trip could not be obtained at his home by a Record reporter last night, as he is on a business trip through the South.

Mr. Brooks has been intensely enthusiastic over the idea of going to France ever since the ambulance service was first established by Americans and several months ago decided to offer his services. He is now closing up his business affairs preparatory to sailing on either June 9 or 16 for France, where he will serve for three months in the Paris section. That branch of the service Mr. Brooks will be in confines its work mostly to Paris, although frequent trips will be made thirty or forty miles outside the city for wounded to be brought to the base hospitals.

Mr. Brooks is well known in this city, having long been a resident here. He is a graduate of the Plainfield High School, Princeton University and the Harvard Law School. At present he is a practicing lawyer in New York city. He belongs to a number of clubs and has taken an active part in the affairs of the younger set.

Mr. Brooks makes the second Plainfield man to enter the American ambulance service in France, Lyman Hibbard, also of Seventh street, having been serving in the section directly behind the battlefront since last December. A number of Mr. Hibbard's letters have been printed in the Record and vividly portray the exciting life of an ambulancier.

Rev. Father Bernard M. Bogan, Rector of St. Mary's, Thirty-two Years a Priest

Although the event will not be marked by other than the receiving of hundreds of congratulatory messages from parishioners and friends all over this section of the country, Rev. Father Bernard M. Bogan, for the past fourteen years rector of St. Mary's church, this city, will observe his thirty-second anniversary as a priest on Monday. When he celebrated his silver jubilee seven years ago it was the occasion of a gathering of notable church men from all over the State, who came here to attend the anniversary mass and to pay their respects. Since then he has become even more widely known among the clergy of the church and more beloved among the members of his parish until now as each year marches by there is a continual stream of visitors on each anniversary day, all coming to congratulate him on reaching another year in his priesthood. He is enjoying excellent health at this present time. Last December he passed his fifty-sixth birthday and at that time was the recipient of many messages of congratulation and well-wishes.

Father Bernard M. Bogan was born in Newark on December 8, 1858. He attended the Cathedral school and St. Benedict's College in Newark and began his studies of the classics in St. Charles' College, Maryland, where he remained four years. In 1877 he entered the junior class of Seton Hall College, receiving the Degree of Bachelor of Arts at the end of that year. The following year he was graduated from the college, taking the Degree of Master of Arts and was valedictorian of his class on the day of his graduation. In the following September he returned to Seton Hall and entered the Seminary to study for the priesthood. He finished his theological course in 1885 and was ordained a priest on May 26, of that year, by the late Rt. Rev. Winand M. Wigger, then Bishop of the Newark Diocese.

Father Bogan's first year as a priest was spent in the churches of St. Paul of the Cross and St. Bridget, Jersey City. From 1886 to 1895 he was assistant at the Church of the Holy Cross, at Harrison, whence he received his appointment as rector of St. Mary's church, Rahway, where he remained until appointed by the Rt. Rev. John J. O'Connor, present Bishop of the Newark Diocese, to the pastorate of St. Mary's church, this city.

Father Bogan has been the pastor of St. Mary's church for fourteen years. During his pastorate the church has acquired considerable property which is used for school purposes. A convent has been erected for the Sisters who teach in the parochial school and St. Bernard's church, named in honor of Father Bogan, has been built in Netherwood Heights, one of that section. There is little debt on any of the church property, as Father Bogan has been well supported in all his undertakings by his congregation.

Lionel Cruikshank Slapped Wife's Face

Evidences of domestic troubles in the household of Lionel Cruikshank were revealed in the city court yesterday morning, when Mr. Cruikshank was arraigned before Judge DeMeza on a charge preferred by his wife that he had a habit of slapping her in the face.

Cruikshank admitted that his wife's allegation was correct but he was induced to caress her softly on the off-cheek because she had a habit of sending him off to work without his breakfast. When and act like regular people.

Co. K Ranks Depleted by Dependants

The completion of another week of guard duty by Company K finds the outfit still badly in need of recruits. Members of the company have secured Plainfield, Westfield and other neighboring towns in an effort to fill the roster, but the release of a number of the married men of the company offset practically all that was accomplished. Just at present the National Guard is about as good as any branch of the service to enlist in, although recruiting officers are having a rather difficult time making possible additions to the company believe that enlistments do not have to be for six years. The following communication received by Captain Charles Peterson from the War Department should help to make the matter clear:

"You are informed that men enlisting, or who have enlisted since the declaration of war, in the National Guard, whether in the Federal service or not, may be assured that, upon their application, they will be discharged after the termination of the war. It is desired that you advise all concerned accordingly."

The company has lost a total of fifteen men since it went on duty through the dependency clause, those receiving discharges including: Clarence Smalley, Robert P. Dents, Paul V. Pierce, John Mahler, James B. MacDonald, Joseph Meyers, Louis K. Clarke, Herbert H. Reynolds, Charles Van Benschoten, Frank M. Kepler, John J. Hannig, Edward J. Horton and Harold A. Denlinger, of Plainfield; Edgar Van Benschoten, of Dunellen, and Percy R. Pearsall, of Westfield. This deficit has got to be made up and recruiting is going on at top speed.

A hitch in the plans for the big parade on Decoration Day was caused to the "vets" of Company K yesterday, when it was learned that, being out of the Federal service, the former members of the company would not be able to parade in uniform. They may, however, join the demonstration in civilian clothes and will probably do so.

To Raise Money for Muhlenberg

Under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary Board of Muhlenberg Hospital a corps of 500 women and girls will scour the city tomorrow from morning until night in an effort to raise by subscription a fund of $5,000 to be used in the equipping of the institution to meet the new conditions brought forward by the entrance of the United States into the world war. The appeal will be made from a patriotic standpoint, with the Red, White and Blue the predominating feature.

During the past year the hospital has been called upon to a greater extent than ever before in its history and when the country becomes actively engaged on the battlefront will probably be even more severely taxed. The institution has offered either fifty or seventy-five beds to the Government and they may be put to use at any time and when they are provisions will have had to be made for taking care of the city's sick as well. The growth of the city has meant more work for the hospital and funds are needed if the present state of efficiency is to be maintained.

A systematic tour of the city will be made by the hundreds of young women who have volunteered their aid, both the business and residential sections being thoroughly canvassed. The workers will all be dressed in white with red and blue ribons. Patriotic tags for buttonholes, wagons and automobiles have been secured and will be given to each subscriber. The workers have been organized into teams and will report the amounts collected directly after they complete their canvass.

BURNING AUTO CAUSED EXCITEMENT IN FANWOOD.

The catching fire of a five-ton furniture truck on South avenue, Fanwood, last night, gave the residents of that place the liveliest time they have had in months. The machine, which was on the return trip from Bellmawr to Newark, caught fire following the explosion of the Prest-o-light tank just as the Fanwood hill was reached about 10 o'clock. In jumping to safety the driver first turned on the gasoline. The liquid ran all over the ground, caught fire and threatened to reach nearby houses by setting the fields ablaze.

It was the first fire alarm that has sounded in the borough in many a day and caused many mixups. To start with the ropes attached to the bell broke as they were pulled, then a hose was first attached to an unused hydrant and when it was put on the right one was found to leak badly.

Muhlenberg Nurses Were Graduated

Classed as heroines in mankind's constant warfare against disease and death, six young women who have completed their course at the Muhlenberg Hospital Training School were last night presented with their diplomas at the twenty-second annual commencement held in the Hartridge Auditorium. Tribute to the graduates was given by Rev. Christian S. Reisner, rector of the New York Grace Episcopal church. Edward H. Ladd, Jr., president of the Board of Trustees of the institution, gave a message of congratulation to the graduates in making the presentation of diplomas and pins signifying that the wearer is a full-fledged nurse were given to the members of the class by Arthur M. Harris, another member of the board.

"That the part American women and the role American nurses are likely to play in the great struggle, the interest over the graduation was probably greater than ever before, and the auditorium was filled with over 300 relatives and friends of the graduates. Dr. Reisner made an address that was ideal in its expression of true patriotism. He was warm in his praise for those young women, who after three years of training were about to enter upon their life work at a time when humanity needs more than ever their help.

The spacious auditorium was beautifully decorated for the occasion with the American flag a prominent factor of the display, and following the time honored custom of graduations of the school, the thirty-four members of the training school led the procession as it entered the hall at the start of the exercises. They were followed by the six members of the graduating class. At the stage the presentation of diplomas and pins took place, after which Dr. Reisner made his stirring address.

The singing of a class of the exercises dancing was enjoyed and the members of the outgoing class were made the recipients of many and hearty congratulations.

The members of this year's class were: Miss Harriet C. Knox of this city; Miss Esther Powell, of Metuchen; Miss Henrietta Bushell, of Perth Amboy; Susan E. Middleton, of Syracuse, N. Y.; Miss Minnie A. Haug, of New York city, and Miss Mary M. Conley, of Hampton. Just what they will do has not yet been fully decided by the members of the class. Three of them will probably remain at Muhlenberg Hospital for several months, while the others may possibly enlist for work in one of the hospital units.

Train Kills Heroic Girl and Sister

In a vain attempt to save the life of her six-year-old sister Susie, Gladys Wilson, thirteen years old, met almost instant death on the New Jersey Central tracks near Liberty street, Wednesday evening. The younger child had wandered to the railroad embankment from her home nearby and was directly in the path of the Philadelphia express due at North avenue at 7:09, when Gladys noticed her peril. With almost unequalled heroism for one of her age she discarded her own safety to rescue her imperiled sister and had almost reached her when the fast flying train rolled them both beneath the wheels.

The engineer of the express did not notice the children until almost upon them and although he applied the emergency brakes was unable to stop before Gladys' sister was reached. He backed up the train and on learning on what had happened was badly affected. After seeing the bodies of the two mangled sisters he went like a child. The father of the children, Theodore Wilson, of Liberty street, was among the first of the big crowd to reach the scene and was all but overcome when he learned that it was his children who had been the victims. The Wilson family were residents of Plainfield for a long time but more recently had been living in Newark. They returned to this city only the forepart of the week and had barely settled in the new home on Liberty street when the accident occured.

Beside the parents, there are three sisters and two brothers surviving. These are: Mrs. William Peel, Mrs. Rosie Wood and Viola Wilson, all of this city; George Wilson, living at the parental home, and Edward Wilson, of Newark.

The double funeral of the two little victims will be held at the home of Mrs. Peel, on East Third street, tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock. It will be in charge of Rev. E. C. Conover and burial will be in Evergreen cemetery.

Sons Receive Bulk of the Frost Estate

By the terms of the will of the late George Henry Frost, head of the Courier-News Publishing Company, just offered for probate in the Union County Court, the bulk of his estate, which the surrogate's office appraises at more than a million dollars, is left to the four sons of the testator. These sons are: Charles Hamilton Frost, Francis W. Frost, Harwood Frost and Edwin H. Frost.

After the usual preliminaries relative to the payment of debts, the will sets forth the following provisions:

"That my wife, Louise Hunt Frost, shall be given during her life time the use of the contents of the residence at 745 Watchung avenue, and that she shall be paid $500 each month over and above all insurance, taxes, water rents and necessary repairs to residence in lieu of her dower rights and claims.

"That my daughters-in-law, the wives of Charles Hamilton Frost and Francis W. Frost, shall be paid $2,000 each.

"That my son, Charles Hamilton Frost, shall receive $20,000 in cash in trust for his two daughters, Mary Louise Frost and Frances Dorothy Frost, the income to be paid them during their life time.

"That my daughter-in-law, Alice Blackwell Frost, shall be paid $30,000 in cash in trust for the children of Alice B. and Francis W. Frost."

At the conclusion of these specifications and stating that the residue of the estate shall be given in equal parts to the four sons, the will names Charles Hamilton Frost and Francis W. Frost as executors to serve without bond, adding:

"I urge them, my executors for a wise and judicious management of my estate seek the advice and counsel of men known to be competent."

The will is dated May 3, 1916, and William Morrison and Millard F. Elderton are named as witnesses.

George H. Frost, the testator, died on March 15, 1917.

Capt. Peterson May Be Major

The appointment of Lieutenant-Colonel William B. Martin as military inspector of the First Military District of New Jersey was announced at New Brunswick this week and will undoubtedly result in a number of changes in the Second Regiment. Major Conrad Hall, of the First Battalion, succeeds Colonel Martin as commander of the third sub-district and, although no one has yet been named to fill Mayor Conrad's position, it is the consensus of opinion that Captain Charles Peterson, commander of Company K, of this city, will be elevated to the rank of major.

Captain Peterson is one of the vest veterans of the New Jersey National Guard and is the logical candidate for the command as head of the First Battalion. He served in the Spanish-American War and was a charter member of Company K, when it was formed more than fifteen years ago. After Colonel Martin was advanced from the command of the local militia company Captain Peterson became the head and has remained in command ever since.

If Captain Peterson is advanced to the rank of major it would cause changes in Company K. First Lieutenant Phillips would undoubtedly be chosen to succeed him and the other officers be raised in order.

Military Honors for Dead Trooper

With complete military honors befitting an enlisted soldier, the funeral of Augustus Richey Fisk, whose death occurred in Philadelphia Wednesday morning after a brief illness, will take place this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the residence of his aunt, Mrs. Chapman Fisk, of 112 West Seventh street. The full complement of Troop D, First Squadron N. J. Cavalry, of which Mr. Fisk was a member, will be in attendance in charge of Captain Dan Runkle, who will conduct the military portion of the service. Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, will officiate with the scripture reading and prayer. Beyond the presence of the cavalry the obsequies will be of a simple nature, excepting at the graveside at Hillside cemetery, where the firing squad will discharge the regulation volley and the buglers will sound taps. The flag-draped casket will be carried by six of the troopers who were the intimates of the deceased during his life time.

Mr. Fisk's death came after an illness of about a week due to meningitis and the sad news was totally unexpected by his hosts of local

Many Attractive Events Scheduled Decoration Day

Plans have been assuming definite form during the past few days for the observing of Decoration Day next Wednesday with a patriotic fervor predominating such as has probably not existed since May 30 of each year was set aside as a national holiday in commemoration of those who gave their lives that this nation might live. To the old veterans who, with steadily thinning ranks, march slowly to the graveyards each year to decorate the resting places of their dead comrades, the day has always meant a time when memories of long ago are brought back to mind, but Memorial Day, in its true sense, has probably never been brought so vividly to the minds of those of the present generation as it has been this year.

Patriotism will be uppermost in the minds of all Wednesday and Plainfield will bear its share of the burden of properly observing the occasion, if indeed it can be called a burden. Flag raisings, benefit events and a galaxy of other activities will all tend to give this city one of the biggest demonstrations of Americanism in its history. The plans of Winfield Scott Post, G. A. R., will constitute an entire day's program and are given in another column.

One of the largest displays of patriotism will take place on Decoration Day afternoon, when a flag-raising takes place at the clubhouse of the Knights of Columbus on West Front street. The arrangements for the program have been placed in the hands of Winfield Scott Post, G. A. R., but other organizations will assist in the ceremony. The members of the Post will gather at Reform Hall at 1 o'clock and will march from there to the clubhouse, where services will be held in the auditorium. Judge William N. Runyon will deliver the principal address and patriotic songs will be sung.

Following the indoor ceremony all will gather around the monster steel flag-pole in front of the clubhouse. A guard of honor consisting of eight women dressed in white will assemble directly around the pole. Troop D, local school children and other organizations will be assembled to assist in the flag-raising, and Judge Daley, of New Brunswick, will deliver an oration.

Other flag-raisings are expected to take place in the city sometime during the day, including those at the plant of the American Motors Corporation, on West Front street, and other factories.

Shying Trolley Car Crashes Into Stalled Auto; Owner Hurt

An absolute authentic case of a trolley car "shying" at a stalled automobile and then with either malice of forethought or disinterested flashing head on into an unsuspecting motor vehicle is reported by the local street railway officials during the past week. The unusual affair took place on Park avenue just below the Muhlenberg Hospital nurses' home, last Saturday afternoon, and by the narrowest sort of a margin missed costing the life of John Switzer, of New York, owner of the auto. He was rendered unconscious for a short time but on the arrival of Dr. Morris and the ambulance from Muhlenberg Hospital he recovered sufficiently to swear a blue streak at trolley cars in general and those on the Arlington avenue line in particular. Dr. Morris quickly patched up Switzer's cuts and bruises and afterward turned his attention to several women occupants of the railway conveyance who had suffered from fright sufficiently enough to produce fainting spells. The injuries in none of the cases were serious.

The trolley car was one of the summer style in charge of Motorman Reanzberg and Conductor John Matthews. It was proceeding south on Park avenue when the driver noticed a stalled automobile in the middle of the road, the car tracks at this point being on the east side of the avenue. There was plenty of room to pass and Reanzberg was sending the car along at ordinary speed when suddenly it gave a lurch about twenty feet ahead of the motor vehicle and after swerving around, crashed headon against the unsuspecting vehicle. The latter had been jacked up by its owner in order to get at some trouble underneath and he was busily engaged down below when the crash occurred. The first thing Switzer knew he knew nothing, and when he was eventually dragged from under the car it was thought he had been killed.

When the injured man later arrived at full consciousness his first idea was that he had stopped the automobile too near the car tracks and the running board of the trolley had side-swiped him. It was this thought that induced him to let loose a flood of Billingsgate on the offending charger. Switzer was a very much surprised man when he was finally convinced that the car had deliberately jumped the track and that he or his machine were in no way to blame for the accident.

Superintendent George Luhr was summoned to the scene and succeeded in getting the trolley back to its proper place after a half hour's work. Peculiarly enough, the automobile suffered but little damage, while the trolley car looked decidedly the worse for wear. The fender was badly battered in and the front sandboard stove in. Sweitzer gave his address as Beekman street, New York, and was able to proceed after locating the trouble that caused him to stop originally. Superintendent Luhr ventured the belief that the "shying" of the car was due to a stone on the track.

AN APPROACHING MARRIAGE.

Announcement has been made of the approaching marriage of Miss Laura Rayside Warnock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Warnock, of Craig place, the borough, to William Childs Beegs, of Paterson. The ceremony will be a quiet one owing to illness in both families. It will be performed by Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring at his home on West Front street at 2:30 on the afternoon of June 6. A reception for relatives and a few intimate friends will be held at the home of the bride's parents from 3 until 6 o'clock.

McALL MISSION MEETING.

The spring meeting of the Plainfield branch of the McAll Mission will be held this afternoon at the home of Mrs. William S. Tyler, of West Seventh street. Reports from the delegates to the Baltimore convention will be given, plans for the summer activities made and other subjects discussed.

WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

Activities among the women's clubs have about reached their lowest ebb and for the next few months there will be little to do except engage in war relief work. The lecture by Mrs. Julian Heath in the High School auditorium yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the National Special Aid Society was the one main event of the week, and for the coming week the Cafe Dansant for the benefit of the same organization promises to be the outstanding feature.

MRS. JULIAN HEATH LECTURED FOR N. S. A. S.

Another lecture of real merit was added to the list of several held within the past few months under the auspices of the local branch of the National Special Aid Society, when Mrs. Julian Heath, president of the National Housewives' League and prominent in women's activities all over the country, gave a lecture yesterday afternoon in the auditorium of the Plainfield High School on the conservation of the present food supply. Through the columns of the Housewives' Magazine, which Mrs. Heath founded some years ago, she has spread her views all over the country and into thousands of households, and yesterday she discussed the present situation with a sound logic that is always in line with others who would better conditions.

Large delegations from the National Special Aid Society, Mothers' Association and other women's clubs in the city attended the lecture and were greatly pleased at her discourse on the food problem. Mrs. Heath is now devoting her energies along the same lines as Hoover and yesterday gave an outline of what she was trying to do. She asked that everyone help in feeding the Allies, not to waste food unnecessarily and to try and grow a portion of the supply consumed locally.

A number of the members of the National Special Aid Society have completed plans for the holding of a Cafe Chantant in the Park Club, on Washington avenue, next Friday night, the proceeds of the affair to be for the benefit of the organization. A program of entertaining numbers has been arranged and the affair promises to be one of the most important social events between now and the entrance of hot weather. The list of patrons and patronesses is as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Goddard, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Lawrence, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Charles, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Charles, Mr. and Mrs. William Lockwood, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Petze, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Uhler, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sloan, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Anderson Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Skillman, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis J. Geary, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene P. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Laurens H. Van Buren, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Sloane, Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Richter, Mrs. F. W. Carlisle and Miss Stevens.

A new class composed of members of the National Special Aid Society who are also members of the local branch of the Y. W. C. A. has been started and is knitting for the soldiers and sailors. The class meets on Monday nights in the association rooms.

WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS PLAN A "VICTORY" CRUSADE.

Over one hundred women gathered at the Plainfield Library yesterday afternoon, including representatives from the P.-T. Associations of the various schools and other women's organizations in the city, at which time a discussion took place regarding the adoption of a moving picture program at a local playhouse on Saturday mornings to be especially for women and children. The idea was originally started in this city several weeks ago and is being furthered by the Plainfield Motion Picture Problem Committee.

For some time there has been a growing sentiment for moving pictures that would not be of the suggestive type and would be at the same time of an educational value. It is proposed to have them on Saturday mornings, when children are free from school. It is to be arranged so that youngsters who cannot go with their parents may accompany some older person. The first performance under the new regime will be given a week from tomorrow.

BUSINESS WOMEN'S LEAGUE.

A regular meeting of the Business Women's League will be held tonight in the Y. W. C. A. Supper will be served at 8:30 and afterward the annual meeting of the organization will be held, at which time the election of officers will be held and other yearly business transacted. Several city officials are also expected to be present and speak.

Y. W. C. A.

An all-day picnic will be enjoyed on the mountain by the members of the association on Wednesday. They will leave the clubhouse at 8:30 and walk to Chimney Rock, where lunch will be enjoyed. Miss Mann has charge of arrangements.

P.-T. ASSOCIATION.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Plainfield Grammar School held its annual meeting on Monday. After the annual business session the members listened to an instructive lecture by Arthur F. Hopper, teacher of the manual art departments, who gave an interesting talk on the junior high school.

The officers elected for the ensuing year were as follows: President, Mrs. H. R. Hubbard; vice president, D. R. Starry, principal of the school; secretary, Allen M. Jackson, and treasurer, Miss Cooper.

Benefit Concert at High School

The Community Chorus gave a successful concert in the auditorium of the Plainfield High School last night, the proceeds of the affair to be devoted to assisting the families of local soldiers called into the service. The event was arranged under the supervision of Clifford Braider as conductor and was one of the largest attended gatherings of the kind ever held in the city.

A program of superb excellence was rendered by a chorus of fifty voices, assisted by Miss Aubrey Eaton, pianist, and Miss Dorothy Cashen, violinist. Mrs. Guy Bender acted as accompanist. There was a decidedly patriotic trend to the program and one of the biggest demonstrations of the kind ever witnessed in this city occurred when "The Star-Spangled Banner" was sung as the closing number, the audience joining in to sing the chorus. The program in full follows:

"My Country, 'Tis of Thee:;" "Song of the Vikings," Faning; "Dinah," Clarke; (a) "Album-blatt," Greig; (b) "Wedding Day at Troldeshaugen," Greig, Miss Eaton; (a) "Stars of the Summer Night," Harker; (b) "Summer Lullaby," Gibson, male chorus; "Soldiers Chorus" (from Faust), Gounod; intermission fifteen minutes; "Bridal Chorus" (from the Rose Maiden), Cowen; "Invocation," Ganne, Miss Cashen; (a) "Peggy," Neidlinger; (b) "Lullaby," Harker; (c) "In Picardie," Hatch, ladies' chorus; (a) "Witches Dance," MacDowell; (b) "Tarentelle," Heller; (c) "Russian Dance," Moussorgsky, Miss Eaton; "Good Night," Mack; "The Star Spangled Banner."

Button for Donator to Volunteer Fund

A new and rather unique method to add to the fund being raised for the support of the families of local soldiers was announced this week by the Volunteer Auxiliary. In order to spur local citizens to contribute to the fund buttons having a patriotic insignia on them have been prepared and will be given to everyone donating toward the fund. No stated amount has been asked for by those in charge of the affair, but if a too large a sum is realized the surplus will be turned over to the local Red Cross chapter to be used in furthering the work of that organization.

Commencing last Monday and continuing until the beginning of the present week, members of the National Special Aid and a number of the stores have undertaken to distribute the buttons and collect the donations. The stores having them include Neumann Brothers, Tepper Brothers, Schloss & Co., Woodhull & Martin and J. A. Smith & Brother.

FORMER LOCAL PASTOR EULOGIZES RED CROSS.

A real appreciation of that great body organized for the sake of humanity has been shown by the poem printed below. It was written since the beginning of hostilities by Rev. K. P. Ketcham, formerly pastor of the First Presbyterian church, but now of Rockledge, N. H.

Red Cross Heroism With the Needle.
It is a simple message this—"Go knit and sew."
But myriad voices to our women show,
Herein the entree to the noblest deeds,
Herein the voice of Heaven pleads.
Ten thousand voices from the gory plains,
Ten thousand voices echoing the strains
Of agony from sick and wounded men,
From the surgeon's knife,
Withal the gentle nurses, conjurers of life—
"Go knit and sew, and Red Cross heroines be."
And now our soldiers from prospective fields
Urging their fireside-home appeals,
Are heard, "Girls, women, faithful, free,
Go knit and sew and Red Cross heroines be!"

Lottery Holders Scored by Jury

Thirty-seven merchants from Plainfield, Elizabeth and other points in Union county, who were indicted on tuesday by the May Grand Jury for holding raffles and lotteries, will be arraigned before Judge Connolly this afternoon to be sentenced. The presentment was returned to Judge Connolly at the close of the May term.

The evidence on which the presentment was returned, according to the form of the indictment, was against a "certain merchant" who issued numbered tickets to purchasers, the holders of these tickets later to share in lottery of prizes, or premiums. The scope of the presentment was widened, however, by the inclusion of other merchants of the county, individuals, organizations, societies.

Following is the presentment:

"The Grand Inquest in and for the State of New Jersey, in and for the body of the County of Union, upon their oath,

"Present, that whereas, there was evidence adduced before us of the practice, upon the part of a certain merchant, of issuing tickets to customers containing certain numbers in payments of certain sums of money, the holders of such tickets to participate later in a drawing, and the holder of the lucky number at such drawing to receive certain goods, wares or merchandise; and

"Whereas, it has come to the attention of the members of this Grand Inquest that certain merchants of this county, as well as certain individuals, organizations and societies, are from time to time, advertising certain schemes and contests whereby the holder of a certain lucky number is to re ceive a prize, either in goods, wares or merchandise, or money; and

"Whereas, we find that, in addition to the fact that it is unlawful to do this, the people affected by such practices, for the most part, are those who can least afford it, but are attracted by the chance of obtaining something practically for nothing; and

"Whereas, such practices constitute a lottery which it is unlawful for any person to engage in, and we find these schemes given publicity by advertisement paid for and otherwise by the public press, which likewise is a crime on their part.

"We, the Grand Inquest, in and for the county of Union, hereby severely condemn such illegal practices on the part of merchants and others, and hereby call the attention of publishers of newspapers in this county to the law declaring that "any person who shall advertise, either directly or by direct covert or suggestive language, any lottery * * * shall be guilty of a high misdemeanor.

"RALPH I. ZOLLES,
"Foreman Grand Jury.

"ALFRED A. STEIN,
"Prosecutor of Pleas."

Big Mass Meeting for Americanism

Another phase of work outlined by the recently organized Americanization committee, which has as its purpose the citizening of the foreign population of the city, will be the holding of a monster mass meeting in the auditorium of the Washington School especially for those who are not citizens. The meeting will be addressed by prominent local men, music will be furnished by the Dutch Arms Band and the National Special Aid Society has volunteered to see to it that the auditorium will be ablaze with patriotism.

Although the meeting is to be held essentially to spread the idea of Americanism and liberty among those who have come from foreign lands, everyone in the city is invited to attend and help make the affair a success. Judge William G. DeMeza, chairman of the patriotic committee, will preside, and the principal speaker will be Plainfield's well known orator, Judge William N. Runyon.

In addition to Judge DeMeza, its chairman, the members of the patriotic committee are: Mrs. Charles R. Banks, representing Continental Chapter of the D. A. Plainfield Makes Decided Hit At Once With "Pete" Herzog Plainfield's natural beauty as an attractive municipality and the warm hearted greetings extended by many of her citizens to a stranger have been responsible for a new local resident the past week in the person of Peter C. Herzog, a prominent dramatic actor. Mr. Herzog came to this city the first time last fall as a member of the cast of "Pair and Warmer" presented at the Plainfield Theatre and he was so impressed with the town and its people that he made up his mind to reside there in the off season. The show closed in Norfolk, Va., two weeks ago and as soon as the theatrical man could make arrangements he came on to Plainfield. He is at present residing on Somerset street.

Mr. Herzog is a western man by birth but in the pursuit of his profession has been in every city of any size in the country. He has been a member of many prominent dramatic companies, among the most previous to his last engagement being "Twin Beds" and "Within the Law," the latter being the original production with which he remained two years. Mr. Herzog has the faculty of making friends and in his one-day stay here last fall he added so many to his already big list that Plainfield seemed almost like the "old home town" to the traveler of years.

"The town looked so good to me and everybody seemed so genuinely hospitable," said Mr. Herzog to a Record reporter yesterday, "that I told one of my fellow actors in 'Pair and Warmer' the day we left that I was going to make Plainfield my home at my first opportunity. I was still of the same frame of mind when the season closed in Virginia and I told the boys 'Plainfield for mine.' I intend to make this my permanent residence and will spend most of my time here when not on the road, because Plainfield hospitality beats the much-talked of southern or western variety."

Mr. Herzog is a member of the Springfield, Ohio, Lodge of Elks and has already become well acquainted at the Wading river club house of the local lodge. Heretofore his off season home has been in New York city but he says Plainfield is plenty enough convenient to the Rialto and a much better place.

HOME DEFENSE LEAGUE A PART OF NATIONAL GUARD.

In conference with Governor Edge at Trenton this week, the executive committee of the New Jersey Committee on Public Safety decided to formulate plans for mobilizing the home guards throughout the State as a second line of defense to act in case the National Guard is sent to the front. It is proposed to recruit home companies of the home guards up to full strength as the companies of the National Guard are recruited, and to organize the home guard companies along the same line as the National Guard.

The Committee on Public Safety is composed of all the Mayors of the State, and they will be back of this plan.

RED CROSS CONVENTION.

An all-day open conference of members, representing the sixty-three Red Cross chapters in New Jersey will be held in the Robert Treat Hoted next Friday. The conference will convene at 10 o'clock in the morning and at noon luncheon will be served, after which the remaining business session will be considered. Plans for the affair, at which the Newark Chapter will entertain, were outlined by the executive board this morning at headquarters. Delegates from this city will attend.

P. H. S. TO GRADUATE 117 IN SENIOR CLASS.

With but a few weeks more of active school sessions, the senior class of the Plainfield High School is already preparing for graduation activities. The class this year will number about 117, one of the largest in the history of the city, and will include a number of juniors who are to make an effort to graduate in three years. Twelve boys of the class have been excused to work on a farm at Bernardsville and they will return to the city long enough for graduation.

The senior examinations will begin on June 4 and continue until June 7. After them active preparations for class day and commencement will be made. The examinations for the three lower classes start a week later and school closes on June 28.

JUDGE RUNYON TO SPEAK.

Plans are being made by a committee of prominent Elizabeth men for the holding of a monster dinner in that city on Monday night to mark the start of a country-wide campaign for $500,000, with which to erect a new hospital, the affair will be attended by hundreds, and Governor Walter E. Edge, Assemblyman William N. Runyon, of this city, and others prominent in the State will be the speakers.

To Honor Dr. Henry M. Maxson, Long the Head of City Schools

The auditorium of the Plainfield High School will be the scene on Monday night of one of the largest gatherings of educators that this city has ever witnessed, when the Teachers' Club, composed of the several hundred instructors in the local schools, tender Dr. Henry Maxson a reception in honor of his having completed twenty-five years as superintendent of the Plainfield public schools. A general invitation has also been extended to the residents of the city and it is expected that hundreds will be present to extend their congratulations to him.

The affair promises to be one of the largest of its kind ever held in the city and already men prominent in the educational profession all over the country have signified their intention of being present on the occasion. Prominent among them will be Dr. Calvin D. Kendell, State Commissioner of Education, who has on frequent occasions expressed his regard for Dr. Maxson. Included among the others will be A. B. Meredith, assistant Commissioner of Education, and I. W. Travell, formerly principal of the Plainfield High School, but now superintendent of the Ridgefield schools. Archibald Cox, president of the Board of Education, and other members of that body, as well as Mayor Calkins, the members of the Common Council, William D. Murray and all the teachers in the city will also be present, beside numberless citizens who have become acquainted with Dr. Maxson in the quarter of a century he has been at the head of the city's educational system.

The plans for the event are being made by the executive committee of the Teachers' Club and are being arranged with an idea of making the affair a gala event in the annals of local school history. Dr. Kendell, Mr. Murray and others to be present will make addresses and several other events are being arranged.

Dr. Henry M. Maxson has spent the greater part of his life thus far in the service of the city and has seen the school system enlarge from a comparatively small project to the huge institution it now is. Starting in when a young man he has grown with it and is probably more directly responsible for its growth than any other single man. For many years he had been one of the best known educators in the State and his reputation has extended over the entire country. At the annual convention of the National Association of Public School Superintendents held in Kansas City in March Mr. Maxson was tendered a reception and was elected one of the officers. He has been president of the State Teachers' Association, has held other important offices in educational associations and is at present president of the Schoolmasters' Club of New York and vicinity.

American Greeks are Thanked by Venezelas

E. Venizelos, the leader of the Greek Provisional Government, has issued a proclomation to American Greeks in which he thanks them for their repudiation of the deposed king. A copy of this manifesto has been received by every native Geek in Plainfield and each one is proud of the message conveyed therein. Several have called at the Record office with a request to publish E. Venizelos' message so that Americans can appreciate feelings entertained by the former subjects of King George. In consequence the declaration is reprinted in full as follows:

"You have expressed the unanimous sentiment of all liberal Greeks in repudiating the king, with whom since the tragic events of December the nation has once and for all severed every tie.

"I congratulate you on your resolve to devote all your strength to the noble task undertaken by the United States.

"In your distinguished President's stirring and inspiring declaration, defining America's aims in the war, the Star-Spangled Banner has become the symbol of humanity's purest ideal. Devotion to such a cause is henceforth the duty and privilege of every free man.

"I am convinced that the Greeks of the United States, imbued with this conception, will succeed in winning the active and highly valued sympathy of the great American nation."

PARK CLUB.

No special program has been arranged for the Park Club on Memorial Day, although the usual tennis playing will be a feature. The annual holiday dance will be omitted this year.

EMPLOYMENT BUREAU PLANNED FOR JERSEY.

City Clerk Carroll has received an announcement from Frederick C. Howe, Federal Commissioner of Labor in New York, that the employment services of the United States Department of Labor will be extended to New Jersey immediately. The communication says the bureau will serve as a clearing house for labor throughout this State, its chief object being to supply farmers in need of seasonal labor and hotels and other employers in need of workers.

The plan contemplates the co-operation of one or more persons in each county, who will communicate to the department on blanks furnished for that purpose, the known needs of their respective communities, which information will be tabulated and placed in possession of 1,000 or more agencies in New York and New Jersey, which will undertake to fill these positions through a central agency.

According to the commissioner's letter, the service will be free and the department will issue a bulletin each week and distribute them to agencies, public and private, engaged in placing men and women in profitable employment. Persons interested are asked to write to the Employment Service, Room 30, Bergen Office, New York city.

TWO P. H. S. GAMES.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, MAY 25, 1917.

FORMER COUNCILMAN TELLS OF NOTT'S PURCHASE.

What appears to be a clean statement of interesting facts, prepared by one whose name has been prominently identified with Plainfield's welfare for years past, is published below. Former Councilman Patrick J. Reville, who earned the distinction of being a fearless champion of his ideals for civic betterment while one of the city "dads," assumes the role of a mere citizen in reviewing facts which led up to the purchasing of the Nott fine engine, a piece of apparatus that has been made conspicuous by its uselessness. His letter follows:

"In last week's issue of your paper I read with interest an article about the Nott pumping engine being useless and practically worthless.

"It also stated that the taxpayers are grumbling, but that in this case the blame cannot be placed.

"Just the hard, cold fact that our city was handed another 'lemon,' an $8,000 one at that. At one time in our city's history, dead horses were popular, but this is a progressive age, and we are buying dead engines now. I wonder if the grumbling taxpayers are taking it as easy as you seem to picture the situation. I guess they are, for this is not the first 'lemon' that they have had handed to them in recent years by those who only have the city's interest at heart.

"Don't tell the taxpayer that no one is to blame for this; as every member of the Council who voted to saddle it on the city is to blame, and two of them are still in official life and presumably enjoying the confidence of the grumbling taxpayers.

"Our Hon. Mayor and the President of the 1917 Council were both members of the Council that bought this lemon for our city. They acted against the wishes of the majority of the members of the Fire Board of the 1913 Council of which I had the honor of being a member. The members of the 1913 Fire Board were: Fred Endress, chairman; W. W. Wilson, W. L. Gloak, Charles C. Randolph and myself.

"Three of us, Endress, Wilson and your humble servant, were very much interested in the matter of securing the best in the market for the city, and spent much time and money visiting different places where tests were being made of the most prominent engines.

"Mr. Endress, especially, gave practically all his time to the matter, not alone because he was the chairman of the board, but as one of the heaviest taxpayers in the city, it was to his own interest to secure the best, and something for the city to be proud of.

"He invited the different representatives of the various engine companies to bring their machines to our city, so that the other members of the Council might be able to vote more intelligently on such an important matter to the taxpayers whom they were supposed to represent, but only in a few instances did they avail themselves of the opportunity, apparently knowing all they cared to know about fire engines. Among other engines tested in the city was one from the International Motor Company, a local concern.

"Messrs. Endress, Wilson and I, after many tests, finally decided that the Saurer engine was the best adapted for our city's needs, and did our utmost to convince the other members of the Council. Mr. Endress, still hoping for the best, refused again and again to report out of committee, the resolution authorizing the purchase of a Nott engine, and, finding that they were up against a stone wall, they, who favored the Nott gave him an ultimatum: to present the resolution or they would take it out of his hands entirely.

"He told them they could do as they pleased, but he would not vote to buy a Nott engine for the department, as it did not measure up to the requirements, judging from the personal experience he had in the matter. In favoring the Saurer engine we not only did so as being the best and cheapest, but also were actuated by a little bit of local pride. We felt that an engine built by Plainfield mechanics, in a Plainfield factory, and used in Plainfield's fire department would be a great boom for our beautiful city and certainly meant prosperity and added prestige. Our judgment in the matter has been vindicated, for a succeeding Council did buy a Saurer engine; and I understand it is all that can be desired, and a good fire fighting machine.

"In regards to other lemons, I often wonder what the taxpayers are thinking about when they look at their bills and then go to the polls, and vote to continue the same old regime in power.

"There is our sewage plant, that has cost the city at least $100,000 more than necessary; the new schools that are more for the accommodation of dancers and swimmers than for the study of the three R's; the new city hall that was to cost a certain amount but already has exceeded that, and much more before it is finished; and not to mention a seven passenger touring car for the police department. They should have bought a 'bus' and take all hands over to Morris Plains, for all seem to be crazy spending the taxpayers' money.

"These things did not happen during Mayor Moy's administration, and my personal opinion is that when the taxpayers failed to re-elect him they made a big mistake.

"He knew the value of a dollar, for every dollar he had was earned by hard work; and in supervising the expenditure of the taxpayers' money, acted as though it were his own that was being spent.

"In conclusion I want to thank you for allowing me so much of your valuable space, and I am sure that the taxpayers will appreciate the facts contained in the letter.

"It may not be too late to be saved from the wreck."

THE FEAST OF SHABUOTH, OR PENTECOST.

The Jewish Feast of Weeks will take place on Sunday, May 27th, commencing at sundown tomorrow evening. The date of the feast is reckoned from the feast of Passover. On and after the second day of Passover which was on Sunday, April 8th, this year, a special benediction and a varying formula were inserted into each evening prayer, so as to count the passing days. This ceremony is called The Counting of the Omer, because during the existence of the Temple at Jerusalem the counting of these days began with the bringing of the first sheaf (in Hebrew "Omer") of the barley harvest, to the Temple, as a "wave-offering." When the count reaches forty-nine days i. e., a "week" of weeks, the Feast of Shabnoth (Weeks) or Pentecost (the Greek for "fiftieth day") is celebrated.

The feast of Weeks is one of the three Pilgrimage Festivals. In ancient times, men would come from all over the land of Canaan on a pilgrimage to the Temple at Jerusalem. Since this feast marked the end of the grain harvests, and the beginning of the fruit harvest, the pilgrims began to bring the first ripe fruits of their fields as a gift to the priests at the Temple. In modern times there are special holiday services; the synagogs are usually decorated with plants and flowers as a reminiscence of the ancient agricultural nature of the feast. In the morning service the Book of Ruth is read to the congregation. This book is particularly well chosen for this occasion because of its harvest scenes, and perhaps also because Ruth was a convert to Judaism rejecting her Moabite gods and accepting the worship of the God of Israel; and this day is considered to be the anniversary of the day when the Law was given on Mt. Sinai and Israel accepted God and his Law. "Shabnoth" therefore besides being the Feast of harvest Weeks is also designated as the "Time of the Giving of our Law"

Since this feast is the anniversary of the giving of the Yaw on Mt. Sinai, Reform congregations in America have appropriately chosen it as the day for Confirmation. On the anniversary of the day on which Israel accepted the law of God, the young men and women of Israel accept the faith and affirm their loyalty to the religion of their fathers.

A CASE OF CHARITY AT HOME.

There is very grave danger that the public mind will become so deeply centered in the war and its various issues and activities that home affairs of equal import will be neglected. There is grave danger that the public, in its eagerness to provide for the relief of those made victims of the war on fields of battle and of those who have been made war victims in sections that have been ravished by armies, will forget those needing help and attention in our own American communities.

The philanthropic and relief organizations of our several communities, generally speaking, as everyone who has investigated knows, were staggering under heavy responsibilities and attendant heavy burdens when the war emergency arose. They could not even then accomplish one-half of the work of relief and conservation pressing to be done. At this time when the attention of all is so much directed toward war issues and war relief problems, these organizations are being more and more neglected. There is great danger that the activities of the various local relief organizations will be greatly curtailed because their work is so much overshadowed by war work.

It ought not to be so. It will avail little in the conservation of humanity to save children in France or Belgium and allow children in our own country to die that might have been saved by proper attention. There will be deplorably fatal consequences if all the energies of our people become directed toward solving war problems and our local community problems are neglected.

The local work is likely to be regarded as less dramatic than the war work when viewed by the public in its present state of mind. It is everyday work. It is performed, most of it, back of the scenes and away from public view. It is performed by indefatigable workers of the various organizations by women and men who have their heart in it because they understand its importance. They have the burden of it upon their souls because they know how much its means, not alone to the victims of disease and want, but to the community, that it be done.

It is work vitally needed to be done. These workers are interposing themselves between the community and conditions as menacing to its life as Prussianism is menacing to the life of democracy. These workers and their work must not be neglected.

Someone has made the inquiry as to how long the wooden gas pipes that are now being taken up on Park avenue have been under the ground. Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed says all he knows about the matter is that they were here when he came to town.

Decoration Day Schedule

BOY SCOUTS.

The chief athletic event of the day will be a huge Boy Scout demonstration at Parker Field lasting the entire afternoon. It is expected that over 400 boys will participate in the meet and rivalry between the various troops is already asserting itself. Out of town Boy Scout commissioners will act as judges.

Orders issued from Boy Scout headquarters on East Front street provide that the Scouts assemble at Parker Field not later than 2:45. The afternoon's program will start off with an inspection by the visiting officials, members of the local Boy Scout Council and probably some of the city officials. It will be one of the largest gatherings of boys ever held in the city and will include company and formation drill.

The athletic competition will be divided into two classes, each one of which will thoroughly test the ability of the entrants. Class A will be divided into five events, including exhibitions of knot tying, observation work, fire lighting by friction, signaling and first aid. In the second division will be included wall scaling, exhibitions of tower building, tent pitching, field telephoning and telegraphing, heliographing, fire drill and the like.

Prizes will be awarded to the winners of the various events. In cases where there are single contestants some article of equipment or a medal will be given and in cases where a troop is represented banners will be awarded. The event that promises to cause the keenest competition is that of fire lighting by friction. The one who first succeeds in making a fire will have the custody of a loving cup for a year. The prize was donated by a friend of the Scouts four years ago and to become a permanent possessor of it a boy will have to win it twice. Chas. Wright, of Troop 5, succeeded in setting a blaze started in 1914, and Walter L. Marder, of Troop 12, in 1915. No one accomplished the feat last season, and both Wright and Marder will again try on Wednesday.

BASEBALL.

There will be other events aplenty during the day at the golf clubs and on the various athletic fields. As in years past, baseball will be one of the major attractions. Although the numerous independent teams throughout the city have games scheduled, the centre of interest will be in the contests played in the City League. There will be games in both the morning and afternoon with Crescent Oval and the West End field the places of action. In the morning, the Hope Chapel and Aeroplane teams will play on Crescent Oval and in the afternoon will play on the West End grounds. The First Baptist and St. Joseph aggregations will also play a game in both the morning and afternoon, alternating with the other two teams for fields.

TRAP SHOOTING.

Trap shooting will also have its place on the day's program, according to an announcement coming from the Climax Gun Club of a special holiday shoot. The shoot will commence at 1 o'clock and as arranged will consist of five events. The first and second rounds will consist of fifteen birds each, the third at twenty birds and the fourth and fifth at twenty-five birds each. The last two events will be in the form of a three-cornered team match, with combinations entered from the Duane Gun Club, of Elizabeth, the Flemington Gun Club and the Climax Gun Club. The lineups of the teams has not yet been announced, but it is certain a close contest will ensue.

Another feature of the program planned for by the Climax Gun Club will be the shooting for the Union county amateur trap shooting championship, in which the title and championship cup are at stake. This will be a special trophy event, the cup having been donated by the Du Pont Powder Company. Maurer, of the Elizabeth Club, and George Ord, of the local outfit, are regarded as the two contenders in the event.

A meeting of the Plainfield Rifle Club is to be held tonight in Company K armory at which time the activities for the holiday will be arranged. They will probably consist of a shooting contest on the range of the Independent Gun Club, on Maple avenue.

COUNTRY CLUB.

There will be one continual round of events at the Country Club on Wednesday, including social functions, tennis and golf. A tournament is to be held in the clubhouse in the afternoon from 4 until 6, to be followed by a dinner. Dancing will be enjoyed again in the evening, music being furnished by a string orchestra.

An innovation will mark the tennis playing at the Country Club. It will be in the nature of a club team match (singles) for men. Albert B. Beers and T. M. Day, 3d, have been chosen captains and will select their players by lot. Each match won counts a point. There will also be a continuation of the Hotchpot doubles tournament, starting at 2:30 in the afternoon.

Following out the suggestion of the Metropolitan Golf Association, the club will observe Wednesday as Red Cross Day and W. Lester Glenney has been appointed head of the committee arranging the affair. There will be putting contests and other golf events, beside cards and "side shows" for women and children. No expenses will be taken out for anything and the entire proceeds will be turned over to the local Red Cross Chapter.

SHACKAMAXSON.

Decgration Day will really mark the start of summer activities at the Shackamaxson Club. Golfing, boating and other pleasures will be enjoyed and a dinner and dancing are also included on the program.

friends. He had been making his home either in this city or New York since returning from the Mexican border with Troop D last fall and went to Philadelphia as a salesman of the government's "Liberty Loan" bonds. The fatal illness came upon him while he was at his hotel and although everything possible was done for him medical assistance proved of no avail.

Augustus R. Fisk was the son of former Mayor and Mrs. Charles J. Fisk and was born at Trenton thirty-five years ago. His parents removed to Plainfield when he was a small boy and most of his life was spent here. After his preliminary schooling he entered Yale College and was graduated with full honors in the class of 1904. During his entire term at the university he stood high in his studies and came in for special commendation in several branches. *Most of his business ca*reer was in the office of Fisk & Sons, the New York bankers, of which firm Charles J. Fisk was a member. At one time Augustus Fisk, in company with Carrol T. Runyon, of Wilmington, conducted a large poultry farm at Woodstock, Ver., giving the venture up to return to financial circles.

As a member of Troop D, Mr. Fisk made a splendid record and the life of a soldier appealed to him so strongly he took the examination for a captaincy in the Quartermaster's Department. His application was filed after the unit came back to New Jersey but was received just too late to be acted upon favorably. He was bitterly disappointed but was looking forward to again going out with Troop D on the latest call to the colors.

Mr. Fisk was a member of the Yale Club of New York, and was active for many years as a member of the Plainfield Country Club and the Watchung Hunt Club. His only fraternal affiliation was with Plainfield Lodge of Elks. Beside his parents the deceased is survived by two brothers and two sisters. These are: Mrs. L. E. Waring, of West Seventh street; Mrs. J. Ford Johnson, of Tarrytown, N. Y.; Charles W. Fisk, of Hewlett, L. I., and Harvey Fisk, of this city.

HYDEWOOD.

Decoration Day will mark the start of the spring championship at the Hydewood Golf Club, it being an annual feature of the club ever since it was formed. The first round of match play, 18 holes, will mark the start of the tournament, and other events on the day's card include the annual holiday handicap, medal play, 36 holes, and prize for low net score. There will be a contest for mixed couples open to members and their guests. Conditions: One ball to be played from 9th tee to 9th hole, man to drive and lady to play alternate. Lowest number of strokes to win. Play starts at 5 p. m., and prizes will be awarded the winners.

FORUM

.42 CENTIMETER STUFF.

May 25, 1917.

Editor, Plainfield Record:

Dear Sir:

Present day journalism prides itself on the contrast it holds with precepts of the past—the public has almost entirely disappeared, but what will probably be assigned a one of the blackest pieces of ne matter that ever received an editor endorsement appeared in the Courier-News last week and deserved a vere condemnation.

The fact that a Plainfield citizen one whose name has been more or less in the limelight in the past, considered himself small enough to hide behind the ten letters making up the word "coal-dealer" sufficient to establish his identification to the majority but it should not have been sufficient to win the stamp of approval from the newspaper editor. Newspapers are public servants but they should not be "rented" out as tools to ignorant, irresponsible writers. An editor who knew his business and who had the welfare of his profession and his community at heart would not have allowed an unsigned article to "go by him," especially one of the character printed in last week's Courier-News. A forum letter worth publishing at all is one worth the signature of the writer. Either the editor in question thought this article a masterpiece which his readers should not be deprived of or he believed the writer was of so little consequence that his proper name would bear no more significance than the title he huddled behind.

His resort to personalism and his attempt to masquerade his spineless libel as a reply to Mr. Leslie R. Fort's letter was in keeping with various other incidents of his career, both as a husbandette and as an alleged business man. It might be well for the benefit of Plainfieldians not acquainted with this individual, and in justice to our "real" coal-dealers, that his name is not linked publicly with the firm of which he is a member. He may have thought that this would aid in concealing his identity.

Yours truly,
JAMES J. MacNAMEE

Bids Farewell to Property He Occupied Sixty-one Years

For the first time in sixty-one years, J. Fred McDonald is today completely vacating the premises at Watchung avenue and West Front street, the scene of his birthplace and which he recently sold to Dr. Albert Pittis and his brother, Bertram Pittis. It is not the first time Mr. MacDonald moved away, as for a short while after his marriage he resided at 21 East Second street, but with the exception of vacation periods he was on the property every day through connection with the grocery store, the building which it occupied being included in the tract. This long stay is one seldom equaled in Plainfield's business district and but few persons can realize the associations that will be severed by Mr. MacDonald in his leave-taking. In the future he will make his home at 24 Dauffel avenue. The Pittis brothers are now making preparations to either or jar down the old residence or make extensive alterations with the view of turning the property into an up-to-date business corner.

The MacDonald place was originally a part of the Anderson tract, which occupied both sides of what is now Watchung avenue and extended east and west on Front street. It was purchased from the Robert Anderson family by Ira Stewart, a pioneer Plainfielder, in 1822. The house was then a structure of two stories and attic, containing four rooms in all. In 1850 Mr. Stewart built an addition on the west side of the house and six years later sold the premises to Rudolphus MacDonald, father of J. Fred MacDonald. The elder MacDonald had been in the grocery business at Seventh avenue and Twenty-seventh street, New York, and came out to Plainfield to carry on the same line of trade. Shortly after he located here J. Fred MacDonald was born in the corner house to which he is bidding "goodbye" today, and which was enlarged to its present state in 1876.

The contract was let to the firm of Perine & Doane, the junior member being the father of former Police Chief T. O. Doane. Chief Doane worked as a carpenter on the addition as did also H. E. Gayle, the hardware man, who accomplished his first day's labor as an apprentice to Perine & Doane when the MacDonald job was commenced.

The MacDonald grocery became one of the best known in Plainfield, although in those days it was considered to be "way up town," because of the frequent reference as to location. Rudolphus MacDonald called it "The Up Town Grocery," a name which it held until the end of its career about twelve years ago. One of the "relics" of the grocery which Fred MacDonald still possesses is the large wooden "T," which Plainfielders will recall was suspended from the wooden awning in front of the store and directly over the sidewalk. It conveyed the information to the passer-by that the "Up Town Grocery" was headquarters for green and black tea, one side of the wooden letter bearing black paint and the other side green paint. The sign was made by Mr. MacDonald's grandfather and is a clever bit of work. Rudolphus MacDonald managed the store continuously from 1856 until June 25, 1885, the date of his death. He died suddenly in Asbury Park as he was sitting on the front porch of a hotel awaiting a cab. He had felt ill during the morning and cut his vacation short with the idea of returning to Plainfield when a heart attack caused almost instant demise. It was then that J. Fred MacDonald came back to the parental residence, where he has made his home until the present time. He sold the grocery to J. F. Mattiage, in 1898.

In speaking about his departure from the old corner, Mr. MacDonald remarked to a group of friends that one of the things he would miss most of all on going away was the big horse chestnut tree in the rear of the house and plainly seen from Watchung avenue. It stands tall and stately to a height of perhaps forty feet and is one of the finest specimens of this variety of tree to be found in the city. It was planted by Fred MacDonald himself just forty years ago. He had spent the day visiting the family of Robert Russell, of Bloodgood's Mills, Clark township, and brought home a horse chestnut from a tree on the premises. Without taking second thought as to what the result would be, Mr. MacDonald, then but twenty-one years old, made a hole with his cane in the green lawn back of his father's house and shoved the chestnut down. It soon developed into a healthy little tree and continued to grow until its present development, still giving promise of longevity. It is probable, however, that Dr. Pittis will have the tree cut down to make way for the store buildings he plans to erect on the Watchung avenue side of the plot.

"Get-Together Club" of Olden Days Give Testimonial Dinner to "Andie" McCardell

As a preliminary toward the reformation of the famous "Get Together" Club, seventy friends of Andrew McCardell, the recognized leader of the organization for many years, tendered him a testimonial dinner at the Hotel Waldorf Tuesday night. Something like the old time spirit that pervaded the "boys" in other days when they go together for a mutual discussion of civic and political affairs was prevalent during the evening and the session proved one of the most enjoyable the East Front street headquarters has had in a long time. The dinner did noble credit to Proprietor Henry Windham, who provided a menu equal to that of any Broadway "get the money" palace.

Andrew McCardell came to Plainfield with the Pond Tool Works thirty years ago and from the time that he first located here has been active in local affairs. He was the leader in Republican politics and was a power in Union county as well as in this city, although his influence was never used for anything but what was for the good of all and at no time did he derive any return for himself. It has always been said of "Andie" that once he gave his word to a friend it was kept as implacable as the strength of Gibraltar, no matter what the cost to the giver, and this is one of the reasons why the seventy friends gathered around him at the dinner table Tuesday night.

These facts were all brought out by Judge William Newcorn, who acted as toastmaster, and by the many speakers who were called upon during the evening. One of the best addresses was given by City Clerk John J. Carroll, who knows how to say the right thing at the right time and who has had a long personal acquaintance with Mr. McCardell. Another splendid eulogy was made by Donald McLean, of Elizabeth, former secretary to the late Senator John Kean. Others who spoke were: Judge William G. DeMeza, Francis J. Blatz, Chief of Police P. S. Kiely, Fire Chief A. D. Jennings, former Mayor James F. Buckle, County Registrar Frank H. Smith, Councilman Elias H. Bird, former Sheriff B. Frank Cortell, George J. Tobin, George O. Stevens and Hyman Adelberg. Mr. Stevens also sang several patriotic songs. Hyman Adelberg was chairman of the dinner committee.

The "Get Together" Club flourished for nearly fifteen years and beside aiding the members of it to work as a political body provided many social gatherings. These have been greatly missed by the majority of the organizers with such apparentness that the movement is well underway to get the old crowd together again. A meeting is to be held within a very short time at which the details of "rejuvenation" will be pieced together.

Hero of the Maine Stirs Big Audience

Two hundred and twenty-five diners who attended the forty-fifth anniversary banquet of St. Mary's T. A. B. Society in T. A. B. Hall Monday night, listened to one of the most stirring patriotic addresses ever delivered in the city. It was given by Monsignor John P. Chadwick, chaplain of the U. S. battleship "Maine" when it was blown up in Havana harbor and at present the head of Dunwoodie College, Yonkers, N. Y. The hero of the eventful explosion which indirectly led to the Spanish War is an orator of marked ability and those who know him say he was at his best when he spoke Monday night.

Monsignor Chidwick quickened the pulses of his hearers when he stated that the present national crisis is the greatest in the history of America, that it is apt to last many years, that the combined energies of every man, woman and child is needed for success, and that in the end the will of the people will supplant that of monarchs, whose only thought is self-aggrandizement when ordering subjects into bloody strife. Touching on preparedness, he asserted that this much used word did not depend entirely on the preparation of fields or supplies of munitions but the preparedness of the individual, for the well being of the State depends on the condition of the people. In the end he urged every young man and woman present to do his or her share in the great conflict and predicted that when the time came the members of St. Mary's T. A. B. Society would give instant response to the call to the colors. The Reverend Father concluded his address amid a tumult of applause.

Among the others who spoke at the gathering were: John J. Fitzgerald, president of the Board of Trade of Paterson; Francis J. Blatz, president of the Common Council; Rev. Father B. M. Bogan, of St. Mary's church; Rev. Father P. J. Hart, of St. Joseph's church; Rev. Father John F. Baldwin, of Mt. St. Mary's College; Joseph T. McCue, president of St. Mary's T. A. B. Society; Michael D. O'Keefe and Edward Lynch, former presidents. John Walsh, one of the two surviving charter members of the society, was unable to be present because of illness, this being the first gathering of any moment that he has missed since becoming a member. John Barry, the other charter member, was one of the diners and spoke briefly. The anniversary was a complete success in every detail and will go down in the annals of the society as one of the most auspicious gatherings ever held in T. A. B. Hall.

The committee which arranged and had charge of the celebration was composed of: Joseph T. McCue, chairmanm Albert E. La Porte, secretary; Michael Caffery, Michael D. O'Keefe, John J. Hines, James P. O'Keefe, Daniel J. Guinee, Thomas P. Hines, Jeremiah C. Callahan, John Walsh and John Barry.

Pillard and Stone, Burlesque's Best, Comes to Plainfield Theatre Monday

"The Rag Doll in Ragland," featuring Pillard & Stone, will show at the Plainfield Theatre, Monday matinee and night. In talking to Joe Hurtig, the musical comedy producer, regarding his co-stars, Stone and Pillard in her newest spectacle, "The Rag Doll in Ragland," he was positive that burlesque audiences would appreciate the innovation which has come with this very show. And the genial producer, who is known to have always found the right vehicles, has again been successful in selecting a fairy story for those most noted of all eccentric comedians.

The story runs in the following lines: Twinkle Tootsie (Etta Pillard), a very beautiful girl has a rag doll, RAGGY (George Stone) that is her sole companion. A former admirer, Captain Al, has just returned from war and insists that Twinkle Tootsie should marry him immediately. But the "Evil Genius" beats him at his own game and changes RAGGY into a real live fellow. At RAGGY's suggestion Tootsie decides to accompany him to Ragland, his home. Just when they thought they were in safety, the Captain and his army appeared on the scene and after a few embarrassing moments they all rag "Over the End of the World," while Tootsie and RAGGY dance clear "Off the Earth."

The greatest portion of hilarity is woven into the second act, when RAGGY is formally made King of Ragland after passing the 14th degree. Characters, familiar to all since childhood days, are introduced one by one, including Red Riding Hood, the grandmother, the wolf, and many others too numerous to mention.

A Dramatic Picture Offered at Theatre

"Her Unborn Child," a fascinating and beautiful play which can also deal with so vital and tremendous a subject as the regulation of the size of families, that can touch with truth and authority upon the problem of birth control, that can illuminate a question which every lover and sweetheart, every bride and groom, every wife and husband wants to understand, is something new and even startling. It is at the Plainfield Theatre today and tomorrow with matinees every day for women only, and men and women who know that it will disclose its wonderful message in terms of the utmost dignity and sincerity will not miss a performance that has both astounded and edified the sophisticated public of New York city.

PLAINFIELD AIRDOME WILL OPEN NEXT WEDNESDAY.

Announcement has been made by Michael Shannon, manager of the Plainfield Theatre, that preparations are being made for the opening of the Airdome, situated at Front street and Watchung avenue, on May 30. The Second street playhouse will remain open until that date and possibly longer.

The introduction of the Airdome in this city two years ago was a welcome one to local amusement seekers who wished to view an entertainment in hot weather with comfort. The making of several improvements before the beginning of the coming season will add to the comfort of patrons. One of the most important will be the providing of a canvas top to be used during rainy weather. First run photo plays, including comedies and feature releases, will be attractions throughout the summer.

MISS HYDE WILL DANCE.

Miss Frances Hyde, of this city, who has not long been back from Paris, where she studied eight years, will be one of the artists who will contribute to the success of the annual fete of the Railway Mercy Committee. The proceeds will be for the benefit of American soldiers and sailors.

Borough Boy Doing Well in New Show

Local friends have been in receipt of letters the past week from Walter F. Hamilton, Jr., of Verdon street, the borough, who is making a tour of the Western States as a member of John Cort's company presenting the new musical success, "The Masked Model." The show opened in Pittsburgh about six weeks ago and since then has played St. Louis, Kansas City, New Orleans and Denver. Mr. Hamilton wrote from Denver that business was good and the production would be on the Pacific coast all summer, making stops at San Francisco, Los Angeles, Portland and other cities.

The young boroughites' contribution to the program is a dancing specialty, he having become very efficient in stage work of this kind. He was out from last September until April of the present year with the "Watch Your Step" road show which played the Middle West principally. The season previous he was in the support of Laddie Cliff in "Tonight's the Night."

Quaker Tires Exceed 5000 Mile Guarantee

The Quaker City Rubber Company, of Philadelphia, manufacturers of Quaker Tires now in use from coast to coast and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico, have happily compared their 5,000-mile guarantee with railroad mileage. This was the thought of the president of the company as announced by his sales manager, who said if a tire is guaranteed for so many miles it must deliver in exactly the same way as a railroad mileage ticket guarantees its mileage.

One of the remarkable features about Quaker Tires is that users who have tried them during recent years declare, after trials with other makes, they were surprised to find many excess miles over the guaranteed amount. One of the largest dealers in the country, in his own publicity, declared he had fewer adjustments to make on Quaker Tires—to use his own publicity words—"practically none"—than with any other tire he ever handled. These results are largely due, according to the manufacturers, to the tempering of the rubber and the high grade of fabric used in the tires.

Mr. and Mrs. George Frick, of Bergen street, are the parents of a baby born who arrived at their home a few days ago.

READ THE PLAINFIELD RECORD

"JAZZ" has become the sensation of the year in music rolls. Originating down South, "Jazz" bands have superseded the tinkling tango orchestras and other ragtime dance music. In these bands the melody is carried by saxophones, while clarinets, tango banjos, trap drums and other instruments furnish numerous trills, slides and syncopations that can only be heard to be appreciated.

"JAZZ" arranged music rolls are played by two pianists (the melody being played in the bass clef) faithfully and realistically reproducing on the player piano the moaning saxophone, tinkling banjo and all the rattle of drums heard in Jazz bands. If you have not heard "JAZZ"—whether you have a player or not—

STEP INTO GRIFFITH'S and ask to hear one of these sensational rolls. Many of them have the words printed on the side so you can sing them as you play.

What Good Is a Lid?

Several otherwise excellent burial vaults have tops that are simply laid over the casket and left to their own devices. This, of course, is handier and much cheaper. But what of its safety? The Norwalk Vault leaves nothing to chance; its top is securely cemented on by hand, and top and bottom become one solid piece of masonry. Naturally, therefore, the Norwalk is sold everywhere the best is wanted; and naturally the best undertakers always recommend the Norwalk—it gives them a chance to guarantee the burial. Your undertaker can give you the necessary information.

NEW STATE TROOPS.

Organization of scores of new regiments of National Guard artillery, engineers, signal troops and cavalry will be undertaken soon to supply the tactical formations necessary for the establishment of sixteen divisions of the guard provided for in the War Department's plans.

New Jersey, which is classed in Division No. 8, of the National Guard, will be called upon to raise, in addition to the existing guard units, one battalion of field artillery and two companies of engineers. The recruiting of men for these units will be started within a short time, and Plainfield will be called upon to help fill the ranks.

HELD FLOWER DAY.

The local committee in charge of the Flower Day on Sunday feel very much elated over the results in spite of the many demands that are being made in every section of the community for various worthy causes. The response was more generous than ever and the committees were received cordially in every home and in many instances non-Jewish people bought willingly from the committees.

Monthly Service at Crescent Ave. Church

The monthly musical service of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church for May will be held in the church on Sunday afternoon at 4:45 and will consist entirely of ancient and traditional Hebrew music. The program has been carefully arranged by the organist, E. Mettler Davis, from a wealth of material, and in more than one case the exact translations of the Hebrew has been made. The service will start with a fifteen-minute organ recital and will be followed by the various numbers, which in all but two cases have been arranged for quartet singing. The program follows:

"Hymn of Moses," a legend exists which would have us believe that this melody is the one that was chanted by Mirian and her sistern at the Red Sea; "The Sabbath and Israel," this hymn preserves many points of an Oriental character; "Hymn to the Eternal," a hymn tune originating among the early medieval German Jews; "Hymn of Parting," a hymn for the home circle at the close of the Sabbath. It has been in use since the 10th century. "Hymn of Pardon," an arrangement of a tune written about 1125 that is chanted just before the closing prayers of the day of atonement; "The Kol Nidre," first mentioned in 589 and always a subject of discussion. It is a prayer for the annulment of vow.

The musical is a public one in every since of the word and everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Hydewood Club Will Open Up Tomorrow

With links greatly improved and numerous other changes made for the better, the Hydewood Golf Club will open its 1917 season tomorrow afternoon, when play for the President's cup will be started. The qualifying round for the spring championship will also be played, the conditions of which are as follows: A qualifying round of 18 holes, scratch, medal play, open to all members. Eight lowest scores to qualify to play at match play in the first round. Winners of first round to qualify for play in second round. Winners of second round to qualify for play in final round. Winner of final round declared spring champion.

The activities of the club will continue until late in the fall and will include all of the features of last year as well as a number of new ones. Under the supervision of Herbert Strong of the Inwood Golf Club, the length of all holes have been increased to the following distances: 1, 367 yards; 2, 195; 3, 358; 4, 388; 5, 349; 6, 398; 7, 212; 8, 575; 9, 205, making the total 3,042; par, 36; for 18 holes, 6,084, par, 72.

The lengthening of the course was made possible by Louis K. Hyde, who provided the club with two additional tracts of land. The club has just engaged Alex Gourdey, formerly of the Montclair Golf Club, as professional. The club's present membership is 100 for the active list, which has been limited to 125.

Mayor "Bill" to Hold "Liberty Bond" Sale

Something unique in the annals of North Plainfield history will occur tomorrow night at 7:30, when Mayor William L. Smalley takes up his stand in front of the City Hall on Somerset street and becomes a salesman with "Liberty Bonds" as his product. The local banks have been taking subscriptions for bonds ever since they were put up for sale several weeks ago and have had fairly good success, but when Mayor "Bill" offered his plan to the borough interested it was accepted.

The Mayor has completed all plans for the event and will have as his assistants Alexander Milne and James K. Arnold. The former will act as clerk at the sale, while Mr. Arnold will be custodian of the funds. All that is necessary to become the purchaser of the bond is to fill out the subscription card, naming which of the banks you wish to make the purchase through. The bonds all pay three and a half per cent., payable semi-annually.

There will also be representatives from each of the banks present to represent the institutions, as follows: Samuel Townsend, Plainfield Trust Company; M. C. Van Arsdale, State Trust Company; G. E. Volk, City National Bank, and Thomas Currin, First National Bank.

NETHERWOOD TO HOLD GARDEN COMPETITION.

In order to assist the movement for increased food supplies, and encourage young people to patriotically respond with individual effort, the Netherwood Residents' Association has appropriated $32 in each, viz: $3 for first prize and $2 for second prize, to be offered during the season, and awarded on Labor Day, September 3, 1917, to the boy or girl under 17 years of age for the best home vegetable garden. In awarding these prizes, general appearance, neatness, productiveness, in proportion to area cultivated, and a fair variety of vegetables, will be the determining factors.

It has been arranged to have inspectors call and look over the gardens at least twice during the growing season, as well as offer suggestions and give advice.

The father conducted a jewelry store on West Front street for many years previous to his death. The son was educated in the local schools and afterward became an engraver. He was employed by several of New York's largest jewelry concerns in the engraving department and afterward organized an engraving company of which he was the head at the time of his death. It was known as the R. H. Radford Engraving Company with offices at 1 Cortland street.

A. In the latter organization he held various offices and was one of the board of directors which brought the association to its present flourishing condition. His only fraternal affiliation was with the Court Plainfield, I. O. F.

He had a wide acquaintance when he left Plainfield and many of these he retained to the time of his death.

Mr. Vermeule is survived by his wife, Margaret Drake Vermeule, and a number of nephews and nieces. Among his nieces are Mrs. Margaret Vermeule Pearson, wife of Lieutenant S. B. Pearson, now located at Washington; Luella French Wheeler, Miss Mamie French, and nephews, Edward V. French, of this city, and Dr. Charles Keep.

Registration Day Details Announced

Tuesday is Registration Day. Between 7 o'clock that morning and 9 o'clock that night millions of men between the ages of twenty-one and thirty will have registered and this country will be ready for the next step in the huge preparedness movement. City Clerk John J. Carroll has completed every detail of the plan by which every Plainfield man who is liable to service will be able to do his part toward protecting the nation. Following the proclamation issued by Governor Edge, Superintendent of Schools Henry E. Maxson has decided to close the public schools of the city for the day. The banks will not be open for business and, on the whole, the city will have the appearance of observing a holiday.

Who Must Register—Every male between 21 and 30, both inclusive, unless already in the military or naval service of U. S.
Persons not exempt because of illness.

12. Do you claim exemption from draft? Specify grounds.

Above is a list of the questions that will be asked each person at the polling places on Tuesday. Lack of space would not permit the printing of the explanation to each one again, but that information will be found in the issue of the Record for May 18. City Clerk Carroll earnestly requests that every person do his share to help facilitate matters and asks that all be ready to answer the questions as soon as possible after the registrar asks them. He wishes, also, to impress upon everyone the necessity of registering early, otherwise someone may get left. The polls will close promptly at 7 o'clock and anyone failing to register will be liable to a year's imprisonment.

Plainfielders Will Command a "Sub-Sea Chaser" in War

With the $25,000 necessary for the building of the craft and its equipment already subscribed and assurances from the builders that the boat will be fully completed between July 1 and July 15, Warren Ackerman and Reginald Rowland are making final preparations for placing their "sub-sea chaser" in the Government's service. The naval authorities have accepted the proposition of the two patriotic local young men to place the speedy U-boat pursuer in service and there is a prospect that it will be added to the patrol fleet off the coast of England be next September. Mr. Ackerman has passed with full honors an ensign's examination, which give him that rank and the command of the vessel. Reginald Rowland is to be the second in command, with the rank of chief quartermaster, first class. The crew, including Ackerman and Rowland, will be made up of thirteen men. Thomas Fraser, proprietor of a local garage, and who has had ten years' experience in the English navy, will be chief engineer, while Johnny Logan, another local boy, will be the cook. The rest of the crew will be comprised of a second engineer, an assistant quartermaster, two gunners, who are Yale men and former members of the battery unit of that university, two wireless operators, who have had four years' experience on steamships of the Ward line, two seamen and a coxswain. Every man has passed his examination and is ready for instant duty.

Work upon the "chaser" was started sometime ago and has already progressed to that state of completion where the builders are able to say that it will be turned over to its crew before the time limit mentioned in the contract. Through the efforts of Messrs. Ackerman and Rowland the sum needed to put the vessel into commission was raised through generous contributions by local residents. It will be the equal of any boat in its class and equipped with every device called for by the Government. It will be sixty feet in length, have a speed of twenty-seven knots an hour and has been placed in the radio class. The Navy Department does not equip boats under seventy-five feet with a wireless and to be placed in the radio class Mr. Ackerman stood the expense of installing the apparatus. The motive power of the little craft will be de-

Exemption Board for Plainfield

Following the receipt of new instructions from Governor Edge, Sheriff Otto yesterday announced the appointment of a board which, acting with the Union County Drafting Board, will supervise the granting of exemptions in all municipalities in the county with the exception of Elizabeth.

Plainfield, Scotch Plains and Fanwood, with a combined population of 26,603, have been apportioned to one exemption board, which consists of Mayor Leighton Calkins, of Plainfield; Charles N. Runyon, of Plainfield, an employe in the county clerk's office, and Coroner Howard P. Dengler, of Springfield. The remainder of the county, with the exception of Elizabeth, will be handled by the Drafting Board, which consists of Sheriff Otto, Deputy County Clerk Neil McLeod and County Physician F. W. Westcott.

Permanent Station for Recruits Here

Following instructions from the War Department relative to the establishment of seven recruiting stations in various parts of the State for the Second Regiment, it has been announced that one of them will be located in this city. In another week Sergeant Apgar, who has been in charge here, will be replaced by a commissioned officer and four privates. The examination of recruits will be done here instead of at Elizabeth and all the new men will be quartered and filled in this city for the time being instead of being sent to join the company.

Company K is in need of fifty more men and preparations are being made for launching the biggest recruiting drive ever opened in this city which will, it is hoped, result in obtaining this necessary number.

Word coming from the company's headquarters this morning announced the appointment of the following privates to the rank of first class private: Frank Armory, Elmer Borman, Alexander Campbell, James Gordon, Eugene Helding, Andrew Jepson, Joseph Kiederling, Harry M. Magie, George A. Osborn, Alfred B. Schrback.

Mrs. Ada Stone, of this city, died yesterday in Muhlenberg Hospital, where she had been undergoing treatment. She was the daughter of Frederick E. and the late Angeline Marsh. The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

MAYOR'S REGISTRATION DAY PROCLAMATION.

The President has named Tuesday, June the 5th, to be observed throughout the land as a day set apart not merely for the performance of a duty by men of the prescribed military age, but generally by the people for the thoughtful consideration of what this means to them and to the nation. If we are at war, as we believe, to serve mankind and not ourselves alone; if our young men are answering their country's call not so much in defense of a separate and selfish liberty as, in the apt words of the President, to fight out the cause of human liberty the world over, then, indeed, is their response honorable and their service privileged, and it is fitting that the day be held by all the people in sacred regard.

To this end it would seem more in keeping with the spirit of the occasion if the day be marked by simple and devotional observance, rather than by the more elaborate programs which usually we arange for events of a public character.

I therefore suggest that mention of the day and of its significance be made by the principal of each of our schools at the opening exercises; and that a short half-hour service of devotional patriotism be held in all our churches at half past eight o'clock in the evening, when the young men of America are completing their enrollment in behalf of all that American manhood and womanhood holds dear. Let the church bells begin ringing at a quarter after eight and let all the people forego their usual pursuits at that hour and gather at their places of worship, to seek God's blessing for the men who go to the front and guidance that whatever they and we shall do, professing love for country and for the cause of liberty and humanity, shall be a service which is honorable in His sight.

LEIGHTON CALKINS,
Mayor.

Plainfield, N. J., June 1, 1917.

Bad Tangle Over Small Land Strip

A mistake made by the late George R. Pound in deeding two separate pieces of property on Watchung avenue in 1845 has caused a legal tangle already involving three separate contestants, and may include more before the courts decide the ownership of a triangular piece of ground having a frontage of but 4.65 feet. The offending parcel is situated between the property of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Mason, Jr., at 127 Watchung avenue and the corner place directly next door belonging for many years to John Stevens and now held by the Home Real Estate Company. Both owners claim it as a part of their ground. William A. Woodruff, who started to buy the Mason place and has made a part payment, wants to know whether he gets it or whether he does not. The Masons, who engaged Swackhamer & Bird to conduct the legal dispute for them and the realty concern has retained Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., and Mr. Woodruff has placed his end of it in the care of John H. Van Winkle, Jr. For this array of legal talent the Plainfield Trust Company and the State Trust Company, which have mortgages on the corner parcel, will contribute Ass F. Randolph as their share of counsel. The "tangle" drama will probably be staged at the next sitting of the Union County Court. Which ever side loses out will have to back the former owners who gave warranty deeds to get redress, thus drawing in many more litigants.

The defect in the two titles was discovered a short time ago by John H. Van Winkle, when he began a search for W. A. Woodruff after the latter had signed up to purchase the Mason place. The lawyer found that Pound had sold the corner parcel to Charles Johnson, which called for a frontage on Watchung avenue of thirty-four feet three inches. Later he sold the Mason tract to Jerome Park and the frontage specified overlapped that of Johnson by the dis-

LOCAL GIRL PICKED FOR NURSING DUTY IN FRANCE

Miss Anna Callahan, daughter of Thomas Callahan, of East Second street, has been accepted as a Red Cross nurse and will sail from New York for foreign service about June 10. She is to be a member of the Long Island College Hospital unit of doctors and nurses, as she was graduated from this hospital last spring. She has since been practicing her profession in Brooklyn. Miss Callahan is a graduate of St. Mary's Parochial School in the class of 1912, taking up her training course a year later. She has been unusually successful in her chosen work and readily met all the requirements for the difficult nursing in a field base hospital.

Miss Helen Callahan, another daughter of Thomas Callahan, has also offered her services to one of the New York Red Cross contingents who may be called for duty later. She is also a graduate from St. Mary's School and took her nursing course in the Brooklyn City Hospital, from which she was graduated several years ago. She, too, has been practicing nursing in Brooklyn.

SEEKS CHAPLAINCY.

Rev. Father Joseph S. McDonald, formerly assistant rector of St. Mary's church, is in line to be one of the priests from the Newark diocese to do chaplain service with the American army abroad. Every clergyman of the diocese responded to the call for volunteers and after eliminations had been made because of age and other causes, nineteen are now available. Fourteen of these are to be appointed by Bishop O'Connor and Father McDonald stands well forward on the list. He is now assistant rector of St. Patrick's church, Jersey City.

Elk Troupe Winding Up for Big Show

With all but the last few finishing touches to be added, everything is in readiness for the monster minstrel show which Plainfield Lodge of Elks is to put on at the Plainfield Theatre next Monday night for the benefit of those made dependent by local boys answering Uncle Sam's call to the colors. Judge William N. Runyon has coached a troupe of 100 principals and chorus singers into shape and appearance point to one of the most successful amateur black-face entertainments ever presented in the city. The undertaking is in reality the idea of the Volunteer Auxiliary League, which is working in conjunction with the fraternal order, giving double assurance of a triumphal climax. The seat sale began last Monday and the choicest reservations have already been taken. It is now an understood fact that a crowded house will greet the volunteer artists when the curtain opens on the first part of the program.

Judge William Newcorn is acting as chairman of the minstrel committee for the Volunteer League. In conversation with a Record reporter yesterday afternoon he declared that the coming minstrel show is a most worthy enterprise, and those who cannot take up arms because of physical deficiencies can contribute their share to the great patriotic cause by purchasing tickets for the black-face performance.

"While the fact is not generally known," said Judge Newcorn, "the Volunteer Auxiliary League expended $2,600 last year caring for dependents of Troop D while it was at the Mexican border. The league not only provides money for ordinary expenses but also pays mortgage interest and insurance fees, in War Horrors Recounted by Capt. Chute

Relating experiences that are seldom undergone without fatal results, or at least injuries that result in making one a cripple, Captain Arthur Hunt Chute, an eye witness of and participant in the world conflict for the first two years of the war, lectured in the parish house of the Grace Episcopal church last night, under the auspices of the Plainfield branch of the Belgian Relief Society. Plainfield has been fortunate during the last few months in having the opportunity of hearing "Ian Hay" and others recount the horrors of war, but Captain Chute outdid them all in his vivid descriptions and even spoke more stirringly and realistically than when he gave an informal talk in the High School auditorium several weeks ago.

Captain Chute has long been a traveler over all the world, having been a correspondent for Chicago and various other newspapers before the beginning of the war. When the American forces took Vera Cruz he was on hand and had many stirring experiences and can tell much of actual conditions in the country to the south of us at the time he was there.

He is a native of Novia Scotia and at the outbreak of the war felt that same tinge of patriotism that thousands of other Canadians have felt. He enlisted in the infantry of one of the first expeditionary contingents, but after reaching England was transferred to the field artillery. After a short training period he received a commission and was dispatched to the battle line.

"Vets" Parade Big Feature of Holiday

With ideal weather conditions prevailing and the people of the city filled with patriotic enthusiasm, Memorial Day on Wednesday was celebrated in Plainfield such as it has never been before and for the first time in fifty years was observed with all the sentiment General John A. Logan intended it should have when he promulgated the idea of honoring the soldiers of the republic. The half century anniversary of the custom and the fact that America is now facing the greatest crisis in its existence keyed the populace up to the point where Decoration Day came into its own. The usual formal parade of veterans enlarged into a splendid military procession in the morning, flag raisings were held in several sections of the city and borough and patriotic exercises took place in the afternoon. Thousands of people viewed the local military organizations parading ahead of the Civil War veterans and many hundreds heard the addresses given by Mayor

W. E. MAGUIRE JOINS 1ST RESERVE ENGINEERS

William E. Maguire, one of the foremen employed by the P. F. Kenney Company on the Plainfield city hall construction work, has been accepted as a volunteer in the First New York reserve engineers and is under orders to report for duty tomorrow morning. The unit he has joined is to consist of 1,060 men who are to be mobilized at a Long Island fort, and started for France in about three weeks. It is to be the first big contingent of engineers to sail for the war zone.

Mr. Maguire is a native of Milton, N. H. Since coming to Plainfield he has made a host of friends. "Mac," as everybody knows him, has had a wide experience in building work, which will make him a valuable addition to the engineering division named. He is a splendid example of American patriotism and declares that contingent cannot get into action any too soon for him.

AN APPEAL.

On next Monday, June 4th, at the Plainfield Theatre, Plainfield Lodge of Elks will give a Minstrel Show under the personal direction of Assemblyman William N. Runyon, the entire receipts of which will be donated to the Volunteer Auxiliary of Plainfield and North Plainfield, who are pledged to care for the dependent families of the boys who must take the firing line for Uncle Sam.

We, of the finance committee, representing the Auxiliary Committee, make a direct and personal appeal to the citizens of Plainfield and North Plainfield to back our efforts in the matter by purchasing tickets and thus make the show a gigantic success financially.

Liberty Loan Appeal to be Launched Here

Plainfield has been thrown directly in the path of the huge Liberty Loan campaign wave that is sweeping the country and the coming week should result in the writing of a page in the city's financial history such as has never been equaled before. Plans have been laid during the past few days for a systematizing of the movement and within the next week it will be under full swing with the municipal government, the banking institutions and numerous business men lending their entire support for the success of the idea. Thus far the city has made a fairly good showing in the matter of contributing to the Liberty Loan, but it is now to be made possible for every person, rich or poor, to become the owner of at least one bond issued by their government.

Here are the main features of the city's Liberty Loan campaign:

Over half a million dollars has already been subscribed.

The citizens' committee meets tonight to discuss plans.

Clubs are to be started on the installment plan for the benefit of those of moderate means.

The Plainfield Trust, State Trust, City National and First National banks are co-operating in the movement.

At a meeting of the citizens' committee appointed recently by Mayor Calkins and representatives of the local banks to be held in the Council chambers in the City Building tonight, plans will be completed for the adopting of a systematic distribution of Liberty Bonds in this city. At a meeting of the local bank heads earlier in the week it was agreed that the Plainfield Trust Company, State Trust Company, City National Bank and First National Bank should co-operate in the movement and the committee of prominent business men, who are all residents of this city, will aid in whatever way possible.

The general course of action agreed upon by the banks and the details of which will be completed at tonight's meeting is to start a Liberty Loan club at each of the four institutions somewhat similar to the Christmas Clubs. According to the denomination of the bond, the plan is to let each member of the clubs pay so much each week for fifty weeks. If the bond is of the $50 size the installments will be a $1 a week and if a $100 will be $2 a week. At the end of the fifty weeks the bank to which the payments were made will turn over the bond to each individual.

This plan has been introduced so

Bullet Wound May End Life

Warren H. Marsh, brother of the late Corporation Counsel Craig A. Maresh, and one of the best known residents of this city, was received at Muhlenberg Hospital at noon yesterday, suffering from a bullet wound in the head, said to have been self-inflicted. His condition remained critical until 1 o'clock this morning, when it seemed to become a little better. Shortly before noon the attending physicians said the patient's chances for recovery were about equal.

Mr. Marsh has been suffering from a nervous trouble for a long time, which was greatly aggravated by the death of his wife a few weeks ago. Since then, he had frequently given way to fits of melancholy and the belief exists that he became temporarily deranged to the extent of desiring to end his life. He was discovered by a member of the family late yesterday morning in a semi-conscious condition, appearances pointing to the fact that he had planned self-destruction. He was hurried at once to Muhlenberg Hospital, where the doctors performed an immediate operation.

Mr. Marsh, who is about fifty-five years old, has always made his home in Plainfield and until the death of his brother, Craig A. Marsh, six years ago, was confidential clerk in the latter's law office. As a young man, Mr. Marsh was prominent in athletics and was always fond of out-door life. This reason and the fact that he was kept more or less indoors, made his nervous trouble all the more aggravating. He has been residing at Union street with his son-in-law and only daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bellows.

Big "Americanization" Mass Meeting to be Held Tonight

A monster mass meeting to spread the idea of Americanism among the people of Plainfield, both foreigners and citizens, and sponsored by every organization in the city, will be held in the auditorium of the Washington School tonight. The meeting was originally scheduled to be held on Monday night, but owing to the fact that several who were to speak were out of town, the affair was postponed to the later date. Every one in the city is urged to help along the idea that will eventually, it is hoped, make Plainfield an entirely representative centre of Americanism.

The meeting will be presided over by City Judge William G. DeMeza, who is chairman of the committee, and the principal speaker will be Assemblyman William N. Runyon. Others who will make addresses include Judge William Newcorn, speaking on behalf of the Jewish population; Rev. Aurelio Mangione, pastor of the Italian mission of the First Presbyterian church; Carl Herrmanna, who is a fluential German of the city, and Bolestaw Dukora, a Polish resident. Mayor Leighton Calkins, other city officials and members of the Board of Education are also expected to be present.

The auditorium has been transformed into one big blaze of patriotic color for the occasion. Flags, red, white and blue bunting and other trimmings have been scattered profusely over the hall. There will be plenty of patriotic music in addition to everything else of a similar nature, as the Dutch Arms Band has offered to be present and contribute a program of national airs.

Tonight's meeting is only another event in the drive launched at the organization of the committee over a month ago. At first the committee conducted naturalization bureaus in the East End and West End and the flow of foreigners wishing to become citizens was so great that it was decided to hold the mass meeting and give those who wished a chance to learn the fundamentals of Americanism. Plainfield has a population of foreign born of approximately 4,000 and if the committee succeeds in making better citizens of them it considers it will have done a great work, not only for the city but for the nation as well. Every educational and foreign organization in the city has joined the movement and its success is practically assured.

In its work of Americanization the committee has divided in four branches with the following chairmen: Educational, Archibald Cox; patriotic, William G. De Meza; recreation, Arthur Jones, and agricultural, William S. Tyler. In addition

R., of which she is regent; Mrs. Frances DeLacy Hyde, representing the Young Women's Christian Association; Miss Mabelle Phillips, representing the Charity Organization Society; Mrs. E. F. Feickert, representing the National Special Aid; the Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, the Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, Max Tepper and Ralph Matthews.

To Sentence Depew Today; Other Cases

Sitting in the Court of General Sessions this afternoon, Judge Connolly will impose sentence upon Roland Depew, of East Orange, who has been out under heavy bail since he was convicted of manslaughter in connection with the death of Miss Hilda Hodgson at Scotch Plains last fall. Depew was driving the auto that ran down the Hodgson girl and several companions on Springfield road one stormy night as they were returning from church.

One of the cases that will be tried this afternoon is that of Mabel Mills, who has pleaded not guilty to committing a serious offense with a National Guardsman on duty in this city. Mrs. Florence Williams will be arraigned on a similar charge, to which she also pleaded not guilty. Charles Glitting is being held for trial, also, following a plea of guilty to the charge of stealing a horse blanket from John W. Snyder, of this city.

Other cases having a local interest that will be tried in the near future are as follows: John Doyle and James Yitell, charged with assault, trial June 6; Brooks Carson, desertion, trial June 6, and Robert Johnson, assault and battery, trial June 11.

Dr. Hudson Left Today for Maine Pastorate

Dr. Birney S. Hudson, Mrs. Hudson and daughter left for Portland, Maine, today, where Dr. Hudson will preach his initial sermon on Sunday as pastor of the First Baptist church of that place. Following the resignation of Rev. Gabriel Reed McGuire as pastor, Dr. Hudson became pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church about two years ago and until May 1 had done much to build up the parish. On that date he notified the congregation that he had received a call from the Portland church and asked that his resignation be accepted. He was given the month of May as a vacation by the church and after the vacation left Plainfield ready to enter his new field of endeavor.

Dr. Hudson gained many friends during his stay in this city and was one of those most active during the Belderwolf campaign of last spring. During the past month his place in the local church has been filled by supplies, but it is probable a call for a new pastor will be issued in the near future.

Certain to Locate Prison Farm Near Plainfield

Freeholders Marsh, Applegate and Brokaw, together with Augustus C. Hughson, warden of the county jail made a careful inspection of the proposed prison farm site near Bonnie Burn this week. The officials spent hours on the tract and went over the ground with a view to ascertaining how adaptable it is for the purpose. Commending upon it this morning Warden Hughson declared that it has the natural resources necessary for a county farm.

The freeholders have been going into the prison farm matter with a great deal of thoroughness and a number of different tracts have been examined. With the idea of making the institution a permanent one, every precaution is being taken to acquire a suitable site. Thus far there has been no attempt to settle on any one place and it is likely that several other places will be visited before any decision is reached.

Warden Hughson, after the trip said that he could not help observing, as he passed through the country districts, how regrettable it is that there is so much idle land and so many idle men, when they could all be producing something.

To Hold Exhibition in Harrison School

Shortly after North Plainfield began to realize the seriousness of the food situation plans were made to develop unused land in the borough to increase local production, and now the problem of preserving the food supply has been turned over practically entirely to the Parent-Teacher Association. At a meeting of that organization yesterday afternoon Mrs. Mathew Swart was appointed chairman of a committee of fifteen and already plans have been started to take matters up.

The committee has announced that as the start of its activities it would hold a demonstration of cooking and preserving according to government standards in the auditorium of the Harrison Avenue School tonight. Everyone is welcome to attend, as a small admission to be used in purchasing equipment will be asked. After the demonstration a social hour with games and dancing will be enjoyed. Other announcements concerning steps to be taken will be forthcoming at intervals.

"Honey Girls" Here Today and Tomorrow

FRANKIE NIBLO
With "The Honey Girls," at the Plainfield Theatre Today and Tomorrow.

"The Honey Girls" will be seen at the Plainfield Theatre today and tomorrow, matinee daily, in an entirely new program including two burlesques, "The Countess Count" and "Fun in Florida," both from the pen of George Totten Smith.

A specially strong cast has been engaged, headed by the cyclonic comedians, Kearney and Murphy, supported by a cast seldom seen in city burlesque including Frankie Niblo, Bessie Anette, Charles Cole, Harry Woods, Emily Nice, Maude Fuller, Edna Weston, etc., and a chorus of 20 girls, who sing and dance cleverly, make up the company.

The scenery is elaborate and comes from the studios of one of the best scenic artists in New York.

Lightening Turns Stranger Around and Stuns Occupants of Park Avenue Hotel

In the midst of the violent thunder storm which passed over Plainfield Monday night, lightning played about Thomas Brantingham's hotel on lower Park avenue in a most spectacular manner, during which one particular bolt performed numerous tricks. As far as can be determined it first struck a pole in front of the building which supports an electric sign directly on the street and somehow or other got by the arrestors and entered the hotel itself. A part of the bolt came in contact with Henry Van Nuis, an employe, and knocked him from his chair, where he sat quietly watching the progress of the storm. A cigar which he held in his mouth was pulled forcibly from him and landed against the wall fifteen feet away. Mr. Brantingham and other occupants of the building were partially stunned for the time being and when they recovered gained the impression that the hotel was on fire. They rushed outside to learn more of what had happened and were greatly relieved to find that no flames were in evidence.

One of the most peculiar things about the pranks of the lightning was the manner in which it affected a stranger, who was just ascending the front porch of the building. He had reached the landing as the bolt descended and when the bluish haze disappeared he was 100 feet away on Park avenue running for "dear life." It is the general belief of the town watchers that he was lifted completely off his feet and turned around as it was impossible for him to have made his getaway so quick. An effort has since been made to secure his identity but without success.

The same bolt which played about the Brantingham hotel evidently entered about the old Quinn residence directly next door, to the north, in the house. The flash burned out the telephone and seemed to penetrate every room in the house. Mrs. Michael Quinn was the most directly concerned, receiving a severe shock which left her in a semi-conscious condition for several minutes after the electrical intruder had disappeared. Her sisters, the Misses McGuirk, were also victims of the lightning but did not suffer so badly. They, too, believed their home was on fire and rushed to the telephone to call for help but found that the communication had been cut off. All the occupants of the house were in a more or less nervous condition for the remainder of the night.

A full investigation of the Brantingham hotel failed to show any great damage, although all the electrical wires were destroyed and parts of the roof seemed to be ripped away. It is considered quite remarkable that no one was killed or badly burned, as the lightning lingered about the premises for at least ten seconds. The storm was one of the severest that has been recorded at this time in many years and reports from other sections of the State indicate that it caused widespread ap-

Ysaye Will Appear Here for Belgians

For the benefit of the "milk fund" of the Plainfield branch of the Belgian Relief Society, Ysaye, the greatest of Belgium's musicians and acknowledged throughout the world as one of the best violinists of modern times, will give a recital at the home of Mrs. Pierre Mali, on East Front street, tomorrow afternoon, assisted by his son, Gabrielle. The affair, aside from its benevolent purpose, should prove to be one of the largest affairs of its kind ever held in the city. Pierre Mali, who is Belgian consul-general at New York city, has kindly thrown open his large estate and been doing every thing else possible to ensure the success of the concert.

Ysaye has consented to come to Plainfield for one of his few appearances in this country because it is an occasion arranged solely for the purpose of helping the starving children of his native country. The services of both he and his son are given gratis and should alone make the concert deserving of success. Ysaye will render a number of selections from the works of the greatest composers and as an added feature has announced that he will offer a special repertoire of numbers, assisted by his son.

The recital will be given in the Mali residence, but if the weather permits a tea will be held on the lawns of the estate afterward. Arrangements for this feature of the benefit are now practically completed and include several innovations. Special arrangements for table reservations for parties have been made and some sort of a program will be rendered.

A concert of tomorrow is only one event of several arranged during the past few months as a part of the campaign to raise a "milk fund." Already a sum totaling several thousands has been created and this will be used in purchasing condensed milk to send to Belgium. Although the Belgian Relief Society is helping relieve the sufferings of the war-stricken people in every possible manner, a special effort to make a success of the "milk fund" has been made and every member of the society has worked toward that end.

The program which Ysaye will render is as follows:

Sonata in D Major for violin and piano, Beethoven, Ysaye, Mlle. Victoria Boshko, accompanist; (a) Berceau d'Enfant, Ysaye; (b) Valse, Chopin-Ysaye, Ysaye; (a) Barcarolle, (b) Valse Caprice, Rubenstein, Mlle. Victoria Boshko; Six Duettini for two violins, Godard, Ysaye and Gabrielle Ysaye; Rondo Capriccioso, Saint-Saens, Ysaye.

SCHOLASTIC AN OTHER TILTS TOMORROW.

Unless bad weather intervenes, baseball will offer a full card for local fans tomorrow. The contest that will probably attract the greatest interest is the second tilt between P. H. S. and N. P. H. S. for the city scholastic championship. The game will be played on Parker Field, starting at 3:30. The borough lads have the edge on the series, having won the first game, and if they also capture tomorrow's contest there will be no necessity of a third fracas.

The usual week-end games will also be played in the City League. Home Chapel and St. Joseph's will lineup against each other, while the Aeroplane team and the First Baptist outfit will also try conclusions. A number of games have been scheduled by the various independent teams in the city, including the T. A. B. S. Pond, Triangle and other club aggregations.

Cafe Chantant for "Aid" Work

A Cafe Chantant will be given in the Park Club, on Washington avenue, tonight for the benefit of the National Special Aid Society and will be a unique event in the annals of Plainfield social life. The arrangements for the affair have been made by women who are members of the society and the entire proceeds will be used to further the work of the organization.

The ball room of the club will be arranged to represent a Parisian cafe with the spectators seated about the room at tables. The committee in charge has secured artists of well-known ability to contribute to the program, one feature of which will be solo dancing by Miss Frances Hyde, of this city. Other excellent numbers have been announced as part of the evening's entertainment and a large attendance is already assured.

The list of patrons and patronesses for the Chantant are as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick M. Goddard, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Lawrence, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Charles, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Charles, Mr. and Mrs. William Lockwood, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Petze, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Uuhler, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sloan, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Anderson Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Skillman, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis J. Geary, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene P. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Laurens H. Van Buren, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Sloane, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Richter, Mrs. F. W. Carlisle and Miss Stevens.

LOCAL TELEPHONE MEN MAY BUY BONDS.

A. B. Wilson, local commercial manager of the New York Telephone Company, received notice today that his company has adopted a plan under which every employe from office boy up can purchase one or more Liberty Bonds on easy payments. The plan will be followed by all telephone companies in the Bell System, which means that 180,000 telephone workers will have an opportunity to obtain the bonds.

The telephone company will purchase the bonds for its workers, who will pay for them in weekly or monthly installments, according to the size of the bonds, during a period extending over one year.

Third Plainfield Ambulancier is on Way to France

This city's third representative on the European battlefront will be doing duty "somewhere in France" within another few days, when Clemence A. Bechtel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bechtel, of Carlton avenue, reaches Bordeaux. Young Bechtel left New York last Saturday as a member of the Yale unit going to France to become an ambulancier and has agreed to serve as long as they need him.

He volunteered his services at Poughkeepsie, where he has been representative for the U. S. Tire Co. for some time. He took the step at the same time as three other members of the company's force, and the night before their departure they were given a dinner in the New York State town by a large number of friends. They were all presented with Waltham wrist watches and given a great send-off.

Bechtel is well known among Plainfield's younger set. He attended the local public schools and was at one time a member of the Holy Cross football team. He is twenty-seven years of age and popular among a large circle of friends.

ALIENS MUST GET PERMITS IN WAR ZONES.

United States Marshal Bollschweiler is finding it difficult to handle the rush of applications coming to him from alien enemies for permits to enter forbidden war zones proclaimed by the President. Bollschweiler's headquarters are in the Federal building in Newark and aliens from nearby sections, including this city, apply there for permits. As the President's proclamation made almost every point of military or industrial value a barred zone, an alien can hardly travel anywhere at present without a permit.

Plainfield residents who are alien enemies are expected to report to Marshal Bollschweiler for permits. It is probable that many Germans have been traveling about up to now without observing the law, but in a very short time it is expected that steps will be taken by the authorities to enforce the barred zone restrictions.

GOOD RESULTS FROM COAL CONTROVERSY.

Whether or not there is to be an early reduction of the price of coal in Plainfield, Leslie R. Fort's recent controversy with the local dealers has been a great benefit to the community. It has showed plainly that this city has been paying more money for the commodity than is asked in the nearby towns of Westfield, Bound Brook, Somerville, Elizabeth and Newark. None of the answers to Mr. Fort's query told why this should be but the consumers are beginning to figure it out for themselves. Another good result may come from the suggestion of a writer on the subject who advocated the securing of a trestle for city purposes, one where the coal supply for the schools and public buildings could be unloaded from cars bought direct from the mines. This suggestion has plenty of merit and should be followed up by the municipal authorities. Again, all the articles relating to the local coal situation have been forwarded to the Federal Trade Commission and it is quite probable that one of its representatives, backed by the authority of the United States government, may drop into Plainfield in the near future and look over the books of the dealers. If there is any kind of a combine to keep up prices or gouge the public out of thousands of dollars every year a commission will find it out and act accordingly.

The Federal Trade Commission has recently gone into the production and sale of coal in a very thorough manner, publishing a full report that was calculated to reassure purchasers and explaining prices at the mines. Such controversies as have arisen in different parts of the country are not at all in keeping with the information given and where prices are at variance with the set figures the able men constituting the commission board want to know why. The idea is aptly summed up by the Newark Call in the following editorial:

A lot of good it does the people who are paying exorbitant prices for coal to learn from the Federal Trade Commission that there is plenty of coal and no reason for more than normal prices. This intelligence would be more gratifying if they could read the same story in their coal bills. The theory of the Trade Commission may be based on facts, but it is a condition that faces the coal purchasing public, and that condition is one not only of abnormal prices but of widely varying prices. Charges made by some coal dealers confirm the Trade Commission's conclusions, while others quote rates that would lead to the belief that coal is about as scarce as diamonds.

Some hope may be gleaned from a statement issued by the commission on Tuesday last, which would indicate a purpose to use something more than the persuasion of publicity in compelling fair prices for coal. The commission has sent field agents throughout the country to see how well are being carried out the plans recently adopted at a conference, to which the commission, coal operators, jobbers and retailers were parties, to maintain prices at moderate levels. It is promised that "appropriate action" will be taken wherever reports from these agents indicate renewal of "the intolerable abuses that marked the activities of certain elements of the trade during recent months." This would seem to indicate belief on the part of the commission that the "intolerable abuses" had entirely ceased, which does not agree with the general understanding on the subject.

HAVE YOU BOUGHT A LIBERTY BOND?

The fact that you, Mr. Plainfielder, have not been selected to go to the front as a fighting unit for the defense of your country does not exempt you from patriotic service.

You may be over age, you may be under height, you may have defective physique or imperfect health, but these do not disqualify you from being a man and doing your part at home where most of the work of winning the war is to be done.

Your earnings may be small, you may have few savings or none, but so long as you have any earning power whatever you can serve your country best in this tremendous crisis by making a fresh effort at saving and investing in a Liberty Loan bond.

Help to support a soldier at the front. Back of each soldier must stand the dollars of the American people. The masses of the people must rise to the emergency and raise this $2,000,000,000 loan or invite defeat in Europe and the dictation of terms of peace by Germany.

All wealth springs from the earnings of the people. And all the nation's activities must be paid for out of the purses of the people. You want peace and you will have to pay for it before you can secure it.

Either you will pay for it in defeat or in victory. A defeated nation would have to pay for defeat with indemnities in order to redeem its trade and its allies from the heel of the victor.

The successful flotation of the colossal Liberty Loan will help to ensure the early and fortunate conclusion of the war. The importance of subscribing to this loan cannot be exaggerated. It is the purchase price of victory.

The American people are not accustomed to investing in national bonds. Never was the occasion more apt for acquiring the habit. Thrift and national bond investment go hand in hand. The wealth of the French peasant, which now saves France from the jaws of death, was stored up in the bond savings of the workers.

The humblest man may buy a $50 or a $100 Liberty bond. He can pay for it as his savings accumulate. He need not use up all his present savings deposits. It is better that he should make a fresh effort at saving, perhaps a first effort.

These Liberty Bonds are first mortgages upon the entire wealth of the United States, payable in gold. The banks will loan money on them as collateral security. They will always be readily saleable. They will bear interest at 3½ per cent. They are a new form of savings deposit, a more secure form, a patriotic form.

Buy a Liberty Bond for your son, or your daughter, as a nest-egg. Be shrewd; be thrifty; insure yourself and your country with Liberty bond investment insurance. And when you have performed this duty to your menaced country, tell your neighbor what you have done to help win the war for Democracy.

More than $500,000 worth of bonds have already been subscribed for by Plainfielders, but this amount should be doubled or even tripled. It can be it every one of you realize that you have got to do your share.

AN APPEAL TO PATRIOTIC YOUTHS.

Probably there is no place where the mainsprings of human actions are laid bare so clearly as in a recruiting office. As men are gathered for the service, the workings of the human mind are visible as the idea of duty is born, as it grows and as it culminates in action.

The first stirring of the call to duty will generally bring a man walking past the recruiting office where he pauses and looks at the posters displayed and studies the wording of the signs, but the chances are that he passes on and postpones any conversation with the men at the office, to another time.

The next day he appears and begins to ask questions and from that time on the call becomes more and more insistent and there is no escape from it. The man signs an application and is surprised at the relief he feels when he has definitely offered his service to the country. It is amazing to see the eagerness and devotion that drives a man when he has once decided to take the step, and the grief, real genuine grief that grips him if some minor defect threatens to keep him from the ranks. There are men in the service who, lacking the required 5 feet 4 inches by a half inch, have raised that half inch suddenly at the cost of considerable pain, and having raised it, passed the measurement test. There are men also who have eaten several days' meals at once in order to come up to the required weight. There are many cases of devotion that make one's heart swell with pride at the spirit shown by America's manhood. But, also, there is the other side of the picture, though it must be said that those who form the other side are seldom drawn from America's manhood. There are men who will come back time after time but who are always further from a decision. Some will even sign an application and these are never seen again. Fully equipped and qualified to serve their country, yet they surrender to the inner promptings that work for "Safety First." They must go on through life living with themselves and that ought to be punishment enough.

As a rule though the day's work is of a nature to encourage a recruiting officer, often the zeal and patriotism of our citizens of foreign extraction is surprising even though misdirected. One of the recent recruits of Company K, who had served in the Italian Army before coming here, smilingly announced that he had had a fight in New York the day before. On being questioned he said he had found a man who was "poking out de soldier's eyes. Pressed for an explanation he said, "de man sticka de finger in de soldier's eye in de big picture where you go to enlist, I walka up to him and I pusha de nose way over de side of his face. I beata him good." So he showed his respect to Uncle Sam's posters, then came and enlisted. Maybe his zeal was misdirected but who would blame him?

Company K wants to see more of that zeal; it wants to see that zeal drive the young men up to the recruiting office where they can do their share towards filling the ranks of a company that is charged with upholding Plainfield's honor, no matter where duty calls. Company K must soon go to war strength which means 50 more men. Shall it be said of Plainfield that she could not furnish them; that she let Company K march away with unfilled ranks, leaving healthy young men behind enjoying the comforts of home?

Muhlenberg Hospital's taggers set out to get $5,000 last Saturday but succeeded in raising less than half this amount. The question has been asked whether the failure was due to so many appeals being made for charity lately or to that same feeling of prejudice against the manner in which the institution is conducted, which crops up at frequent intervals.

BOSSES AND JOURNEYMEN CONFER ON APPRENTICES

At a conference between journeymen electrical workers and the local bosses in Trades Council Hall Tuesday night, the former were granted an increase in pay of fifty cents per day beginning today, but the employers refused to sign an agreement to this effect until certain changes in the union's control of apprentices and helpers were made.

It has been the rule in recent years to allow but one apprentice to every ten men and one helper to every journeyman. Bait held out by machine shops and munition factories in the form of big wages has induced many helpers to quit and there are no apprentices coming along to take their places. The bosses ask permission to put on an additional apprentice for each ten journeymen and also to regulate the work of helpers to better advantage for contractors and customers alike. If the request is acted upon favorably by the union at a meeting to be held by the journeymen to be held next week the bosses will then sign the agreement for increased pay, although the fifty cents additional is to be given from now on. The belief exists that the union will grant the changes.

rived from two Sterling motors of 125 h. p. each and will be fitted with every facility for the convenience of those who will man her.

For armament there will be one three-pounder mounted forward and a Lewis machine gun erected aft. The excellent means of defense, together with the wireless equipment, has caused the patrol to be designated in dire and service, which means that the government will furnish fuel and other means of maintenance after the first three months.

Having been successful in passing the required tests, Mr. Ackerman and his crew are under the orders of the Navy Department. He has been notified to report on July 1, while the other members of the crew will commence their duties on June 14. The vessel has been assigned to the Second District and will have that territory lying between Chatham and New London to patrol, with the home station at the latter port. That assignment, however, is regarded as temporary and at any time after the craft goes into service the word may come to depart for European shores.

When seen by a Record reporter last night, Mr. Ackerman was intensely enthusiastic over the prospects of early action. He, together with Rowland and Logan, belong to Troop D, which will furnish the losing of three excellent men from that unit. All three served with the organization on the border last summer and are well known in this city. Fraser is an expert on marine engines and is only too glad of the opportunity of getting back on the sea. The remainder of the crew are not known locally but are all very competent, each one having had limitless experience.

that those of moderate means may help the United States win the war and will in no way prove a hinderance to the buying of bonds outright. That phase of the campaign will keep right on and be pushed harder than ever.

Figures obtained from the various banks yesterday would indicate that approximately $545,000 has been subscribed up to the present time. The club plan of buying bonds will, it is expected, raise the total to considerably over $1,000,000. The amounts given by the four banking institutions in round number were as follows: Plainfield Trust, $225,000; State Trust, $180,000; City National, $100,000, and First National $40,000.

Following tonight's meeting, when the organization of the movement and appointment of committees will be made further announcement will be made as to the date for the opening of the clubs. The members of the committee, which is to cooperate with the banks, are as follows: Hon. William N. Runyon, chairman; E. W. Bulkley, vice chairman; Hon. Alexander Gilbert, Hon. William Newcorn, Francis J. Blatz, A. A. Tilney, A. Willis West, Henry W. Cleaver, Arthur E. Smith, Herman Schwed, J. Herbert Case, George M. Holstein, B. Van D. Hedges, M. D., J. Augustus Smith, Charles H. Frost, David T. Kenney, Henry J. Cochran, James Dodd, Joseph W. Gavett and Frank J. Hubbard.

order that families of soldier boys may be properly cared for. The calling out of Company K has already drawn heavily upon the league's treasury, but the burden now assumed will be much greater when Troop D's members and volunteers to other units are mustered in on July 15. It is easy to see that a lot of money will be needed to properly care for those left behind. In this war every man, women or child can do his or her part and one of the most feasible ways is to patronize the show which has for its object the securing of money to relieve the families of those who are offering up their lives at the front. There is no reason why the Plainfield Theatre should not be filled to its capacity next Monday night, as in addition to securing a full evening's entertainment those present will be aiding the worthiest cause that has been advocated in this city in many years."

The committee from the Volunteer Auxiliary League which has been appointed to assist Judge Newcorn is composed of: W. R. Townsend, T. O. Dennes, E. P. Pelckert, Mrs. Sherman Joost, Story Rowland and Mrs. Allan Cowperthwait.

The big first part of the Minstrel Show will include a chorus of women as well as men. Benjamin W. Evans will act as interlocutor and the end men will include "Banty" Bennett, Will Firstbrook, Ben Dodwell and Charles Kregar. Among the soloists will be "Johnny" Campbell, William J. Tallamy, Bertram F. Tallamy, William G. Smith, Elmer D. Cutting, Edward J. Harding, Jr., Miss Juliette Brancati, Mr. O'Donnell, Mr. Masterson, Mr. Newmann and Mr. Cahill.

In the second part of the show Messrs. Kregar and Dodwell will give a dancing specialty and the Van Eps brother, "Banjoists De Luxe," will contribute musical numbers. A grand patriotic tableau, "The Call to America," is to conclude the performance. In this big display Miss Zafra Brancati will represent "Columbia" and the Misses Ethel Hillpot, Elizabeth Hillpot, Ethel Runyon, Juliette Brancati, Irma Waldorf, Stella Force, Leslie Glaser and Leila Glaser will represent various nations.

Plainfield Man's Brother Dies of Wounds Received in Balkan Sector

Dispatches from the British War Office during the past week brought information of the death of Daniel J. Shelly, a Brooklyn boy fighting with the English army, who is well known in this city and whose brother, Joseph Shelly, resides on East Fifth street, near Watchung avenue. The young soldier was but twenty-three years old and had been a member of the First Company, Third Battalion, King's Liverpool Regiment, since 1915. The place of his death or the circumstances which brought it about were not given in the brief official message but his relatives believe young Shelly died in Salonica, of wounds suffered in action. The last letter received by his mother, Mrs. Amy Shelly, No. 264 Eleventh street, Brooklyn, informed her that he was at Salonica "enjoying the best of health and glad to be out of the French trenches." The letter was dated April 6.

Young Shelly was of a very genial disposition and was greatly interested in the European War from the time of its commencement. Before two years ago he decided to enlist and despite the protestations of his family shipped aboard a freight boat carrying a cargo of horses from New York to Liverpool. Arriving at the latter city he immediately offered his services in behalf of the King and was accepted. From time to time his parents heard from him at various points in France, where he did trench duty for a long while. He suffered minor wounds but nothing of a serious nature was spoken of in any of his letters, even to the last one sent from Greece.

Beside his mother and the brother mentioned, young Shelly is survived by two sisters and one other brother living in Brooklyn. Joseph Shelly was a resident of Plainfield for many years while employed at the Pond Tool Works as a pattern-maker, but more recently has been residing in Brooklyn.

He returned to Plainfield a month ago, following the death of his mother-in-law, Mrs. John Day, and has since been making his home with his sisters-in-law, the Misses Julia and Elizabeth Day, of East Fifth street.

The play at Hydewood tomorrow afternoon will include the second round of the spring championship, consisting of 18 holes.

Capt. Chute Speaks

In present day warfare the constant confusion of things in the first line of action places a strain on the nerves that few men can long stand, but Captain Chute continued with the Canadian forces until, after over two years' active service, he was seriously wounded by a fragmentary shell that killed the horse on which he was mounted and threw him a great distance. He was unconscious for five days, but when he grew better was invalided home. Now he is on a tour of this country giving lectures. He is a personal friend of Rev. Charles A. Eaton, of Watchung, and has visited him on more than one occasion.

Although the Hoover Commission has completed its work in Belgium and Hoover has returned to this country to help the United States systematize its food supply, the local society, which was the first to be formed in America, will continue its work so far as possible. Thus far in the two years of activity it has collected thousands of dollars and sent clothing, condensed milk, a portable house and everything else that could be of use over to Belgium. At the present time the organization is concentrating its energies on raising a milk fund and already it has reached no into the thousands.

The society will no longer be able to help the Belgian people inside the German lines, but these refugees in England and France and those who are in the little strip of country still held by King Albert's army will continue to derive benefit from the efforts of Plainfield's women.

JOHN E. MELICK.

John E. Melick, a native of this vicinity, died Tuesday at his home on Fairmount avenue, following an illness from a complication of troubles. He was born fifty-nine years ago on the Melick farm, which is now part of the Plainfield Country Club's golf course, and resided on the farm, until he sold the last portion to the Country Club last fall. Since then he had been living in this city.

Mr. Melick is survived by his wife, Mrs. Nellie Melick; one daughter, Mrs. R. Edward Van Hoesen, living at the parental home, and one son, Lester Remsen Melick, of this city; also one brother, Leonard Melick, living in Florida.

Vets' Parade a Feature

Leighton Calkins in Reform Hall and Assemblyman William N. Runyon in Columbus Hall. The graves of soldiers in all the local cemeteries were strewn with flowers and details conducted services with firing squads and "taps" in several instances.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., had charge of the big parade, which passed over a long line of march beginning at Reform Hall. Music was provided by the Dutch Arms and John Third Sobieski bands and St. Mary's T. A. B. Fife and Drum Corps. William N. Pangborn, of Winfield Scott Post, mounted on the beautiful horse ridden in Memorial Day parades for many years by the later Captain William Hand, acted as marshal. A platoon of Plainfield police in charge of Chief P. S. Kiely riding a fine black charger, headed the procession and the divisions in line were as follows: Co. H, Uniformed Rank of the Jr. O. U. A. M.; Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus; Troop D, First Squadron New Jersey Cavalry; Plainfield Home Defense League in charge of Captain Ransome and Lieutenant Whitney Baker; platoon of North Plainfield police; Mayor William L. Smalley and the members of North Plainfield Common Council heading the North Plainfield Home Defense League; Plainfield High School Cadets and the Plainfield High School farm hands, who are working on the Frohn-Heim Farm at Fair Hills; Troops of Boy Scouts and veterans of the Civil War, the last named riding in automobiles. Mayor Leighton Calkins and members of the Plainfield Common Council rode in automobiles at the head of the first division. Troop D and the two Home Defense Leagues made exceptionally splendid showings and were applauded at frequent intervals.

At the conclusion of the parade the G. A. R. veterans and many of their friends gathered in Reform Hall, where they were addressed by Mayor Leighton Calkins. His remarks in part were as follows:

"Each year our hearts are more stirred as we see the men who fought for their country and for freedom half a century ago, assemble to decorate the graves of their companions in arms. Each year their ranks grow thinner but still the noble army goes marching on, and will down to the last man.

"Our hearts beat with pride when we see them, not just on account of their great love for country in those dark and discouraging days before the new light of daybreak, but because we too have something of the love and therfore know no greater privilege than to honor their loyalty and sacrifice.

"And now for the first time since this day was set apart fifty years ago, to commemorate the lives so freely offered that the nation might endure, our country again faces grave peril and is summoned to battle in defence of that which is honorable, and fair dealing among men and nations.

"What an example, then, what an inspiration to the men of today, the young men and the boys approaching manhood, we have in this small band of veterans of an earlier war for humanity! What they did for righteousness and for Christian civilization, we are now also called upon to do. It should spur us to give of our best, that their one great regret in these days of stress is that they cannot offer their lives all over again for the country they have already served so well.

"To you men of '61-'5 can only say that you have a place in the affections of your countrymen which no others can fill. In the crisis now confronting the nation, we hold before us the example of your fidelity to principle, your courage, your loyalty and sacrifice, your hope in spite of great discouragements, and then your great reward.

"And so this day has a double meaning for us. We commemorate the deeds of an earlier age and thereby we gain faith that the men and women who are looking forward into life, rather than back upon it in the glory and honor of advancing years, will show the same love for country and the same zeal for sacrifice which enabled you at last to bring order out of chaos, and peace and good will into the hearts of men."

From Reform Hall the old soldiers marched to Columbus Hall, where the customary Memorial Day exercises were held in charge of Past Department Commander William C. Smith, detailed for the purpose by T. G. Donne, commander of the Post. The hall was filled to its capacity and the program of songs and recitations offered by the children and a splendid Memorial Day address by Assemblyman William N. Runyon was greatly enjoyed. Assemblyman Runyon made a decided impression when he spoke at the exercises last year, but he even outdid his previous effort when he spoke to the veterans on the present occasion. In his masterful way he pointed out facts concerning the present war which are not fully known to the people, explained the causes of the Civil War, the great part the G. A. R. men played in this conflict and ended by an appeal to the young men for a rally round the flag as their fathers and grandfathers have done in 1861. The Assemblyman concluded his address amid a tumult of applause.

Mrs. John Manley had charge of the children's portion of the program, which was as follows:

Chorus, "Battle Hymn of the Republic;" recitation, "Peace and Prosperity," Sadie Goldberg, Ethel Robinson, Thelma Smith; chorus, "Fling Out the Banner;" solo, "Don't Bite the Hand That's Feeding You," Maris Kelley; recitation and decorating the unknown grave, Helen Bergman; chorus, "All Hail;" solo and chorus, "America for Me," Mildred Prase; flag drill, 16 girls; chorus, "Columbia the Gem of the Ocean."

Rev. Father B. M. Bogan, of St. Mary's church, offered prayer in conclusion and when the gathering was at a close the G. A. R. men adjourned to the pressed in front of the hall, where the Knights of Columbus were conducting their flag raising. At the request of the committee from Watchung Council, the veterans raised the flag to the top of the big pole in accordance with military regulation. Commander Doane had the honor of pulling the halyards that lifted the beautiful flag to its fluttering place sixty-five feet in the air.

The committee from the Women's Relief Corp, which drilled the seventy-five children in the chorus for the exercises and arranged the recitations and drills, was composed of Mrs. John Manley, Mrs. Sarah P. Struthers, Mary Miers and Mrs. Sarah Mattox.

puted four and sixty-five hundredths feet. Both properties have passed through numerous hands without the discrepancy being located, mainly because the figures were accepted without a confirmation survey. Mr. Van Winkle refused to take title from the Masons until the flaw was cleared, making court action necessary. In the meantime the Home Real Estate Company, believing that possession is nine points of the law, has fenced in the disputed triangle despite objections from the Mason's counsel. There are rumors that the barricade might be torn down but it was still standing at noon today.

The real estate company, which is composed of J. T. MacMurray, Andrew McCardell, Frank H. Smith, George B. Wean and Charles H. Hand, has had plans drawn for a building to cover the entire corner lot. If nearly five feet is taken off their frontage, it means a loss of many thousands of dollars as the lot will be too small for a two-store building and too big for a one-store structure. On the other hand Watchung avenue ground at this point is worth about $300 a front foot and the cutting off of 4.65 feet from the Mason plot would cheapen it by about $1,400.

Banquet in Honor of Elks' Bowling Team

The bowling committee of Plainfield Lodge of Elks will give a banquet in the club house on Watchung avenue, Thursday night, June 7, in honor of the Elks team which finished first in the recent City Bowling League. A handsome silver loving cup offered as the prize will be presented the victorious five by Past Exalted Ruler William N. Runyon, who has consented to act as toastmaster during the evening. Arrangements are being made to care for 100 diners. The dinner will be served by the chef of the Elks' Club and there will be music and speeches after coffee is served.

Walter Vail is chairman of the bowling committee and tickets for the occasion can be had of any of the members or at the clubhouse. The members of the team who made the excellent showing in the league are: Chief P. S. Kiely, Jacob Waldorf, Francis J. Blatz, Walter Vail and W. R. Eisenbrandt. The other teams in the league were the Knights of Columbus, St. Mary's T. A. B. Society and the Imperials. Each of these organizations will be largely represented at the banquet.

LIBERTY BONDS PRIZES IN MAXWELL TESTS

Fifty thousand dollars worth of United States Liberty bonds have been purchased by the Maxwell Motor Co., Inc., to be given as prizes in another nation-wide Maxwell owners' one-gallon gasoline economy competition, similar to the one conducted on May 23. In the competition already held, two thousand Maxwell cars averaged thirty miles on the one gallon of gasoline and the automobile company believes that still better results can be obtained.

The coming test will be kept under way June 16 to June 23 and is open to all Maxwell owners, women drivers being eligible the same as men. Twenty-five thousand dollars' worth of the Liberty bonds are to be awarded to drivers making the greatest distances on one gallon of gas and the other twenty-five thousand dollars' worth is to be given local dealers who supervise the trials. The M. & L. Auto Co., at 322 West Front street, will have charge of the Plainfield district and will give full details of the competition during the next few days.

Troop D Will Train in the Southland

New Jersey's National Guardsmen will be trained in the South, under Major General Leonard Wood, recently transferred from the command of the Eastern Department to the Southern Department. Part of the State's Guard is at present doing duty and the remainder will be mobilized on July 25.

Troop D, of this city, will be one of the units called out next month and now that the date is known every effort will be concentrated so as to be ready to move. The troop is already up to peace strength and if the order comes to increase to war strength there will be enough on the waiting list to fill the ranks.

When the troop goes into active service it will probably be as an artillery unit. Because cavalry is of little use on the battlefields of Europe, the cavalry will be formed into field artillery companies, according to unofficial dispatches emerging from Washington.

Colleges to Honor Many From Here

Plainfield for many years past has had an unusually large representation at the big colleges and universities of the country, the complete listing running well into the hundreds. Graduation next month, however, will mark the completion of college courses for many of the local students, with Yale turning out the largest delegation.

Old Eli will have one of the largest graduations in its history, although the leaving of many of the Senior Class for service in the war will detract somewhat from the usual commencement festivities. Of the 104 New Jersey boys who are members of the class five are from this city, as follows: S. W. Burke, L. S. Heily, G. M. Murray and W. S. McKay. All have established excellent records during their fours years, but Willard McKay has stood high in his class and will undoubtedly be chosen to fill one of the honor positions. He was valedictorian of the class in which he graduated at P. H. S., and has captured several scholarships at Yale. Kenneth C. McKenzie, another local boy, is a member of the graduating class of the Sheffield Scientific Training School, a institution attached to Yale.

Other Plainfielders enrolled at the New England seat of learning include A. V. Heely, J. P. Stevens, Jr., P. P. Dey, G. H. Dey, W. S. Lyon, A. B. McKay, E. S. Wallace and D. W. Ladd.

Columbia University claims a fair number of Plainfield's sons. Those who will receive degrees at the coming graduation are: Newark branch, Richard B. Montgomery; School of Medicine, Thomas H. Leggett; chemical engineering, Allan F. Randolph.

Morris M. Brandegee is the local Plainfieldite mentioned as being a member of the Senior Class of Massachusetts Tech, although others enrolled at that institute include Samuel Mead and Harry P. Jewett.

Monroe Good will be graduated from Colgate this year after completing a four-year course. He has taken a prominent part in the life of the college, having been for three years a member of the football team. Richard Borden and Clarence Eder are lower classmen at Colgate.

The majority of the other colleges about the country claim one or two local students, although this city will not be represented in the outgoing class of 1917. Wellesley College seems to be the reigning favorite among those of the fairer sex, inclusion on its rolls Constance Versey, Mildred W. Burnett, Marjorie Burtis and Edith Lowry. Vassar has a few, as has Swarthmore and Smith, Georgetown, Williams, Brown, Dartmouth, New York University and Lafayette are only a few of the other eastern colleges where graduates of the local schools are completing their education, while from the west the rolls of a few of the universities contain names familiar in this city.

Vacationing Firemen Favor New England

Vacation time has arrived for the members of the city fire department and men at headquarters on East Second street are the first to get the allotted ten days off. William Kelley was the initial vacationer and hied himself to his old haunts in New England for recreation. He visited Boston, Fall River and Worcester, Mass., and Nashua, N. H., taking particular pains to inspect the fire department in each city reporting them to be right "up to the minute" in every respect. While in Nashua, where he lived for several years, Mr. Kelley was induced to take part in the annual minstrel show of the volunteer firemen and made a tremendous hit with one of his best baritone solos. He returned to duty Wednesday.

William C. Ryder, also of Headquarters, began his vacation yesterday and because of the good time reported by Kelley has already headed for New England. He will go his associate one better by proceeding as far as Freeport, Me., where he has numerous relatives. One of the latter has promised to take the Plainfield fire fighter on a hunting trip in the wildest part of the State and it is possible he may return with numerous game trophies. The famous Maine potato has its habitat in Aroostook county, that State, and Mr. Ryder will make a careful survey of the big "spud" plantations in search of points for the local agriculturists who are helping to break the food famine.

MISS COOLEY BRIDE OF TENNESSEE MAN

Miss Marjorie Ruth Cooley, daughter of Dr. J. H. Cooley, of Westervelt avenue, the borough, and John Samuel Hicks, son of Mrs. John S. Hicks, of North Chattanooga, Tenn., were married in the Church of the Holy Cross, Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by the rector, Rev. H. St. G. Burrill, in the presence of a gathering of relatives and friends. The only attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Harry N. Sanderson, brother-in-law and sister of the bride, who acted as best man and matron of honor. The couple are now on an automobile honeymoon trip and on their return will make their home at Lamington, where the bridegroom is engaged in scientific farming.

OBITUARY

Personal Mention of Plainfielders and Others Who Have Heeded the Summons of Death During the Past Week.

HENRY FOSBRE.

Henry Fosbre, a resident of Plainfield for the past forty-seven years, died Sunday morning at his home on West Sixth street, following an illness of about one month from a complication of troubles. He was a native of Ireland, but came to this city when he was a young man. He worked for various contracting builders, his last employers being Tallamy Brothers, with whom he had been for seventeen years. He was a member of St. Mary's church and was widely known, especially in the West End, where he had always made his home. Beside his wife Mr. Fosbre is survived by four daughters and two sons, as follows: Mrs. Hugh Kelly, of Elizabeth; Mrs. Thomas Parquette, of Lee place; Mrs. William Nichols, of Union street, and Miss Anna Fosbre and Thomas Fosbre, living at the parental home, and George Fosbre, of Somerset street.

The funeral was held in St. Mary's church Tuesday morning, where a high mass was said by Rev. Father B. M. Bogan in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. There were numerous floral tributes which included a large set piece from the employes of the Woolworth store, where Miss Anna Fosbre is bookkeeper. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, the pall-bearers being: John Newman, Maurice O'Connor, Frederic Ehrhardt, George Nichol, John Simpson and Peter Kane.

ANDREW JUDGE.

Andrew Judge, a resident of the city or borough for nearly thirty years, died Wednesday morning in St. Michael's Hospital, Newark, where he had been undergoing treatment. He was born in Ireland in 1868 and on making his home here secured employment with building contractors. Recently he had been employed at the Spicer plant in South Plainfield. Beside his wife he leaves six children: Thomas, Andrew, Catherine, Anna, John and Nora. He also leaves the following sisters and brothers: Mrs. William McCarthy, of Plainfield; Patrick, of Ireland; Maurice, of France; Maria, of Australia; Mrs. Kate Brown, of Ireland, and Miss Anna Judge, of Ireland.

The funeral was held in St. Joseph's church, Thursday morning, where Mr. Judge was a communicant, the mass being offered by Rev. Father P. J. Hart. The service was attended by many relatives and friends and there were numerous floral tributes. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

MRS. KASPER WICHSER.

Mrs. Regula Wichser, wife of Kasper Wichser, died last Saturday at her home on the Weiss farm on the Warrenville road. She was 87 years old and a native of Switzerland, coming to this country when a young girl. Beside her husband, she is survived by three sons and two daughters, ten grandchildren and five great grandchildren. The funeral took place Wednesday afternoon at the late home on Warrenville road and was in charge of Rev. George Hauser, pastor of the German Reformed church, of the borough. Burial was in the Methodist cemetery, this city.

MRS. REBECCA STORR.

Mrs. Rebecca Storr, for twenty years a resident of North Plainfield, died last Friday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Miller, of Somerville, where she had been living recently. She was an invalid for the past year or more and in the full appreciation of her nearing end she made all arrangements for her funeral before her death came. The service was held at the Methodist church, Allerton, and was conducted by Mr. McGlovery, the pastor. Burial was in the Allerton cemetery.

Mrs. Storr was born at Hampton in 1838 and spent most of her life in Hunterdon county. During her local residence in the borough her home was on Pearl street. Mrs. Storr was a member of Trinity Reformed church, where she was active in several departments for many years. Beside the daughter with whom she lived, Mrs. Storr is survived by two daughters and one son. These are: Mrs. Howard Cramer, of Camden; Mrs. James Mullen, New York, and Frank P. Storr, of West Front street, this city. She also leaves one sister, Mrs. Sarah Smith, of Irvington.

DANIEL HETFIELD TERRY.

Daniel Hetfield Terry, aged 32 years, died Tuesday at his home on Martine avenue, Fanwood, following a two weeks' illness with pneumonia. He was employed as chief clerk in Swift & Co.'s main office in New York and had a wide acquaintance in Plainfield as well as in his home town. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Daniel H. Terry, of Fanwood. Mr. Terry leaves a wife, who was Miss Ethel Schenck, and one son, Roland Terry. He is also survived by the following brothers and sisters: Frank O., Percy, John, Monroe Terry; Mrs. Orville Freeman, the Misses Alice M. and Martha, all of Plainfield.

The funeral was held at the late residence Wednesday afternoon and was in charge of Rev. W. I. Steans, of Westfield. The large gathering present included a delegation from Swift & Co.'s office in New York, which also contributed a floral piece. Burial was in Hillside cemetery, this city.

Following the Plainfield Boys at Ft. Meyer Learning Rudiments of Modern Warfare

Plainfield has a large delegation of "officers in the making" at Fort Myer, Va., where for the past two weeks they have been undergoing rigid training with 2,500 other young men from all over the East. There are many more local men who have passed their examinations, but they were not lucky enough to be called for the first camp and will have to wait until the present contingent has been moulded into efficient officers. A spirit of grim earnestness has developed in the camp, and every thought of frolic and recreation has been set aside in the drive of sixteen hours, from 5:30 in the morning until 9:30 at night. When the embryo officers get through with their evening study they readily turn to their double-decked cots fit as a fiddle for that refreshing sleep that comes only with wholesome physical and mental fatigue.

The daily schedule of a soldier in camp runs something like this: In the morning at 5:30 he is roused out of his bunk and makes a hasty toilet, straightens out his bed, arranges his equipment in its proper place and then hustles out to mess. After "chow" there comes half an hour of calisthenics under Captain Keefer who mounts a platform and put 2,000 men through a series of snappy wooden movements. The men are given breathing exercises to help their chest development and they do a batch of other things to make them hardy and strong.

Immediately following this drill the men are taken out in companies of 125 each and given a marching drill, including the many movements in the manual of arms of the infantryman and the various phases of drive and attacking tribes. In the afternoon the men are given a semaphore drill on the parade grounds, but for half an hour before this takes place little groups and pairs of soldiers get together and help each other brush up on the flag and arm signals.

Following the semaphore drill a bayonet exercise, in which the men are taught how to dispatch the enemy quickly in hand-to-hand combat. The afternoon program frequently contains a short hike through the Virginia hills or regimental drill on the parade grounds. The return to the camp is followed by a short wash-up period and then evening mess, after which the students trot back to their quarters and spend the remainder of the evening studying, alone and in groups. One of the interesting phases of life in the camp is the willingness with which the men are working together for their mutual benefit.

Each company has its own barracks—a long shed-like building of unpainted pine boards—in which are rows of double-decked cots. These company buildings, set end to end, flank the west side of the parade grounds and face a fine roadway which extends through the camp and is a continuation of the main highway into Washington, some five miles away.

Nearly every company has its own mess hall and its corps of dusky cooks and waiters, all white coated and aproned and looking as spick and span as any Broadway chop house xarceon. The students are finding the food quite beyond their expectations. The regular army mess kits with which they have been provided have been temporarily discarded and the student officers sit down at a long table and eat off real crockery instead of tin. The government realizes that the character of work cut out for the men requires a carefully prepared menu and so far as the camp itself is concerned there is no such thing as the high cost of eating.

Hikes of varying length and duration are scheduled for this week. The instructors may then progress into the more realistic phases of modern warfare, such as trench digging, battle formations and perhaps a sham fight or so. Thus far the soldiers have not been provided with ammunition. Everything is being done to test the caliber of the men, both as privates and commanders; the sergeant, lieutenant and captain of today may be a private tomorrow and the man of the ranks advanced to a position of authority. It is at once apparent that the men are rapidly being developed into a well-drilled body.

P. H. S. TENNIS.

The tennis team of Plainfield High School will play its second match of the season this afternoon, the team representing the Lincoln High School being scheduled to appear at Parker Field.

While you cannot increase the size of your rooms to display a large Grand, you can get the same effect with an Apartment Grand.

This miniature size, however, while taking up the same amount of space as an Upright, has all the musical qualities of the larger instruments. It is a real beauty in appearance as well as in the quality of the tone.

And you can have your choice of a very wide range of world-renowned makes—names that are recognized everywhere as synonymous with perfection.

Send for a free paper pattern which will show you just how much room an Apartment Grand will occupy.

Rabbi Hausman Contributes an Ethical Article

(Editor's Note: This essay, "Man's Intellect," was contributed to the Record by the Rev. Dr. Gustav N. Hausmann, of New York city, who came here recently to deliver the eulogy on the late Rabbi Joseph Friendler, of Temple Sholom. Dr. Hausmann is a well known lecturer and author. The essay was originally read before a Bible Class of students of Brown University, the article, though, has nothing to do with religion, it is moralizing; it is ethical.)

MAN'S INTELLECT.

The chief quality that distinguishes man from the lower animals is the mind. The intellect is the characteristic that shows the superiority of the human being over the beast. It is the mind that produces wealth, the brain that feeds the body, the intellect that is the power plant that generates all activity.

Yet it is remarkable that the very element that distinguishes the thinking animal from the brute, man readily neglects. Of all the faculties man possesses, he seems to care least for his intellect. Given the choice between physical and mental exercise, the youth will prefer to work with his body rather than with his head. Any boy would run errands rather than go to school. The adult, also, prefers amusement to intellectual exercise, which appears to be left for a chosen few. For every person who attends a lecture which requires exercise of thought, a score attend a ball game and a hundred crowd the prize ring—the incidents of which are soon forgot. Man's consciousness penetrates into all the departments of his organism, but not with the same force does it enter into that part of his personality which formulates this consciousness. Any defect of ear, eye, hand, foot or other part of his body, man recognizes by intuition and demands a remedy immediately. He will weigh himself to discover whether he is losing or gaining weight in pounds or even ounces, yet he does not care whether he has lost mental weight—indeed, no machine for determining this has yet been invented. He will, however, decry any adverse criticism of his intellect. And if this "Lord of Creation" does occasionally confess his mental shortcomings, it is generally expressed in a haughty, supercilious manner.

"Seest thou a man wise in his own deceit? there is more hope of a fool than of him." Recently he writer overheard the following conversation between two conscious animals:

"It takes a brighter man than I am to accomplish this. I was a big fool for doing this," said the first person with a smile.

"I think so, too," replied the other.

"But," said the first, "at least I am not as big a fool as you are."

And a tilt ensued.

The wise Solomon sagaciously suggests, "Answer not a fool according to his own folly, lest thou also be like unto him."

Woe unto him who will express approval, when men and women, in season or out of season, and especially in the parlor, couch in modest (?) words their complaint that their mental attainments are not very high.

Man will thus stubbornly and haughtily insist that his mental caliber is fully as broad as any rational person might wish. Indeed, this conceited animal believes that God exhausted His own Mind when He fashioned the brain of this wonderful creature. On our part we may observe with Buddha: "Though a fool meet wise men and hear wisdom his whole life long, yet he remains as ignorant of truth as a spoon of the flavor of soup."

Though all the world be full of fools, yet there is not one person that thinks himself one or even suspects that fact. Let us suppose that it were possible for an enterprising merchant to open a store in which brains of all qualities and quantities could be sold at lowest prices. This sensational shopkeeper would be adjudged abnormal and probably be consigned to an insane asylum. Should society possess sufficient patience with this eccentric trader to permit him to continue his business, he would be compelled to make an assignment in brief time. Should a bankruptcy sale follow, his mental articles would probably not even bring the minimum price. However, if a purchaser had the hardihood to enter that foresaken store, this curious buyer would enter in a hesitating and probably sneaky way so as to be unobserved. Suppose that a woman should become sufficiently curious for once, and just for the novelty of the experience, do some shopping in that queer establishment. It may be accepted as an assured fact that, although all her other bills may be sent to her husband, this particular one she would either pay in cash or retain to prevent her husband from getting any knowledge of it.

The story goes that Sir John Lubbock visited a chieftain in the jungles of Africa and found him on the verge of starvation. He furnished him with food to refresh himself. Whenever the Englishman requested information regarding the habits, manners, customs, geography and religion of his tribe or neighboring tribes, the patriarch repeatedly fell asleep. To the scientist's rebuke at this treatment, the savage yawned, "Does it bore to make me sleepy."

This experience is not necessarily confined to the jungle. It is peculiarly true in the modern parlor. When the chief topic of conversation centers on a cheap play, a morbid book or some gossip, in particular to scandal, all ears become receptacles of interest. But if a subject be brought into the conversation that requires thought, such as social reform, moral problems, civic issues or religious topics, then some present began to yawn, others to doze, a few min? even fall asleep.

Similarly, this has been the melancholy experience of the average congregation. When the preacher vies with "Town Topics," competes with the yellow press, or imitates the vaudeville, some people speak of the eloquence of the interesting minister. When, however, the same persons are asked to repeat some part of the sermon, they answer plainly that they do not remember anything in particular except that he spoke well. But should the moralist discuss a great idea, a subject that requires real thinking—a philosophic, religious, or civic problem—some of the congregants become drowsy, others gape, and still others may actually fall asleep. Lessing affirms: "With all but one in a thousand, the goal of thought is where they grow tired of thinking." "Yet, Wisdom is better than silver, more precious than rubies, and rather to be sought than fine gold." This is the woman the wise king immortalized: "She opened her mouth with wisdom." Mind moves matter. Man is mind. The brain is the man.

Even a simpleton is conscious of the fact that he must have physical shelter, food, water and sleep, and sometimes finds it necessary to consult a physician, to retain life. To neglect the feeding of the body, to be careless in the hardening and strengthening of it by regular diet, to omit the functional requirements, and to disregard other necessaries of life is fatal. Sir Oliver Lodge says that a planet not in motion would quickly dissolve into a gas, and be lost, absolutely, as an individual. As a result of the globantic law faculties untaught become paralyzed and die. Organs are lost as their functions are withdrawn or abandoned. Disused members eventually weaken and attenuate. Muscular and nerve tissue in its process of expansion and growth is directly and immediately proportional to its usage. Only those who are engaged in mental operations are the ones who apply their nerve cells to the test. Hans von Buelow, the noted pianist, declared: "If I neglect my practice one day, I see the difference in my execution; if for two days, my friends see it; and if for a week all the world knows my failure." Thus, the more delicate or tender a faculty or talent is, the greater the danger of its disintegration as its vitality ceases. By neglecting and starving the intellect, individuals and nations have perished. Above the ruins of every nation, above the destruction of every civilization might be written: "It fell because it neglected sagacity: it perished from want of wisdom." The Sage observed: "Wisdom stands beside the gates at the entry of the city sounding the alarm, crying that all may hear." He that misseth me wrongeth his own soul; all that hate me love death. Another moralist exclaimed: "Oh, Galilee, thou hastest wisdom; hence wilt thou fall into the hands of robbers." It is the cultivated mind that feeds the corporeal self; the source and means of wealth are the product of the developed intellect. Intelligence is the basis of all improvement. Emerson observes wisely: "In his brain man carries the geometry of the City of God."

The learn'd is happy knowledge to explore.
The fool is happy that he knows no more.

Whence comes the abhorrence of the recognition of mental shortcomings? Why does not universal man realize that the mind needs to be fed, the intellect nourished, the brain cultivated—doctored—as well as the body? Is it not a fact that, "Tis the mind that makes the body rich"? It may be argued, and with good reason, that the human race is still in its mental infancy. Man's mind has not yet reached maturity. The infant fears the physician for the reason that it is not conscious of its bodily ailment and its possible remedy. This helpless bundle of humanity thinks that the doctor is bent on injury. On the other hand, being aware of the nature of his illness, the adult seeks the aid of the physician. Despite the vulgar conceit of our much vaunted civilization, the mind of the human race has not yet emerged far enough from babyhood to appears to take much longer to cultivate the intellect than the body—both in the individual and in the race.

In answer to the above query, viz.: "Why do we not recognize our mental shortcomings?" the most logical explanation may be given as follows: The little boy likes to wear his father's trousers, in order that he may appear a man. The little girl gets into her mother's dress, so that she may appear a woman. The boy and the girl are both anxious to wear long clothing, long trousers and long dresses, respectively, to be counted a man or a woman. Mentally, the race has not yet reached its highest development, being still in the state of mental boyhood and girlhood. The intellectually growing race likes to appear—as the boy and the girl—mature in wisdom, which it is not as yet. It is solicitous to clothe itself in long words, catching expressions, symbolic statements, such as: Education, culture, religion, civilization, humanity.

This lack of true mental maturity explains the cause of much racial, religious, political and economic dissension. Heredity is the transmission of germ cells which are contained in the germ plasm and gives rise to qualities or characters, physical, mental and moral, which may pass on from progenitor to offspring. In spite of many exceptions, there are general resemblances and particular differences between ancestors and descendants. That like produces like—though not quite the same—is the law written upon the face of nature. All sowing contains the germ of the future harvest. Darwin declares, that the transmission of character from parents to children is the rule, and non-inheritance is the anomaly. In general, the children inherit what was innate, potential in their parents. The brain is inherited just as any other part of the body. We inherit, in a more or less variable degree, from our forbears, color, stature, features, voice, health, temper, talent and habits. At the same time and in the same way we receive as birth-gifts instincts, intellectual faculties, moral tendencies, spiritual proclivities and religious opinions. According to the scriptures, the iniquity and the integrity of the fathers are visited upon the children. With the Shinto, ancestry is of equal quality. "Let them know by your deeds who were your ancestors." The prayer of every good disciple of Shintoism is that he may be himself a perfectly good ancestor. Referring to the influence of parents, Plato says: "The child is a charioteer driving two steeds upon the long lifehill; one steed is white, representing our best impulses, one steed is dark, standing for our worst passions—the child may not change one hair, white or black."

Continuing, Plato declares: "The child inherits his brains and force from his father, his heart and liora' character from his mother."

Goethe expresses this condition more effectively:

"Vom Vater hab' ich die Statur,
Des Lebens ernstes Feuhren.
Vom Muetterchen die Frohnatur,
Und Lust zum Fabulieren."

"From father I have my stature,
The impulse to an earnest life.
From mother the joyous nature,
The love of story telling."

The study of eugenics is that to know the kind of ancestors we should pick for the next generation. Thus, the adage is current: "Let him who would be great, choose the right parents." "Blood will tell," is the dictum of science. "Wherefore, by their fruits ye shall know them."

Environment is the sum of all the external factors, influences, agencies and conditions,—not of the germ plasm—physicial, educational, social and moral—that play upon it. These will affect and produce in different people varying results, and mold diverging characters to alter even the natural heredity. Environment and association accentuate, emphasize and effect the same result in the body and in the mind, the physique and the soul, the external and the internal. Science tells us that animals in the tropics acquire the color of the surrounding vegetation. Brook trout take their color from the water in which they lie. Similarly, human beings pattern their thoughts fro mthe ideas they cherish. Man is a developed ape, and as is the nature of the anthropoid to imitate, so man possesses a marked tendency to copy.

The story goes that two girl cousins lived in the same home. A picture of Marie Antoinette was at the foot of one girl's bed, a portrait of Joan of Arc at the other. The first girl cultivated a desire to read all the literature respecting Louis XVI and his unfortunate queen, thus becoming acquainted with their vices and their viciousness. The result was that she herself absorbed their traits and become selfish, ignoble and a reproach. The second girl loved to read and think and study deep interest in the French girl heroine. The result was that her life was above reproach, unselfish and a blessing.

In Hawthorne's story, "The Great Stone Face," the little boy, Ernest, who gazed with reverent admiration on the Great Stone Face, resembled it and became himself the looked-for prophet. In "Oliver Twist," Dickens exhibits Monk as an innocent, winsome and charming child. Through long association with vice and crime the child acquired an aspect sinister, venal and devilish. The ancient humanity thinks that the doctor is come out of Nazareth?" The devout patriot exclaimed. "The climate of the Holy Land enlightens." Shakspeare puts into the mouth of Hamlet: "There is nothing good or bad but thinking makes it so." Thus the environment of one's home; the training one received, the kind of people associated with, the friendships formed, the generation in which born, the sort of literature read and the thoughts entertained affect one's motive and ambitions, foreshadow career, determine character and decide destiny. As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he.

Civilization is the harmonious development of the individual, physically, mentally, morally and spiritually. Since we are the resultant of heredity and environment, birth and association, intrinsic and extrinsic influence, the problem that has always perplexed the writer is: Why should we not tolerate a person who differs from us in race, religion, economics and politics as we tolerate one who differs from us in physique, appetite, strength or stature? How account for the St. Bartholomew Night, the Spanish inquisition, the Kishineff outrages? Why Siberia? Our answer is: True culture is yet afar off. Civilization is still to be attained. Progress is wearily slow. Humanity is snail-paced. Paraphrasing David's petition, we might pray: "Teach us so to use our talents, facilities and opportunities, that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom."

Eligible Officers Form Waiting List

As a new camp is being contemplated at Fort Myer in August, September and October, the authorities are compiling a list of those who, though their rating was high enough, were not admitted to the present camp. The names printed below are those who will be considered from Plainfield for the second camp. An applicant's name on the list does not necessarily mean that he will be admitted to the second camp, merely that he will be considered. As it is now, those men who lost admission to the first camp have no official status and it is hoped by the authorities of the Officers' Reserve Training Corps at Fort Myer that the Secretary of War will make it possible in the new regulations that these men be accorded the preference in organizing the second camp. Following are the "holdovers" from Plainfield as they are termed by the officers:

Forge Shop Removal Saves Spicer's Money

A striking evidence of what the high price of material means to a concern needing them in large quantities has been revealed the past week by the Spicer Manufacturing Company's determination to remove the forging shop from the old plant at Madison avenue and Third street to the new plant at South Plainfield. The numerous improvements being made at the South Plainfield factory call for a larger forging capacity and it was originally intended to build a new addition, putting the one in this city on the market for sale. With the skyward tendencies of building supplies, however, it was found lately that a better proposition would be to remove the present shop over to South Plainfield and reconstruct it. he saving in the contract price amounts to a figure almost unbelievable.

The Plainfield forge shop is built mostly of corrugated iron, steel and glass put together in a way that it could easily be made portable. The upper portion rests on a brick foundation six feet high and some of the latter can also be used. The work of transportation is now under way.

Since removing its industry to the local suburb, the Spicer company's business has so greatly increased that enlargements of the plant have been going on nearly all of the time. The shop is now one of the largest in this section of the State and stands in vivid contrast to the small beginning at Madison avenue and Third street ten years ago. The original factory was the old two-story brick building put up by the wood turning firm of Spicer & Hubbard, and sold by the latter owners to the Spicer Company. The original structure had several additions put on before the removal took place. The buildings are now used only for storage purposes, as all work has been transferred to South Plainfield.

Seaside Romance Ends In Secret Wedding

Friends of Miss Elizabeth Seals, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Seals, of 214 Grant avenue, received with surprise the past week the news of her marriage to William E. Ohland, of New York. The ceremony took place in the "Little Church Around the Corner," New York, on October 21, 1916, and though the fact was known to the parents of the bride the wedding was not made public until Sunday last. Mr. and Mrs. Ohland then left for a belated wedding trip to Albany and nearby points. They are to return home today and will make their home in this city.

The marriage of Miss Seals and Mr. Ohland was the result of a romance which began last summer at a Long Island shore resort. The young woman was spending her vacation there and was considered one of the most attractive belles of the season. Mr. Ohland, who is secretary to former Mayor Percy H. Stewart, acquired an introduction from a mutual friend and the friendship thus commenced soon ripened into love. Their engagement was announced last September and it was generally believed that the wedding would take place the coming summer, consequently news of the ceremony of last week came as a genuine surprise to the friends of both bride and bridegroom.

Mrs. Ohland has an especially wide local acquaintance and has always been highly popular in her immediate circle. She has recently been employed as bookkeeper by George O. Stevens and previous to this position acted in a similar capacity in the office of Dr. Elmer A. Geddes, the Grove street dental surgeon.

S. A. CRAIG GOES TO MICHIGAN.

Edwin A. Craig, the West Front street automobile dealer, left Wednesday for Detroit and other cities in Michigan to inspect factories manufacturing motor vehicles. He will make brief stops at Buffalo and Niagara Falls on the way home. Mr. Craig will pay special attention to the Reo and Haynes shops as he is the local agent for these makes.

Special Arrangements for Buying Liberty Bonds

10 PER CENT. UPON APPLICATION — BALANCE IN CONVENIENT INSTALLMENTS

We want every Man, Woman and Child to subscribe to these bonds. It is not only your duty, but a privilege. They are an excellent investment, free from Income Tax, and will probably sell above par in the coming months. To those who are unable to pay for them according to the Government plan, we will ADVANCE THE MONEY, AT AN UNUSUALLY LOW RATE OF INTEREST, to buy them.

You will pay us 10 per cent. down and the balance in weekly or monthly installments preferably monthly, and when you have paid the full amount, the bond, with interest due, will be yours. This is entirely separate and different from our usual loan and discount account, and we will not loan money in our regular business at such a low rate.

The Government plan for payment is as follows:

Two per centum on application;
Eighteen per centum on June 28, 1917;
Twenty percentum on July 30, 1917;
Thirty per centum on August 15, 1917;
Thirty per centum on August 30, 1917.

and we recommend for convenience that this be adopted, but there are those who, perhaps, are not in a position to pay this way, and we do not want anyone to feel that they will not take a bond because they can not afford it or pay for it promptly.

Subscriptions should be made at once, and we will handle the entire matter for you without charge, taking care of the bonds and doing all of the necessary work.

Graduation Next Week at Mt. St. Mary's

Commencing at 4 o'clock next Sunday afternoon with a baccalaureate service in charge of Rev. Father B. M. Bogan, the ninth annual commencement program of Mount Saint Mary's College will continue with daily exercises until the following Friday. The graduating class of 1917, including those who have completed their studies in the college high school and grammar school departments, is one of the largest in the history of the institution. One of the main events of the week will be the return of the boys that have graduated from the grammar school for the forming of an alumnae association, although the class day and commencement exercises will form an important part of the festivities.

Services that will mark the start of the program of exercises will be held in the chapel at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, with Rev. Father Bernard M. Bogan, rector of St. Mary's church, in charge. On Monday a musical will be given by the students of the various departments, and the annual banquet of the senior class will be held.

The class day exercises will be held on Tuesday, at which time the graduates will render a program and addresses will be made by several speakers, the names of whom have not yet been announced. Following class day, the commencement will take place on Wednesday. The awarding of degrees by certificate and diploma to the members of the graduating class of the college will be made, and diplomas will also be given to the High School graduates. The presentation address will be made by the Rt. Rev. McFaul, bishop of the Diocese of Trenton.

On Thursday the grammar school graduation will take place, after which the first communion day will be observed by the holding of appropriate services.

Friday will be the last day of commencement week and will also mark the closing of the college for the summer. Patrons' day will be the principal event observed, for which a special program is being arranged. The boys who have graduated from the grammar school since Mount Saint Mary's was started have also been asked to return on that day and an alumnae association will be effected.

With the closing of the college for the season of 1916-17, the institution has completed one of the most successful years since its existence, and plans are already being made for the addition of several new courses for the opening next fall. It is possible that a course in summer instruction will be opened, but as yet complete details have not been announced.

Summer Work at the Y. W. C. A. Underway

Contrary to the policy of former years, the local branch of the Y. W. C. A. is planning, with the advent of warm weather, to increase its activities of both a social and educational nature. Plans for undertaking the summer work were discussed at a meeting of the board of directors held on Monday morning, and include the opening of a camp on the mountain, the furthering of work among the girls in factories in this vicinity and the enlarging of the scope of work at the association building.

One of the fields of endeavor, and one that is comparatively new, is the gathering of uplift work among the girls and girls at the John-Manville plant and several of the local factories. At Manville a recreation and reading room has been erected and Y. W. C. A. workers spend so many days a week there. The opening of the summer camp on the west side of the first mountain for the first time this summer will be another step in the work. It will be a place where girls can spend their vacations in the open country and with the proper environment.

On Monday afternoon a party will be held beginning at 3 o'clock. Miss Elizabeth Beckley, of New York, will be present and make an address, and arrangements for an otherwise social time are being made. On Friday the annual "picnic party" of the association will be held, at which the missionary work of the organization all over the country will be discussed. Miss Faith Parmley, a former secretary of the Plainfield association, and who will leave shortly for India, will make an address on "India" and it is expected that several others will also give short talks.

The work of the association during the month of May was exceptionally large, as shown by the report. During that time there were 885 callers, an average of nineteen a day. The number of transits accommodated over night totaled forty-two and 752 meals were served. This is one of the best records so far and during June is expected to be even better.

County Tax Rate May Affect City

Despite the gain in Union county ratables this year due to strict enforcement here of the Pierce 100 per cent. valuation law, it was asserted by county officials today that there will be an increase in the county tax rate.

The absence of definite information on the increase in ratables made it impossible to fix the extent of the raise with any degree of certainty, but there is no doubt that there will be a jump in the rate to be paid by the various municipalities in the county. Last year the rate was thirty-seven cents on $100.

City officials have already expressed the belief that there will be a jump of fifteen points in the Plainfield tax rate. The increase in the county will add to the city's burden, as well as raise the assessments against the taxpayers in all other parts of the country.

Work has not been started as yet on the annual budget of the Board of Freeholders, but special items and a large increase in the cost of building and maintaining roads and bridges, due to the jump in the price of labor and materials, make it certain that there will be an appreciable raise.

The cost of bridges especially has increased. Appropriations voted for numerous bridge jobs during the past few months failed to cover the cost bved by the lowest bidders, and the issuance of special bridge bonds has been found necessary. A fund of $10,000 for war emergencies and more than $15,000 for the maintenance of the county engineer's office under the new system also contribute to the increase.

Members of the Board of Freeholders have received from County Collector Leavitt a statement showing the cash balance of every appropriation. The statement, which is dated June 4, shows the following balances: Courts, $38,050.64; bridges, $44,082.65; public grounds and buildings, $14,816.83; jail, $6,628.91; elections, $53,735.75; stationery, $1,185.44; publications, $1,218.19; incidentals, $4,554.36; lunacy, $29,026.51; county roads, $98,076.91; tax board, $1,490.71; coroner, $100; children's guardians, $248.55; law library $471.21; widows' pensions, $15,477.06; repairs to record books, $1,573.75; new building, $2,115.69; members' pay and committee expense, $7,522.78; salaries, $11,940.04; sealer of weights and measures, $1,221.44; tuberculosis maintenance, $19,211.26; mosquito extermination commission, $8,661.48; interest and coupons, $40,257.54; tuberculosis construction, $70,065.56; interest on temporary loans, $6,500; improvements in county clerk's office, $10,000; bonds, $37,000; $54,000 bond issue $7,010.28; $66,000 bond issue, $6,295.64; $45,000 bond issue, $4,312.77; temporary loans, $15,000; Plainfield armory, $20,000; engineer's office, $12,505.31; war emergency, $9,524.97.

The unappropriated balance of the bridge account is $34,190.15; the road account, $54,954.63, and the tuberculosis bond issue, $23,689.56.

War Orders Hastens Weddings of Brothers

Marion S. Ackerman, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion S. Ackerman of this city, and Miss Martha Smith of Evanston, Ill., will be married at the home of the bride's parents in the latter city this afternoon. The ceremony will be witnessed by many guests, including a number from this city. The young couple will return East at once to be present at the wedding of Mr. Ackerman's brother, Warren Ackerman, of this city, and Miss Priscilla Fraker, of West Eighth street. The latter ceremony will be solemnized in the Grace church next Tuesday night at 8 o'clock. Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson will officiate. The weddings have been hastened because of the brothers being enlisted in Uncle Sam's service and under orders to report for duty within the next two weeks. Marion Ackerman is in the Officers Reserve Corps and Warren Ackerman will be in the Naval Coast Patrol, having secured $25,000 to build a wireless chance now nearing completion. A third brother, James Ackerman, is also in the Officers' Reserve Corps.

JAMES CULLEN COMPLETES LAW COURSE AT FORDHAM.

James M. Cullen, of South Second street, completed his course at Fordham University and will receive the degree of L. L. B. at the annual commencement next Wednesday.

Mr. Cullen graduated from Plainfield High School in the class of 1909, having finished the High School course in three years. His college was Holy Cross, class of 1913. Mr. Cullen intends practicing law in this city.

ON PETIT JURY.

The following Plainfielders have been drawn on the petit jury at Elizabeth: Luther N. Leek, George F. Hall, Wilton H. Bennett, John M. Hunt, Frederick L. Palmer, Harry J. Northrup, Charles A. Case, Michael H. Meaney, Charles C. Campbell.

Locate Registry Evader in City

Plainfield's first case of registry evasion came to light yesterday when Patrolman Bader arrested John Devlunis, of 321 Park avenue, for not being able to show a registration card. He is twenty-five years old and a Pole, an employe of the Public Service Corporation and unable to understand English.

Devlunis was taken to police headquarters, where Chief Kiely and Judge De Meza held a conference and decided to let him go, maintaining that it was a case for the Federal authorities. Report of the arrest was made to Prosecutor Stein, at Elizabeth, but he, too, refused to handle the case. Further reference was made of the matter to United States District Attorney Lynch, at Newark.

Elks' Minstrel Netted $500.

Although the exact figures have not yet been ascertained, it seems quite probable that $500 will be realized from the minstrel entertainment given by the local Lodge of Elks in the Plainfield Theatre Monday night. This gratifying sum will be added to the fund being maintained by the Volunteer Training League of Plainfield and North Plainfield for aiding dependents of soldier boys in this vicinity who have already answered the call to the colors or will do so later. The money is expended in providing actual household necessities, paying mortgage interest and keeping up insurance. While work has been going on since last summer and the league has already expended many thousands of dollars.

The benefit black-faced performance was one of the best ever given in the city, proving a complete success from an artistic point of view, although the entire full weeks were given to rehearsal. Credit for this result is in a large measure due to the efforts of Assemblyman William N. Runyon, who personally shouldered the responsibility of arranging the entertainment and putting it on. He selected the principals, directed the rehearsals and led the orchestra during the performance. His only reward for this arduous task was the full knowledge that he had accomplished something for the boys who are to go to the trenches and a basket of flowers. The latter was presented to him during the intermission of the first part of Elmer D. Cutting in behalf of the troupe. Mr. Cutting's presentation speech was very neatly worded and Judge Runyon responded in his usual ready way, taking occasion to thank all those who had volunteered their services for the show and expressing his appreciation to the members of the audience for their patronage. Without a dissent-

LOCAL DRUG CLERKS ENTER ARMY SERVICE.

Charles Wendell, of Madison avenue, and Albert Brynlarski, of Duer street, are among the Plainfielders who have recently entered Uncle Sam's service. Both young men are registered pharmacists and took the examination at Englewood for admission to the Medical Corps of the regular army. Major Valentine Ruch was the examining officer and accepted the applicants after they had qualified with high percentages. Since then Mr. Wendell has been placed in the field division of the Medical Corps attached to the Essex Troop New Jersey Cavalry, and will report at the East Orange headquarters for duty next week. Mr. Brynlarski has been assigned to the Medical Administrative Department of New Jersey, which issues all medical supplies to New Jersey troops. This means that he will probably remain at home when the various units are sent abroad. His notification orders state that he will be called some time next month.

Both Mr. Wendell and Mr. Brynlarski are well known Plainfielders who have "made good" in the pharmaceutical field and their friends are highly pleased to learn that they are putting their knowledge at the disposal of the country. Mr. Wendell is the son of John Wendell, manager of the Woodbrook Farms, and was graduated from the New Jersey College of Pharmacy at Newark, in 1915. In his student days he was employed as clerk by Frank Bowlby, after his certificate as pharmacist he secured a position with the United Cigar Stores Co. in the drug department at the local store, where he has since remained. Mr. Brynlarski is the son of Mrs. Annie Brynlarski, of Duer street, and was a member of the class of 1913 in the Plainfield High School. He was also admitted as registered pharmacist in 1915 and like his colleague, Mr. Wendell, has since been employed at the Front street store of the United Cigar Stores Co. Friends of the two young men are planning a farewell reception to be given them sometime next week.

MONEY TO LOAN. Real Estate and Insurance. Manning & Curtis, 106 Depot avenue.—Ad. 11 24 1y

Wickersham to Speak at Big Meeting

To spread the patriotism for the $2,000,000,000 loan of the Government among the people of Plainfield, to tell what that vast sum is to be used for and to spur the city to a greater effort in contributing toward the $2,685,000 apportioned to this city, a mass meeting will be held in the auditorium of the Plainfield High School tonight, with George Wickersham as speaker, at which time the loan will be described from all angles. The meeting is to be held under the auspices of the Plainfield Liberty Loan Committee, which during the past week has formulated a systematic plan for helping the city to respond to the Government call. During the past week all the banks in the city handling the bonds have reported subscriptions, and the total is now about $655,000.

Hon. George W. Wickersham, former Attorney-General of the United States and recognized as this country's foremost barrister, will be the principal speaker at the meeting and will discuss the loan as it affects the entire country, the world and future generations. Hon. William N. Runyon, chairman of the local committee, will preside and introduce Mr. Wickersham.

Captain Arthur Hunt Chute, who took the Grace church parish house a week ago, will also make an address at tonight's meeting. He was a member of the First Canadian Overseas Battalion and is in this country on a furlough. Others prominent in this city and elsewhere are expected to make addresses. Three weeks ago subscriptions taken at the meeting.

Acting in conjunction with the local banks, the committee has accomplished much this week. Liberty Loan clubs have been started at the banks and already have a large number of members, who will pay so much each week for fifty weeks and then the bond will be theirs. Figures of the amounts of the subscriptions at the various institutions as obtained yesterday were as follows: Plainfield Trust Co., $275,600; State Trust Company, $185,000; City National Bank, $150,000 and the First National Bank, $50,000. These figures are expected to be greatly added to within the next few days.

Meetings have been held in the various schools in the city during the past few days, at which time representatives from Wall Street banking concerns have explained to the school children the principal features of the loan. Other meetings will follow during the coming week and among those who have volunteered to speak at them from this city are the following: Rev. C. M. Anderson, 410 Central avenue; Richard Boardman, 915 Madison avenue; J. Herbert Case, 1126 Martine avenue; Rev. Howard E. Clarke, 214 West Seventh street; Henry J. Cochran, 945 Hillside avenue; Arthur M. Harris, 935 Central avenue; Rev. C. E. Herring, 424 West Front street; Dewitt C. Hubbell, 918 Madison avenue; Paul Jarvis, 143 Crescent avenue; G. W. Lounsbury, care of State Trust Co., 221 Park avenue; Wm. D. Murray, 205 West Ninth street; Hon. William Newcorn, 320 West Front street; Rev. E. S. Robinson, 722 Leland avenue; Rev. Philip B. Strong, 825 Second place; Rev. E. V. Stevenson, care of Truell Inn, 734 Park avenue; Rev. Philip B. Strong, 124 West Eighth street; Miss Jane Thomas, care of Paul Jarvis; Rev. Solon B. Zelie, 813 Park avenue. Noble D. Pelder, secretary, care of State Trust Co., 221 Park avenue, in case you desire a speaker.

Few "Slackers" Harbored Here

Plainfield observed registration day Tuesday by offering 2,627 young men between the ages of 21 and 31 as eligible for military service. Together with the names of those registered from Scotch Plains and Fanwood, which places are included in the same district as this city, City Clerk Carroll filed the registration cards with Sheriff Otto Tuesday night. The sheriff was sent duplicates to Trenton and Washington, and those affected by the draft will hear nothing more for several months.

A proclamation issued by President Wilson will be the signal for the actual drafting to commence. The Government will apportion the State's quota of the first 500,000. The State will announce the county's share and then the exemption board for this district, composed of Charles Reed, chairman; Charles N. Runyon and Howard Dengler will begin weeding out those who have a just cause for not going into service. Sheriff Otto, acting with the county physician and county clerk, will have charge of the rounding up of those who will serve.

Although no official announcement of the exact number can yet be made, Plainfield will have to supply about 156 men and in view of the large registration there should be no difficulty in securing that amount.

Borough Juniors Gave Big Spread

The annual "spread" of the junior class of the North Plainfield High School to the senior class was held last night in the parish house of Grace church and was attended by over one hundred persons, including the members of the two classes, borough officials and county educators. The affair was more successful than those of previous years and was largely due to the efforts of Stanley Burner, president of the class, and the other juniors.

The "spread" started off with an excellent dinner, after which speech-making and toasts were in order. Among those who made brief addresses were: Mayor William L. Smalley, D. Fred Angust, supervising principal of schools; Albert F. Early, principal of the High School; H. C. Krebs, county superintendent; Dr. Cooley, president Board of Education. Members of the faculty and a number of parents were also present.

Later in the evening the tables were cleared away and dancing was enjoyed, music being furnished by Stewart's orchestra.

Commencement at Hartridge

The annual commencement exercises of the Hartridge School will be held next Friday morning at 11 o'clock in the auditorium of the school, when a class of nine young women will receive diplomas. The commencement address will be delivered by Dr. Charles A. Richmond, president of Union College, and the graduation program will follow.

The usual graduation dance will not be held this year because of the request of the members of the class that the expenses of such an event be diverted to relief work instead. The young women have been intensely interested in all sorts of relief work and have worked earnestly to help. The other commencement festivities, including the class day, usual, plans for which are now being completed. One of the features of the day will be the annual business meeting of the Alumnae Association to be held at Oakwood in the afternoon. Following the meeting a tea will be held on the lawn and the members of the graduating class will be received into the organization.

The graduates of the class of 1917 are Miss Alice Joy, Miss Saidee Sanford, Miss Lillian Fawcett, Miss Helena Lounsbery, Miss Dorothy McKenzie and Miss Dorothy Jewett, all of this city; Miss Catherine S. Ames, of Metuchen; Miss Jacksonia Watt, of Griffin, Georgia, and Miss Kathleen Millay, of Camden, Maine. A number of the class have already decided upon the college they will enter. Miss Joy is to go to Wellesley; Miss Lounsbery to Smith, Miss Fawcett to Barnard, and the Misses Sanford, McKenzie, Jewett, Ames, Watt and Millay to Vassar.

Held a Temperance Rally in Y. M. C. A.

A meeting in the interests of prohibition was held last night in the auditorium of the Y. M. C. A. and was attended by a large number. Local ministers and other advocates of a saloonless town made addresses, and there was patriotic singing and the reading of prize essays on temperance.

The meeting was presided over by Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, of the First Baptist church, and among those who made addresses were: Rev. Howard E. Clarke, pastor Congregational church, on "Alcohol and Waste;" Frederick E. Smith, "Whiskey and the Problem of Making a Living;" Dr. O'Donnell, "Alcohol and Education;" Hon. William N. Runyon, "Effects of Alcohol As Seen in the Courtroom," and Dr. Buchanan, "Alcohol Not a Remedy." Rev. Charles M. Anderson and several others also made short addresses.

The rally was held under the auspices of the Women's Christian Temperance Union and was a success in every way. A number of essays on temperance written by local school children were read, although the union has not yet awarded its prizes for the best ones.

NO ALLENTOWN FAIR.

Plainfielders who have been in the habit of annually attending the fair at Allentown, Pa., will be compelled to forego the trip this year. Uncle Sam has commandeered the ground as a training camp for the ambulance and medical corps. The exhibition buildings will be turned into dormitories, the grandstand into a mess hall and the stables that have sheltered the crack trotters of the country will house 2,000 motor ambulances that are to be assembled there. The government will pay the Fair Association an annual rental of $30,000, which, it is said, barely covers the fixed charges of the corporation.

Councilman Cose In Sheriff Race

In response to a query put to him by a Record reporter yesterday, Councilman John H. Cose stated that he would again enter the field for the Union county shrievalty nomination at the coming primary election. His petition as a regular Republican candidate will be filed today and scores of the best known citizens in Plainfield who deplored his defeat at the November election three years ago stand ready to sign it. In his previous effort Mr. Cost lost out by a very narrow margin that startled political powers in Elizabeth, Rahway, Westfield and Summit, who had underestimated his strength. His friends in Plainfield were delighted with the showing he made and have been insisting that he make the try again.

Mr. Cose has been active in local and county politics for the past fifteen years. He is a Plainfield councilman has made an excellent record. He has always been ready to champion the kind of legislation that benefits the majority, standing by his principles many times in the face of great odds. It was this spirit that prompted the constituency of the Fourth Ward to urge him to become a candidate for sheriff in 1914, and his campaign met with favorable response throughout the county.

The entrance of several other candidates at the last moment, causing a split vote in several important districts, gave the nomination to Geo. C. Ott by a majority of only three hundred ballots over the number cast for the Plainfielder. The latter's strength has increased greatly since his first attempt and the belief exists that he will be the regular Republican nominee to succeed the present incumbent.

Republicans in Plainfield who are familiar with the work Mr. Cose has done for the local G. O. P. assert that he is entitled to the sheriff's office. He has served for years as city and county committeeman, Congressional delegate and election officer. At the present time he is chairman of the councilmanic district and has done much in four years to build up the city fire department to the present excellent standing. Mr. Cose has also been prominent in fraternal circles, especially the Elks, of which he is deputy for the district.

Pretty Wedding in St. Joseph's Church

One of the prettiest weddings of the present season took place in St. Joseph's church, the borough, Tuesday morning, when Miss Mary J. Carney, of Lincoln place, became the wife of James P. Mottley, son of Mrs. Margaret Mottley, of West Fourth street. The nuptial mass was solemnized by Rev. Father Thomas Campbell, assistant rector of St. Joseph's church, assisted by Rev. Father B. M. Bogan, of St. Mary's church, and Rev. Father P. J. Hart, rector of St. Joseph's. An impressive feature of the ceremony was the singing of the mass by a choir of 100 children in charge of Miss Nora McDonough, organist for the occasion. A large assemblage of guests, composed of relatives and friends from this city and other places, was in attendance. The church was tastefully decorated for the occasion with palms and plants.

Miss Carney, who wore a gown of chantilly lace over silver cloth, trimmed with satin and pearls, was given away by her father. Her only attendant was Miss Bridesfield, Miss Mae Mottley, sister of the bridegroom, whose gown was of georgette crepe. The bride carried a bouquet of white bridal roses and the bridesmaid carried pink roses and carnations. Miss Frances Conahy acted as flower girl. Mr. Mottley had for his best man, Andrew Carney, Jr., brother of the bride.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, Rev. Father Hart took occasion to congratulate the young couple, both of whom are highly popular in their respective parishes. On quitting the church the bridal party and guests adjourned to the home of the bride's parents, where a reception was held. This included a wedding breakfast followed by congratulations to the bride and groom. The parlor and dining room were decorated with palms, plants and flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Mottley left in the afternoon for a wedding trip to Lake George, Niagara Falls and other points in New York State. On returning they will reside at 21 Fairview avenue, where they will be at home to their friends after Wednesday, June 13.

Mr. Mottley has been a life-long resident of Plainfield and enjoyed a very wide acquaintance. He is employed in the Cable Department of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York. His bride has always resided in the borough and also has many acquaintances in both Plainfield and North Plainfield. This fact was attested by the large variety of beautiful gifts which she received. The array included silverware, cut glass and furniture.

The events of the closing day started at 9:45 and continued until late this afternoon, relatives and friends of the students being present and expressing their satisfaction of the school.

Held Commencement at the Seminary

The Plainfield Seminary held its 49th commencement Tuesday morning, June 5. The hall, in which the exercises took place was beautifully decorated with rhododendron and spring flowers, giving a very pleasing and unusually artistic effect. The exercises opened with the professional hymn, "We March, We March to Victory," sung by the student body as they entered the hall and took their places. After the Lord's Prayer was rendered in unison, the chorus sang Mendelssohn's "Ave Maria." The address to the graduating class was made by Dr. John Herman Randall, pastor of Mount Morris Baptist church, New York. He took for his subject, "The Symmetrical Life," and in the development of this theme showed that in a life of perfect symmetry, there should be depth, breadth, length and height; a depth that can be gained only by right thinking; a breadth that can come only by a sympathetic contact with all phases of the world about; a length that can be acquired only by noble deeds and service; a height that can be reached only through aspiration. After the singing of Carl Bohr "Come Down to Kew," by the older chorus, Miss Arnold presented diplomas to the members of the graduating class—the Misses Dorothy White, Eleanor Bucklin, Margaret Kimball and Marie Sykes.

After the presentation of diplomas, the chorus gave the beautiful response, "The Lord Bless Thee and Keep Thee," which is the farewell of the school to the departing class. A prize of ten dollars in gold was awarded to Marion Cowperthwaite, for excellence in U. S. history, while Virginia Cooke received honorable mention. Each year the Alumnae Association awards two prizes of ten dollars each for scholarship. Mrs. Stuart Patterson, second vice president of the association, awarded these to Elizabeth Cooke for excellence in English history, and to Eleanor Bucklin for highest standing in geometry, while Margaret Kimball received honorable mention in the same study. After the singing of C. Ross Ricci's "May Time," the entire student body marched from the hall singing as a recessional, "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," leaving the members of the graduation class to receive the congratulations of many friends and many beautiful flowers, which were brought them by seven charming little girls from the primary department.

Citizens Will Vote for "Dry" or "Wet"

Plainfield residents will have another chance at the fall election to express their opinion on the liquor question, whether the town will be dry or wet. Whichever way the vote goes it does not necessarily follow that the Common Council will have to follow the result, the vote being only to obtain an expression of opinion for the guidance of the city fathers.

It was decided at a meeting of the Council on Monday night to have the question put on the ballots at the election after a somewhat heated discussion. Councilman Booth was the only one to go on record as being against obtaining the citizens' ideas, but the motion was carried and the city clerk instructed to notify the county clerk.

That the issue will prove to be a warm one if the people decide for a dry town is certain. The council, without expressing their own opinions, say that they will abide by the decisions of the voters. Mr. Booth is again the proposition, Councilmen Cose, Graves and Sninck have said that they would stand by the decision of their ward vote and the other members of the Council have as yet expressed no opinion.

Already the two forces favoring both sides of the question are preparing for the fall campaign. The church league has held several meetings and other organizations favoring a saloonless town are getting active.

KENTUCKY MAN WEDS MISS MARGARET RUSSELL

In the presence of a large assemblage of guests, Miss Margaret Norris Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Russell, of Union street, was married last Saturday evening to H. Buckley Hudson, of Lexington, Ky. Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, of the First Baptist church, performed the ceremony, which took place in the living room. Decorations of southern smilax, palms and bridal wreath were combined in a decidedly attractive manner.

Miss Russell, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of white embroidered net and a veil of rose point lace caught up with orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of bridal roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Miss Annette McGinley, who acted as bridesmaid, was gowned in rose taffeta and silver lace and carried roses to match. George E. Kelly, of Lebanon, Ky., was the best man.

During the reception which followed the ceremony supper was served and the Waltz Trio of New York furnished music. Mr. and Mrs. Hedges left later for a wedding trip, at the conclusion of which they will return to Philadelphia to make their home. The guests present were from Philadelphia, Kentucky, Georgia, Brooklyn, New York city and Plainfield.

Donald Saunders an Aviator; Father and Brothers "Do Bit"

Donald Saunders, a resident of Scotch Plains until recently, and well known in this city, where he was formerly employed, visited his parents during the past few days previatory to going on active service with the Canadian forces. After three months' training in one of the large aviation schools near Montreal he secured a pilot's license and was commissioned a lieutenant.

Young Saunders had been enthusiastic over the war ever since its start, but youth and size prevented him from enlisting. He at last found a way around the difficulty, however, by joining the aviation corps. He has returned to Canada and expects to sail for Europe with the next contingent.

He is the second of five brothers to enlist for a part in the world war. Max Saunders, an older brother, having been in the British navy since the outbreak of hostilities. Shortly after graduating from the Scotch Plains schools, Max secured a berth on a trans-Atlantic liner and sailed the seas for four or five years until he became first engineer of one of the large liners. At last reports he occupied a like berth on an English dreadnought, but now undoubtedly holds an even more responsible command.

Captain E. B. Saunders, their father, and Keith, Fred and Guy, the other three brothers, have also been connected with the war. Captain Saunders has been engaged for the past two years, with his sons' assistance, in transporting horses from Newport News for the Allied forces in France and in directing the construction of ships at New Orleans.

P. H. S. Boys Lead at Froh-Heim Farm

Over fifty students of the Plainfield High School are now in camp at Froh-Heim Farm, Bernardsville, where they will remain for the summer and, together with some two hundred other High School youths from all over the county, cultivate the place. A regular systematic schedule has been worked out for daily observance and includes many athletic and social events as well as hard work.

One of the brightest features of the camp is a small four-page bulletin that is printed weekly, giving the news of the activities. Monroe O'Donnell is editor-in-chief, with Mac Fullerton and Jean Babcock among his assistants. The copies that have reached the office of the Record seem to be mostly taken up with the doings of Plainfield boys—looks as if they were the whole show, in fact. At a recent track meet among the boys in the camp Plainfielders captured seven firsts out of the nine events and of the twenty-seven firsts, seconds and thirds were the winners of sixteen. Wilson Field, Jack Causbrook, DeWitt Swackhamer and Monroe O'Donnell were the mainstays for the locals, although somewhat pressed by East Orange boys. The baseball team is coming along fine under the management of Swackhamer, and Thomas Fitch is directing the hospital work.

One of the chief events to be held in the near future will be a minstrel show, in which P. H. S. boys will again take a prominent part. Advance "dope" sent out by the able press man contains the names of Causbrook, O'Donnell and Babcock as members of the double quartet. The chorus includes Wilcox, Bloomfield, Johnson, Ladeck, Wright, Mehl, King, Snyder and Richards from this city.

LATE PRIEST'S FATHER DIES AT SOUTH AMBOY

W. C. Miller, a well known resident of South Amboy, and father of the late Rev. Father Miller, for many years rector of St. Joseph's church, died at his home Tuesday after a long illness. The funeral was held in St. Mary's church, South Amboy, yesterday morning and was attended by a large number of friends from Plainfield and North Plainfield. Burial was in South Amboy.

Mr. Miller was about seventy-five years old and enjoyed a wide acquaintance in this vicinity through frequent visits to his son during the many years that the latter was at St. Joseph's church. He died about two years ago. The parents of the beloved priest gave the Lord's statue which stands in front of Mt. St. Mary's College as a memorial to their son.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring at her home on East Front street. Miss Anna Warnock, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and James Goodwin, of this city, acted as best man.

The bride was attired in a becoming traveling suit with hat to match and carried a bouquet of bride roses. Her attendant wore a gown of crepe meteor with hat to match and carried a bouquet of peach-colored roses.

At the return of the bridal party to the Warnock home a reception was tendered the young couple from three until six o'clock. It was attended by fifty relatives and intimate friends from New York, Brooklyn, Paterson and other places, besides Plainfield. A wedding supper was served at 4:30. The parlor and dining room were appropriately decorated with palms, plants, cut flowers and American flags. Early in the evening the bride and bridegroom left amid a shower of congratulations for a wedding trip, the destination of which is not made known. At its conclusion they will reside at Paterson, where a completely furnished home awaits them.

Mr. Begg is a civil engineer in the employe of the Sanitary Construction Company of Paterson. He has a wide acquaintance in the city and borough as he was one of the engineers in charge of the company's contract in North Plainfield two years ago. Mrs. Begg has resided here since a child and also has a large circle of friends. The collection of gifts to the couple was unusually large comprising silverware, cut glass, furniture, bric-a-brac and china.

RUSSELL CAMPBELL WEDS MISS HAHN

Miss Marie C. Hahn, daughter of Mrs. Wilhelmina Hahn, of East Second street, and Russell W. Campbell, of Park avenue, were married Monday night at the home of the bride's mother. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a large number of guests by Rev. John Y. Brock, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, of which both young people are members. Miss Minnie Allen, of Paterson, niece of the bride, was the maid of honor; Helen and Wilhelmina O'Neil, nieces of the bride, were flower girls; Verna and Lorraine Dunavan, also nieces of the bride, were ribbon-bearers. Witter Clawson, of this city, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held, and Mrs. and Mrs. Campbell left afterward for an automobile trip to Delaware Water Gap. On returning they will reside on West Fourth street, near Madison avenue. Mr. Campbell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Campbell, of Newton, Mass., and is manager of the Suburban Transit Co. His bride has recently been employed in the office of the Spicer Company at South Plainfield and her large array of wedding presents included a chest of silver from the concern.

PEDDIE GRADUATION.

The fifty-first commencement of Peddie Institute will be held at Hightstown next Wednesday and for the first time in several years a Plainfielder is not included in the graduating class. The names of three local boys, however, appear on the rolls of the school. David Fitch, who was a Junior, left school several months ago to join the Naval Reserve and is now on a destroyer in foreign waters; Donald F. Hylan is a member of the sophomore class and Richard L. Mellick is a member of the lower school.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, JUNE 8, 1917.

A CENSORSHIP WE DO NOT RECOGNIZE.

In electing himself to the difficult position of private censor for Plainfield news matter, Dr. F. W. Westcott, of Fanwood, has added a task to his job of county physician that will produce numerous obstacles. One of them arose the past week when a sought to hide the fact that a local citizen had died by his own hand and answered a Record reporter's questions on the subject in a very misleading manner. Cornered finally to the point where he would have to either affirm or deny the story as related unofficially, the suburban dictator sought refuge by banging the telephone receiver in the newspaperman's ear. Of course, there was no continuing the argument under such adverse conditions, so Dr. Westcott reigned supreme for the time being. Nevertheless, he forgot that his own certificate filed with the Board of Health is a public document, one that is open to the scrutiny of those who choose to seek it for legitimate purposes. A perusal of this record corroborated the rumors that the county physician in his blundering policy of Czar-like censorship tried to keep from the public. The only success attained by the secrecy plan was to fool the Courier-News, making that publication print a prattling story running over with childish simplicity and editorial gullibility. If the article in question was published with a full knowledge of the true facts, it more than deserves the criticism that has been heaped upon it.

A pertinent question that now arises in the Record office is this: If Dr. Westcott sought to keep the newspaper in ignorance of what had happened in this particular case, in how many has he gotten away with it before? As county physician he is called upon to issue certificates of death in all accidental or premeditated demises. Where the proper influence is brought to bear he can do much toward withholding the information the public should have. We know that such things have been done before, not by him particularly, and they can be done again. The family physician, the hospital and the undertaker can all share in the deception, if they have a mind, but the county physician is a public official and if his word is not to be relied upon what are the people going to do? Even the police were left out of the case now at hand, although the law says they must be informed immediately after the discovery of such an act is made. Those responsible will probably be called to account in time as they properly should be.

Dr. Westcott may continue on with censorship but the Record will print facts whenever it is possible to obtain them. The official or newspaper that makes fish of one and flesh of another has no place in this community of intelligent citizenry.

A COUNCILMAN WHO WAS FAIR MINDED.

The stand taken by Councilman L. M. Booth in the latest phase of the excise question as produced at Monday night's Council meeting is one that calls for approbation on the part of every fair minded citizen. Each succeeding year something new arises over the granting of liquor licenses and it is a wise man who can decide for the best interests of his constituents. Mr. Booth, as representative from the Second ward, has done everything possible to be fair and impartial. He has views of his own regarding the sale of intoxicants and a man who has not is incapable of discussing the situation in the proper light. It was Mr. Booth who advanced the plan of prohibiting the sale of whiskey over local bars but allowing beers and light wines. There were a lot of people who looked upon his suggestion as a poor one yet careful contemplation shows that it is nearer the solution of the problem than anything else brought before the city fathers. There is a certain element which will always insist upon their right to have a glass of beer or drink of wine because they feel that they know how to use either beverage. Whiskey is the liquid which produces most of the aftermath entitling prohibitioners to criticise, and by holding to the policy of lighter beverages containing not more than seven per cent. of alcohol something like a compromise is reached. Municipalities throughout the country are giving the wine proposition a chance just as Mr. Booth asked Plainfield to do some time ago.

The resolution Monday night asked that the county clerk make provision on the ballots for next November's election to allow the people to vote on the question of licenses according to Chapter 60 of this year's laws. This statute permits the people of any second class city to give an expression on important subjects for the guidance of their representatives. Mr. Condict, of the Third ward, said that he would vote for the resolution but that no matter what the decision of the people should be he would oppose all licenses next year. He was elected to the Council as a "dry man" and his course has always been known, yet Mr. Graves asked if the rule could not be made to work both ways, that is, would it not be possible for the "wets" to vote the way they pleased regardless of an adverse sentiment. Mr. Booth was the only one to vote against the resolution and in doing so gave the following explanation:

"As I understand the purpose of this resolution, it is intended to serve as a guide to instruct the members of the 1918 Council how it is to vote on the question of liquor licenses. Any member who asks such instructions does so not merely to satisfy his curiosity, but with the idea of being guided by the verdict. Perhaps the practical working of the plan will not be so simple as at first appears. How is a member at large to vote, assuming that he and the voters of his ward have "wet" inclinations, yet the city votes dry? The obvious answer to this question is not conclusive, especially if the member in question is the successor of one voting in favor of the resolution, but who prefers to cast his vote according to his own best judgment and in accordance with the provisions of the city charter and has no inclination to evade his duty to passing responsibility to others.

"Personally I would not care to be bound by the answer of either 'Yes' or 'No' to the proposed question. I feel that Plainfield has experienced as wise a liquor regulation as any community. I also hope that the time will come when the city will grant no licenses, but do not believe this a practical step in advance for the coming year. Since I do not see the wisdom of following any instructions which the answer to the proposed question will bring out I will vote 'No' on this resolution, so that the member of the Council to be elected by the voters of the Second ward this year will be free to vote on this question in accordance with the provisions of the city charter, which states that licenses shall be granted upon a majority vote of the Council."

So saying Mr. Booth resumed his seat and the councilmen who knew he was telling plain, unvarnished facts from an unbiased viewpoint voted for the resolution.

NEW YORK TRAINING FOR PLAINFIELD FIREMEN.

Councilman Charles S. Sminck's plan to send members of the Plainfield Fire Department to the New York Training School bids fair to overcome a difficulty that has bothered the local department for a long time. The lack of proper facilities for coaching "apprentices" has frequently been a detriment in the development of a first class fire fighter and though numerous suggestions have been made none have been feasible to this time. Councilman Sminck has given the matter very close attention before and since he entered the Council he decided the New York Training School was just the thing. His resolution to send all future appointees to the Metropolitan station was seconded by all the councilmen at Monday night's meeting and hereafter the new men under Chief Jennings will know the rudiments of the game before they answer their first alarm.

The best part of the New York proposition is that the Plainfield students will derive the benefit of the big city's veteran fire-fighters' experience without any cost to the local tax-payers. All that New York asks is that the expenses of the men sent over be paid at this end. The amount is very small at best. It is proposed to have one Plainfield man in a school at a time and as soon as he has qualified put him in active service. The training school not only teaches ladder scaling, life net manipulation, carrying hose up ladders, the quickest and best way to get a line of hose in any kind of building and hose connecting but also teaches points for personal safety. The green fireman is told all about back-draughts, how to act when caught in a smoke trap, the best way to get air in close quarters and how to lessen the danger of inhaling flames. These are things that the newcomer in Plainfield's department heretofore has had to find out for himself. Not only the firemen but frequently the tax-payer paid heavily for the teaching.

ADVICE TO THE ANONYMOUS WRITER.

Listen, Mr. Anonymous Letter Writer, the Record has a projectile-proof policy of paying no attention to unsigned communications. Not a week passes by but what several of these nameless missives find their way into this office only to be consigned to the ignominy of the waste basket. That is the proper place for all articles hiding a private axe that needs grinding, and the sooner you find it out the quicker a lot of your own time and high priced paper will be saved for some legitimate purpose. The Record has never yet aspired to become the "town scold," but it would quickly earn the sobriquet if it gave its columns over to the coward who attacks officials or citizens in cunningly couched wording over false signatures. If there is merit in what you have to say, put your name to the article and this paper will help you get it before the public for the benefit of the entire community. If, on the other hand, you are airing a personal grievance and trying to make us the goat, you have another guess. Now please, Mr. Anonymous Letter Writer, quit your scurrilous practice of picking out the Record to fling your jagged shafts of spleen.

THINK IT OVER WHEN YOU PAY YOUR BILL.

The quoted price of coal in Plainfield is still $8.50, but discounts now make it $7.75 at nearly all yards. The latter figure is about on a par with other cities nearby. Wonder if Leslie Fort's agitation had anything to do with the new scale?

Sisters' Deaths Occur Within a Few Hours

Mrs. Katherine Dean Thomas, wife of Harry W. Thomas, died Monday morning at her home in the New Madison building, following an illness of four weeks. Her death came only a few hours after that of her sister, Mrs. Ella Snedeker, of New Brunswick, who passed away at her home in the latter city late Sunday night. Mrs. Snedeker had been ill two months.

Mrs. Thomas, was was forty-three years old, was a native of Germantown, Pa., and came to Plainfield nine years ago when her husband secured a position in the composing room of the Courier-News. She was a member of the First Methodist church and had a wide acquaintance in this city and New Brunswick, where she lived for a long time before coming here. Beside her husband, Mrs. Thomas is survived by one son, Charles Baumann, a member of Company K, now doing coast patrol duty. She is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Anna Downing, of Philadelphia, and two brothers, Harry Dunn, of Philadelphia, and William Dunn of Easton, Pa.

The funeral was held at the late home in the New Madison yesterday afternoon and was in charge of Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church. Many relatives and friends were in attendance. The floral tributes included a large set piece from Local No. 399, International Typographical Union, of this city, of which Mrs. Thomas has been secretary for many years. Burial was in Hillside cemetery.

PUBLIC INVITED TO ELKS' FLAG DAY AFFAIR

Departing from its usual custom of flag day exercises in the club house auditorium for members exclusively Plainfield Lodge of Elks has decided to hold public exercises this year on a very elaborate scale. They will take place in the Plainfield High School on Thursday evening, June 14, and a cordial invitation is extended all interested to attend.

The program, which is to be in charge of a committee headed by Past Exalted Ruler Walter S. Marder, will include an address by William T. Phillips, a past exalted ruler of New York Lodge, No. 1. Mr. Phillips has a national reputation as an orator and his services are frequently sought for gatherings of a patriotic nature. He has been heard in Plainfield on several occasions, making a better impression each succeeding time. He accepted the invitation to come to this city in preference to a dozen requests from other lodges adjacent to New York.

It was the intention of the committee to have United States Senator Joseph Frelinghuysen and Hon. William L. Saunders, chairman of the Naval Advisory Board, both of whom are members of Plainfield Lodge, included in the list of speakers, but both will be detained at Washington on that day. There will be an orchestra to provide a musical program and accompaniments for singing and other numbers to make an appropriate flag day program. Further details of the exercises will be announced within the next few days.

STANDARD AEROPLANES MAY BE PURCHASED.

The Standard Aeroplane Corporation, of this city, which is entirely engaged in the construction of machines for the Government, has received permission from the War Department to sell a number of its Model J type to individuals. The same kind of aeroplane is in use in the army and the permission has been granted to sell them because the Federal authorities wish to encourage aviation. Plainfield does not as yet harbor an aeroplane owner, although it has been learned that several may purchase one.

S. PLAINFIELD GUARDS ACTIVE.

The South Plainfield Home Defense League, with a membership of 200, is showing a fondness for work that has not bee exhibited by any of the other similar organizations in this vicinity. They drill on the grounds surrounding the school yard every night and plans are now being made for the holding of a field day, with athletic games and other events, on Fourth of July.

CHEVROLET BROTHERS IN BIG AUTOMOBILE RACE

Plainfield will have representation in one of the biggest automobile races of the season, when the two Chevrolet brothers, Louis and Gaston, both local residents, start in the 250-mile race at Chicago on June 16. Over thirty-five cars have already been entered and the prizes to be awarded aggregate thousands of dollars.

Both will drive specially designed cars assembled at the plant of the American Motors Corporation, on West Front street, the same kind that they drove when they captured first and third positions in the Cincinnati races several weeks ago. The two Chevrolet brothers are among the best known racing men in the country and have won numerous honors. At the time the American Motors concern located here they, too, took up their local residence.

R. A. CLAYBROOK HONORED.

Former Councilman Richard A. Claybrook, of Grant avenue, has been elected president of the New York Produce Exchange, of which he has been a member for a number of years. The honor was conferred upon him in appreciation of his services to the Exchange. Mr. Claybrook recently returned from Battle Creek, Michigan, where he spent four weeks for the benefit of his health.

Funeral of Suicide Held Tuesday Afternoon

The funeral of Warren H. Marsh, whose death occurred in Muhlenberg Hospital Saturday afternoon from the effects of a self-inflicted bullet wound, was held at his late home, 981 Union street, Tuesday afternoon. Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelle, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, officiated in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. Several large set pieces were included in the floral tributes. Burial was made in the Hillside cemetery beside the grave of Mrs. Marsh, who died on May 17.

Mr. Marsh was fifty-eight years old and had always made his home in Plainfield with the exception of a brief period at Toledo, Ohio, where he went after his marriage in 1890. Although he never interested himself in politics or belonged to any fraternal organizations, he had a very wide acquaintance through long connection with the law office of his brother, the late Craig A. Marsh. The only surviving relatives are one daughter, Mrs. Robert Bellows, of 981 Union street, and a sister, Miss Ada Marsh, of Madison avenue.

SENT TO REFORMATORY.

Florence Williams, a young woman of this city, was sentenced last Friday in the Union County Court to the Woman's Reformatory at Clinton on a charge of immorality in which soldiers were involved. Assistant Prosecutor Martin P. O'Connor explained to the court that she is in a delicate condition of health, and it was then decided that if she is not accepted at the Clinton institution, sentence will be reimposed in the Union County Court. Her companion, Mabel Mills, pleaded not guilty, and will be tried today.

ILLNESS PREVENTS THE SENTENCING OF DEPEW.

Because of the continued indisposition of Roland Depew, the East Orange youth who is awaiting sentence on a manslaughter conviction in connection with the death of Hilda Hodgson, of Scotch Plains, who was fatally injured by his auto last fall, sentence was again postponed in the Court of Quarter Sessions last Friday afternoon by Judge James C. Connolly on the application of Depew's counsel, Judge Abe J. David. Depew will probably be arraigned for sentence today.

BRIGHTSIDE CIRCLE.

The last meeting of Brightside Circle, City Union-King's Daughters, was held yesterday afternoon and was in the shape of a picnic held on the lawn of Mrs. C. Frank French, of Washington avenue.

REGISTERING CANNERS.

Continuing the work of last week, when $25 was raised at a demonstration, the canning committee of the South Plainfield Parent-Teacher Association will hold a registration in the Somerset Street School tomorrow for all those members of the High School and upper grammar grades who wish to help in the work during the summer. So far 125 have joined and the kitchen in the school is to be equipped for the work to be done.

LOCAL LAWYERS TO ATTEND CONVENTION.

Local lawyers have received invitations to attend the nineteenth annual meeting of the New Jersey State Bar Association, to be held at Atlantic City on June 15 and 16. Many important questions will come up for consideration. Among them is a complete revision of the New Jersey municipal lien act.

Frank Bergen, of Elizabeth, will deliver an address on the life, character and services of the late Chancellor William J. Magie. Addresses also will be delivered by Governor Edge, Judge Patterson, of Philadelphia, and Professor John H. Wigmore, dean of the Northwestern University. The president' address will be given by former Judge Frederick W. Gnichtel.

The annual dinner will be held on the evening of June 15. The chancellor, chief justice, justices of the Supreme Court and the vice chancellors will be the guests of the association.

SENTENCE CIRCUS MAN.

A fine of $100 and six months' imprisonment was the punishment imposed on Charles Glitting, an employe of the Barnum & Bailey circus, in the Union County Court. He stole a horse blanket and auto robe from John W. Snyder, of Dunellen, when the circus showed in this city last month.

GARDEN CLUB TO HEAR LECTURER.

A meeting of the Plainfield Garden Club will be held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William S. Tyler, of West Eighth street, at which time Miss Lillian Alderson, of Greenwich, Conn., will give a talk on "Roses and Their Care."

The club is planning for a very active season and a number of its members are to help the food commission appointed by the Mayor. The club will hold a meeting on June 27 at the home of Mrs. Frederick Mead, of East Front street.

Miss Anna M. Doyle, of East Fifth street, who has been confined to her home by illness for the past month, has recovered sufficiently to be about again and will return to her duties with the Globe Indemnity Co., New York, next Monday.

Miss May Flynn, a member of the office staff of the Plainfield-Union Water Co., is detained by illness at her home in North Branch.

...s' Minstrel Show

...ve the comment at the close ...f the show was to the effect that ...dge Runyon had outdone all his ...evious brilliant efforts in giving ...e people of Plainfield more than ...r money's worth in the way of ...st entertainment. This ex...ellent column covers a wide stretch of ...ound, as every adult citizen knows ...e many successes Mr. Runyon has ...s credit.

Benjamin Evans acted as interlo...tor in the minstrel first part very ...ickly and impishly, parrying ...e jokes of the end-men. There ...ere lots of good "gags" with local ...ints sprinkled throughout. The ...ndmen on the end seats were W. ...Firebrook, Edwin Bennett, ...Charles F. Kreger, Benjamin Dod...ell, Edward Cahill and Frank Mas...ome, the last two being New York ...ofessionals who gave their services ...nfidently. Each one rendered a ...ubber comedy song and other solos ...ve given by the following: P. G. ...Evans, B. F. Tallamy, Miss Jo...phine Brancati, Elmer D. Cutting, ...John J. Campbell, Edward J. Hard...ing, Jr., William G. Smith and M. J. ...O'Connell.

Mr. O'Connell is a professional ...ger whose voice is familiar to ...any phonograph owners, his songs being ...corded on records by the Victor, ...Edison and Columbia companies. He ...ade such an impression with his ...ne number in the entertainment ...at he was compelled to respond to ...o encores. A distinct hit was made ...by Master John Hozan and little ...Miss Kelly Roth, two children from ...Dover, who impersonated the bride ...and groom in John Campbell's song, ..."For Me and My Gal." They were ...brought back to go through their ...pantomime five times. Numbers by ...the Jubilee quartet, composed of ...Messrs. Benson, Newman, Dodwell ...and Hunt, also found favor with the ...audience.

In the second part of the performance, Messrs. Kreger and Dodwell gave a clever dancing specialty. Van Eps brothers' banjo orchestra played several selections and the minstrels came with a grand finale entitled "The Call to America," arranged by Mr. Runyon. Those who took part in this feature were the following: Miss Zaira Brancati, Columbia; Miss Ethel Hilpot, Britannia; Miss Elizabeth Hilpot, France; Miss Ethel Runyon, Russia; Miss Juliette Brancati, Italy; Miss Irma Waldorf, Belgium; Miss Stella Force, Japan; Miss Leslie Glaser, Servia; Miss Lelia Glaser, Roumania, assisted by the members of the ladies' and gentlemen's chorus.

The committee from Plainfield Lodge of Elks which assisted Judge Runyon in the details of the production was as follows: Joseph C. Martin, Edward J. Harding, Elmer D. Cutting, Chauncey F. Stout, Roy Woodhull, Joseph E. Lane and Chalmers L. Crist. One of the hardest workers in this committee was "Joe" Lane, who spent many hours of his time in providing a publicity campaign and aiding the ticket sale at the Plainfield Theatre box office. Credit also should be given Dave Rogers, treasurer of the Plainfield Theatre, who donated his services, and Michael Shannon, who gave the theatre to the committee absolutely free of charge for the minstrel show and afternoon rehearsal. The big chorus of women and men which so ably backed up the soloists was composed of the following:

The Misses Madeline Blair, Marion Blair, Mabel Conover, Genevieve Corbett, Lillian Coriell, Mae Curran, Elsie Debelle, Carrie Dentz, Pauline Gillman, Lucille Hahan, Emily Leahy, Mildred McAuliffe, Dorothy Martin, Try Mattox, Mary Miller, Gertrude Moore, Estelle Mulvey, Gladys Mulvey, Lydia Nelson, Elvira Patton, Lois Peck, Madeline Pennington, Hazel Sexton, Clara B. Smith, Edna Smith, C. Sorensen, Hilda Story, H. A. Voehl, Edith Voorhees, Ruth Voorhees, Bertha Walmer, Lillian Walmer and Rose Walmer; the Mesdames Ray Fullerton, W. L. Hadley, Lewis Hendrickson, Robert Humpston, Albert Jackson, Horace J. Martin, Jr., A. A. Povvez, Chas. Sebring, Chas. Steiner, Arthur Utzinger, D. Van Winkle and Kenneth Bennett, P. W. Benson, Elmer Blimm, William Brown, John J. Campbell, Elmer D. Cutting, John De Ley, R. F. Dentz, Harry D. Egel, P. F. Emmons, Roy Estes, George Feaster, M. Gallup, F. Porter Gore, Robert Gow, Edward J. Harding, Jr., Richard J. Harrison, R. B. Hartshorn, H. L. Hatfield, Christian Hunt, James A. Jamieson, John C. Lindabury, Walter J. Loomis, Wm. McCullough, Harold Mantz, Horace J. Martin, Jr., Joseph C. Martin, Geo. F. Monahan, Thomas A. Moore, Wm. C. Volver, N. W. Newman, M. J. O'Connell, David Patterson, James Pope, John Richards, Jr., Harry A. Sjauson, Wm. G. Smith, E. A. Sorowl, B. F. Tallamy, Wm. Travnor, George Warden, Walter Weber, C. Whitbeck.

ELECT B. OF H. OFFICERS.

Because Dr. Harold Corbusier will shortly leave for service with the U. S. Medical Corps, an election of officers was held at the meeting Monday night, Dr. Charles B. Lutz...barrow was chosen president in place of Dr. Corbusier, and Elliot T. Barrows was elected secretary.

TENNIS ACTIVITIES.

The women's handicap singles and finals will be played at the Plainfield Country Club tomorrow morning, and in the afternoon the teams representing P. H. S. and East Orange will meet on Parker Field.

CLEMENCE A. BECHTEL SAFE IN FRANCE.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Bechtel, of 728 Carlton avenue, received a cablegram on Wednesday from their son, Clemence A. Bechtel, who has arrived safely at France, where he will serve in the American Ambulance Service. Mr. Bechtel left New York last week as a member of a unit composed for the most part of Yale students and will probably go into immediate action.

NORTH PLAINFIELD MIXED UP IN REAL CONTROVERSY

A controversy started at Westfield and affecting North Plainfield, Fanwood, Garwood, Cranford and the Roselles is causing considerable mirth about the county, with Westfield played in a rather ridiculous position. Shortly after the main plant of the Plainfield-Union Water Co., on North avenue, was guarded for the first time Mayor Evans, of Westfield, hired two men at $7 a day to guard the reservoir located on the outskirts of that town. Recently bills for the amount paid to the men were sent to the various towns, with the note suspended that all towns receiving water from the company should help bear the expense.

North Plainfield has refused to pay the debt, and as yet Roselle Park is the only town to send a check for the amount. Westfield is getting legal advice in the matter and a lovely fight is likely to ensue.

UNION FREEHOLDERS IN JOINT CONFERENCE

The Union County Board of Freeholders may join with the boards of Essex, Hudson, Passaic and Bergen counties in their monthly conferences which are to be held in turn at the various county seats and when possible in county institutions. The advantages of having the several freeholder boards in North Jersey meet for mutual discussions of questions of interest and to secure the benefits of any improved methods of work was brought forward by the Bergen county freeholders and at once met with the hearty support of the Essex and Hudson bodies. The Passaic freeholders have intimated that they will join in the plan.

Knowledge of the way other counties conduct their affairs was secured by the board's rules committee when it toured the State several months ago, securing data which was embodied in the board's regulations. Frequently inter-county conferences are held regarding bridges, which span streams connecting Union and other counties, as well as on through roads, but this is as far as the conferences have gone, although freeholders individually study some of the methods in vogue in other counties.

LOCAL PYTHIANS PLAN JUNKET.

Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, Knights of Pythias, will send a big delegation to Somerville on Monday, June 18, at which time Lodge of the Castle, No. 82, of that place, will confer the third degree on a large class of candidates. The initiatory work will be preceded by a parade about the town. The procession will include visiting lodges from nearby cities and several bands of music. The Plainfielders will make the trip by special trolley leaving in front of the Babcock building at 7 o'clock.

Clinton L. Mote, of the Standard Aero Corporation's executive staff, has returned to this city after several weeks' stay at Pensacola, Fla., in the interest of the concern.

Miss M. C. Kyle, of West Sixth street, has given up private nursing to accept a position as supervisor at Muhlenberg Hospital.

Thomas Roddy, of Arlington avenue, who was recently discharged from Muhlenberg Hospital after undergoing treatment for several weeks, has returned to the institution for further treatment.

Week's Festivities by Students at Mt. St. Mary's College Marks Spring

On Monday, May 28, the Crowning of the Blessed Virgin took place, at Mt. St. Mary's College, which, owing to the inclemency of the weather was held in the College Chapel instead of at the grotto on the campus as had been planned. The student body of both college and academy assembled in the auditorium marched in procession through the buildings to the college chapel. The ceremony was beautiful and impressive. The crowner, Miss Rose Birkel, of South Bethlehem, Pa., was attended by six little girls, dressed in white, bearing baskets of flowers which they placed at the feet of the Virgin. Students entertained the Plainfield members of the G. A. R. with a very appropriate program, consisting of patriotic songs and speeches. The boys of the academy, under the direction of the physical instructor, gave a splendid exhibition of military tactics, drawing much applause from the veterans. The program brought back to the minds of the veterans hosts of memories of the sixties, and they related many interesting incidents. After the entertainment luncheon was served.

On Memorial Day, the annual reunion of the Alumnae took place. Elaborate preparations were made to welcome back the students of former days. The sisters left nothing undone which could add to their pleasure and enjoyment. The halls were artistically decorated and the dining hall presented a beautiful and impressive picture; the color scheme being red, white and blue in accordance with the day and the spirit of the times. At 1 o'clock the guests gathered about the snow tables with their centerpieces of red and white tulips, and partook of a sumptuous banquet. The Rev. Fathers John F. Baldwin, college chaplain; Peter J. Hart, of Plainfield; Joseph Zimmer, of Raritan, and Francis Goss, of Perth Amboy, occupied seats of honor at the speakers' table, Father Hart arose to welcome the guests to their alma mater. At 2:30 o'clock a business meeting of the Alumnae was held at which the following officers were elected for the ensuing two years:

President, Miss Julia E. Blake, Essex County; vice president, Mrs. Edward J. Burke, Bordentown; treasurer, Miss Marcella Voos, South Bethlehem, Pa.; secretary, Miss Eleanor E. Brown, Pittston, Pa.

At 4 o'clock the patronesses of the college and the members of the Alumnae assembled on the campus to witness the "Woodland Fete" prepared for them by the students.

The following program was ably rendered:

At the conclusion of the entertainment the guests proceeded to the gymnasium, where tea was served, while soft strains of music floating through the open windows added to the enjoyment of the guests.

On Friday evening a formal dance was given by the class of 1919 in the college gymnasium, which was elaborately decorated in purple and white, the class colors. Tables were arranged prettily about three sides of the room beneath bowers of dogwood with the class flower, the violet, marked each cover. This color scheme was repeated in the dainty luncheon served during intermission. After several toasts were given by officers and other members of the different classes, the orchestra, seated in the center beneath a canopy of palms, resumed its playing and soon the air resounded with the sounds of merrymaking. The strains of music mingled with the laughter of the maidens echoed throughout the "gym" and the forms of the dancers gliding back and forth amidst the palms waving lightly in the breeze, presented a picture long to be remembered by both participants and onlookers. The evening was brought to a delightful close by the singing of college songs.

PIERRE MALI TO GREET BELGIAN COMMISSION.

Belgium will send an official mission to the United States, headed by Baron Moncheur, former minister to the United States. It will arrive within the next three weeks. Belgium regards the United States as her iron benefactor and is eager to express her appreciation in the most whole-hearted way.

Pierri Mali, Belgian consul-general, who has an estate on East Front street, will be one of those to welcome the commission and will join in the conference.

PUBLIC INVITED TO SEE CANDY MADE AT OSWALD'S

John Oswald, proprietor of Oswald's confectionery store, at 161 East Front street, has extended an invitation to Plainfield to view the process of candy and confectionery manufacturing as it is accomplished at his establishment. Everything sold in the store is made on the premises and the work is not only interesting but shows with what scrupulous care the various confections are prepared for public consumption. Mr. Oswald not only carries a full line of candies but also ice cream, fancy puddings, water ices, bisque, Tortoni, preserves and other fancy preparations. Plainfield people have been in the habit of sending to New York for these articles and in supplying them for the local trade Mr. Oswald fills a long felt want. He has had many years of experience in their manufacture. He was in charge of the confectionery department of Sherry's, New York, for a long time and is also superintendent of confectionery making factories at Nyack, N. Y., and Sandusky, Ohio. He has been in Plainfield the past two years building up a business which is daily growing larger.

Mr. Oswald recently placed an Edison concert phonograph in his ice cream parlor for the entertainment of patrons. The program of high-class records given afternoon and evening has proved very enjoyable. The public is invited to hear the machine as well as view the candy making.

Vacations for 300 Children at Camp Endeavor Is Planned for This Summer

In a little more than a month Camp Endeavor, the fresh-air camp located in the Watchung Mountains, at Scotch Plains, and which is supported by the Union County Christian Endeavor Union and affiliated societies and friends, will be ready for another season. July 5 is the opening date.

Provided sufficient funds are obtained the directors of the camp hope to entertain 300 of the poor children of the county this summer. The station has been enlarged each year, until now, with the increased facilities, it will be possible to accommodate double the number. In order to support the camp on a proper basis, however, it is estimated, with the present high cost of food and supplies, that $1,500 will be needed. Of that amount $550 has already been subscribed, leaving $1,000 to be raised by the societies in this district.

Last year Camp Endeavor opened for its sixth season, well equipped and prepared to accommodate many guests. Then came the infantile paralysis epidemic, making it necessary to close the camp at the end of two weeks. Although some expense was incurred anyway, a substantial balance remained in the treasury, a part of which was used to liquidate the debt of $175 from the previous year, and the rest used to make further improvements about the camp. A boys' dormitory was erected and the dining-room and kitchen were extended.

Equipment for the entertainment of the children has always been very limited. This year a shelter, 20x40 feet, has been built for the youngsters to play in on rainy days. In the course of construction is an excellent playground, including a swing, sea-saws, giant stride, trapeze, traveling rings, tether ball pole and basketball court, all of which will be completed by July. Other improvements consists of 200 feet of boardwalk between the various buildings on Johnston's drive, and the draining of parts of the adjoining property. The 300 children and the few mothers who are selected from the guests being made by the committee which investigates the worthiness of each case. No one connected with the management of the camp, excepting the matron, cook and helpers, receive any compensation whatsoever for their services. Men in the various societies aid in cutting wood and driving autos on Saturdays or holidays, while many of the young women from the various societies in the county volunteer to assist the matron. Miss Jennie Stoddard, for a week or two during the season. This year three young women will be with her all season.

Rushing what money will do, Fred C. Lounsbury, Jr., of this city, president of the board of trustees, says that fifty cents will provide an entire day's outing $1 will furnish provisions for one guest for five days; $3 will pay the entire expense of a child for one week, and $6 will give a child a full two weeks' vacation. In addition, the following donations could be used: Sheets, blankets, towels, chairs, tables, beds, bureaus, games, books, magazines, hammocks, swings and second-hand clothing. Checks should be made payable to Camp Endeavor, Inc., and sent to George W. Mingus, treasurer, 92 Seminary avenue, Rahway.

The board of trustees for Camp Endeavor is composed of: Fred C. Lounsbury, Jr., Plainfield; Frederick L. Mintel, Rahway; George W. Mingus, Rahway; Miss Lucile Coriell, Plainfield; Mrs. Orel P. Keeney, Elizabeth; Archie R. Taintor, Elizabeth; J. Duer Randolph, Elizabeth; Frank A. Van Pelt, Elizabeth, and Wilson Hoffman, Springfield.

QUAKER TIRES LEAD WAY IN AUTO WORLD

Quaker tires, unlike all other tires, must do their own advertising to the public. This is the instruction of the manufacturers, the Quaker City Rubber Company, of Philadelphia, to their thousands of dealers throughout the country. So sure were the manufacturers about the service their tires would render, that they requested dealers to avoid, when possible, selling more than one Quaker to a new user.

Let a car owner try one tire, is the advice of the Quaker City Rubber Company. It will demonstrate to him, under all conditions, that it will outlive its adjustment guarantee and deliver unexpected additional service. The power will naturally "follow the lead" already established, and unsolicited, will come back for further Quakers for his car, in hundreds of instances. Quaker dealers have reported this as the result of selling one tire to a customer.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sheehan, of East Fifth street, are receiving congratulations upon the arrival of a baby boy at their home a few days ago.

Archie Bailey, of Madison avenue, has secured a position with the Guaranty Trust Company, of New York.

Prizes Awarded to Victorious Bowlers

Members of the four bowling teams which composed the City League during the past winter, together with many friends, gathered in the Elks' clubhouse last night for a wind-up banquet and presentation of prizes. Seventy-five diners were present in all.

Judge William N. Runyon acted as toastmaster and presented the silver trophy won by the Elks' team to Exalted Ruler Francis J. Blatz, one of the victorious five. Individual prizes for high score, best average and team average were also presented. The other teams besides the Elks forming the league were those from the Knights of Columbus, St. Mary's, T. A. B. Society and the Imperials. Gustav Meissner furnished music during the evening, and the affair concluded with an informal program of solo number.

The banquet was arranged and conducted by a committee from the Elks lodge, of which Walter Vail was chairman. The Elks' team was composed of Francis J. Blatz, Chief P. S. Kiely, Walter Vail, Jacob Waldorf and V. W. Nash, Jr.

The Sunken Grave

Nothing can be sadder than a grave that is no longer a mound. The inevitable has come to pass—the weight of the sodden earth has crushed in the last protection. It helps nothing to close the imagination of what happens then! Yet there is not the slightest necessity for this barbarous, unsanitary, old fashioned method of burial. The Norwalk Vault—at little cost—will protect absolutely and forever. Cement and steel, waterproof and airtight, it seals in plain sight and becomes one piece of masonry that literally "Lasts through the Ages." The best undertakers insist on its use. Your undertaker can furnish you all further information.

OBITUARY

Personal Mention of Plainfielders and Others Who Have Heeded the Summons of Death During the Past Week.

MRS. ELIZABETH APPLEGATE.

Mrs. Elizabeth Applegate, widow of Daniel Applegate, died at her home on East Fifth street, Saturday morning, after an illness of two years from paralysis. She had been about as usual a few days previous to her demise and her family was not prepared for the end, which was primarily due to heart failure.

Mrs. Applegate was a native of New Brunswick, where she was born sixty-three years ago. She came to Plainfield in 1905 and since that time had made many local acquaintances. She is survived by the following daughters and sons: Mrs. George Schisler and Mrs. George MacDonald, of Trenton; D. W. Applegate, C. L. Applegate and Miss Grace Applegate, all of Plainfield.

The funeral was held at the late home Tuesday afternoon and was in charge of Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, of the First Baptist church. A large number of relatives and friends were in attendance, and there were many beautiful floral tributes. Interment was in Hillside cemetery.

ALEXANDER SERGEANT.

Following an illness which began last February, death came Saturday morning to Alexander Sergeant, of East Second street, a widely known resident of this city and veteran of the Civil War. He had been failing gradually for several months and about a week previous to the end he was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital in the last hope of prolonging his life.

Mr. Sergeant was born at Flemington eighty-two years ago, but had made his home in Plainfield for more than half a century. At the outbreak of the Civil War he was among the first to enlist from this State and did service as an infantryman in the Ninth and Thirty-first N. J. Vols. At the close of the great conflict he came to Plainfield and took up his trade as carpenter. He was employed by various contractors in the city and borough and worked on many of the best known buildings in town.

Mr. Sergeant leaves beside his wife, who was Miss Hester Frazee, a daughter of the late Augustus Frazee, two daughters and one son. These are Miss Lina Sergeant and Howard Sergeant, of this city, and Mrs. H. B. Patterson, of Albany, N. Y. He is also survived by one brother, John Sergeant, of Newark, and a sister, Mrs. Anna Clark, of Stevington. The deceased was a charter member of the Plainfield Carpenters' Union and of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R.; Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., and Noah Dove Encampment, No. 28, I. O. O. F.

The funeral was held at the late home on East Second street Tuesday afternoon and was in charge of Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church. The gathering of relatives and friends was very large and the many floral tributes included set pieces from Winfield Scott Post and the other organizations to which the deceased belonged. Burial, with full military honors, was made in Hillside cemetery, where "taps" were sounded on the bugle by Whitney Frazee. The pall-bearers were the following: James Lewis and J. Worth Coddington, representing Winfield Scott Post; John Becker and Jacob Kettenring, from the Odd Fellows, and Charles Johnson and William Lunger, from the Carpenters' Union.

JACOB GEIER.

Jacob Geier, a resident of this city for the past fifty years, died suddenly Monday afternoon as he was walking across the lawn in the rear of his home at Craig place and Duer street. He was found in a semi-conscious condition and although Dr. W. G. Bray arrived shortly afterward he was unable to render any assistance. Death was due to an attack of heart failure.

Mr. Geier was born in Germany seventy-one years ago and came to this country when a young man, first locating in New York for a time and then coming to *Plainfield as an em*ployee of the late Chauncey Schaeffer, who the latter had one of the few beautiful homes on lowest West Seventh street, near Monroe avenue. Later Mr. Geier became manager of the A. M. Seguine stables, which were located at Front street and Madison avenue, where the Stillman building now is, and connected with the old Laing hotel. He remained in this capacity until the development of that part of the business district forced Mr. Seguine to another city. Twelve years ago the deceased sustained a fractured hip through a bad fall and he had since been unable to do active work. Mr. Geier enjoyed a wide acquaintance throughout this vicinity and was greatly liked by everyone.

Beside his wife, the deceased leaves three daughters, Mrs. Herbert B. Smith, of Division street, and the Misses Clara and Madaline Geier, of Craig place. The funeral was held at the late home Wednesday afternoon and was in charge of Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson. It was attended by many relatives and friends and numerous floral tributes were in evidence. Burial was in Evergreen cemetery.

MRS. WILLIAM MILLER.

Mrs. William Miller, a life-long resident of Coontown, died at her home at that place Sunday after a lingering illness. She is survived by her husband, one son, one daughter and a brother, Peter Friday. The funeral was held at the late home Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock and in the Coontown church at 2:30. Interment was in the Coontown cemetery.

MRS. SARA J. BOSS.

Mrs. Sara J. Boss, widow of Elwood Boss, died last Friday night at her home, 104 West Fourth street, following a long illness. She was sixty-three years old and had been a resident of this city since a young woman. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. F. B. Vanness of Newark, and Miss Anna Boss, of this city, and also one son, Howard Boss, with whom she lived.

The funeral was held at the late home Monday afternoon, and was private. Rev. Dr. Chas. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, where Mrs. Ross was an attendant, was the officiating clergyman. Interment was in Hillside cemetery.

Auto Tourist Here From Florida Tells How Dixieland Farmers "Get the Coin"

Completing an automobile trip of more than fourteen hundred miles along the Atlantic coast from Florida to this city, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Green, of Daytona Beach, are resting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William T. McLoughlin, of Darrow avenue, previous to making a return journey by the same method but over a different route. The run up from the flower State was made without any mishap of any account but was replete with interesting details that make recounting very enjoyable to the listener. Nine days were required from the start to the finish. The machine made an average of about 140 miles daily. The best run was 275 miles and the shortest seventy-five, due to the fact that the tourists wished to make a stop over night at a certain town.

In speaking of the long trip, Mr. Gheen said yesterday that he had encountered but about twenty-five miles of bad roads over the entire distance. The southern States have splendid thoroughfares and life would be one "grand sweet song" were it not for enterprising Dixieland farmers who have discovered a method of making money out of the motorists. Throughout Virginia and North Carolina particularly, these gentlemen of agricultural pursuit locate a sort of trap in what appears to be a good section of macadam or other highway. The uninitiated tourists who fails to keep his eyes open suddenly finds himself mired to the hubs and a slough craftily covered with leaves or a little loose straw. The farmer always happens to be near at hand with a team of mules, but when importuned for help declares with the shake of his head that "he has no use for automobiles nohow and he would not stop work in his field for a ten dollar bill." The auto owner knows right then and there that it is going to cost him ten dollars to get hauled out of the mud and if he is wise he proceeds to produce the amount before the anti is raised. One of these highway traps set Mr. Gheen back to a tune of a crisp ten spot that he had brought away from Florida. A story is current in the southland that the husbandman who originated the idea of trapping pleasure cars sold his plan*tation some years ago and is now the* principal stockholder in several big banks and industrial enterprises.

Speaking in another way about the trip, Mr. Gheen remarked that a far different impression is gained of the southern States by automobile than by railway. Those who see the country from a car window gain the idea that it is a barren territory but a journey over the fine roads by automobile shows a magnificent fertile section. Mr. Gheen asserted that splendid, well developed farms were in evidence everywhere and that a stretch not under cultivation was a rare exception. The crops, to him, seemed to be well along, giving promise of abundant harvest in the very near future.

Mr. Gheen is very much impressed with Plainfield because of its natural beauty and the reception accorded him by relatives and friends. He is an uncle of Mr. McLoughlin, with whom he is stopping. It is probable that Mr. and Mrs. Gheen will begin the home trip tomorrow. They will proceed from here to Philadelphia, thence to Harrisburg, through the Shenandoah Valley to Chattanooga, Atlanta and Jacksonville. On the way up the first stop was at Jacksonville and afterward Augusta and Savannah, Ga., Camden, S. C., Raleigh, N. C., Richmond, Va., Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia. The return route is about 200 miles longer than the other.

Prōdium Process Means Millions Saved To Tire Users

THE Prōdium Process has done for rubber what vanadium did for steel.

It has made it stronger and tougher, and vastly increased its wear-resisting qualities.

Republic Prōdium Process Tires are practically immune to road cuts and chipping, and wear down as smoothly and evenly as a piece of tempered steel.

Even after the Staggard Studs are gone, many miles of service remain in the tire.

The history of the Republic has been a chronicle of progressive improvement in tire making.

It is fitting that the Prōdium Process should be a product of the Republic laboratories.

The Staggard Tread was the first effective non-skid tire.

The Doughboy Shoe

$11.50 $11.50

It's the Dreadnaught of Shoes—the absolute acme of military shoe perfection—and as one officer said:

"The Best Shoe for Trench Warfare Ever Made"

The leather of the Doughboy Shoe is especially selected; its sole is thick enough to take hobnails and yet flexible enough to respond to every movement of the foot; its instep is built up to the arch and supports it; its blucher is set well back of the big toe joint to prevent bunions; its counter is on the outside to keep the feet from blistering; its heel is made purposely broad to stabilize the ankle.

Made Over a Last Designed by
MAJOR HAROLD D. CORBUSIER
Medical Reserve Corps, U. S. Army

HERE IS WHAT COL. EDWIN F. GLENN, U. S. ARMY, SAYS ABOUT THE DOUGHBOY SHOE:

The pair of shoes came to hand and I put them on last night when it was snowing and raining and walked about two miles with them the first time I put them on and was surprised at the really comfortable feeling I experienced in wearing them for the first time.

I have been wearing them all day since six o'clock this morning and it is about ten o'clock p. m. and my feet feel as though I had been wearing broken-in shoes during that time. This I consider remarkable for a shoe that is so clearly made for heavy wear.

* * * * * *

I am convinced that it is the best shoe I have seen on the market for the purpose.

* * * * * *

I am going to wear the shoes pretty constantly.

Very sincerely,
(Signed) E. F. GLENN,
Colonel, 18th Infantry, U. S. Army.

New Jersey Camp, Where Plainfielders Will Be Trained, Long Owned by Quakers and is Located on Old Historic Ground

With Registration Day over and the names of all Plainfield men eligible for the first call to military service in the hands of the authorities, the thing that is most important now in the eyes of those who will fight for their country is where they will receive their training, for some they must have before they will be fit to do battle with the common foe. Together with all those others in the State affected by conscription, Plainfield's sons will probably concentrate at a point in south Jersey, lying midway between the Atlantic Ocean and the Delaware, and near the town of Mount Holly. Already the recently organized engineering resident of Jerseymen has been ordered to the site to prepare for the coming of the thousands, and included among them is Donald Updyke, a P. H. S. graduate, who will have the honor of the first Plainfielder to reach the spot.

On the fertile acres for generations tilled by the Shreves, the Haineses, the Earls, the Atkinsons and the Davises, Quakers most of them, down in Burlington county, is soon to be reared the city that will house some 20,000 Jerseymen to be trained in the art of war. A few miles away, in the shaded burying ground of Upper Springfield Quaker Meeting House, the graves of those who once plied the peaceful vocation of husbandry on these farms lie thick. Some of the farms now taken over by the government are still held by descendants of the original Quaker owners, but many of them have passed into the hands of newcomers. The names of Davis, Harker, Atkinson, Starkhouse, Hartshorne, Lippincott and Bishop, all old Quaker families, appear in the list of those whose lands will now be devoted to warlike purposes. It is a strange transformation.

The tract where New Jersey's warriors will be trained for their stern duty is a sightly one. It lies on the westerly slope of the ridge that divides the waters flowing into the Delaware from those that find outlet in the Atlantic and is about midway between. On the south it borders on the great pine belt which from near Wrightstown stretches south in practically unbroken range almost to Cape May. The soil is a sandy loam, fertile and easily drained. The climate salubrious and rarely severe in winter. It is intersected with good roads and north, east and west is surrounded by the finest agricultural country in the State. No large towns are near but the land is dotted with small villages. Lewistown, Wrightstown and Pointville, once known as Scrabbletown, are on its borders. Two miles southwest lies Pemberton, named for an ancestor of the Confederate General Pemberton, who surrendered to Grant at Vicksburg, and the birthplace of former Governor John Franklin Fort, well known here as the publisher of the Daily Press. Just to the south and within the borders of the Pines is Brown's Mills, once a quite famous summer resort, and New Lisbon, the home of Joseph J. White, the Cranberry King of New Jersey. Other nearby towns are Jacobstown, Sykesville, Georgetown, Jobstown, Juliustown, Recklestown and Cookstown. At Jobstown is the famous stud farm Rancocas, once owned by Pierre Lorillard and where was bred the great Iroquois, the American horse, which on English race tracks showed the way home to England's best. A few miles northeast is Kenilworth, known as a summer resort to many and on the main road to Lakewood, some fifteen miles away.

Nor is the neighborhood devoid of historic interest. A few miles south within the pine belt the the ruins of Hanover Furnace, where, in the days of the Revolution, from long iron ore were made cannon and cannon balls for the American army. Bordering the tract on the east is the old Monmouth road, one of the earliest laid-out highways in the original colony leading from Philadelphia to Port Monmouth and along which marched a detachment of Washington's Continentals to the Battle of Monmouth, which drove the British from New Jersey and made Molly Pitcher famous.

By train the tract is reached by the Pemberton and Hightstown road and by the Columbus, Kinkora and Arneytown. Both these are single track roads, but it is said that the Pennsylvania railroad, which controls them, will four-track them at once. The Pemberton and Hightstown connects at Birmingham with the Pennsylvania main line from Camden to Whitings, Toms River and Asbury Park, and at Hightstown with the old Camden and Amboy. The Columbus, Kinkora and Lewistown runs from Kinkora on the Pennsylvania's Camden and Trenton road to Lewistown, which is at the western edge of the camp site. Both these roads have been financial losses for years. North Jersey recruits will no doubt enter the camp by way of the Kinkora road.

Presumably the camp will get its water supply from artesian wells. Unexcelled spring water is found anywhere on the tract at a moderate depth. It is assumed that sewage will be taken care of by disposal plants. The natural drainage is into Rancocas creek, which is the source of potable water supply for Pemberton and Mount Holly, both towns below the camp drainage area. Doubtless all precautions will be taken to prevent pollution of this stream.

"The Crisis," a wonderful nine-part photoplay production adapted from Winston Churchill's popular novel, is to appear at Proctor's Theatre, Plainfield, on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, June 11, 12, 13. As a historical document, "The Crisis" occupies a place by itself. It not only reproduces the battle scenes but the great men who were conspicuous in making history at that time. Lincoln, Grant, Sherman and other notables pass in review and as the aged veteran, his hair whitened and his face furrowed by the touch of time, views the picture, his old eyes sparkle, his pulse quickens and in fancy he is again amid the unforgetable scenes of over half a century ago. "The Crisis" has not only made it possible to picturize a powerful novel effectively, but it is the one photodrama that combines the spectacular and the intimate life. Here we have the spectacles of war in which thousands of men participate with the roar of cannon and accompanying effects that give the scenes realism, and we also have the beautiful story with its delightful domestic touches and its scenes of love and peace. Here we get an intimate view of Southern life and customs. How the styles have changed! Our grandparents were wont to tell us of the hoop-skirts worn by the ladies, the tall silk hats and cape coats affected by the men. You see them all in "The Crisis." You will note the splendid dignity, the refinement, the courtesy and the hospitality that belonged to the Southerner of antebellum days. It is a picture in which you revel and delight as you sit and watch it. You will have lingering memories of "The Crsis" long after it has gone. The beauty of this splendid picture is that it emphasizes the romance of the Civil War, rather than its horrors, and presents its political aspects broadly and impartially, but in a manner that offends neither the North nor the South. "The Crisis" has appeared and is now appearing at all the leading theatres throughout the country. No seats will be reserved. There will be four shows daily, at 2 p. m., 4 p. m., 7 p. m., and 9 p. m.

Red Cross Day at Country Club

Following the suggestion of the New Jersey State Golf Association of which the local organization is a member, the Plainfield Country Club will tomorrow observe Red Cross Day and the entire proceeds of the day will be contributed to the Red Cross Fund. It will make the second affair of the kind held by the local club, as $225 was raised on Declaration Day for the Red Cross.

The program of events arranged for includes: Putting contests, bridge tournaments, sports for children, contributions from non-playing members and other features. The entry fees for each competition is to be not less than $1, and there will be no deductions for expenses of any kind.

The golf association is to supply a bronze medal of special design for the winner of each event. There will be an American and a Red Cross flag at each first tee and a large banner announcing the tournament behind the tee, while girls in Red Cross uniforms will be in attendance at the club.

Events arranged especially for the fund at the local club are the spring point and selected score play and medal play handicap, 18 holes.

There being no local Red Cross chapter, the club's entire receipts will be remitted by Tuesday, June 12, to the treasurer of the New Jersey State Golf Association for transmission to the national body of the American Red Cross at Washington.

EXPECT BIG SEASON AT PALISADES PARK

Never in the history of Palisades Amusement Park has such vast throngs crowded the playground as is distinctive of this year. Thousands of amusement loving folks from New Jersey and New York journey to this resort every day for a vacation which is sure to result in a pleasant outing. Many of the patrons bring their luncehons and dine in the open, while others are drawn to the, dance hall by the strains of Tom Brymn's Jazz Band, which garnishes syncopated airs which set toes atingling for the one-step or the fo-trot.

A new whirly-gig feature is now in operation called the "Whirling Wave." It is all that its title could imply. There is a whole "steel sea" on which little cars dash about on waves as thrilling as on the ocean itself. The novelty of being one's own skipper in full command of the ship, and the attempt to bring the craft to its home port, is a voyage filled with laughs and thrills.

The big bathing natatorium is enjoying its share of popularity and every day an immense crowd of water enthusiasts find recreation swimming and diving on this "inland sea." Nicholas M. Schenck lifts from the Atlantic.

Plenty of free attractions are provided with circus and vaudeville, band concerts, and various shows along the midway. An added feature every Tuesday and Thursday nights is a splendid display of fireworks which are exhibited directly after the close of the vaudeville on the stage of the Amphi-theatre.

Hydewood to Help the Red Cross Fund

Red Cross Day will be observed at the Hydewood Golf Club tomorrow by a specially arranged program of events. The entire proceeds of the day will be given to the Red Cross to be used for relief work. The Plainfield branch of the National Special Aid Society, representing the Red Cross Society, will have a committee on hand to help and the affair is practically certain of success.

The entrance fee will be nominal and the total amount received will be given to the Red Cross fund to assist the work of the society. Every member of the club is expected to lend his or her aid in this worthy cause. Guest charges will be waived for the day.

Prizes will be awarded for the following events: Ladies' 9-hole medal play handicap; Class A, 18-hole medal play handicay; Class B, 18-hole medal play handicap.

State Guard Orders Issued for July 25

Orders have just been issued by Adjutant-General Barber, by direction of Governor Edge as commander-in-chief, to regulate the movement of the National Guard, including Troop D, in connection with the general mobilization of the guard about July 25. The orders were sent to the commanders of all the National Guard units of this State. They provide as follows:

"The National Guard not now in the Federal service and the enlisted men of the National Guard Reserve will be drafted into the Federal service by President Wilson about July 25. After being held at company rendezvous for approximately two weeks, these organizations, together with those now in the Federal service, will be sent, under orders from the War Department, to concentration camps in the Southeastern Department. The Governor directs that all organizations be immediately recruited to the maximum strength as shown in tables of organizations, United States Army, 1917.

"The necessary arms, equipment and clothing for maximum strength over and above what is now in your possession is not available at this time. In this connection it is desired that this office be furnished at the earliest practicable date with full data.

"After enrollment, and pending the movement of the troops to concentration camps, the typhoid prophylaxis and vaccination against smallpox will be completed for all officers and enlisted men. In the meantime such training as the facilities of the armories, drill halls and vicinity will afford will be vigorously employed to train the newly enlisted men as well as those already enlisted."

LIBERTY BONDS IN PAYMENT.

The M. & L. Auto Company, of West front street, has announced that it will receive Liberty Bonds in part or full payment for any machine purchased from the concern. The bonds will be accepted at $102 and interest.

Special Arrangements for Buying Liberty Bonds

10 PER CENT. UPON APPLICATION BALANCE IN CONVENIENT INSTALLMENTS

We want every Man, Woman and Child to subscribe to these bonds. It is not only your duty, but a privilege. They are an excellent investment, free from Income Tax, and will probably sell above par in the coming months. To those who are unable to pay for them according to the Government plan, we will ADVANCE THE MONEY, AT AN UNUSUALLY LOW RATE OF INTEREST, to buy them.

You will pay us 10 per cent. down and the balance in weekly or monthly installments preferably monthly, and when you have paid the full amount, the bond, with interest due, will be yours. This is entirely separate and different from our usual loan and discount account, and we will not loan money in our regular business at such a low rate.

The Government plan for payment is as follows:

Two per centum on application;
Eighteen per centum on June 28, 1917;
Twenty percentum on July 30, 1917;
Thirty per centum on August 15, 1917;
Thirty per centum on August 30, 1917.

and we recommend for convenience that this be adopted, but there are those who, perhaps, are not in a position to pay this way, and we do not want anyone to feel that they will not take a bond because they can not afford it or pay for it promptly.

Subscriptions should be made at once, and we will handle the entire matter for you without charge, taking care of the bonds and doing all of the necessary work.

City Gives $1,600,000 to Liberty Loan

After working late into the night figuring and compiling, the Plainfield Trust Company, State Trust and Title Company, City National Bank and First National Bank were able to announce on the subscription of $1,600,000 as the subscription totals from Plainfield when the Record reporter called at their offices. The Plainfield Trust Company far outstripped the other three institutions in the aggregate, although all of the banks responded to the appeal of the Nation in a magnificent manner. The amounts given by representatives of the four banks today follow: Plainfield Trust Company, $800,000; State Trust Company, $250,000; City National Bank $200,000, and the First National Bank, $150,000.

The success of the loan in Plainfield was really assured during the week, but at that time, nearly two-thirds of the total amount was subscribed to. It was not until the last few days that a good many people seemed to realize just what the Liberty Loan meant to this country and it was then that they came forward with their little bit. The total might have been larger if local men who subscribed through New York banks had done so through one of the local institutions, but as it was details of the Plainfield institutions expressed themselves last night as being on the whole satisfied with the result.

Although the last subscription has been made and the total amount has been found out, there still remains the arduous work before the last detail in connection with the loan has been completed. The subscriptions are for the most part in fairly small amounts and each one will have to be indexed, interest amount worked out and other matters of a similar nature attended to.

One of the most important of these will be the distribution of bonds to each subscriber. At present the Government printing plant is working night and day to complete them and it is hoped that they may be sent out by June 25. Notice of the date of distribution will be made later.

Lyman Hibbard Highly Honored

Despatches received from Paris this week by Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Hibbard, of East Seventh street, acquainted them with the news that their son, Lyman Hibbard, had had the signal honor conferred upon him of being recently awarded the "Croix de Guerre" for valiant service performed under fire, while serving as a member of the American ambulance corps around Verdun. In bestowing such an honor upon Mr. Hibbard, the French government indicated more clearly than it could have by words just what a service the local man has rendered. Men in this great war turn done great deeds of valor and have died in the hope of winning the cross of honor. Mr. Hibbard is one of the few Americans serving abroad who has thus far been honored.

The official notice of the orders of the day in which the valor of the entire ambulance section is mentioned follows: "Third citation of Lyman Hibbard.—Under the command of Lieutenant Townsend, at the front since January, 1915, has particularly distinguished himself by heroism, entrain and courage worthy of praise in the execution of its medical service, particularly before Verdun, during the attacks of January 24, 27 and 28 of 1917, of which it remained day and night the evacuation of numerous wounded from an aid post of the first line to the ambulances, a long line, exposed to the enemy's view and constantly submitted to the fire of the enemy's artillery fire. During this time several vehicles were struck by shell fragments."

Mr. Hibbard has been serving actively with the American ambulance corps for the past six months. He left this city the latter part of November and immediately after arriving in Paris received assignment. On several occasions his letters have been printed in the Record describing his experiences. He was a member of Troop D before leaving for France and served on the Mexican border last summer with that unit.

BELGIAN RELIEF SOCIETY TO COLLECT OLD PAPER.

The second collection of paper by the Plainfield branch of the Belgian Relief Society will be made tomorrow morning, when a canvass of the city will be undertaken in automobiles to gather magazines, books and newspapers. The entire amount thus collected will be sold and the funds realized used to purchase food to be sent to devastated Belgium.

Graduation at Hartridge Today

The commencement exercises of the Hartridge School were held at 11 o'clock this morning in the auditorium and were attended by the relatives and friends of the school. President Charles A. Richmond, of Union College, was to have been the speaker, but he was called away suddenly to present diplomas to fifty students of the college who are in training camp. Hamlin Garland, a well known exponent of western life and author of "Maine Traveled Woods," was fortunately secured in his place.

Mr. Garland has been called by Ernest Thompson-Seton, "The Singer of the Trail," and his lectures are loved by all who are interested in the life of the plains. Such an address as he has gained a national reputation for he gave at the graduation this morning.

The young women who have completed their academic course at the Hartridge School and who will enter college next fall are the Misses Catherine Ames, Lillian Fawcett, Dorothy Jewett, Alice Joy, Helen Lounsbery, Dorothy McKenzie, Kathleen Millay, Saidee Sanford and Jacksonia Watt.

Yesterday morning at the opening exercises of the day the members of this year's seventh grade were wel-

To Charge For Summer School

It became known this week that Plainfield will have a summer school for those pupils who wish to make up back work or take special instruction. A departure from other years, however, will be that a charge of $3 for the course of six weeks will be made to cover the cost of expense. Complete plans have not yet been made for the opening, but Mrs. N. S. Wardner, of Park avenue, will again be in charge.

The summer session will start on July 2, probably in the Whittier School, and will continue for six weeks. The Friday before will likely be designated as a day on which prospective pupils may enroll. Mrs. Wardner has made a tentative selection of the teaching corps and will make a further announcement in the near future.

The determination of the Board of Education to charge $3 for the course, or three cents a day, was made necessary by the expense involved. War times has affected the schools as well as everything else and the board felt that it could not spare an appropriation to maintain the summer school.

Elizabeth Boosting Small Board Idea

Petitions are now being circulated by citizens of Elizabeth interested in the abolition of the present large Board of Freeholders for a third referendum vote on the small board question. The required number of signatures will no doubt be obtained and the issue submitted to the voters at the general election next November.

While there has always been more or less sentiment throughout the county for a small board, the telling objection raised has been that the small board law did not guarantee equal representation; that is, the law was without a districting clause, and unless it had such a clause any of the smaller municipalities outside Elizabeth were going to be left out in the cold, with the result that there would be an overbalanced board. As a matter of fact, Republicans and Democrats up county ever have been fearful lest under a small board election Elizabeth got the lion's share. Elizabeth, on the other hand, feels that for years she has been deprived of equal representation. Her small board advocates point out that, while the county outside Elizabeth is represented by seventeen freeholders, Elizabeth, with a population of upwards of 90,000 and paying annually nearly 50 per cent. of the county tax, has had but four freeholders on the county board.

ARTHUR HARRIS ASKS $500,000 FOR SUNDAY

Red Cross and Y. M. C. A. army and navy branches may get $500,000 from the Billy Sunday revival if New York takes kindly to a suggestion from Chairman A. M. Harris, of Central avenue, this city, of the revival finance committee.

At the end of each campaign Mr. Sunday gets as his only pay a free will offering. He's promised to give the Red Cross and the Y. M. C. A. every cent of the offering made there, and Mr. Harris and his colleagues think this a fine opportunity for New York to come across. They are so enthusiastic over the idea that the committee has assumed, as part of its own budget, one-third of the salaries of the Sunday party, which ordinarily would be paid by the evangelist.

Pythians to Take Part In Two Affairs

Members of Perseverance and Unity Lodges, Knights of Pythias, and Crescent Company, No. 13, U. R. K. of P., are completing arrangements for two auspicious affairs that are to take place within the next few days. The first will be on the coming Sunday and will be the annual Pythian memorial service for departed brothers, conducted on a more elaborate scale than ever before. The second will be a visitation to Somerville next Monday night, when one of the largest gatherings of members of the order in Somerset county in many years will take place. The details from the local end will be concluded at the regular meeting of Perseverance Lodge tonight. In addition to these two events, Plainfield Pythians will attend service at the Congregational church in a body on Sunday night, June 24, when the pastor, Rev. Howard E. Clarke, will deliver an appropriate sermon.

The gathering at Somerville Monday night is to be in charge of Lodge of the Castle, No. 82, of that place, and is the result of a membership campaign started last fall. Seventy-four candidates were secured and these are to be given the third degree in a class together with twenty more supplied by other lodges. Ten of them are to be furnished by Neshanic Lodge, of Neshanic, and the other ten by the New Brunswick lodge. The initiatory work is to be conferred by Company M's armory. It will be followed by a general social time with refreshments.

Fourth Degree Honors Curate

Testimonial dinner, in honor of Rev. Father Henry J. Mahoney, who succeeded Rev. Father Joseph McDonald as curate of St. Mary's church, was given by Watchung Assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, in Columbus Auditorium, Wednesday night. The affair was limited strictly to the Fourth Degree and officers of Watchung Council. Covers were laid for seventy-five.

State Warden H. P. Greenwood acted as toastmaster, and addresses were made by Rev. Father B. M. Bogan, Rev. Father J. Farley, Father P. J. Hart, George J. Tobin, Rev. Father Walter A. Hennessey, Rev. Father John Baldwin, Rev. Father Thomas Campbell and Dr. F. J. Hughes. Father Mahoney responded in a light vein to the many well wishes extended to the speakers. Music for the occasion was furnished by Joseph G. Carty, who gave piano selections, and William H. Brown and H. J. Pasch, who sang several solos in pleasing voice. The walls of the auditorium were festooned with national colors, while small American flags and bunches of roses formed the tables decorations. The dinner was served by Mrs. Johnson.

The affair was arranged by a committee of which Frank McInerney was chairman. The main idea of the gathering was to make Father Mahoney better acquainted with the members of the order, as he has only been in St. Mary's parish a short time.

Four Plainfielders Leave to Report for "Sub-Sea" Duty

Reginald Rowland, Tom Fraser and Johnny Logan, all of this city, left yesterday for New London, where they will meet the remainder of the crew of thirteen men that will man a "sub-sea" chaser. The building of the craft was made possible by the gathering of $25,000 through the efforts of Warren Ackerman and Reginald Rowland. Young Ackerman will report at the New England seaport on July 14.

The little boat is now nearing completion in a New London shipyard and until it is put into commission the crew will receive intensive training in preparation for the work they will have when they are assigned to a definite section of the coast. Rowland will be in command until Ackerman reports for duty and will then be first assistant. Logan will be cook, Fraser first engineer, and the rest of the crew will include two gunners from the Yale battery, a coxswain, two seamen, assistant engineer, assistant quartermaster and two wireless operators.

AN APPROACHING WEDDING.

Mrs. Letitia Clawson, of Forster avenue, has issued invitations for the marriage of her daughter, Miss Lucy Mina Clawson, to William Morris. The ceremony will take place at the bride-elect's home on Saturday, June 30, at 4 o'clock.

Large Number Graduate at Mt. St. Mary's

Commencement week at Mt. St. Mary's College will come to a close this afternoon, when exercises in observance of patrons' day will be held. The boys who have graduated from the grammar school of the institution have also returned for the day and will take part in the festivities. One of the main features of the day will be the forming among the boys of an alumnae association, including the election of officers and adopting of constitution and bylaws. The awarding of degrees to college and High School graduates and other commencement week events took place during the past few days, starting with a baccalaureate service Sunday.

Last Sunday afternoon the entire student body attended baccalaureate services held in the chapel, Rev. Father B. M. Bogan preaching the sermon. On Tuesday afternoon the class day exercises of the graduating class were held, many relatives and friends of the students being present. The auditorium was beautifully decorated in the class colors of mustard and blue, and an arch of daisies formed the entrance way. The stage was transformed into a bower of flowers for the occasion, and the class was seated in a semi-circle on the platform. The program opened with a patriotic song, after which the following numbers were given: Class poem, class history; the farce, "My Aunt From California;" class prophecy; class will; farewell song and address. At the completion of the program the annual class day dance was held in the gymnasium, which was tastefully decorated for the occasion.

The annual spring musical of the academy was held Monday afternoon and an excellent program was rendered.

The outgoing class of the academy gave its annual banquet on Monday night. The banquet hall was profusely decorated in the class colors of 1917 and 1918, the banquet having

Many Aspirants for Sheriff Job

Now that Councilman John Cose has announced that he will run for sheriff this year, other aspirants are coming forward daily and starting a campaign on their own account. Freeholder Elias Applegate, who started the ball a-rolling for the Freeholder probably quietly at work shaping his campaign for the office. Like those in Elizabeth and other parts of the county who are pushing the small board petitions, friends of Applegate's are looking for the recent shakeup in county affairs to help his chances, and Republicans are sure that whoever gets the nomination will be elected in November.

Cose and Applegate are not the only ones that plan to make a try for one of the fattest jobs in the county. Under Sheriff James E. Warder, of Cranford, and Joseph E. Neill, of Elizabeth, have been decided to start a campaign on their own hook, and there has been talk of Freeholder S. P. T. Wilbur, of this city, and Freeholder Peter Meisel, of Springfield. The indications are that the primary election will find them all on the Republican side seeking the nomination and all will have large followings but it is sure to be a waste one. Sheriff Otto is not expected to run.

Hospital Governors Hold Yearly Meeting

At the annual meeting of the board of trustees of Muhlenberg Hospital held Monday night E. H. Ladd, who has served as president for two years, declined to serve again. He was succeeded by Frank J. Hubbard. The organization of a new board resulted as follows:

President, Frank J. Hubbard; first vice president, S. Durell Lounsbery; second vice president, Samuel Townsend; secretary, Clifford M. Baker; treasurer, William H. Rogers.

Executive committee, P. J. Hubbard, J. W. DeGraff, S. D. Lounsbery, J. P. Stevens, Samuel Townsend, John M. Whiton, W. H. Rogers, Mrs. F. D. Warren, Mrs. Chas. E. Lipscomb.

Financial committee, Samuel Townsend, Herman Schwed, W. H. Rogers, George P. Mellick, Sherman B. Joost.

Publicity committee, Edward H. Ladd, Jr., Harry H. Pond, S. Durell Lounsbery.

Auditing committee, E. H. Booth, D. T. Kenney, N. C. Barnhart.

Committee on legal matters, Percy H. Stewart.

Local Public Schools Close Next Week

With final examinations practically completed and the year of 1916-17 nearly over, the schools of the city and borough will enter upon one of the busiest weeks of the year, beginning with Monday. The class day exercises and commencements of both Plainfield and North Plainfield High Schools will take place on different nights, and the graduation exercises of the grammar schools of the city and borough will also be held. The departure of many youths, especially at Plainfield High School, for farm work or service in some branch of the Government, will lend a touch of the military to the two events of the year at those institutions.

The senior class of the North Plainfield High School will start off its commencement festivities tonight in the Park Club, when the class day exercises are held. Friends and relatives of the graduates to the number of several hundreds are expected to be present, and while no inkling of the program can be given, it is certain that in preparing the exercises the class has not adhered closely to the customs of other years.

The class day exercises of the Plainfield High School graduating class will be held in the auditorium of the school on Tuesday night. They, too, have made elaborate plans for the event. Following the exercises the time honored dance will be held.

The graduation exercises of the Plainfield Grammar School will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the auditorium of the High School. The principal address to the graduates will be made by Rev. Howard E. Clarke, pastor of the First Congregational church, this city, and Runyon to Oppose Senator Pierce?

The familiar political bee is beginning to do its preliminary buzzin. An early forecasting of the makeup of the G. O. P. ticket at the coming election finds Assemblyman William N. Runyon, of this city, prominently mentioned for Senatorial honors in place of Carlton B. Pierce, of Cranford, who at present occupies the berth. The Judge's friends have already started campaigning for him, although he has not made any decision.

A battle against Pierce has been impending ever since last January. He never stood solidly with the organization, but in the past there has been effected just before campaign times a patching up of the existing difficulties. The Senator's open stand against the recommendation of the organization in the matter of appointment has, however, eliminated the possibility of a further truce, and hence the early activity in behalf of Runyon.

The local Assemblyman is one of the most popular of the younger Republicans. He is an orator of ability and has been prominent in Union county politics for the last decade. His supporters look to his legislative record to stand him in good stead in a fight against Pierce. The latter has ever had a pretty firm hold not only on the majority vote of his party within the county, but upon voters of independent stripe. His efforts in behalf of popular legislation have created for him a following aside from the crowd that follows in the wake of the organization.

LOCAL FIREMEN PLAN BIG DANCE.

Local No. 7, Firemen's Mutual Benevolent Association, of this city, has made arrangements to give a dance in Columbus auditorium on Friday night, June 29. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the association, which comprises practically the entire membership of the Plainfield firemen. This is the first time in the history of the organization that an affair of this kind has been planned and every effort is being made to bring about complete success. The F. M. B. A. pays sick and death benefits and has numerous principles in view for the improvement and welfare of firemen. Locals in Elizabeth, Newark, New Brunswick, Jersey City and Paterson have promised to send delegations to the dance.

The committee completing details is composed of: Harry Wierbeza, Jens Chassep, James McDonough, Wesley Dunn and Frank Ingraham.

TOMORROW'S BASEBALL CARD.

There will be plenty of baseball games on tap tomorrow afternoon both in the City League and between independent teams. The card follows: Hose Chapel vs. First Baptist, at West End Oval, and St. Joseph's vs. Aeroplanes, at Hyde Oval (City League). Rahway vs. P. H. S. at Crescent Oval. Flemington at Somerville. P. A. N. vs. Hustlers at Scotch Plains. Y. M. A. vs. Paths A. A. at Round Brook.

K. of C. Carnival Coming July 2

Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, sent a delegation of members to Orange Wednesday night to inspect the Leavitt & Texier shows which are exhibiting in that city. From what they saw the council immediately closed a contract with the company to appear in this city under the auspices of the Knights during the week beginning July 2. The aggregation is undoubtedly the largest and best on the road, all of the attractions being new and possessing nothing that would tend to mar the finest sensibilities. Twenty-two cars are required to transport the company's equipment. The grounds on West Front street, just east of Clinton avenue, have been secured as a location for the carnival, thus bringing the excellent facilities of the Union trolley line.

In addition to the concessions carried by the Leavitt & Texier Company, a big feature will be an auxiliary tent conducted by the Daughters of Isabella, working in conjunction with the K. of C. members. The auxiliary committee has already started at work on plans calculated to make the tent the most popular attraction on the grounds. In previous years this feature has been one of the best. J. J. Varley heads the carnival committee appointed by Watchung Council to take care of the local end and he is determined to make the year's enterprise the greatest ever. The Knights of Columbus have gained a reputation for high class amusement and the coming attraction will maintain that standing, proving educational and instructive as well as providing entertainment.

East End Church Installs Pastor

The installation of Rev. Dr. Edward C. Ralston, as pastor of the Netherwood Reformed church, which has been delayed for a long time in order that the ceremony might take place in the recently completed edifice, was held at the church last night. It was attended by a large gathering, which included many friends of the clergyman not members of his congregation.

Rev. J. Garland Hamner, Jr., pastor of the Reformed church, of Belleville, and president of the Classis of Newark, presided over Dr. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, preached the sermon. The charge to the pastor was given by Rev. Dr. Otis M. Trousdale, pastor of the First Reformed church, of Newark, and the charge to the people was given by Rev. John Y. Brook, pastor of Trinity Reformed church.

At the conclusion of the service, an informal reception was held during which congratulations were extended to Dr. Ralston. It was particularly appropriate that installation should be held in the new church as the pastor's labors were largely responsible for its erection. When he began his duties on May 1, 1914, the home of the congregation was a small, portable frame structure which was soon inadequate to meet the demands of growing membership. Dr. Ralston set about getting a more substantial building and worked faithfully until it was an assured fact. The church was completed last fall but the installation was still deferred until everything was appropriate for the important event.

Dr. Ralston prepared for the ministry at the Lane Seminary in Cincinnati, Ohio. He held pastorates in the West and came East first to take charge of a church at Piermont, N. Y. From there he went to New York city, where he remained three years, and then Poughkeepsie, N. Y. He was at the latter city for ten years, resigning his pastorate to accept the call to the Netherwood Reformed church. Dr. Ralston has been a variable addition to the local circus, not only for the good work he is doing in the religious field, but also because for his civic activities in organizing the East End Taxpayers' Association and beside serving as its president has represented the organization at important municipal conferences. When he first came to the Netherwood Reformed church the membership was about seventy-five, but in the three years that he has been with the people he has increased the number to 150, a most extraordinary result when it is considered that his people come from only one small part of the city.

ISSUE FIRE WARNING.

Building Inspector Dorne has just issued a statement warning all owners of boarding houses in the city which are three or more stories in height and shelter more than thirty people to closely obey the fire laws. A rope coiled in a box and long enough to reach the ground must be placed just inside of at least one window in every room on the third floor, and fire escapes must be provided for every corridor. Inspector Dorne says he is going to see that the law is rigidly adhered to.

To Raise Red Cross Fund of $50,000

At a meeting of the Red Cross campaign committee appointed by the Mayor held last night plans for the week's campaign were outlined and a motion was made to make an effort to secure $50,000 in that time. It was decided to appoint an executive committee of fifteen, the members of which will be chairmen of committees that will work out various details.

Wilbur H. Rogers, appointed chairman by Mayor Calkins, will have general supervision over the campaign and will be assisted by A. D. Beers as secretary and treasurer. The executive committee is composed of the following: Publicity, Judge William Newcorn; speakers, Judge William N. Runyon; industries, H. L. Cleaver and T. C. Vail; citizens, E. H. Ladd, Jr.; June 24 committee, H. L. DeForest; business men's committee, J. W. DeGraff; women's auxiliary committee, Mrs. Charles Reed; lodges and clubs, Francis J. Blatz; churches, Rev. Howard E. Clarke.

The campaign will start on Monday and by that time the various committee heads will have appointed their assistants and mapped out their activities. Headquarters will be opened in the business section of the city and plans will be made from there. Several public meetings will be held during the course of the week.

The initial opening of the campaign will be started by the Boy Scouts, who will make a canvass of the city leaving subscription cards at each home. As the subscriptions start coming in they will be handled by DeWitt Hubbell, of the Plainfield Trust Company. The mark of $50,000 was decided upon for the amount to be tried for from both the borough and city.

The windup of the campaign will come on Sunday, June 24. The ministers throughout the city will speak about it from their pulpits and later in the day workers will make a house to house canvass.

St. Mary's School and Church Buy Bonds

In the name of St. Mary's parish, Rev. Father B. M. Bogan this week purchased $500 worth of Liberty Bonds, believing it to be the duty of this people to thus show their patriotism collectively. His action came a few days after the children of St. Mary's School had contributed $150 for the purchase of bonds as their contribution to the great cause. Both cases were the first on record in the city for a church and school to buy bonds and had much to do with individual members following suit. The money for the church purchase of $500 will be raised by a collection to be taken at the masses next Sunday morning. In addressing his congregation on the subject last Sunday, Father Bogan said:

"It is the duty of everyone to contribute as best they can to the support of the nation in the present crisis. The issue is one that concerns every citizen. It is not an individual affair at all.

"Whatever the outcome may be, it will affect us alike. There are many who cannot bear arms in defense of the nation but there is a duty they can perform and they should perform that duty with an eagerness born of devotion to American institutions.

"The bonds have been purchased in the name of St. Mary's parish as an investment, and the Catholic community thereby shows its loyalty to the government by contributing its mite to the great work that is being raised to prosecute the war which, let us hope, will soon be brought to an end."

NO HOME DEFENSE CARNIVAL.

Owing to the inability of the local committee and the representative of the Baroff carnival shows to agree on terms the carnival will not be brought to North Plainfield for the benefit of the Home Defense League. The decision was reached at a meeting of the committee Tuesday night. The week beginning June 25 had been selected as the date but other plans will be made for some kind of benefit to be given later.

FIRST DELEGATION TO Y. M. C. A. CAMP.

The first contingent of boys from the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. to go to Camp Waywayanda will leave the association building on East Front street on the morning of June 28. There will be sixteen in the first group, some of whom will stay for six weeks, others for four and others for two weeks. The trip will probably be made by auto bus.

There will be a number of changes at Camp Waywayanda this year, all for the better. New buildings have been added and military drill will likely be inaugurated. Other local boys will leave for the camp at intervals during the summer.

Louis and Gaston Chevrolet Entered in 250-Mile Road Race at Chicago Tomorrow

Although only a few are aware of the fact because they are seldom home, that Plainfield has for nearly a year past been harboring two of the foremost automobile racers in the country, they being none other than Louis and Gaston Chevrolet. They have been in the racing game for several years and participated in big races all over the United States, but they have sprung into prominence during the past two weeks especially by finishing first and third, respectively, in the Cincinnati road race. Because of that their work tomorrow in the 250-mile race at Chicago will be watched with interest.

The Chevrolet brothers, who are well known as automobile manufacturers, make their home on Park avenue during the off season and had a part in the organization of the American Motors Corporation, which has its plant on Front street.

Tomorrow's contest will be one of the principal automobile events of the year and has drawn the cream of talent as entrants. There are thirty odd entries, and the drivers will pilot various makes of cars. The two local men will navigate specially built Fontiacts, the same make that they drove in the Cincinnati race. They are the lightest of cars being constructed mostly of aluminum, and weighs in 600 pounds lower than their ordinary racing machine.

Henry Rosenbaum Marries at Newark

Henry Rosenbaum, the well-known local dry goods merchant, and Miss Fanny Pinsky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Pinsky, of Orange, were married in the Armin's Parlors, Newark, last Friday night, in the presence of about 175 guests. The ceremony was performed by Rabbi Silyverfeld, of Newark. The bride was attended by her sister-in-law, Mrs. John Pinsky, of Orange, as maid of honor, and Samuel Rosenbaum, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man. A wedding supper was served in connection with a reception which followed and Mr. and Mrs. Rosenbaum are now spending a part of their honeymoon at Atlantic City. From that place they will go to Washington, remaining away in all about three weeks. The couple will make their home in Plainfield, but will not go to housekeeping until fall.

Mrs. Rosenbaum has a very wide acquaintance in both Newark and Plainfield and was the recipient of numerous beautiful gifts. Mr. Rosenbaum has been a resident of this city for many years and is considered one of its most enterprising younger merchants. He is in partnership with his brother, Samuel Rosenbaum, in the firm of Rosenbaum Brothers, of West Front street. He has been particularly active in the work of the Young Men's Hebrew Association and also takes part in all civic affairs tending to benefit the community.

While in Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Rosenbaum will attend the twentieth annual convention of the Federation of American Zionists, at which they will represent the Zionist societies of Plainfield and Orange. The bridegroom is prominent in Zionist circles and is an ex-official of the Plainfield Zionist Society, vice president of the Business Men's Association of Plainfield and secretary of the board of election of the candidates for the American Jewish Congress to be held at Washington in September. The bride is president of the Young Women's Hebrew Association of the Oranges and active in work for the Jewish war sufferers. Among the Plainfielders who attended the wedding were the following: Mr. and Mrs. Kalmen Rothberg, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Rothberg, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rosenbaum, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Rosenbaum, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dreier, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Kline, Mr. and Mrs. William Augenblick, William Rosenthal, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Steisman, Louis Rothberg, Miss Sadie Rothberg, Harvey Rothberg, of Fort Meyer, Va.; Mrs. Fannie Davis, of Boston and many others.

ELKS' LAST DANCE.

Plainfield Lodge of Elks will give the last dance of the present season in the Watchung avenue clubhouse on Thursday night, June 21. It will be a shirt-waist affair and will be in charge of the new entertainment committee.

William B. Kenna Weds Miss Daly

In the presence of a large assemblage of relatives and friends, Miss Hannah Daley, of Kensington avenue, and William Bernard Kenna, of West Fifth street, were united in marriage at St. Mary's church, Tuesday afternoon. The ceremony was performed at 5 o'clock by Rev. Father B. M. Bogan. Miss Daley was attended by Miss Mary McCarthy, of this city, as bridesmaid, and Morris Daley, brother of the bride, was best man.

At the conclusion of the nuptial event the guests repaired to the home of John Strappe, on West Fifth street, where a reception was held that lasted until midnight. Music for dancing was furnished by James Ennis' Jazz Band, and numerous solos contributed by members of the party added to enjoyment during the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Kenna left yesterday for a wedding trip to Boston and other New England cities. On returning they will make their home at 402 West Fifth street, where a completely furnished apartment awaits them. Mr. Kenna is employed at the Fourth Ward hotel at Third and Liberty streets and his scores of friends were among those who extended congratulations at the reception last night. His bride is also very well known and she was remembered by her friends with numerous appropriate gifts.

Dr. C. L. Crist Gets Appointment to Army

Dr. Chalmers L. Crist, of Park avenue, was notified by the authorities at Washington Tuesday that he had been appointed to a First Lieutenancy in the Dental Division of the First Medical Reserve Corps. He was instructed to wire acceptance immediately if it met with his approval and the requested message was sent. Dr. Crist took his examinations in New York and will be a member of the first New York class enlisted. Just when he will be called for foreign duty is not known but it will probably come within three or four weeks.

Dr. Crist was graduated from the Medico-Chi, of Philadelphia, afterward merged with the University of Pennsylvania Dental School, in the class of 1908. Shortly afterward he began the practice of his profession in Plainfield, where he has since been very successful. In aiding several local men to meet the dental requirements of the army physical test, Dr. Crist learned that services of his kind were greatly needed in the regular army and he made application for enlistment. His examinations, physical, mental and practical, were all passed with high marks of efficiency. His appointment is viewed by his friends as an exceptional honor because only fifteen in the entire country have been taken into the service so far. Dental surgery is a new proposition in treating the wounded of modern warfare and because of the lack of facilities at the field hospitals the appointments go to the men best qualified for expert work without mechanical appliances.

Dr. Crist is one of the most active workers in Plainfield Lodge of Elks and his associates in that organization are planning an informal reception previous to his reporting for duty.

Local Cyclists on Long Ride Sunday

A rally and hill-climb for motorcyclists from all parts of New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania and Connecticut will be held at Mt. Beacon, N. Y., June 17, as part of the nation-wide celebration of Gipsy Tour Day by motorcyclists.

Cyclists from Plainfield and vicinity to the number of fifty will leave the clubrooms of the local motorcycle club, at 129 East Front street, Sunday morning at 7:00. George Simon and Leo Zelsel will be in charge. The route to be taken by the local boys will be Springfield, Milburn, Montclair, Ponystown, Oakland, Suffern, N. Y., Tuxedo, Harriman, Central Valley., Newburg, Beacon. The party is scheduled to travel at a moderate pace, with fifteen minute stops at several towns.

At Beacon a set of games, in which all of the participating riders may compete, will be held, with prizes for the winners. The feature event of the day will be a hill climb.

The hotel accommodations at Beacon are not sufficient to handle the huge crowd of motorcyclists that will assemble in town, so it is advisable for the riders to carry their lunches along with them.

C. Ames Brooks Sails for France Tomorrow

C. Ames Brooks, of East Seventh street, will leave on American port tomorrow for France, where he is to become an ambulance driver in the Paris section. He had at first intended to sail last week, but was obliged to remain to clear up some business affairs.

Mr. Brooks has signed up for three months' service and in the Paris section will be confined to work in the vicinity around the capital city within a radius of forty miles. It will consist for the most part of transfering wounded from the field hospitals to the big hospitals in Paris.
